THE Rev. Dr. Shailer Mathews, dean of the divinity school, in Chicago University, says philosophy is of no use in religion, because we cannot analyze our religion. "The greatest moments are felt. You cannot define them in words. There is not a philosophical term in the language or the intellectual processes by which we seek to grasp the meaning of religion."

PHILOSOPHY has nothing to do with religion and religion has nothing to do with philosophy. Philosophy deals with problems that can be solved, or may be solved, by proof, argument, thought. Religion deals with questions entirely beyond our reach, that can be answered only by faith.

MRS. MARY V. NUNN, who attends to publicity for the Women's Christian Temperance Union, says the W. C. T. U. orator did NOT say that she feared that Chamberlin and Levine, by drinking a glass of beer in Germany, would undo much of the good done by their flying achievement. Misquoted by a local reporter, she only said: "She feared there would be an aviation disaster if Chamberlin drank all the liquor offered him."

IT IS difficult for a Christian Temperance lady to know how harmless a glass of beer can be, as shown in the careers of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Woodrow Wilson. Or even a glass of wine, as shown at a well-known wedding feast, when water was changed to wine. Perhaps the W. C. T. U. ladies think it was non-alcoholic (wine). If so, why change the water?

THE New York Central recently celebrated its one hundredth birthday and its growth from a "20-mile system" to the 7,000-mile system of today.

EARLY in the last century James Brisbane, of Batavia, who had previously run a stage coach line from Buffalo to New York, built a small railroad between Rochester and Buffalo. The time table said the trains would run at certain hours "weather permitting."

HE LEFT to his two sons $2,000,000 worth of the original New York Central stock, before the Vanderbilts watered it. Luckily for his descendants, one of the two sons lost his million, making it necessary for the next generation to go to work.

ANYBODY can succeed, at least a little, in spite of poverty, because he MUST. The few that succeed IN SPITE OF WEALTH deserve most credit.

YOU read recently from abroad "British reviews urge England to accept United States demand for naval equality."

Unless this country is managed by 100 per cent dodos, we don't need England to "ACCEPT" anything. We do need the biggest air fleets and submarine fleets in the world, could easily AFFORD them, and would HAVE them, if we had a quarter of an ounce of brains.

As to cruisers, which are like shepherd dogs watching flocks, if England wants more of them because she has more commercial ships to watch, let her have them.

The cost of one battleship, spent for airplanes would easily take care of all the cruisers an battleships on the ocean. They would do it as easily as machine guns would take care of sheep dogs.

SENATOR WALSH, of Massachusetts, when Congress meets will introduce a bill to provide "a West Point of the air," a United States aviation academy, to take equal rank with West Point and Annapolis. An excellent suggestion, and "equal rank" is none too high, for in case of war the fliers would have to protect the obsolete warships and slow crawling army.

West Point and Annapolis should be changed to flying academies, and the sooner the better.

THE WEATHER.

Fair and slightly cooler tonight; Thursday fair with rising temperature.

Elsie Rescues Mother

FROM DROWNING

Mrs. Josephine Janis, mother of Elsie Janis (above), musical comedy star, was recovering today after nearly drowning in a swimming pool at her Beverly Hills, Hollywood, Cal., home. She was rescued by her daughter and Harry Krut, motion picture actor.

VOTE PETITIONS HELD FORGED

Evidence of forgery of signatures and other irregularities on the nominating petitions for William E. Armstrong as a candidate for County Commissioner was given in Common Pleas Court today before Judges Ambrose B. Reid and Harry H. Rowand, in a hearing on petitions of the Regular Republican organization to strike the candidate's name from the ballot. Witnesses testified that they had signed the petition in the belief that it was for Joseph G. Armstrong, candidate for re-election, and that it was so represented.

Judge Reid ordered that an attachment be issued for John H. Ingram, after evidence by Mrs. William E. Armstrong that she did not circulate five petitions on which she made the qualifying affidavit and testimony of signers that Ingram circulated one or more petitions. A subpena was served on Ingram yesterday, it was testified, but repeated calls for him brought no answer.

Judges Reid and Rowand, after examining the petitions, indicated that many of the 515 signatures on the six petitions were void, as it was apparent that dates and other data had been filled in by one person, but proceeded with the hearing to determine if there were 100 valid signatures as required by law.

John Stack, a mailman, denied that he had signed and said that the address given on Ligonier street is a church. A. Topal, of 3940 Smallman street, signed, but did not fill in "Pittsburgh" or the date, he testified, Ingram having presented the petition to him. He thought it was for "Joe" Armstrong, he said.

H. Kiser, of 3162 Penn ave., a signer, but not completing the signing, was excused after it developed that he is not an American citizen and unqualified to sign. Francis Haeck did not sign, he testified, his name being inscribed as "Heack" and A. H. Thomas, whose name was in-

Gray Raps Secret Probe

A dispute whether the meeting should be open or closed marked the beginning of the probe this afternoon by the special committee of the Allegheny County Prison Board into the escape last Thursday of Paul Jaworski and Jack Vasbinder, convicted murderers.

Judge James H. Gray, a member of the committee, took a stand for an open meeting and refused to participate in the investigation under any secrecy ruling. He said:

"If the committee decides, as did the board, for secret meetings, I will have to refuse to be bound by the rule of secrecy, and if I cannot serve on the committee on this basis I will have to be excused from serving."

While the committee met to inves-

Youth Dies in Lake

One Sewickley High School senior was drowned and another narrowly escaped the same fate yesterday in Lake Erie, at Madison-on-the-Lake, Ohio.

W. Glenn Abercrombie, of 702 Nevin avenue, who was drowned, went down after battling rough water in an effort to swim back from a sandbar to which he and Douglas Burchill, of 627 Nevin avenue, a Sewickley High School chum, had swam in an endurance test.

Persons on the shore put out to meet them when it became evident they were fighting a losing battle. Abercrombie had disappeared before rescuers reached him. Burchill, exhausted, was dragged ashore. Abercrombie's body was washed ashore 30 minutes later.

Abercrombie was 18 and was a son of William H. and Edna Welsh Abercrombie. He and Burchill, inseparable companions, had been vacationing at Madison-on-the-Lake.

BOYCOTT OF LEGION LOOMS

PARIS RIOTS RAGE

By International News Service.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—Gathering opposition to participation by Frenchmen in the program of the American Legion convention to be held here next month was indicated in events today growing out of demonstrations and rioting over the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti.

The mayor of Lille has informed the ministry of the interior that that city will not participate in any friendly manifestations for the Legion on September 19, when the Legion stages its parade.

COMMUNISTS PROTEST.

Deputies Cachin, Marty and Doriot Communist members of the Chamber of Deputies, who now are serving sentences in Sante Prison for their Communist activities, have informed the President of the Chamber that they intend to interpolate the government on "the impossibility of maintaining the September fete."

"Couturier," writing in the Communist organ, Humanite, today declared, "We can be sure, at least, that on the occasion of the American Legion national holiday on September 19, Paris will not dance on the corpses of Sacco and Vanzetti."

Referring to last night's disturbances, the Humanite issued the proud boast that "the Paris workers are the masters of the streets."

American Legion headquarters and the American Embassy were under heavy guard today after the most serious rioting since 1920. Unparalleled bitterness over the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti continued undiminished.

An army of 5,000 troops, guards and police surrounded the American Embassy during demonstrations last night when yelling mobs, shouting "down with Americans" tried to reach the building. Three Republican guards were stabbed and 20 of the demonstrators arrested.

In the outbursts last night, which became so serious that authorities feared a political revolt had started, 43 policemen were wounded, 12 taken

ROBBERS MISS $200; GET $155

When robbers took $155 from a safe in the Keystone Automobile Repair Company office, 1444 Fayette street, last night, they overlooked $200 in another compartment, according to a report made to police this morning.

QUIZ GIRL FRIENDS OF RICH MATRICIDE SUSPECT

By International News Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Harry D. Hill, 21, wayward son of a prominent Streator physician, kept a jump ahead of police today as they combed Chicago for him in connection with the murder of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, 55, whose body was found in a shallow grave in her home last Monday night.

Homes of a large number of Chicago girls, whose names were recorded as "Ethel," "Maizie," "Evelyn" and so forth in one of Hill's notebooks found by police, were visited but without revealing a trace of him.

One of many theories held by police was that Hill might have killed himself by jumping into the lake.

STREATOR, Ill., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Mystifying phases of the slaying of Mrs. H. C. Hill, wealthy estranged wife of a prominent Streator occulist, arose today as Chicago and Streator police pushed their search for Harry, the woman's 22-year-old son.

The son dropped out of sight yesterday morning a few hours after his mother's body was found buried in the cellar of her home here. Harry is known to have recently lost heavily gambling, cashing checks drawn upon his mother's account and signed by him.

There are no blood stains in the Hill house, no evidences of a struggle or other marks of violence. One bed recently had been used, but others were not disturbed. The bullet which pierced the woman's head has not been found. The wound indicates it was of .32 caliber.

A small hole in the plaster of a vestibule that leads into the cellar indicates, according to Russell Hansen, state's attorney, that Mrs. Hill was killed there and that the slayer pried the bullet out of the wall.

If Mrs. Hill had been killed on the first or second floor of the house and dragged to the cellar, there would be left some evidence, authorities say. Her weight, almost 200 pounds, would make it impossible that she would be carried,

KILLS BABY WITH POISON, INVENTS ROBBER STORY

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Mrs. Cecelia Krause admitted to the authorities that she had killed her two-weeks-old baby by giving it poison by mistake. For several hours previous to her confession, the mother had asserted that two Negro robbers entering her home had killed the baby with chloroform. She said she took a bottle of poison from the medicine cabinet by mistake, and that the babe died in convulsions. Terrified, she said, at the thought of telling her husband of her carelessness, she invented the story of the burglary.

AMERICAN LEGION BOYCOTT PLANNED IN FRANCE

POLICE WARY -:- AS CROWDS PROTEST -:- SACCO, VANZETTI DEATHS

VIGILANT

Police, heavily armed with the very latest in automatic machine gun rifles, were extremely vigilant in Boston as street crowds swarmed in protest of the Sacco and Vanzetti executions.

DISPERSED

Police in New York were forced to disperse the tremendous crowd which gathered in Union Square late in the afternoon before the executions to hear speakers protest against the channels of Massachusetts justice. Photo shows officers on high buildings maintaining close watches.

POETESS

Edna St. Vincent Millay (left), world famous poetess, was arrested with many other picketeers in the "Death March" at State House, Boston.

"DEATH MARCH"

Boston police had difficulty at the State House and found it necessary to break up the "eDath March" to and fro in front. Protesting picketers, displaying many banners, were gathered up and taken to police stations by the squads on extra duty.

GUARD U. S. EMBASSY

By International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Heavy forces of foot and mounted police remained on duty about the United States embassy today following a riotous Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration last night when 50 men and women were injured, two of them being treated at hospitals.

Two thousand police broke up a Communist procession in Oxford street, near Marble Arch, arresting several ringleaders.

TWO POLICEMEN WOUNDED

LEIPZIG, Germany, Aug. 24.—Two policemen are in the hospital today seriously wounded as the result of violent clashes between the police and Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers last night. One rioter was killed and half a dozen persons, including several policemen, were injured.

Shouting "Vengeance for Sacco and Vanzetti!" and "Let's storm the station and kill the dogs!" the mob attempted to storm the police station.

GENEVA, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Police charges and streams of water were required to force back crowds of demonstrators who gathered to shout imprecations against the United States last night because of the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti. A large mob congregated before the American consulate, but as a guard of 300 policemen and detectives was thrown about the building, the manifestants could not get near it.

The American consulate was closed yesterday afternoon, it being agreed by Hugh R. Wilson, American minister, here for the international transit conference, and Consul Tuck that it would be unfair to ask employes to enter and leave the building in the face of the hostility.

Similar precautions had been taken at the League of Nations property, where much damage was done by rioters Monday night.

One motion picture theater here an illuminated sign last night, "closed because of mourning." A big store raised a sign reading: "as a protest against American injustice, no American purchases will be served here."

A considerable number of foreigners left Geneva hastily for other parts of Switzerland in apprehension of further Sacco-Vanzetti rioting.

TAKE ASHES TO EUROPE.

BOSTON, Aug. 24. The ashes of Bartolomeo Vanzetti are to be taken on a tour of Europe. Miss Luigia Vanzetti, who came from Italy to see her brother before he was executed in the state prison yesterday, is to accompany them. After cremation here the ashes will be taken to New York, London, Paris, Berlin, Stockholm and other cities before going to Italy, Vanzetti's native land.

The body of Nicola Sacco, who was executed with Vanzetti, also is to be cremated. His ashes will be claimed by his widow, who lives in Boston with her two children.

Announcing a cancellation of plans for exhibiting the bodies of the two men in various American cities because of the "physical impossibility," the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee said the cremation would be next Sunday, with funeral processions or memorial services in various American cities. The bodies would lie in state until Sunday in the North End, the Italian section of Boston, the announcement said.

NOTABLES FIGHT RIOT CHARGE

Six persons, four women and two men, who appealed from conviction of sauntering and loitering in connection with their picket line in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti in front of the State House, were at liberty today pending further hearing of their cases.

Miss Edna St. Vincent Millay, Miss Katharine Huntington and Miss Ellen Hayes told the court they believed they had a perfect right to protest as they did, particularly as each was descended from early settlers in New England. Miss Millay said she was born in Rockland, Me., and was a graduate of Vassar. Miss Hayes, a former professor of astronomy and mathematics at Wellesley, is now engaged in writing.

The other three who fought the charges against them were John H. Lawton, New York playwright; "Mother" Ella Reeves Bloor of San Francisco and William L. Patterson, president of the American Negro Labor Congress. Arthur G. Hays of the American Civil Liberties Union defended them.

Another demonstrator who was free today was Powers Hapgood, of Pittsburgh. His attorneys, not knowing that he had already been released from the Psychopathic Hospital, where he was sent for observation, yesterday said they would attempt to extricate him by court proceedings. Hapgood had been arrested four times for inciting to riot and lesser offenses and was facing a six months' sentence from which he had appealed when he was again taken by the police on Monday and sent to the hospital. He had no comment to make after his release.

BERLIN REDS HISS WALKER

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—Mayor James J. Walker was greeted with scattered hisses today from a small group of Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers as he entered City Hall.

Walker countered the hisses with: "Hello, boys."

BERLIN, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The American colony and certain German officials were disturbed today over the fact that the Hotel Kaiserhof, where the American Club has arranged a banquet in honor of Mayor Walker, is among the hotels banned for official functions because of failure to fly the republican colors on Constitution Day.

Some of the newspapers foresee that the Mayor may be the involuntary means of bringing a solution of the controversy that has waged for months between the supporters of the former monarchical colors, black, white and red, and of the republican colors of black, red and gold.

Thursday night's banquet at the Kaiserhof is the only official event of importance to be attended by Mr. Walker in Berlin.

New Castle Store Is Burned

By International News Service.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 24.—Estimated damage of $12,000 was caused today when fire of undetermined origin partially destroyed the French Shoppe, owned by A. Merow, of East Liverpool, O., and damaged several stores before the flames could be controlled.

Firemen fought the blaze more than three hours to prevent its spread to other business blocks. The alarm was turned in by a workman.

The loss was covered partly by insurance.

Suicide Try By Prince Fails

By International News Service.

BELGRADE, Aug. 24.—Prince George Karage Orgevitch, elder brother of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia, was in a serious condition today as a result of what was reported to be an attempt at suicide.

Prince George had been declared insane some years ago, following a violent attack on a servant, whom the prince kicked to death, and a subsequent attack on his brother, King Alexander. He also had been publicly involved in numerous love affairs. For some time he had been interned at his country estate outside of Belgrade. He renounced his right of succession to the throne on March 27, 1909.

OPEN BIDS FOR COUNTY WORK

County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and Edward V. Babcock and Controller Charles C. McGovern opened bids today on a number of projects.

The principal items, with the estimate cost and apparent low bidder, were:

Liberty Bridge—Paving of superstructure and south approaches, estimated cost, $150,000; Dunn & Ryan bid, $138,852.75.

Charters Bridge—Substructure, superstructure, paving approaches and building a temporary foot bridge and walk, estimated cost, $90,000; James W. Powers bid, $79,826.75.

Electrical work for Liberty Bridge—Estimated cost, $20,000; Delmore Electric Company bid, $10,188.

Bronze clock and directories for the City-County Building—estimated cost, $2,000; the All-Steel Equipment Company bid, $1,555.

BOILER BLAST KILLS BOY NEAR BUTLER

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 24.—In the explosion of a boiler at an oil well rig, Howard Francis Heasley, 15, of Herman, six miles east of here, was almost instantly killed last night. The boy was assisting his father, Joseph Heasley, who escaped injury.

WRITER'S WILL DISPUTED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Legal entanglements may face the administrators of the estate of the late June Mathis, scenario writer, because of her practice of purchasing and holding property in names other than her own. Property in the $200,000 estate was purchased under six different names, attorneys told the court yesterday in presenting a petition for appointment of Dr. Tullio M. Balboni, Miss Mathis' brother-in-law, as administrator of the estate.

The will of the writer, who died recently in a New York theater, was declared invalid when offered for probate because it failed to include the year 1927 in the date. It had left the estate to the writer's husband, Sylvano Balboni, after a life interest of a grandmother, Mrs. Emily Hawks. With the will invalid Mrs. Hawks would inherit the estate.

BARE FORGERY OF BALLOT PETITION

scribed, was not here in August, he said. George Jacobs, 47 Washington street, denied signing and Attorney Charles B. Prichard, representing the Republican organization, declared the signature was a forgery. Richard Burgundy, 1232 Bigelow boulevard, didn't complete the signing, he said, and thought the petition was "Joe" Armstrong's.

Walter A. Sodi, 917 Bedford avenue, did not write in the city or date, he said, and his brother, Amen Sodi, the next recorded name, could not have signed, being in Atlantic City at the time of the reputed signing, he said. Joseph J. Furie, 1211 Whiteoak street, said he did not fill in the city or date, and thought the petition was "Joe" Armstrong's. He said the petition was not presented to him, but was just lying on a table at 474½ Washington street, "where the boys meet."

The petition to strike off the candidacy of William McClurg Donley for County Commissioner was withdrawn after it was announced that Donley yesterday had withdrawn his candidacy. Attorney Prichard said that the objection was technical and no reflection on Donley.

A number of witnesses testified that they had signed the petition, but had not written "Pittsburgh" or the date. A number called failed to respond. Adel Hafda declared he was told the petition was that of "Joe" Armstrong. Francis Thomas, 1006 Bedford avenue, denied any knowledge of his reputed signature, and said Fred Thomas, his brother, has been in Detroit three months.

William E. Armstrong, the respondent, said he circulated petitions four or five days prior to the filing date, August 16, and that he wrote "August" after the signatures when informed in the County Commissioners' office that every line and column must be filled in. Library road, Pittsburgh, was shown attached to some signatures and Judge Rowand asked Armstrong if the road was in Pittsburgh, and he replied: "I think not." He admitted, on cross examination, that petitions had been filled in after they had been executed. In a number of instances, where the address was given as Carnegie or Oakdale and other places, and where "N. S." was inserted, intended to mean North Side, Pittsburgh, the court indicated that the signatures were void.

GEN. BULLARD, 66, WEDS AGAIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Maj. Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, 66, known to Army men everywhere as "Old Alabam'," was married today to Mrs. Ella Reiff Wall, 14 years younger.

It was Gen. Bullard's second marriage. His first wife died in 1922. He has one son and a daughter.

About 25 friends attended the ceremonies in the home of the bride. The marriage was performed by the Rev. A. Dineen, a former Army chaplain.

With the First Division in the World War, Gen. Bullard led his men into the first American battle of the allied conflict at Cantigny.

JOY RIDERS PAY FINE, CAB BILL

Charles McShane, 22, of 417 Carlisle way, and his girl friend, Miss Dorothy Nicholson, 22, of 480 Hemlock street, went taxi riding early this morning. They overlooked the important part of the "joy ride" when they failed to pay the bill, police say.

"We had a couple of shots last night and my mind is a little woozy this morning," McShane told Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court. McShane was fined $10 or 10 days in jail and his companion $5 or five days in jail. And McShane paid the fines and cab bill.

Deniston Heirs Split

The name of Henry Deniston, millionaire Swissvale recluse, again became a matter of public interest today when it was learned that his relatives and heirs have drawn battle lines in the distribution of the vast Deniston estate.

A niece and principal beneficiary, Mrs. Ella D. Vaughan, is the target for other heirs, Harry D. Harbaugh, Letitia Hunter and Elisabeth Hunter. In their appeal from her interpretation of Deniston's last testament they set forth that the will gave her a house and five acres surrounding it in the 25-acre McClure avenue tract, but instead of accepting just that she chose two and three-tenths acres in one direction from the house and two and seven-tenths acres leading to McClure avenue.

Common Pleas Court has granted a rule asking Mrs. Vaughan to show cause why she should not be required to redefine the five acres in dispute.

Deniston's was a familiar name during his four-score years of life, which ended last November. In his late years he was sued for $500,000 in a breach of promise suit by Miss Nellie Richardson, one-time clerk in the old Monongahela House. She won a verdict of $170,000, but it was set aside as excessive and when two later juries disagreed, the suit was settled for $30,000.

MYSTERY SEARCH EXTENDS TO PITTSBURGH

By International News Service.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 24.—Schuylkill county authorities today extended their investigation to Allegheny county and Maryland into what they believe to be a murder mystery here that has all of the officials baffled, following the finding of the clothing of a man and a woman buried in cans in the hills near here.

Deputy Sheriff Hastanauer told International News Service today that a bloodstained woman's corset, a long-bladed pocket knife, a Pittsburgh newspaper and several bottles bearing Maryland labels were found near where the cans had been buried.

These clues, Hastanauer said, were found in addition to a keyring bearing a local man's name which was located yesterday. The officer said the man was missing, but refused to divulge his name.

According to information from residents near the scene of the finds, two men and two women were seen walking near there last Thursday.

FAIL TO GET LODGE BOOKS

George W. Richards, of 1422 Alton street, treasurer of Lodge No. 695, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, held in $3,500 bail for court on charges of embezzlement and fraudulent conversion, refused to turn over the books of the lodge, it was declared today by J. H. Bechfield, secretary, who heads a committee prosecuting the case, to the attorney for the lodge.

Until the books are audited, the amount alleged to have been misappropriated cannot be determined, it was stated by Attorney Mayer Beiderman, counsel for the lodge. The committee believes that the sum involved is approximately $4,000 to $7,000.

Parades With Gun; Nabbed

J. C. Wright, aged 60, of 5817 Rippey street, who, police say, was patrolling the neighborhood of his home with a shotgun over his shoulder and threatened police who interfered with him, was turned over to the Department of Public Welfare for mental examination when arraigned in Frankstown Avenue Police Court this morning.

Patrolman Daniel Bradley said Wright was attempting to recruit an army of boys to go camping with him and placed the man under arrest.

Cafe Man Guilty of Contempt

Patrick (Happy) Butler, proprietor of the Stadium Cafe, 5004 Fifth avenue, was found guilty of contempt of court today by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker for violation of a preliminary padlock injunction handed down July 14, forbidding the sale of liquor. Contempt proceedings against Mrs. Regina Butler, the cafe proprietor's wife, were dismissed.

Prohibition agents testified they had purchased whisky in the cafe on August 11, from Joseph Butler, a brother of Patrick. Joseph was arrested in a raid on the saloon August 15.

MINE TOWN QUIET AFTER OUTBURST

WHERE SACCO PROTEST FLARED

Russellton, mining town near Cheswick, which saw plenty of excitement Monday following the Sacco-Vanzetti riot, is a peaceful place today. Thomas [illegible], manager of a chain grocery store, left, was ordered to close up during the sympathy demonstration and when he feared for the safety of himself and his wife, he hid in a back room until state police had the situation well in hand before venturing on the streets. All the stores except one or two were closed in sympathy to the Boston radicals, residents say.

16 MORE SHIPS JOIN HUNT FOR FLIERS

PACIFIC KEEPS FATE OF SEVEN GRIM SECRET

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24.—A woman and four men—seven days lost at sea—two more days of search.

Hope for the missing Dole race fliers, Miss Mildred Doran, John "Auggy" Pedlar, Lieut. V. R. Knope, Jack Frost and Gordon Scott, who left the Oakland municipal airport for Hawaii a week ago today, glimmered wanly on the seventh day of silence.

Chances were as faint for the recovery of Capt. William P. Erwin and A. H. Eichwaldt, who flew out of the airport Friday in search of their missing companions and were believed to have crashed into the sea after sending out a frantic S O S on their radio.

MORE SHIPS IN HUNT.

In the face of discouraging reports from the 42 submarines, destroyers, airplane carriers and their searching "eyes," ever flashing the colorless, laconic "nil-nil-nil" periodically by radio, came word that 15 additional destroyers and one light cruiser, under command of Rear Admiral Luke McNamee, were ordered to join the search.

Seven destroyers, developed across a 21-mile front, are continuing the well nigh hopeless search along the great circle steamer lane between San Francisco and Honolulu.

"WILL-O'-THE-WISP."

HONOLULU, Aug. 24.—Hopes that some of the Dole fliers might be safe, inspired by sighting of what were believed to be green flares on the slopes of Mauna Kea, were destroyed today.

Army planes returned here early this morning from the Island of Hawaii, on which Mauna Kea, highest peak in the Hawaiian Islands, is situated, to report the "flares" were a gasoline light being tested by a ranchman.

INFANT KILLED, THREE HURT BY AUTOS

An 18-month-old youngster is dead and three persons are in hospitals with injuries received in automobile accidents in the Pittsburgh district yesterday. John Kowal, son of Peter Kowal of 809 Mint way, South Side, the child killed, was run over by a truck near his home. Jacob Eskosier, 56, of 1612 Bradish street, driver, did not know the machine had hit the boy.

William Evans of Heidelberg was taken to the Mercy Hospital after his machine had collided with another in Mt. Lebanon. Mrs. Josephine Stadnik of 2741 Spring Garden avenue was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital. A cab in which she was riding struck a parked car and then hit a pole in the Mt. Troy road. The other injured person is Mrs. Anna Popail, 26, of 10 Carpenter way, who was removed to the Mercy Hospital after being hit by a machine at Second avenue and Grant street.

In the Campbell Run road an 11,000-pound truck, loaded with gasoline, rolled down a 25-foot embankment, and Wallace Boyer, of 7311 Schley avenue, Swissvale, driver, crawled out from the wreckage with only a slightly bruised arm.

When an automobile hit his horse and wagon at Penn avenue and Forty-seventh street last night, Frank Skirnovic, of 4916 Hatfield street, suffered injuries to his back and left arm. William Addstringer, of 5209 Kent way, was arrested on a charge of violating the automobile laws.

STUTZ BUILDING CAR TO GO 220 MILES HOUR

By Universal Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 24.—A mystery car that will develop 220 miles an hour is being constructed at the Stutz Motor Car Company of America here, it has been revealed. The car will attempt to best the world's speed record made by Maj. H. O. D. Segrave at Daytona Beach, Fla., last year. The record is now 203.79 miles an hour.

The car will be driven by Frank Lockhart, premier American race driver. The tests will be made either at Daytona Beach or on a dry lake bed at Muroc, Cal.

The car will be distinctly American, it was said, and will be quite different from the "mysterys" in which Maj. Segrave made his record.

The motor will contain only about one-twelfth the piston displacement of the British motor. That motor carried 2,700 cubic inches of piston displacement. The race cars used at the Indianapolis Speedway have only 92 cubic inches displacement.

Lockhart already holds the American record for speed, made with his perfect circle Miller at Muroc, when he developed 164 miles an hour. He won the Indianapolis sweepstakes race here in 1926.

BOY AIRPLANE BUILDERS MEET FOR HONORS

The big airplane model contest is on.

Hundreds of boys, with model planes ranging from 10 to 48 inches, met at 10 sectional playgrounds this afternoon and contested for the right to go to Memphis as one of the ingenious airplane builders of the nation and a right to one of the gold or silver medals being presented here by The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and the Bureau of Recreation.

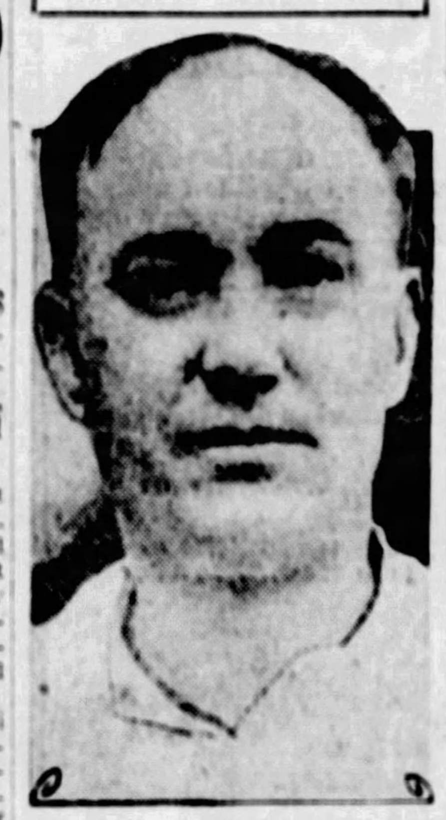
Gliding, flying and all the subdivisions of aeronautical efficiency were marked by the judges. Due to a change in plans, the medals will not be presented at The Sun-Telegraph office. Winners of today's sectional meets will be given slips and holders of these will be awarded medals August 30 in Schenley Park by Mayor Charles H. Kline.

W. C. Batchelor, superintendent of the bureau of recreation, is in charge, while various playground and civic leaders throughout the county assisted in the meets.

The medals and trophy of the winners will be on exhibit until August 30 in the windows of the John M. Roberts Company store, Wood and Diamond streets. The trophy, a great silver cup, will go to the boy awarded the honor of having presented the best all-around, most efficient model. This will be decided August 30.

Reports will be sent the national committee as soon as they are compiled. Whether any Pittsburgh district boys are sent to Memphis October 8 depends on the decisions of Col. Charles Lindbergh, Orville Wright and other members of the national committee.

Home Burned



AROUSED BY SMOKE

Awakened by sounds of crackling flames and the odor of burning wood, Frank Humel, 308 Homer street, North Side, discovered fire spreading rapidly from the basement of his home, which caused, he said, $3,000 damage. He aroused members of his own family and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walter, who reside on the second floor.

MARQUIS IN BANKRUPTCY COURT

LONDON, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—A receiving order in bankruptcy on creditors' petition, says the London Gaze, has been made against the Marquis of Hertford, who married Alice Thaw, of Pittsburgh, a sister of Harry K. Thaw, in 1903. He has appeared in Bankruptcy Court before.

The Marquis, who lives at Torquay, Devonshire, has often been described as the "most versatile peer." He has been soldier, actor, author, journalist, sheep and poultry farmer, playwright, dancer and wine agent. It is said he once refused £200 to appear in a stage pantomime.

The marriage of the Marquis and Miss Thaw was annulled in 1908.

AGAIN DELAY HOP TO ROME

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 24.—(INS.)—With a hurricane reported nearing New York, Pilots Lloyd Bertaud and J. D. Hill faced another delay today in their flight to Rome and return in the monoplane Old Glory. Chafing under the recurrence of adverse weather conditions, the pilots discussed the feasibility of using charcoal burners to dry out the runway on the field in order to hasten the take-off.

Rains have softened the track and it was feared that, unless some artificial drying process could be devised, a postponement would be necessary even though favorable winds should arise.

HE'S UNTRAMMELED

"JUST UNCONVENTIONAL"

H. B. Henry, 28, Roscoe, Cal., who came here in a small car, has been seen about downtown streets frequently. His long, flowing beard and hair, low-necked sport shirt, bare feet, and baggy, comfortable trousers "are unconventional, but I would rather go about free and untrammeled than be ground as a human cog in the machine of conventionalities.' Henry denies connection with religious order.

MORIN TOLD TO FIGHT COYNE

Congressman John M. Morin, who headed the Vare-Beidleman fight here last year, has been told to get to work in the Fourth Ward against Senator James J. Coyne or face the opposition of the Leslie forces when he seeks re-election to Congress, according to reports.

Senator Coyne's friends in the Fourth are backing C. B. Qualley for alderman against Alderman John H. Carr. The latter went into office through the support of Coyne, but swung to the other side soon after his election. The ward organization, at a recent meeting, selected Qualley as its candidate.

EPIDEMIC MAY DELAY OHIO SCHOOLS OPENING

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 24.—The State Health Department yesterday reported 141 cases of infantile paralysis in Ohio. With 12 cases, Cleveland shows the heaviest prevalence among communities not previously included in the districts where the disease has been noted. Should the disease continue to increase, some action may be taken to postpone opening of the public schools, which normally open the first Monday in September.

Martin Says G. O. P. Raids Judiciary

"An attempted raid on the judiciary."

That was the term applied by Judge Richard W. Martin, independent candidate for another term, to the methods used by the Republican organization in slating aspirants for the Common Pleas bench.

Judge Martin told the audience at the noon meeting in his headquarters, 228 Fourth avenue, that he is waging his independent fight to remove a menace brought about by the selection of judicial candidates for political considerations rather than for individual character and ability.

"Some of my associates on the bench, now candidates to succeed themselves, are not threatened by the present attempted raid on the judiciary, but they have no guarantee that their turn may not come when they are again candidates," he said. "Others of my associates whose terms expire in coming years may well consider if they are to be the next victims. My fight is for a principle which goes far beyond my individual interests."

Judge Martin said he believed that a sitting judge competent to serve should be returned to office with the support of every faction and every party.

BRIDGE BOMB SCARE FADES

The finding of an empty cap box and piece of fuse gave rise to a report today that a second attempt had been made to blow up the Panhandle railroad bridge near Mayview City Home.

At the railroad offices here this morning it was stated that the articles, picked up by a trackwalker near the bridge, were probably dropped at the time of the other attempt to blow up the span and had been overlooked in the first investigation.

POSTPONE MINE SUIT HEARING

The postponement was on agreement of both counsel.

Millicent and Fiance Refuse to Pose

By INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE WIRE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—Millicent Rogers, the former Countess Salm, and $40,000,000 Standard Oil heiress, and her new fiance, Artuor Perlata Ramos, after arriving early today aboard the Olympic, were endeavoring in their suites at the Plaza to maintain a barricade against reporters and cameramen.

Though their engagement was formally announced by Colonel H. H. Rogers several days ago, they maintained a strict silence against the advance guard of reporters who went down the bay to meet them. They refused to answer all question and indignantly turned down the proposals of cameramen that they pose.

Near the pier the reporters, still persisting, made a slight breach in Rodgers' silence. To a question as to her engagement to Ramos she suddenly replied: "Oh, absolutely, yes." Dogged questioning about her wedding plans finally yielded the information that the ceremony would probably take place at the plaza in October.

Ramos in reply to a question about his honeymoon ventured to remark, "Oh, we'll just hop a cab and ride about a bit."

SHOTS SLOW UP FLEEING MAN

Three shots fired into the air by Patrolman Joseph Zubry stopped John Mullen, 32, of New York, as he ran from the vicinity of the Federal Building in Third avenue early this morning, when the patrolman attempted to question him. Mullen had been loitering about the building, Patrolman Zubry testified. Magistrate George H. England fined Mullen $10, with the option of spending 10 days in jail.

MARINES, TRAPPED, ROUT NICARAGUAN BANDITS

AMERICANS KILL 2 IN AMBUSH BATTLE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Although American marines have again been ambushed by Nicaraguan bandits, Rear Admiral Sellers, in charge of naval forces, in a report to the Navy Department, declared conditions in Nicaragua are improving steadily.

Gen. Sandino, former Liberal military leader, whose forces were defeated last month by marines at Ocotal, the admiral added, is believed to be in hiding in Nicaragua with a small band of men. In the mountains of Segovia in Northern Nicaragua, Gen. Moncada, during an airplane survey recently, discovered several small bands, the report said.

The ambush occurred August 16. Two of the bandits were killed, the marines suffering no casualties. Thirty bandits participating in the attack were forced to flee. The marines consisted of a small detachment under command of First Sergt. Bruce.

The bandits reported by Moncada are said to be composed and led by criminals.

Doran Family Appeals To Spirit World to Find Mildred

FLINT, Mich., Aug. 24.—The family of Miss Mildred Doran, missing girl passenger in the Dole air race to Hawaii, has appealed to the spirit world in an effort to learn the fate of the pretty school teacher.

They were informed in a telegram from Seattle, Wash., that a Seattle psychic had found hundreds of missing persons, and that he might aid them.

Willing to grasp at any straw of hope, the family sent a telegram to Seattle asking for aid in the search.

"NOSE DIVE"

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 23.—"The Miss Doran took a nose dive near the Tropic of Cancer, 140 west longitude, and the plane, with her three passengers, went almost immediately down."

This was the opinion tonight of Zandra, a psychic vacationing here, and who, in response to a telegram from Miss Mildred Doran's father, answered:

"All I can get is that your daughter's plane took a nose dive about 1 o'clock Wednesday morning.' He gave the position as indicated.

Chamberlin Rescued Levine Over Ocean

By UNIVERSAL SERVICE.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 24.—Charles Levine attempted to pilot the plane Columbia while flying to Germany, but turned it into a nose dive and Clarence Chamberlin managed to right it only after they had fallen 15,000 feet.

This was revealed here today for the first time by Chamberlin, who also told of the arguments he had with Levine, backer of the Bellanca plane.

Chamberlin verified the reports that he and Levine have definitely broken off business relations.

"I was much irritated by the actions and many of the moves which Levine made," Chamberlin said, "but I was so anxious to make the trip that I waited until we reached Germany before starting the fight.

"Once on the other side I told Levine that he and I could 'never hit it up' and it would be best that we part.

"The public misunderstands Levine, as he means well and has more nerve than he is given credit for.

"Not once on our trip did he show signs of fear.

"Once over the ocean I let Levine pilot the plane. We were flying 20,000 feet up when I turned over the stick to him. Twenty minutes later we were in a nose dive and it was only a miracle that I was able to slip back into the control pit and right the plane.

"I blame Levine for our failure to be the first to span the Atlantic from New York because while he was quarreling about the pilots, Lindbergh stole a march on us and flew to Paris."

CHILDREN BURNED WHEN KETTLE UPSETS

It is believed that the man while crossing the tracks was struck by a train and the body hurled to the platform. Railroad Patrolman S. STATE AIR BODY BLOCKED BY FUND LACK

By WILLIAM B. BROKN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 24.—Members of the Pennsylvania Aeronautic Commission, which meets here today for organization, already admit that the size of the appropriation available for their work will limit, for the present at least, adoption and prosecution of any widespread program such as the act creating it intended.

The commission will have but $10,000 available for the next two years. From that sum it is intended to pay a full time secretary whose salary, it is expected, will not be less than $3,000 a year. On that basis the commission will have but $4,000 for other work.

Unless the commission is able to get authorization for the old-time "deficiency" system, by which succeeding legislatures made up past deficits, the amount of work possible in the immediate future will be limited.

Nevertheless, immediately after formal organization, members hope to take up several of the problems pressing for immediate attention, such as the licensing and establishing of airports. In case it is decided to charge fees for this work an additional source of revenue will permit the commission a larger field.

Unless James F. Woodward, secretary of internal affairs, declines, it is expected that he will be chosen active chairman.

MOTHER OF 18 GOES TO PEN

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—Mrs. Anna Beswick, mother of 18 children, was sentenced to two years imprisonment after pleading guilty to fraud in obtaining more than $1,500 from two men whom she had convinced of her equity in a million dollar estate which did not exist.

Mrs. Beswick, who served a prior prison term after pleading guilty to embezzlement of $50,000 in 1925, conducted her later operations under the name of Mrs. William C. Martin, according to the police.

At the time of her arrest in 1925, Mrs. Beswick led a dual life, by day as the wife of a carpenter and by night as the wife of a bank official.

WIDOW GIVEN $5,000 ANNUITY IN COMPROMISE

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Two years of litigation came to an end when Mrs. Philena R. Peabody Lloyd found herself the winner of a $5,000 annuity from her dead son's share of the estate of her late husband, Hiram R. Peabody. Awarding of the annuity was the result of a compromise agreement of the fight waged over her late husband's will. Mrs. Peabody-Lloyd is now the wife of Archbishop F. E. J. PITTSBURGH RAILWAYS TO BUY HOMESTEAD LINE

NEW SYSTEM OF TRACKS TO BE BUILT

After a year of dickering, in which scores of meetings and conferences were held, officials of the Pittsburgh Railways Company announced today that the company had completed arrangements for the purchase of the Homestead and Mifflin Street Railway Company's line. According to W. H. Boyce, commercial manager of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, the company will assume ownership within the next two months. The purchase price was not divulged.

The local company will acquire only the rails and the rolling stock. Real estate, with the car barns and a few parcels of land, will be retained by the Homestead company.

PLAN IMPROVEMENTS.

Extensive improvements will be made. According to Boyce, the same type of car used on the majority of the local company's lines will replace the present cars.

Mr. Boyce said that within four years an entirely new line will have been built, at a cost of $220,000 for reconstruction and $50,000 for new rolling stock.

The Homestead and Mifflin line operates from Eighth avenue and Amity street, Homestead, to Lincoln place, three and one-fourth miles. The company was organized 25 years ago.

A year ago officials of the Homestead line intimated that the line would be abandoned. A conference with the Pittsburgh Railways Company resulted in the deal for the purchase.

PENN DEFEATS ANNEXATION

Annexation of a portion of Penn township to Pittsburgh was defeated yesterday by 830 to 463 votes with about 90 per cent of the electors of the five affected wards casting ballots.

The district proposed to be annexed comprised about 10 per cent of the area of the township, 32 per cent of the population and 40 per cent of the assessed valuation. For several months preceding the ballot, a campaign was waged between the annexationists and their opponents.

FIVE HELD IN DISORDER MARKING MINE OPENING

Starting of No. 7 mine of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, near Mollenauer and Castle Shannon, resulted in some disorder and the arrest of five men yesterday on charges of disorderly conduct and of disobeying the sheriff's proclamation prohibiting assemblage in the public highway.

4-YEAR-OLD CHILD INJURED BY MOWER

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Aug. 24.—Four-year-old Naomi Hege was in the hospital here today with deep gashes in both of her ankles, the result of an accident on her father's farm near here late yesterday. The little girl ran in front of a horse-drawn mower. Doctors feared both the muscles and nerves in her limbs had been severed.

THIEVES ROB HOME IN BLOOMER WAY

Center avenue police were notified today that the home of David A. McFarland, 21 Bloomer way, had been broken into last night and articles valued at $250 stolen.

JUDGE GRAY RAPS JUDICIAL SLATES

The people of Allegheny county "do not want judgeships doled out as a reward for political services past or future," said Judge James H. Gray, independent candidate to succeed himself, speaking last night at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Paul D. Wright, Edgewood. The organization judicial slate is "doomed," according to Judge Gray, who predicted that "certain strong political leaders" would cut the ticket for their own favorites who were not slated.

MAN BITTEN BY DOG IN HILL DISTRICT

Attacked by a dog at Logan street and Wylie avenue, last night, Morris Exler, 54, of 9 Miller street, was bitten on the left arm. Joseph Celli, of 65 Logan street, owner, was ordered to tie up the animal.

MELLON ADMITS 'ROUGH EDGES'

Republican State Chairman W. L. Mellon is satisfied with the political situation in Allegheny county. In his first interview since returning from his vacation in Canada, he expressed himself as confident of the nomination of the Republican organization ticket, although he admitted that there are some "rough edges" in the judicial contest. Some dissension, he said, is inevitable when nine out of a score or more of aspirants are slated for the bench, as it is obviously impossible to please everybody.

Mr. Mellon would not discuss the effort to boom Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon as the successor to President Coolidge.

LOCAL PASTOR RAPS DIVORCE

By International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.—Divorce, flanked by the disrespect of children for parents, the loss of faith among men and a disregard of religion, is the chief threat against the security of church, home and state declared Rev. Charles F. Moosemann of Pittsburgh, speaking at the annual banquet of the Catholic Verein delegates to the national convention meeting here.

Father Moosemann advised that "instead of thinking of remedies for divorce, people should devote themselves to the training of young folks about to become husbands and wives." Bad plays, salacious fiction and immodesty of dress and manner also ran the gauntlet of the speaker's ire.

Escapes Jail by Faking Death—and Again When It's Real

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Robert Lee once escaped prosecution in a Chicago court by circulating a false report of his own death.

Yesterday he again escaped prosecution for disorderly conduct, and the reason was the same as the first—a report of his death. This time, however, it was true.

Vidor to Direct Marion Davies In "The Patsy," Which Follows Finishing of "The Fair Co-Ed"

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23.—Marion Davies is as enthusiastic as I have ever seen her over Irving Thalberg's promise that King Vidor is to direct her in "The Patsy." Marion confided this possibility to me a week ago and then made me hold up my right hand that I wouldn't breathe a word (in print) until Mr. Thalberg had made an official statement.

Yesterday I was relieved of my promise when the youthful general manager of production, the same Mr. Thalberg, said it had been definitely settled that King Vidor was to direct Miss Davies in her next picture. The combination of the director, who made film history with "The Big Parade," and Marion Davies, is a particularly happy one.

There is no one who knows better how to handle situations that call for real sentiment than Mr. Vidor. There are plenty such situations in "The Patsy," which is to be adapted from the play by Barry Connors. "The Patsy" is the younger sister who, in the vernacular of the day, is the "goat." She gets blamed for everything. Her older sister gets all the new clothes and the best of everything.

Agnes Christine Johnson, who did so well by Marion in "Beverly of Graustark," is working on the scenario of "The Patsy." It will go into production as soon as "The Fair Co-ed" is finished.

What could be more fitting than to have an extra girl play the stellar role in "The Romance of a Bathing Girl?" Sally Eilers has been promoted from the ranks of the extra girls to play the lead in Mack Sennett's epic. It's only right that some girl like Sally should have this part, for most of the Sennett bathing girls—Mabel Normand, Gloria Swanson, Phyllis Haver and Bebe Daniels—were not well known when they started their screen careers at the Sennett studios, and they were all former bathing beauties.

There is a rumor circulating around Hollywood that Ufa is doing it's best to win Ernst Lubitsch back. While in Germany, so the tale goes, he was made some offers that were phenomenal for Germany where American salaries are not paid. Paramount-Famous-Lasky holds a contract, however, with Mr. Lubitsch and, although they have recently completed a deal whereby they are interested in Ufa, nothing has been said about loaning Herr Lubitsch. I hear, however, from an authentic source, that such a deal is entirely possible, but I must print it as a rumor since it is not confirmed by anyone concerned.

PITT STOCK ACTOR WORLD WAR VETERAN

Percy Kilbride, appearing as one of the comedy detectives in "The Gorilla," with the George Sharp Production Stock Company in the Pitt this week, was a member of Company B, Three hundred and Seventeenth Infantry, Eightieth Division. After the armistice he staged overseas entertainments for the Pennsylvania boys who formed a greater part of that division.

In the Academy burlesque "Kandy Kids," everything is new but the name. The musical program, which includes recent song hits, was arranged by William Koud.

"Old Ironsides," with its patriotic appeal, is drawing large crowds in the Nixon. Daily matinees are given.

On the screen of the Davis next week will be seen a comedy drama, "For The Love Of Mike." Ford Sterling, Hugh Cameron, George Sidney, Claudette Colbert and Sheets Gallagher and Maisel Sivor are in the cast.

A final inspection is being made today of the complete refurbishing of the Gayety, directed by President Scribner and General Manager Joyce of the Columbia circuit, who are keeping a big force of painters and decorators busy making the Pittsburgh house ready for next Monday's opening.

Today is "Freedom Day" in Kennywood Park, under the auspices of the American Legion, Business Men's Association and Sunday Schools. The American Reflector Company of Irwin, Pa., also will picnic today.

Big Money -:- He Looks Strange -:- Plays Magdalene -:- He's No Cowboy

MALCOLM M'GREGOR, it is announced, is to receive one-tenth of a $4,000,000 estate left by his father, who was the operator of a department store in Newark, N. J.

HAROLD LLOYD, wife and baby, have arrived in New York, where they were met at the train by a cameraman, a novelty to the comedian, who looks quite strange without his specs.

JACQUELINE LOGAN has the role of the Magdalene in "The King of Kings," by Jeanie MacPherson. Miss Logan is said to make her characterization most eloquent in its appeal.

We EVEN GUESS cowboys were mighty scarce in the period of "The Covered Wagon," in which J. Warren Kerrigan wears the sombrero. The picture is booked for Grand showing.

Film Star Knows Her Schools—Studied In 168 of Them

There are 168 grammar schools over the United States which Esther Ralston definitely remembers having attended. If necessary, she probably can go back in memory and add a few more to the total. But she thinks that is enough to give her the title. The blonde Paramount star was the daughter of a vaudeville family, and she got her acquaintance with many schools while touring with the family act. Some schools she stopped at for only two or three days. When she was making a really extended visit, she remained three months.

NEIL HAMILTON AGAIN WITH ESTHER RALSTON

Neil Hamilton, who will be remembered for many months as one of the trio of Geste boys in Paramount's great desert picture, "Beau Geste," has kept on climbing s'nce that great success. He has just been assigned to play the lead opposite Esther Ralston in that star's next Paramount vehicle. The new story is not titled yet, but it is announced to be the most important role and the greatest opportunity given Hamilton since "Beau Geste." He won the assignment because of his work with Miss Ralston in her last starring picture, "Ten Modern Commandments."

Organist From West Engaged for New Theater Here

Loew's and United Artists' Theater announces the engagement of D. Kenneth Widener as guest organist at the theater when the doors will be opened to the public, Labor Day, September 5. Mr. Widener comes to Pittsburgh from the Roosevelt Theater in Chicago. He has presided at the organ in many of the largest theaters in this country and Canada, and in 1915 he was guest organist at the San Diego exposition.

Mr. Widener is the young man who first started audiences singing songs in motion picture theaters. He usually takes a popular song and adds to or subtracts from it, just as befits the situation, and then he creates new and humorous ideas.

According to the plans announced by Loew's and United Artists' Theater, music will play an important part in the weekly programs. A new organ has been installed. It is called the Robert Morton organ and is said to be the most complete instrument that has yet been installed in a motion picture theater.

HARRY MYERS IN FILM WITH MARIE PREVOST

Harry Myers, who rose to fame as "The Connecticut Yankee" in the screen version of that famous Mark Twain tale, has been cast conspicuously in "The Girl in the Pullman," Marie Prevost's current starring feature for Cecil B. DeMille.

SCREEN PLAY CUT FROM 100,000 TO 8,000 FEET

Approximately 100,000 feet of film were ground through the cameras in producing the comedy, "Two Arabian Knights." The completed film, edited and cut to standard footage, contains between 7,000 and 8,000 feet of celluloid. The cutting was done under direction of Lewis Milestone, who also handled the megaphone on the picture, and who was a professional film-cutter before he became a director.

Memorial to Valentino Held in Hollywood Attracts Many

By Universal Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 24.—Tribute was paid here to the memory of Rudolph Valentino, who died a year ago in New York.

One thousand persons, largely members of the film colony, attended services yesterday in the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, where solemn high requiem mass was celebrated.

Friends were received by Alberto Guglielmi, brother of the late screen star. The Italian and French governments were officially represented.

In a special room of the church, a statue of Valentino by Umberto Pedrotti, Italian sculptor, was shown for the first time after the services.

Three-fourths of the persons at the ceremony were women.

Studios halted work for five minutes at noon, the hour of Valentino's death.

Beauty Queen Wee Bit Envious of Rivals

Tomorrow is going to be a happy day for 23 girls who were in the "Miss Pittsburgh" tournament that brought me such good fortune. What fun this group of lovely girls will have on the vacation trips won with the individual theater titles. I surely wish my own trip could start when their train leaves the Baltimore and Ohio railroad station at 9:20 o'clock, daylight saving time, in the morning.

Chumming together for nine days and with all kinds of entertainment arranged for them, it will be glorious. I cannot help think how much more fun they will have than my pageant week activities will bring to me. It will be a carefree trip for them. They will have no worry about competing in this and that event.

My trip will just bring me all over again the same anxiety that possessed me in the local competition. Of course, I'll have fun, a great deal of it, but I will always be thinking about the judges who will be studying the inter-city contestants every minute of the day, even when just out for a spin.

I just wish the 22 girls the best of luck and hope they will have so enjoyable a trip they will never forget it.

"NEVER HAD ENOUGH TO EAT" THIEF DECLARES

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 24.—It was hunger, plain hunger after four days without food, that caused 18-year-old Harry E. Jenkins of Schenectady to enter the Cliff Walk estate of Mrs. Ogden Goelet and search for food, he told police. Charged with housebreaking, Jenkins told police he had never had enough to eat in his life.

"Woman and Clubs" is the subject of an address which Rev. Dr. W. Wofford T. Duncan, pastor of the Emory Methodist Church, will give at the first meeting in the new year. Congress of Clubs members have found the dining room at the club house a particularly attractive place to lunch and dine this summer and there has rarely been a day without a full quota at the tables between the hours of 11:30 and 2:30 and 5 and 7. Even the extensive redecorating that went on made no change in the conveniences afforded the members, for the Brick dining room was in use while the McCahill room was being papered and painted anew. Family dinner parties in the cool and quiet of Congress seclusion have been quite the thing all summer.

Hadassah Chapter of Pittsburgh will sponsor a card party Tuesday afternoon, August 30, in Kaufmann's dining room for the benefit of the summer emergency fund, the purpose of which is to relieve conditions in Palestine created by the recent earthquake. Peter Lehrey and Lieut. Luke Connors to return to work with the loss of pay since they were suspended 10 days ago, in connection with the case.

The lieutenants were suspended after it was reported to Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh that shortly before an automobile, driven by Raymond Rahn, had killed Lydon and injured two others at work in the street in Wilkinsburg, they had been seen talking to the occupants of the machine in East Liberty.

It was testified before the trial board by a disinterested witness that, to all appearances, the occupants of the machine were not under the influence of liquor when Lieuts. Connors and Lehrey questioned them.

DROP BEER WAR THEORY IN EXPLOSION

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—An explosion, attributed to gas from a leaking pipe, wrecked three stores in a one-story building in Taylor street on the West Side early today, and fire then destroyed the structure.

Firemen found no trace of a body in the ruins, although a man in the neighborhood said the proprietor of a drygoods store had been asleep in the store. The grocer and the owner of a bakery in the building said they could not account for the blast.

Scores of persons in the neighborhood were routed from their beds and the fire spread to an adjoining three-story building. Another three-story building also was damaged. Many families were driven from their apartments.

Early theories that a dynamite bomb set by beer gangsters or that a still had exploded were abandoned when firemen found no supporting evidence.

PLANE DELIVERS TYPEWRITERS

Pittsburgh's first aerial freight delivery was made yesterday when the Royal "airtruck" delivered 29 typewriters from the factory at Hartford, Conn., to Rodgers Field.

Delegates to the annual convention of the National Association of Typewriter Dealers, meeting here, were waiting at the field when the delivery was made by the pilot of the plane, John A. Collings.

Seven Days

Will prove this simple way of keeping that schoolgirl complexion

By NORMA SHEARER

IT'S such a simple thing to keep that schoolgirl complexion. There is but one little rule to learn. Yet by it natural charm and loveliness are fostered, youth preserved.

For one week, just do this: Wash the face gently with Palmolive. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin. Rinse with warm water; then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be naturally dry, apply a little good cold cream. That is nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion.

Largely on expert advice, millions use Palmolive Soap as above. And touch their faces with no other. For it's a true complexion soap, made of cosmetic oils; for one purpose only—to protect and beautify the skin.

Use that way regularly—particularly before bed. Note how much better your skin in even one week. Use powder and make-up all you like. Never leave them on over night.

Be sure you get GENUINE Palmolive. Costs but 10c a cake. Use no other on your face. Crude imitations, represented to be of olive and palm oils, are not the same as Palmolive. Remember that. The Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, U.S.A.

TALLEST IN PITTSBURGH

TWO SET-BACKS

The Grant Building, to go up in Grant street between Third and Fourth avenues, will give Pittsburgh its highest tower. Its summit, 420 feet from street level, will look over the top of Mt. Washington.

Start Work on Grant Tower in 2 Weeks

Work on the Grant Building, a set-back type skyscraper to tower 420 feet in the air on the east side of Grant street between Third and Fourth avenues, will be started within the next two weeks, according to an announcement made yesterday by W. J. Strassburger, president of Grant Building, Inc.

The approval of City Council to the new height limit of 425 feet on the set-back plan for downtown buildings, removed the last obstacle in the way of the Grant Building. It will be the tallest structure and contain more rentable area than any other office building between New York and Cleveland, and it will be one of the 70 largest buildings in the country.

COST $8,500,000.

The entire undertaking, including real estate, will represent an investment of approximately $8,500,000. A bond issue has been purchased by Hayden Stone & Co., New York and Boston bankers.

Grant Building will cover approximately 19,570 square feet, with frontages of 150 feet on Fourth avenue, 171 feet on Grant street and 127 feet on Third avenue. It will rise 23 stories and 265 feet to its first set-back; then 10 stories more, a distance of 112 feet higher.

A second set-back will take the form of a three-story pent house rising 33 feet. The pent house will be topped with an observation deck and by a smaller pent house containing elevator machinery and water tank. The top of the building will be higher than Mt. Washington and will afford a view extending far over the South Hills.

Henry Hornbostel is architect; Col. Eric Fisher Wood, associate architect; M. Neumann, structural engineer; Thomas F. Payne, mechanical engineer; Thompson-Starrett Company, general contractors, and Dwight P. Robinson & Co., Inc., consulting engineers. E. B. Strassburger and J. F. McKenna represent Grant Building, Inc., in legal matters.

WEST PARK VOLUNTEER FIREMEN CELEBRATE

More than a score of volunteer fire companies from Allegheny and surrounding counties, with a membership of 2,000, will parade in West Park tonight, celebrating firemen's night in connection with the street fair being held this week by the West Park Independent Fire Company. West Park businessmen will participate in the parade.

"Beau" and Sally Finally Clash Over Money; Sally Works, Misses Outing

What Has Gone Before

SALLY JEROME, 20 and pretty and clever, is the prop and mainstay of her family which consists of MRS. JEROME, the twins, BEAU, the apple of his mother's eye, and MILLIE, a young siren, and Sally, herself. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health so Sally does the housework mornings and office work for MR. PEEVEY downtown afternoons. In the flat below the Jeromes lives young TED SLOAN, an auto salesman, who wants Sally to marry him and keep on working. Sally refuses him. The only man in whom she is interested is JOHN NYE, whose office is across the hall from Mr. Peevey's. Nye has hired the flirtatious Millie as his secretary. Sally is amazed when Beau comes home with a guitar and some new clothes that cost more than his salary. She goes to her mother to ask her if she has had a check from her father and turned it over to Beau. But Mrs. Jerome says she has had no check recently. Then Sally asks Millie if she knows where Beau, who works in a bank, got the money. Millie says she doesn't know anything about it, but adds that Beau lent her the money to buy a new flannel dress that she wanted. Sally is worried.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"NO, I won't say a word to him about it right now," she decided. "It wouldn't do any good because he probably wouldn't tell me anything, anyway. . . . And if he thought I was accusing him of having taken it from the bank, he'd hate me all the rest of his life, no matter whether he was innocent or guilty."

She lay listening to the sound of his voice calling a cheerful "Good-night" to Mabel, who was to sleep in Sally's bed, as usual. . . . It did not sound like the voice of a man who had anything depressing on his mind.

Then she heard him coming across the living room carpet and push open the screen door. He leaned over the hammock couch and laid his hand of her shoulder.

"Asleep, Sally?" he asked quietly.

"No." She sat bolt upright and looked at him. "What's the matter?"

Instead of answering her question he pulled up a chair and sat down in it. Then he lit a cigaret.

"It'll keep the mosquitoes away," he said. "Gosh, they're flying around like canaries out here, aren't they?"

He pulled his chair close to the couch. "Say, listen, old dear." To Sally's quick ear his voice did not sound so light and cheerful as it had been a second before. "Say listen, if I had to have some money suddenly, could you lend me some?"

"Lend you some?" Sally repeated, dully. "Lend you some? . . . Why, no, Beau, you know I haven't any."

She scarcely knew what she said. "I was right!" she kept thinking. "I was right! He's taken some money from the bank!" The thought was terror, pure and simple.

"Beau!" She spoke sharply. "What do you want money for? Are you in any kind of trouble? . . . If you are, please do tell me. I ought to know."

She laid her hand on his shoulder, but he shook it off and jumped up, walking up and down the little porch like a caged fox.

"Holy cats! What's the matter with you?" he asked irritably. "I ask you if you can lend me some money, and you proceed to throw 15 fits! . . . If you can't lend me any, say so, but don't put me in the witness box about it."

He swung around upon her suddenly. "Have you got any? That's all I want to know," he said. "Have you?"

Sally shook her head. In the moonlight her face was dead white and her eyes were pools of shadow.

"Beau," she said, "If you're so hard pressed for money, why did you buy all those clothes today and lend Millie the money for her blue dress? . . . Beau, where did you get the money for those neckties and things? Tell me!"

"Tell you what?"

"Where you got all that money," Sally repeated patiently.

"Oh, for the love of little green apples! Where d'you suppose I got it?" Beau answered sulkily. "You don't notice anybody handing me out any greenbacks very often, do you? I earned it, of course."

Then, without another word, he went into the house, slamming the screen door behind him, and left Sally to her mosquitoes and her sleepless night.

It was almost 3 o'clock, and the birds had begun to twitter softly in a lilac bush below the porch, before she finally fell asleep.

She awoke, heavy and depressed, to the sound of the telephone ringing furiously in the hall of the flat. As she ran to answer it the old clock on the kitchen wall struck 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Jerome's bedroom door was open and she called: "If that's for me, be sure to ask who it is." She hardly ever had a phone call from anybody, but she was always waiting for one with pathetic eagerness.

This morning the call was not for her. It was only Mr. Peevey wanting Sally.

"Yes, Mr. Peevey," Mrs. Jerome heard her say, and then, "All right, I'll be there at 10 sharp."

"It was only Mr. Peevey, Mother," she called on her way to the kitchen to put on the coffee. "He wants me to come down to the office for a couple of hours this morning."

"Well, what on earth for?" Mrs. Jerome followed Sally out to the kitchen. "Isn't he content with working you like a slave six days a week? Will he pay you anything extra for this? On Sunday morning, too! The old slave driver!" She was all indignation.

"Who's going to get Sunday dinner, I'd like to know," she went on miserably. "You know, I'd be glad to do it, but it's so hot in this kitchen with that oven going. And my head is splitting, as it is. I was just going to take some aspirin."

She went slowly back to her bedroom carrying the Sunday paper under her arm.

"Don't worry, mother," Sally called out to her. "I'll put everything on to cook before I go, and turn the gas down low. Then you and Mollie can watch things."

Mr. Peevey had said that he wanted Sally to work "a couple of hours" that hot Sunday morning.

But at half past one she was still in the office with him, transcribing the letters that he had given to her.

Twenty minutes later, when she had tapped out the last of them, she asked Mr. Peevey if she might use the telephone.

"I've left our Sunday dinner on the stove, and I'm afraid my sister may forget to look at it," she told him, while she was waiting for central to get the number.

She could hear her ringing it, time after time. But there was no answer.

"That's funny," said Sally, puzzled. "There's always someone there."

"There's probably someone there now!" snapped Mr. Peevey in his angry little way. "It's just the fool telephone girls. I think they posttively enjoy annoying people!" Mr. Peevey was always "bawling out" the telephone girls over his own wire. He was one of those ill-natured, fussy people who think that the whole world is against them.

Sally nodded her head, stamped the letters he had asked her to drop into the mail chute, and started home.

It was half past two when she got there.

She unlocked the door and stepped into the living room. It was in its usual Sunday morning disorder—papers scattered about, bits of clothing hung over chairs. Beau's tan oxfords kicked into a corner.

"Yoo-hoo!" called Sally, as she often did when she came home. Usually her mother would answer from her bedroom.

She waited for a reply now. But there was none. Dead silence brooded over the rooms.

She went out to the kitchen. The leg of lamb was roasted to a crisp brown in the oven. The peas and the potatoes were fast

TOPSY-TURVY HOUSE

MILLIE'S ROOM WAS . . .

When Sally came home from the office, after working for cranky Mr. Peevey, she found Millie had left. That wasn't strange, but when Millie left her room with clothes scattered around everywhere, it was discouraging. Sally had to work and straighten the house again.

$262,000 EXTRA 'GIFT' CHARGED BY M'GOVERN

The county treasury has been depleted by slipshod methods used by the County Commissioners in paying extras to contractors amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars, County Controller Charles C. McGovern asserted at the public audit hearing yesterday.

Delving further into the books, McGovern said that during the course of the hearing he intended to show that $125,000 had either been stolen from the county treasury or unaccounted for.

Extras to the amount of $262,000 were paid one contractor on a county improvement, the Controller claimed.

Gilbert C. Cloonan, statistician in the Commissioner's office, admitted a number of changes had been made in records since the original records were turned over to the Controller on a subpena at the opening day of the hearing.

EXPLAINS CHANGES.

Cloonan explained the altering of the records by saying that the original records "might not carry all the information the Controller desired."

County Commissioner E. V. Babcock was quizzed at length yesterday. The commissioner defended himself and his colleagues in the methods in which they conducted their office.

On several occasions Commissioner Babcock took exceptions to the terms and expressions used by the Controller in his questioning. The commissioner especially resented McGovern's charge that the Commissioners were "ravishing the treasury."

"We are not doing anything of the sort," Commissioner Babcock said. "We have four or five hundred thousand dollars worth of good roads to show how some of the county's money was spent."

The Controller announced the hearing would be adjourned until Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

IT'S PEANUT BUTTER FOR "BERT"

ON HIS TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHT

Lloyd Bertaud and J. D. Hill, pilot and navigator of "Old Glory," William Randolph Hearst plane that will fly from New York to Rome, will feast on peanut butter during their long flight because of a gift to them from Mrs. Bertaud. The balance of their menu is not known.

Ditch Lets Thieves in House; Digger Sued

A trench made by Duquesne Light Company employes in laying conduits furnished means for thieves to enter her home, Clara M. Irwin, of 310 Island avenue, McKees Rocks, alleges in a suit for $10,000 filed in Common Pleas Court yesterday against the utility company.

The plaintiff alleges that during 11 days the trench was used, household articles valued at $4,587 were removed and damages inflicted to other householdings.

WERTZ WITHDRAWS FROM JOHNSTOWN RACE

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 24.—Ex-Congressman George M. Wertz, this city, who suffered a paralytic stroke several days ago, has withdrawn from the race for the Republican nomination for county commissioner. Mr. Wertz has been leader of a Republican faction opposed to the group of which John D. Walker, president of the board of county commissioners and a candidate to succeed himself, is member.

KANE SHUNNED BY TRAMPS

KANE, Pa., Aug. 24.—By casting tramps adrift in the depths of the forests surrounding Kane, police here have discovered an effective means for ridding the community of undesirables. The penalty for vagrancy is banishment from town and the police assist by taking the tramps by automobile to a point about eight miles from any habitation and there turn them loose where the woods are filled with bears, rattlesnakes, wildcats and the Canadian lynx. The exiled bobos have never returned.

BILBO AHEAD IN MISSISSIPPI

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 24.—Theodore G. Bilbo, of Poplarville, whose political career in Mississippi has been both success and defeat, appeared on the verge of a second term as Governor of the state today.

With less than 70 precincts missing, most of them small outlying precincts in country districts, Bilbo had rolled up a lead of 9,500 votes over Gov. Dennis Murphree, his opponent, in a run-off primary yesterday for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

GET BEER, HOLD 2 IN MUNHALL

Munhall police seized a truck load of high-test beer and arrested two men in Eighth avenue, Munhall, early today. Edward Knorr, 29, of 209 Chestnut street, and Philip Fraio, 28, of 440 Park avenue, Clairton, were turned over to prohibition authorities and later released under $1,000 bail each.

COULDN'T EXPLAIN

TO DETECTIVES

Ruth Marshall, 24 (left), and Rose Gilmore, 34, couldn't explain to city detectives why they were in Pittsburgh and registered at a hotel as Mrs. Clay Becroft and Mrs. Nathan Liftlander, respectively, police said. They were held in Morals Court with Becroft, 24, and Liftlander, 35, as suspicious persons for investigation. All are from Detroit. The women had two trunks of expensive wearing apparel, a dog, canary bird and phonograph, it was testified.

Woman Observes 108th Birthday; Does Own Housework Too

ST. CHARLES, Ill., Aug. 24.—Friends of Mrs. August Kuzner of St. Charles today are helping her to celebrate her one hundred and eighth birthday.

Every morning at 6 o'clock, for many years, Mrs. Kuzner has arisen and attended to her daily duties, which include the care of her garden, in back of the house of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph Lucius, with whom she lives.

Retaining her mental capacity in full, she attends church regularly, and is often called upon to recite old German hymns. One of them contains 14 verses and she never forgets a line.

Plane's Hum Turns on Landing Field Lights

Unilluminated landing fields, chief enemy of night flying, received a knockout blow last night with the demonstration of an automatic lighting device at Bettis Field, McKeesport.

Merle Moltrup, chief air mail pilot at the field, returned from Cleveland with the mail last night at 9:15. The hum of his motor as he flew over the field was received by a sound amplifier and carried through an intricate electrical system to a switch, which was thrown in by the impulse, flooding the landing space with light from projectors about the field.

Several thousand witnessed the marvelous exhibition of the sound-sensitive automatic lighting system, which was developed by T. Spooner, research engineer of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

According to Pilot Moltrup, the system "worked fine and couldn't have been better." He stated that the night was one of the worst for flying that he ever experienced and that the lighted field was of great advantage in making a safe landing.

GROCERS FEEL W.C.T.U. IRE

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Grocers who sell ingredients used in home brewing of beer have aroused the ire of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union.

Mrs. Ella Boole, national president of the Union, announced, as she stopped here yesterday, en route to the convention in Minneapolis, that the W. C. T. U. likely would recommend that housekeepers patronize only those merchants who refuse to cater to "that thoughtless group who flout the Constitution by the domestic manufacture of illegal brew."

ASK FAYETTE CITY WATER CO. RECEIVER

FAYETTE CITY, Pa., Aug. 24.—An application has been filed with the United States District Court asking for the appointment of a receiver for the Fayette City Water Company. George Ferris, a stockholder, filed the petition, which points out that the company has an assured net income of $12,000 per year, but that pressing obligations make the receivership necessary to protect stockholders.

Billy Sunday Offers Rogers His Practice —Will Says No

CRESTLINE, O., Aug. 23.—Passed through Chicago today. It was raining hard and practically all the shootings were confined to indoors. A few who had raincoats were outside plugging away at each other, but take it all in all, it was what would be known as a dull day for DuPont.

Had a pleasant hour on the train chatting with Billy Sunday, the male McPherson. Billy is a nice fellow, and Ma is wonderful. Billy wants to retire and wants me to take over his practice.

I am afraid I would get to defying the devil to come up through the platform some time, and it would just be about my luck that he would come up before the collection.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

NAB 2 ABROAD IN KILLING

HARRISBURG, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Warrants have been issued charging two Steelton men, under arrest in Jugo-Slavia, with the murder of Mrs. Katherine Belic, 46, found dead in the kitchen of her home near Steelton, May 12.

District Attorney Fox is carrying on negotiations with the Department of Justice at Washington looking to the extradition of the pair. It is probable the two men, Marko Petrevich and Dmitar Kuperca, who are being held by the Serbian police, will be returned to this country without a grand jury indictment, the District Attorney said.

$35,000 CHAPLIN DIVORCE SNAG

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—The $2,000,000 Chaplin divorce today was threatened with legal dissolution over a trifling $35,000.

Charles Chaplin, the movie comedian, miscalculated the amount of receiver's fees for the Chaplin community property and the burden of the debt falls on his former wife, Lita Grey Chaplin.

Attorneys for Mrs. Chaplin said the amount of $35,000 was too much for her to pay.

Meanwhile the interlocutory divorce decree is being held up by the court.

Chaplin in a secret agreement had consented to be responsible for receivership fees of $10,000, but the total receivership fees was $45,000.

MINER'S STORE CASE HEARD

Judge George V. Counsel for the company contended that the petitioner delivered moonshine, offering evidence of apprehension by police of Infantina's children with moonshine in their possession, and records of the Federal Court showing pleas by Joe and Tony Infantina, sons of petitioner, in liquor cases and the imposition of fines.

QUICKSANDS OF LOVE

A New Phase of "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

I PUT too high an estimate upon Philip Veritzen's shrewdness and knowledge of the world to believe that he accepted at its face value my explanation of Dicky's behavior when he saw me through the window of the great dramatic producer's limousine. He knew as well as I that my husband had recognized me and that Dicky's failure to make any gesture of salutation to either of us was a deliberate thing. But he let no hint of his belief invest either the words or tone of his reply to me.

"You cannot know how glad I am of your assurance," he said, with apparent fervor, "I should hate to think—but enough of that. How wonderful the avenue is today!"

I knew that he purposely had broken off the sentence thus abruptly, leaving an inference hanging subtly between us. He was an artist in other things than his profession, I told myself cynically, but I was glad enough to catch his and return it. I was in no mood for the sounding of any personal note.

"There is nothing quite like Fifth avenue to me," I said banally, but Mr. Veritzen deftly seized the opportunity I gave him and talked so brilliantly, so vividly of other famous city streets that he almost made me see the colorful thoroughfares of Europe and the Orient which he was describing. Subtly, too, he linked me with each of them. "You would love this." "That could not help appealing to your keen sense of the dramatic." "Your beauty-loving soul would revel in those." The expressions rose frequently and with apparent unconsciousness to his lips. And, though I knew that they were not unconscious, though I resented the personal note which he was sounding, yet gradually, subtly, surely, the magic of his personality, often called the most fascinating in all New York, softened my rancor, made me forget a little, not only the annoyances I had felt toward him, but the greater grievance which was mine toward my husband.

The great car bore us so swiftly, so smoothly through Central Park and across to the Drive, both exquisite in their fresh spring verdure, that I felt as if I were realizing my childish imaginings of being transported over the magic carpet of my favorite fairy tale. But when we had reached the end of the Drive, and Otto halted for instructions from his employer, I felt a sudden longing to get back to my home as quickly as possible.

Mr. Veritzen's idea of a "little drive" apparently did not coincide with mine. As Otto drew the car to the curb just before the Drive merged with Broadway, my employer turned to me with a boyishly wistful look in his brilliant eyes.

"Won't you take pity on a lonely man, Mrs. Graham?" he asked. "I feel in a vagrant mood. I'd like to drive on aimlessly through this spring afternoon, and stop at some attractive wayside inn for dinner. Won't you join me?"

It was the very program I would have welcomed warmly had I been in a different mood. There is nothing I enjoy so much as driving I know not whither, and dining when hungry at some place I never have seen before. There could be no more interesting or fascinating companion for such a jaunt than the man who was waiting for my answer, and my common sense raged at me for not accepting the invitation for a charming variation to my usual humdrum routine.

But the remembrance of the thing which I had seen in Dicky's eyes as he glanced through the window of the limousine robbed the proposed outing of all its pleasure, made of it instead a distasteful prospect. My anger against my husband was giving way to another emotion, something very nearly resembling fear, not of Dicky's actions, but of his thoughts. It could not be possible that he imagined—I drew back from that horror with an abruptness that tinged my reply to Mr. Veritzen.

"I am sorry," I said. "I'd love to go, but there are reasons why I cannot possibly accept your offer this afternoon."

Tomato Supreme Salad.

Select 6 medium sized smooth tomatoes, scald, remove skins. Chill. Cut slice from top, remove seeds and part of pulp. Sprinkle inside with pepper and salt, invert and let stand half hour in cool place. When ready to serve, mix 2 cups finely shredded celery hearts (chilled) and ¾ cup finely broken nut meats. Fill tomato cups. Garnish with spoonful of mayonnaise and halves of nut meats. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

Summer Curtains

The city dweller's problem of keeping the curtains clean in summer may be partly solved by wiping the screen occasionally with a damp cloth or chamois skin, and brushing and shaking the curtains once a week.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer — By John Held, Jr.

"ACtually, my dear, this ARab person SIMply SLAYS me, no less, because of ALL the conCEITED little PIPsqueaks I have ever enCOUNtered he is PRACticably the most POSitively perVERted, because I mean he REALLY SEriously thinks he is a simply MARvelous POlo player at this point—can you BEAR it, my dear? I mean if it weren't TRAgic it would honestly be awfully FUNny, because he always takes himself so SEriously and all, do you know what I mean? Well, ANYways, my dear, I HONestly wish SOMEone would sort of disALlusion him, or something, because his conCEIT is SIMply COlOSsal at this point, my dear. I mean that is ONE thing that I hope NObody will ever acCUSE me of because I think being conCEITed and all is a POISonous characterISTic in a GIRL, my dear, which is the reason I have never been the LEAST BIT conCEITed, even when I have had LOADS more atTENtion than simply HEAPS of girls I know who are practically thinking of NOTHing else but themSELVES all the entire time and will tell you by the HOUR how POPular they are. I mean I have HEAPS more beaux than all of them put toGEther, my dear, but I simply NEver BOAST about it, because I mean if you DID it would be called being conCEITed which I think is the FOULest thing in the WORLD to BE, my dear—I mean I ACtually DO!"

MILADY BEAUTIFUL

By LOIS LEEDS

BEAUTY QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Problems of Miss Sixteen.

DEAR MISS LEEDS—(1) I am 16 years old, 5 feet 4½ inches tall and I weigh 124½ pounds. My measurements are: Bust, 32; waist, 27; hips, 36½; thigh, 20 and 21; calf, 13½; ankles, 10 and 10½; wrists, 6½ and 6¾; arm above elbow, 11; arm below elbow, 9¼. Are my measurements in good proportion? (2) Will horseback riding reduce the hips? (3) I have small white pimples under the skin on my arms and in front of my ears and I also have small blister-like pimples on my face. Should I cleanse my face with soap and water? (4) How may I correct a double chin? (5) I have been applying an antiseptic wash to my head for dandruff; will this entirely destroy the dandruff? Will it take the curl out of my hair or harm it in any way? (6) I have a fair skin, curly brown hair that is shingled all around and grayish "cat eyes." What colors and styles of dresses should I wear? (7) Will spike heels cause one's ankle to grow large? How may one grow taller without spike heels? I have a slight tendency to be round-shouldered. FERROL R.

Answer—(1) The average weight for girls of your age and height is between 120 and 124 pounds. Your measurements are good except that your ankles seem too large. Perhaps you have not measured them at the smallest point. Eight inches would be a better proportion for the ankles. Please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet on "Feminine Proportions and Dress" if you are interested in comparing your physical specifications with those of several well-known beauties. (2) Yes, if taken regularly. (3) The pimples on arms and face indicate that the skin is sluggish and needs stimulation. This may be provided by scrubbing the face with a flesh brush and the arms with a bath brush and soap and water. Use pure Castile soap and rinse thoroughly after the cleansing treatment, first in warm water, then in cold. Take a cold or tepid shower bath in the morning, followed by a brisk rub-down with a turkish towel. At night take a warm, cleansing bath. When you write again, please ask for "Complexion file" that gives other helpful treatments for whiteheads, as these under-the-skin pimples are called. (4) You must cultivate correct posture. Hold your head up, with chin level; do not let your chin sag forward. Sleep on a low pillow at night. Do neck-bending and head-turning exercises for five minutes both night and morning. (5) Dandruff is dead skin that is constantly being thrown off by the scalp.

The antiseptic will combat disease germs in the dandruff, but cannot prevent these flakes from forming as the skin renews itself. (6) Please send for my leaflet on "Color Schemes and Costuming," which will answer your questions in detail. By the way, if you continue having your hair shingled, you are likely to lose the natural curl in time; be warned, my dear, by the experience of others. (7) Yes, the tendons at the ankle tend to thicken in the effort to balance the weight on high heels. Learn to stand up straight. Hold your figure as tall as you can with chest out and abdomen in. You are already above the average height for women. Live a hygienic life with plenty of fresh air, outdoor exercise and nourishing food; then you may expect to grow as tall as your heredity permits.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, AUG. 25, 1927.

Good and evil, planetary influences contend today, according to astrology, which finds the rule rather confusing and perplexing.

Women should be especially careful today, which is supposed to make them unusually vulnerable to flattery.

Courtship is read as extremely unlucky, while this configuration prevails and girls who indulge in flirtations should be exceedingly wary of unfortunate misunderstandings.

While the stars may incline theatrical managers to test new plays they are likely to be unfortunate under this direction of the stars.

For the last few years the seers have warned that with the passing of many artists of the past there would be a period of apparent dearth of great men and women.

The new era is now advanced to a place where the master minds of the past have disappeared and this is a time of slow development, astrologers point out.

Merchants and manufacturers should be most cautious in making purchases while this configuration prevails.

The winter is to bring extraordinary development and expansion, but there are to be surprising conditions for all except the far-seeing.

Great storms accompanied by high winds are to be looked for in weather conditions that have been, as prophesied, most unusual all through the summer.

Children born on this day probably will be of exalted ideals and fine minds. They may be vain of their super gifts, however.

Sally's Shoulders

ENGROSSING DIFFERENT LIVELY DRAMATIC

By BEATRICE BURTON

boiling dry on the top of the stove, but they had not burned.

Sally turned off the gas and hurried to her mother's room.

It was empty. The bed had been made, the dresser set to rights, and the shades drawn.

Beau's room had been straightened up, too, in a careless lick-and-a-promise way.

In the little room where Millie and Mabel Wilmot had slept, the bed Mabel had occupied was made up. But Millie's was just as Millie doubtless had left it that morning when she stepped out upon the rug. Millie never aired her bed, any more than she kept her hair-brush clean or darned her stockings.

"Millie should have been born with a gold spoon in her mouth," Mrs. Jerome often said in a pleased kind of way. "And a body servant to walk behind her and pick up the things she drops."

Millie evidently thought that, too. Her nightgown was on the floor, and her flowered kimono was slung across the toilet things on her dressing table. As Sally picked it up she saw that a bit of paper had been pinned conspicuously to its folds.

Across it Millie had scrawled: "Davidson came to take us all for a drive. Sorry you weren't here, lovey. We'll be back early, and I'm going to ask him for supper. So set an extra place, will you? —M."

CHAPTER XIII.

ALL that hot Sunday afternoon Sally flew about the flat, putting things in order.

While she worked she kept the phonograph going, and the sound of its gay music made the work seem light and easy, as it always did.

By 6 o'clock everything was spick and span, and the table was set for a cold supper. The lamb was sliced and garnished with parsley and a mound of mint jelly. There was a salad and a pitcher of iced tea in readiness in the ice box. There was a plateful of lettuce sandwiches, too, but no dessert. One of Sally's small economies was to leave out dessert when there was a salad for a meal.

"Well, now the cook and housemaid will turn herself into a lady of fashion," she said cheerfully to herself, and went to dress.

It was pleasant to have the bedroom to herself—to slip out of her clothes, into an icy shower, and then into fresh, clean things; to dawdle before the mirror, dusting violet-scented powder on her soft skin, even borrowing some of Millie's pink nail-glaze for her pointed fingers.

She was cool and fragrant in an old brown linen dress when the front doorbell rang. She opened the door, expecting to see the family crowded into the hall, but only Ted Sloan stood there, in his shirt sleeves.

"Is Beau here?" he asked shortly, looking beyond her into the empty living room.

Sally shook her head. "No; he's been gone all day," she said. "The whole family went for a drive with that friend of Millie's you met the other night—that Mr. Davidson. They said they'd be back for supper."

"Well, I'll come in for a while and wait. I ought to see Beau tonight on a little matter of business. Here's a new record I bought for you last night." Ted handed her a new dance record for the phonograph. Every now and then he bought one for her instead of taking her to the movies or for an evening of dancing. Ted had to count the pennies, too, just as she did.

The new record had an entrancing melody, and Ted sang the words, sitting in Mrs. Jerome's old green velour chair.

"I could be happy,
I could be sad,
I could be good or
I could be bad.
. . . It all depends on you—"

"Lot of truth in that song, 'Sally,'" he said, breaking off in the middle. "A man can do anything—anything at all. You see, it all does depend on the girl he's crazy about. She can make him do anything she wants him to, and she can break him, too."

He looked down at her soberly, puffing at his little old brown pipe. He had been extremely sober and serious ever since the night she had called him a "poor paluka" and begged him not to make love to her.

Tonight he was more than sober. Something seemed to weigh heavily upon his mind. His gray eyes, usually so twinkling, had a frown between them.

"'I could make money or spend it,'" he went on singing in an undertone as the music rippled along.

"'Go right on livin or—'"

"What did you want to see Beau about? Money?" asked Sally quickly. The word "money" on Ted's lips had brought back all her doubts about Beau and his mysterious riches into her mind.

"Yeah," Ted answered. "He borrowed some from me—that is, I gave him a check for it the other day—and he promised to pay me today."

She gave a keen little sigh of relief . . . So that was it. Beau had borrowed the money from Ted Sloan.

"And wasn't I dreadful to think he might have got it in some dishonest way!" Sally scolded herself.

She confessed to herself now that she had been afraid that Beau had "picked up" the money somewhere around the bank where he worked. . . . And it had been such an easy thing to believe of Beau, who had always stolen nickels and dimes from his mother's purse when he was a little boy.

"How much does he owe you, Ted?" she asked, knowing that Beau had spent better than a hundred dollars for one thing and another the week before.

"Ten dollars," Ted answered. "It isn't very much, I know, but I need it. I didn't sell a single car last week. You know this is a bad time of year in the automobile business." He went rambling on, full of explanations. But Sally wasn't listening to him.

Ten dollars, she was thinking. Ten dollars. Why, ten dollars wouldn't begin to account for the money that Beau had had last week! Forty-five dollars to Millie; more than that on clothes for himself, twenty or so for the guitar. She added up the items and her heart seemed to sink right down into her shoes as she did it. . . . Where HAD Beau got money?

The door of the flat opened, and he stood there. Neither she nor Ted had heard him come up the stairs and unlock the door.

But there he stood, his eternal cigaret pasted on his lower lip, his straw hat on the side of his head, his handsome young face flushed to a bright pink with the day's ride in the sun. Under his arm he carried a pasteboard box of ice cream.

When he saw Ted he gave a start, looked "seven ways for Sunday," as Sally later described it to herself, and then came jauntily into the room.

"Hello, old man," he said, and went straight through to the kitchen. Before Ted had time to follow him he was back in the living room again.

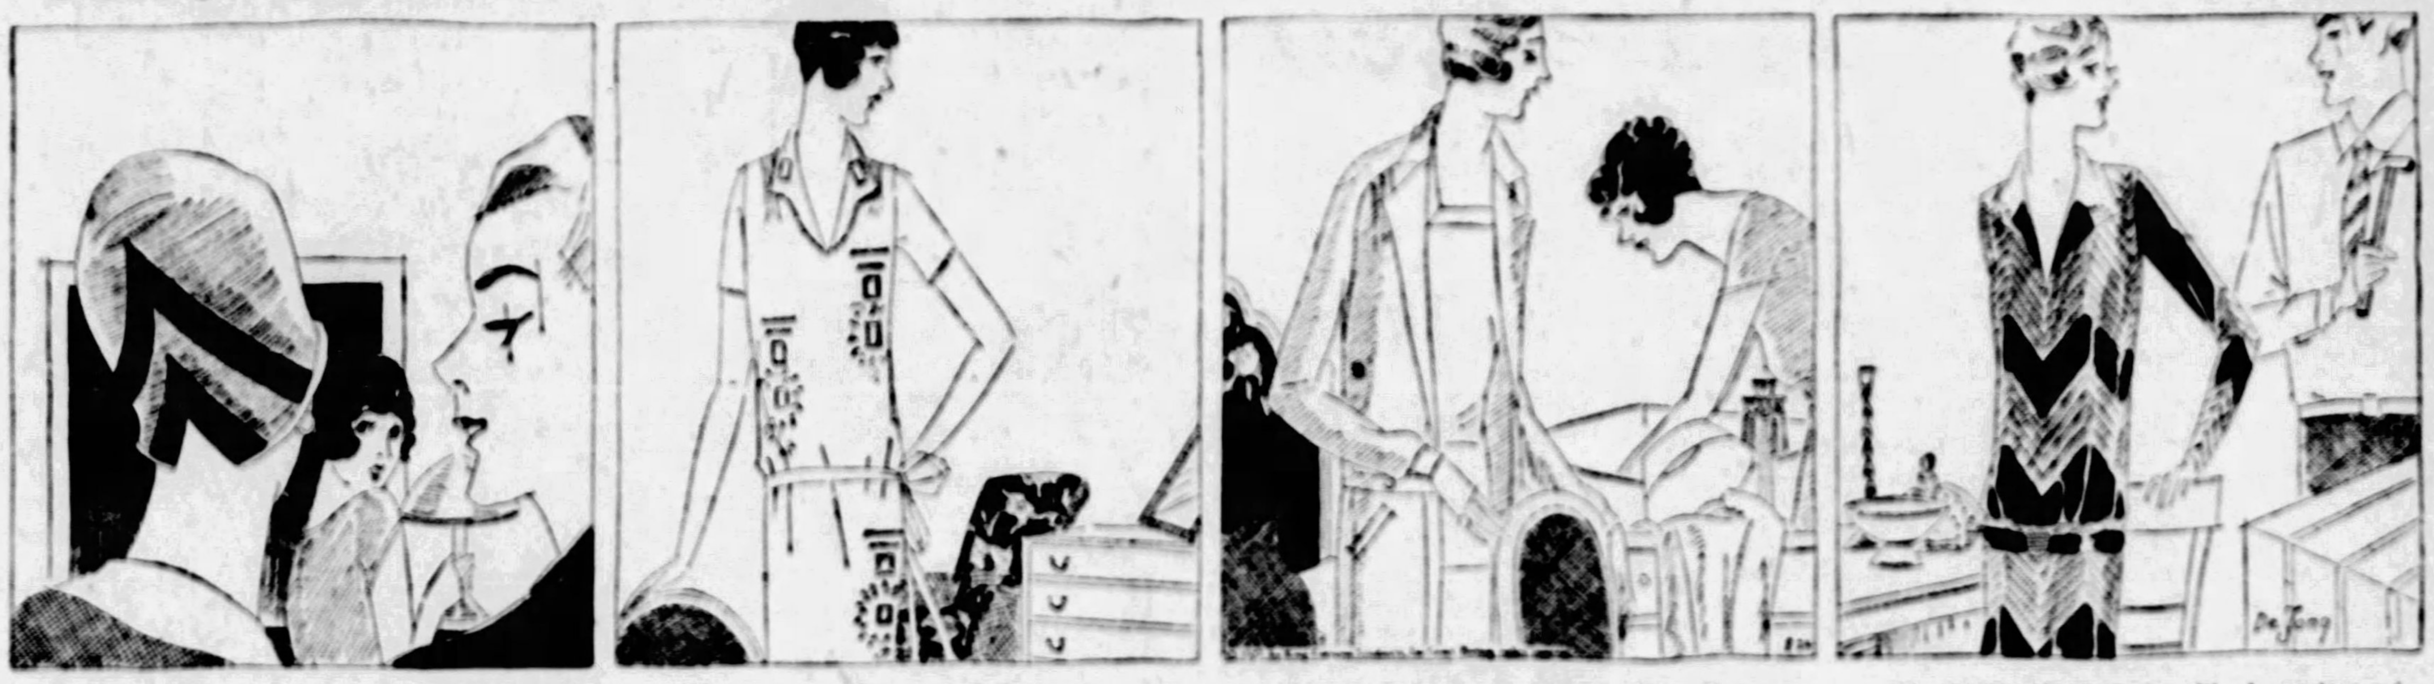
CHIC CHERIE · Andy's Handy. · LATEST FASHIONS



Whatever Cherie's intentions were about Andy she seems to be well on the way toward carrying them out. Just because Aunt Em has so much money it doesn't seem reasonable to Cherie that Andy should fade out of the picture. Even the slashed pointed back of her felt and velvet hat looks determined.

Dina is occupied in helping Aunt Em settle (they didn't want to live in a hotel forever) and Dina is attractively attired for that job in a hand-made voile frock trimmed with embroidery and drawn work. It's an inspiration to Dina in her pursuit of the Good, the True and the Beautiful in interior decoration.

Aunt Em is more practically clad in the newest house frock-smock combination that has raglan sleeves, a belt, and pockets that will hold anything from nails to electric light bulbs—although why it should hold either of those things no one who has never moved would ever be able to say. A most efficient garment.

Cherie brought Andy in with almost low animal cunning because if there's anything that could make him forget Aunt Em's riches it's the fact that she has no one to wield a hammer or screw driver. And Cherie—in a dress with tucked chevron insets and a circular skirt—is completely aware of that fact.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland, M.D.
U.S. Senator from New York

WHY GOSPEL OF HEALTH IS PREACHED DAILY

EVERY day a lot of "health letters" come to my desk. Many persons write—some to ask advice, others to make suggestions, and some to criticize. Every letter is a welcome one.

It is interesting to contrast the conflicting ideas of what should and should not be taught regarding health. Some perfectly conscientious persons think we should laugh at disease and never talk about it.

DR. COPELAND

That is a rational position for a physically normal person to take. If you are perfectly nourished, have a full set of splendid teeth, a strong heart and nerves of steel, if you sleep soundly every night, never dream and can eat anything that does not bite you first—if you are blessed this way, I can't blame you for thinking we should laugh at disease.

Unfortunately, however, health is rarely thrust upon us. Ordinarily we must acquire it.

How many potatoes of cooking size would you raise if you never hoed your garden? Leaving the weeds to take their own course, how long would it take to choke out a strawberry bed?

Ill health and shattered prospects are too often the result of neglect. We do not preach health to make you self-conscious. We do it in order that you will guard your precious life by getting rid of habits and practices which will undermine vitality.

Health is the thing we have in mind. We preach the gospel of how to keep well. Our interest in disease is like that of the river pilot in the stones and sandbars in the channel. He wants to know where and what the dangers are in order that he may avoid them. By knowing what happens as a result of neglect, there will be greater incentive to avoid disease, on the one hand, and intelligent and successful efforts to get rid of it, if it has been acquired.

A common cold, for instance, is not regarded by many as a serious ailment and well worth while to avoid. "It will wear itself out" is a foolish sort of philosophy. The result of such a way of dealing with the cold is to have it run into bronchitis, or something even more serious.

If you learn that bronchitis may be the result of neglect you will not regard the common cold with the complaisance you do at present. No longer will you laugh at it as an affliction of small consequence.

Sneezing, roughness of the throat, hoarseness and slight cough may be noticed before the real symptoms of bronchitis appear. A nasal cold may have been present for some days before the bronchial involvement makes itself noticed.

You should know that crowded rooms, poor ventilation, overeating, neglect of the bowels and loss of sleep may be followed by a cold. You should know that the cold may be the beginning of an attack of bronchitis. By having this knowledge and actually applying it you will avoid bronchitis and other dangerous diseases. It pays to know these things.

Tomato Sauce

This sauce is for spaghetti or for breaded chops. Take a large can of tomatoes and put in a stewpan with a few stalks of celery, two large onions chopped, a bud of garlic, a half bay-leaf and a saltspoonful of curry powder. Boil gently for 20 minutes. Strain and add a large tablespoonful of butter, pepper, salt, a tablespoonful of sugar and a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce. Thicken with a white roux, then strain again. Have ready two chicken livers boiled until tender, then chopped and add them to the sauce.

Ritzy Rosey

Concealed in Ritzy Rosey's fashionably small black broadtail muff, with the flower at one end, is a wee pocket which holds beauty aids and a hanky. Jin would probably appreciate it more if the pocket were large enough to hold a dog biscuit or two.

For the Lovelorn

By ELEANOR GALE

Toppy

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a girl of 16. Seeing your column in the paper, I have come to ask you to voice your opinions on me. I am a blonde, and a good mixer as everyone seems to like me. I dance, swim, hold the girls' championship in tennis of my town, hold highest honors in my class and do everything else there is to do. I think I can easily say I am the most popular girl of the younger generation of our town. I don't know whether this is because I have more things or not. Dad gave me a roadster for my birthday a month ago, and I also have a riding horse. I thought possibly that the crowd liked my possessions, too, but grown-ups often tell my parents that I am some "kid." This winter I played around with a boy who was entirely out of my class (as my parents would look at it). The boy is 18 and I thought that it was a real crush. But my only objection to him —or could it have been the attraction—was that he was considered fast. To me it seemed that he was just an overgrown boy who was not really that kind at heart. It did not mean anything to him, I believe, and I think he is just that kind because his brothers are. Of course we petted. At Easter we broke and he started to drink more than was good for him. He has not yet had any real crushes, and although I have played around with others he always holds most of my thoughts. Even when another boy friend kisses me, although I am lost in a little thrill for a second, I always come back and it reminds me of the first boy's kisses. Every time I think of him something inside of me seems to thrill and I have a feeling as though I could love the whole world. Now, Miss Gale, I don't know whether to go back to him or not. He would be willing to, I know, but I don't want to pull myself lower, and going back to him would do that to me. He is still as bad as he was if not worse, and he pulls some pretty bad things. Please, Miss Gale, what shall I do?

TOPPY.

He doesn't seem to be worth while at all, my dear. You are too young to be thinking you are in love, so if you try to forget him you will find it not so difficult after a time.

Guessing Gertie

DEAR MISS GALE:

I read your wonderful columns every night, and think it is a great help to our perplexing problems. Do you believe a fellow can marry a girl he does not love? If a girl is not permitted to keep company, if the fellow really loves her, will he give her up? I am past 17, good-looking and rather popular. I agree with you on all subjects. Wishing you a load of wishes fond and true, I remain,

GUESSING GERTIE.

Men have been known to marry girls they do not love, but not very often. The reason is usually a mercenary one. If a boy really likes a girl, her being unable to go out with him will not change him.

Bebe

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have come to you about the same thing as before and for advice. I go with a fellow who is 18 and I am one year younger than he is, and I love him dearly and he says he loves me, but we can't get along. He lives a short distance from me and when he comes over we always have an argument. But, Miss Gale, I have a reason for arguing and fighting with him. This is my reason: He never keeps his dates. Do you think I should drop him? But I love him dearly. And another thing: wherever we go he always holds my hand and always gives me a good-night kiss. Do you think I should let him do this?

Thanking you for the time and space and hoping to see this in print, I remain,

BEBE.

No, a boy who doesn't keep his word is not worth while, my dear, so why bother with him? If he really likes you, you dropping him may bring him to his senses concerning matters of honesty. Don't let him make love to you.

Cubby

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been reading your advice regularly.

I am 18 years old and am engaged to a boy 21. He is very handsome and popular. We have been engaged for a month and have been going with each other for nearly two years. I have been on my vacation and found out from my sister and girl friends that he has been going with other girls. Now, dear Miss Gale, I would like your advice as to whether I should break our engagement or not. I am in love with him very much. Hoping to see this in print and your advice.

Sincerely yours,
CUBBY.

Ask him about it, and if he wishes to go out with other girls, then you had better break the engagement. You are very young to be considering marriage, anyway.

CHILLY SAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—Dave Bancroft has been out of the lineup for some time, and if he is missing today the Pirates will not be sorry for his absence, except that the Buccos have a natural sympathy for Banny if he is unfit for play. There is one fellow who kills off Pirate base hits with such ease that it is aggravating.

BANNY gets the jump on the ball and as a result he is in front of drives that would be blows on many shortstops. Straightaway batters like Pooch Barnhart are regular victims of the activities of the little infielder, who, while not as fleet of foot as some of his competitors, is able to get his hands on balls that would escape fleeter workmen.

JOE HARRIS is a dissenter from the general view on Bancroft. Joe admits he is a great shortstop, but, according to Harris, Bancroft often tips off the kind of a ball served by moving from his position too quickly. And when Joe gives his views he generally receives an attentive audience.

SOCKO McCAREY, clubhouse boy for the visiting teams at Forbes Field, is making the present jaunt with the pirates. The players like to see Socko around, so much that when his savings gave out in New York a collection was started by the athletes to take him to Boston and Philadelphia. Socko came over to New York with the intention of seeing the Pirates through in Gotham and in the Flatbush. Being quite a baseball player, he works out with the club and when the game starts he acts as cheer leader. He went over so big in Brooklyn that Lee Meadows started a fund to keep the lad with the team for the remainder of the trip.

NEWS being somewhat scarce, Socko promised to help out the scribes on the way up from New Haven yesterday. Asked if he wished to be quoted as to the intentions of the Pirates in Boston he gave out the following statement:

"Well you can say for me that I'm sorry, but we gotta knock h--l out of those braves in that five-game series."

LABARBA BEATS VACCA AND ENDS RING CAREER

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 24.—(UP.)—In a fitting ending for his fistic career, Fidel LaBarba, flyweight champion of the world, decisively defeated Johnny Vacca, Boston organ grinder, in 10 rounds here last night.

The victory, which will probably be his last, as he is voluntarily retiring from the ring to enter Stanford University in the fall, is the first LaBarba has scored against Vacca in three fights.

The flyweight champion had lost but two decisions, both in non-title goes. Vacca was the victor in both instances.

Universal Is Beaten

By TOM BIRKS.

TAKING advantage of some loose baseball on the part of the Universal nine, the Tri-Boro Travelers qualified for the final of the Class A elimination against the New Eagle club Saturday by defeating the cement workers, 4 to 1, at Edgar Thomson Field, Braddock, last evening.

It was pitiful to watch the team that has been classed as the logical outfit to represent Pittsburgh in the National Baseball Federation series at Detroit next month, especially in that second inning, when the Elder combination looked just like rank juniors.

Not that the Travelers did not deserve to win. The Braddock nine was in there fighting all the time, and if the team did have breaks, it made them. On the other hand Universal looked like a beaten club after that terrible second inning.

It was tough on Westin. The big Turtle Creek boy pitched a wonderful game, allowing the Travelers three hits. But his support was ragged. By a sad chance of fate Westin figured in one of the plays that set the stage for the Tri-Boro victory. Sabol had singled in the second frame, and McKeag for some reason threw wild, Sabol going to second. Herrington tried to advance the runner to third, popped up the ball, Westin and Clark collided and dropped the pill. Then Deer wobbled with two misplays, and three runs scored.

All this time Rosemyer was getting into trouble through wildness, but showed wonderful ability in the pinches and fast work by his mates cleared off the sacks. Universal had a real chance to win the game in the sixth. Jellison and Westin were on when Reed smashed a liner at short, but Cook speared the ball for a double play. That settled the game. Rosemyer breezed his way through.

The Universal team has protested the victory, charging that Rosemyer had played a game with a member of the Allegheny County League. The score:

MANY LOCAL FANS TO ATTEND FIGHT

Many prominent Pittsburghers have taken reservations on the Motor Square special for the battle between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship in Chicago on September 22. The special train, besides furnishing the fans with 140 seats to the fight will serve as the hotel quarters for the local boxing enthusiasts. The train will leave Pittsburgh two days before the battle takes place to allow the fans to take in the sights in the windy city. John McGarvey is handling the reservations for the special train.

Dempsey to Shoot for Body

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

JACK DEMPSEY is going to use the same tactics in his bout with Gene Tunney in Chicago next month that he employed so successfully in the first half of his "comeback" campaign, against Jack Sharkey recently.

In other words, he is going to shoot for the body.

He is going to crowd Tunney from the first bell, or try to, at any rate, in the hope of wearing and slowing down his clever, fast-moving opponent and forcing him to drop his guard to protect his body, whereupon he hopes to land a crusher on the chin.

This is the only battle plan open to Dempsey, who lacks his former speed and shiftiness, and, having succeeded with this program against the youthful and confident Sharkey, is bound to try it again. He will find Tunney a harder man to reach by any sort of sharp-shooting or concentrating on the body zone, for Gene will not come in to close quarters to trade punches, as Sharkey so foolishly did. Rather, Tunney will be moving about the ring, blocking, countering and trying to keep Dempsey back on his heels and at arm's length the entire distance, as he did in Philadelphia. If he succeeds, he will be certain of defending his title, for at boxing he easily figures to outpoint Dempsey again in 10 rounds. As he never has been noted for his aggressiveness, it is unlikely that Gene will drop his usual cautiousness on this occasion.

On their merits as they stand today, Tunney looks like a sure pop to repeat, but Dempsey, still retaining his great courage, will be in there trying to knock the dope-bucket kicking, and through the use of the same body-pounding tactics he followed in winning from Sharkey, rather than by essaying his old style of weaving and bobbing and depending mainly on a hard-hooking left to the head and body.

Washington Net Star Plays With Both Hands

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Tennis opponents of Miss Corrine Frazer, of Washington, D. C., can't play to her backhand, because she hasn't any. Miss Frazer is ambidexterous. The Washington courtette caused something of a sensation in the national tournament in progress here by shifting her racquet from one hand to the other during her match here.

KENNERDALL, RACING FIGURE, NEAR DEATH

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 24.—Richard Kennerdall, until a year ago chairman of the contest board, American Automobile Association, and attendant at all the leading auto races of the country, is believed near death at his home here. Kennerdall has been ill for a week. Members of his household admitted his condition is critical. Kennerdall is 64 years of age, and is well known in automobile circles.

WEISSMULLER LEADS SWIM QUALIFIERS

HONOLULU, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—John Weismuller, of the Illinois Athletic Club, led six entrants who qualified last night in the 100-meter free style club event of the outdoor senior men's swimming championship of the National Amateur Athletic Union. The swim was held at the tank of the War Memorial natatorium, where the championship tournament starts officially tonight.

In addition to Weissmuller, whose time for the distance was 58 1-5 seconds, those who qualified are: First heat, Tokuhei Sata, of Meiji University, Japan; second heat, Katsuo Takaishi, Waseda University, Japan, and Walter Spence, Brooklyn Y. M. C. A.; third heat, George Kojak, Boys' Club, New York, and Johnny Woods, unattached.

ANSWER TO QUERY

L. T. Sickles—Dempsey was not knocked down in his bout with Carpentier. He was badly shaken by a righthand punch to the jaw, but did not go down.

SOCCER

By TOM BIRKS

ON FRIDAY evening at Burdine the Chartiers Valley League will get together for its second session of the season. There is plenty of work ahead of the Chartiers Valley Circuit before the season opens. Mike Quinn again is leading the junior loop.

Now that the Keystone League is out of the way, there is every reason to feel that the Chartiers Valley loop should play to wonderful crowds. All of the big crowds have a tendency to make the trip down the Panhandle district for an afternoon's pleasure.

The West Penn Football Association held its monthly session last evening at the president's office. Practically all of the discontent of last season has passed on and harmony reigns.

The Scottish Clan League will hold a session at the Hotel Henry this evening. President Tom Clark requests all representatives be on hand. The status of the loop for this season may be decided.

With other organizations starting, there has been a feeling that the clan loop will make a change this season. While the loop has not decided to organize at any special meeting, none of its members has joined any other organization.

Sunday's soccer should make good reading. At that time it may be possible to say where the stars of the district have lined up. Although a number of managers have worked hard to get good clubs, it is an even bet that some aggregations will be found representing Western Pennsylvania in the national amateur and open competitions.

Plenty of pre-season action will be staged Sunday, a number of the clubs advertising exhibition games for that day. Pittsburgh teams will stage rehearsals Saturday, and these games should permit a line on the club's personnel.

The Monongahela loop again is getting ready for another season. Mather, as junior champ, is leading the way. When Donora, Gallatin and Mather applied for contracts it was seen a league was being formed.

The West Penn Referees' Association will hold a special meeting at the Hotel Henry Saturday evening. The referees are going to have plenty of work this year.

Managers should get their entries in for the national open challenge cup without delay. Last season Balsarini missed the tourney, his entry being one day late. This season the amateur champions are going to make an effort to win the open.

GRID CALL ISSUED

BERKELEY, Cal., Aug. 24.—(INS.)—University of California has begun whipping its 1927 football machine into shape. First practice of the season was held yesterday with eight members of the 1926 squad in attendance. Scores of others reported for tryout duty. Paul Perrin, Dick Blewett, Don Koch, Red Gil, Bert Schwarts and Harold Brockenridge, all stars of last year's team, were among those who answered the gridiron roll call.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 24, 1927 — TWENTY-ONE

THROUGH the SPORTLENS by HAVEY BOYLE

TO PARAPHRASE an old one, all play and no work makes Jack a dull boy. This is prompted by the current amateur golf championship being staged in Minneapolis by the best amateurs of the nation. There you see a group of men and boys who started out to enjoy golf as a game and now come upon a situation, a striving for national titular honors, which has changed their play into work of the most harrowing kind.

HAVEY BOYLE.

ASK noted experts on sport what they consider the hardest test of sporting skill, the greatest drain on a man's physical and mental resources, and more than a few will tell you that golf takes more out of a man than any other sport. They deem it more difficult even than boxing. Yet in Minneapolis this week are many men and boys who have consciously and freely made their game of pleasure into hard work.

PRIOR to the meeting in Minneapolis, the boys now in the tournament groomed themselves for the great test. They fasted and prayed and practised. They went through conditioning processes not entirely dissimilar to those gone through by professional athletes playing for great stakes. Since, however, they take on such a burden willingly there must be a compensating factor about the whole thing. The acclaim the ride on admirers' shoulders which always is given the winner, and the distinction accruing from the amateur title must be considered a commensurate return for the mental and physical strain necessary for its attainment.

HAUNTING a contestant perhaps for the rest of his natural life may be the fact that in one of many drives or many putts he failed to put enough power into the arm or wrist, thereby losing a chance for national honors. Many sleepless nights may follow in the wake of the tournament.

Yet, once before they became expert these men and boys in the national amateur probably got great fun out of a round of golf. But they have become so expert now that it has grown to be a very serious affair, an affair to which all other events of life have been subordinated. It is a strange twist, for certain.

IT IS not only the experts, of course, who turn their play into a work that brings about much mental confusion and disorder. Even those who are only fair worry and fret about their game, and some even reach the point where the original plan to gain health and well-being through the medium of the game has been made abortive by too serious consideration of the score. Thus, anyone who ever has been on a course can point out the fellow who goes wild over a bad shot, breaking clubs, refusing to speak to companions, and tempted, beyond all doubt, to go home and give the wife that long-deferred beating.

THUS the beneficial influences of the life-giving sun, the soft yield of the carpet-like turf which brings a vague exhilaration, and the healthful auspices of fresh air often are made negative by a mental attitude which comes from a bad stroke, a putt too short, or one too long.

Lately, we saw a man who had spent an entire afternoon on the links, walk off the last green disconsolate, sad, distressed. His score, perhaps, was five higher than normal. This had ruined his whole day. His head was resting almost on his chest and about him was the air of a tragedian thinking dark thoughts.

ONCE upon a time we played a little golf, but for the good of our soul and for the sake of our self-respect we gave it up. There was no fun to it at all. Kind friends wanted to make of us a Robert Jones or a Mister Hagen. Instead of allowing us to hit the ball the best we could with our limited ability we were told how the great men of the game stood, held their heads, moved their wrists, bent their knees, used the back stroke, and how they followed through.

SOMEONE teaching us to write, of course, would not dally with the idea that ever we should be able to imitate a Shakespeare, a Milton, a Vergil, a Dante, yet curiously in teaching us golf our friends foolishly imagined that a fifth-rate dub might make the gestures of the golf celebrities of all time. Our case is not an exception. Daily, poor fellows who would have much fun out of hooking, slicing, missing, flubbing, in the beneficial sunshine and fresh air are given dark looks when by a whisked they fail to hit the ball in the only fashion approved by the current authority.

THE game's the thing, and not the score, but this has been lost sight of in a maze of admonitions, solemn warnings, and exhortations handed out by the professionals of the game. A man may have a sizable amount of self-respect, at an age beyond 30, he begins learning something new. Then if he listens to his long list of mistakes pointed out to him by a man who corrected his own mistakes at an early age he soon either loses his self-respect and admits superiority abjectly or he takes the game and throws it into the discard of unattainable things.

IF this system simply spoiled a game for those who might enjoy it, although always remaining dubs, there might not come sound complaint, but as a matter of fact even the good ones do not escape

LIONS ALSO ELIMINATE ATHLETES' REWARDS

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Total abolition of athletic scholarships after October 1, next, and immediate abandonment of all forms of football and other scouting has been finally decided upon by the newly organized board of control of athletics of Penn State College.

Such action had been urged for some time past by a section of the alumni and athletic authorities, but there was much doubt, especially in the student body, that such sweeping action would be taken. At a recent organization meeting of the new and enlarged athletic board the matter came up and final approval came from members today.

The board adopted the following resolution:

"After October 1, 1927, no new athletic scholarship commitments shall be made. Existing scholarships shall be honored as long as present holders are eligible to hold them, but vacancies which may occur shall not be filled. Nothing in this action, however, shall debar members of athletic teams from competing for the college academic scholarships open to all students or from accepting loans from the general college loan funds open to all students.

"In the plate of a policy of granting scholarships to members of athletic teams, an energetic effort shall be made to utilize and properly train all of the latent athletic ability in the general student body, and additions to the coaching staff and to athletic equipment shall immediately be made to provide training and instruction for larger squads in the major sports."

GOVERNOR APPROVES.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The action of the Pennsylvania State College authorities in abolishing athletic scholarships has the approval of Gov. John S. Fisher.

Informed that this action had been taken today, the Governor said:

"I am opposed generally to the principle of offering inducements to students in order to secure athletic service. It savors too much of bartering and is destructive of the spirit of sport."

Gov. Fisher was a trustee of the college at the time of his election as Governor.

PITT WON'T SCOUT STATE.

University of Pittsburgh sports officials, when informed today that Penn State had decided to abandon scouting in all branches of athletics, said that State probably would be crossed from the list of teams Panther gridiron scouts are to study this fall. The decision, however, is not official, as Coach Jock Sutherland, who has the final word in such matters is visiting in the east and will not return to Pittsburgh until the latter part of the week.

Penn State's decision to abolish the practice of scouting rival athletic teams occasioned no great surprise in local collegiate sports circles. First introduced by the major colleges in the east, the abolition of sports scouting has struck a popular chord throughout the country. West Virginia, entering a non-scouting pact with Missouri about a month ago, was first to bring the scouting ban into the Tri-State district. The Mountaineers plan to abolish scouting altogether next season.

DEMPSEY ORDERS HIS RING LOWERED

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—Mindful of the time he was knocked through the ropes by Luis Firpo, Jack Dempsey has ordered his practice ring at Lincoln Fields, where he is training for his "comeback" battle with Gene Tunney, lowered to within one foot of the ground. The resined floor is now three feet above terra firma.

Jack intends to take no chances on injuring himself. While he does not fear possibility that any of his sparring mates will encore the feat of Firpo, he reasons there always is a chance of slipping through the ropes. He therefore regards the elevated ring a serious menace to his physical well-being.

Further scrutiny of the squared arena revealed that neither the posts nor the sharp edges were padded. Jack also ordered these taken care of.

NET MOGULS TO SEND LOTT AND DOEG ABROAD

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago; John Doeg, of Santa Monica, Cal.; John Van Ryn and Frank X. Shields, of New York, promising youngsters who have distinguished themselves in tennis during this season, will be sent abroad by the United States Lawn Tennis Association early in the spring.

They will be accompanied by four older players of national reputation. These men have not yet been named, and, in fact, no official announcement has been made.

It is highly improbable that either William T. Tilden or Francis T. Hunter, who made the trip this spring, will make it again.

James J. Long is now convalescing from his illness and soon will be able to resume writing his popular Sports Comment column for the Sun-Telegraph. Watch for the resumption of this daily and Sunday feature.

SPEAKING OF :-: SPECTACLES :-: THAT ARE SPECTACLES!

LEE MEADOWS. CARMEN HILL.

How about these two bespectacled birds and their pitching performances? They are two of the main reasons why the Pirates are right in the thick of the fight for the National League pennant. Meadows has won 16 games and lost only 5, while Hill has a record to date of 18 won and 8 lost. There was a time when bespectacled players were persona non grata in big-time baseball, but not now. In addition to these two, others in the major leagues include Pitcher Norman Plitt of the Dodgers, Infielder George Topworer of the Cardinals and Pitcher Dan McFayden of the Red Sox.

TAD'S TIDBITS

YOU can't keep them down, that's all. Old Tommy Burns, former holder of the heavyweight title, is at present in Belgium, and under his wing he has the champion heavyweight of that country. Today we print a note which he sent the writer. It follows:

ANTWERP, Belgium.

Dear Tad:

I have just signed up this Belgian champion, J. Humbeeck, for nine years. He is 23 years of age, stands 6 feet tall and in condition weighs 185 pounds. He is a real fighter, make no mistake. In fact, he beat Paulino in Spain two years ago, but the best he got was a draw decision. I intend bringing him to America about October and fighting him up to the topnotchers.

Best regards,
TOMMY BURNS.

JACK McAULIFFE HUNTING PROSPECTS.

OUR old ex-champ lightweight, who was never defeated with either bare knuckles or gloves, Jack McAuliffe, is up in Maine these days hunting a heavy. Jack told one of the sport scribes up there his dope. It follows:

"We haven't had a real Yankee Doodle Dandy Champion of America or of the world since the days of Tom Hyer, who was a dyed-in-the-wool Yankee. That was over 100 years ago. Now, these wood choppers and farmers coming over here for the million-dollar purses might be O. K., but it is up to us to get a real Yankee from Way-Down East or a wood chopper from the forest of Maine who has the pluck and strength to compete with and beat all these farmers and bring back the championship to an American.

"Young men of Maine are hired from three to nine months to go into the woods and, through their clean living, there is no doubt that we may find a champion or champion material. While on our visit to the Maine woods, we will establish boxing classes and see if we cannot pick up a corn-fed champion from the Pine-Tree State, i. e., Maine.

"You will hear of my success as we go along. Our plan will be to help an American first to get to the top, as the Irish are too busy to fight just now, only among themselves."

NOW, YOU TELL ONE.

ED BAECHT reported to the Phillies last year, an unsophisticated farmer boy from Southern Illinois. He had the build and he had the speed in his pitching arm. He looked like an excellent prospect.

Baecht started one of the early games, his big league debut, and did well. However, the opposing pitcher also did well, and when the Phillies came to bat in the seventh inning the score was tied. It was Baecht's turn to bat and a pinch hitter was sent up.

At the end of the inning, Baecht picked up his glove and started for the box. The relief pitcher also started for the box. There was a spectacle of two pitchers going to the mound together. Baecht got there first.

"What do you think you're going to do?" asked the relief.

"I'm going to pitch. What'd you think I was goin' to do—fish?"

"Well, you ain't going to pitch. I'm the pitcher."

"Listen, busher. You can't pull that up here. Didn't a guy bat for you, and when a guy bats for you you're through for the game. That's the rules."

"It don't make no difference about the rules. When I start pitchin' I finish pitchin', and no other guy is goin' to butt in."

It required Art Fletchers advice to convince Baecht that he could not continue pitching.

BUC OPENERS IN BOSTON POSTPONED

By CHARLES J. DOYLE, Staff Correspondent.

BOSTON, Aug. 24.—The Pirates, in a fighting mood and anxious to narrow the already reduced gap between them and the Chicago Cubs for the lead in the National League, ran into their third straight day of rest here today, when rain washed out both ends of a scheduled doubleheader with the Braves, the same Braves, incidentally, who handed the Cubs such a shellacking in their recent series here.

The Pirates concluded their Brooklyn series on Sunday. Monday was an off day and rain prevented an exhibition game at New Haven yesterday.

As a result of today's postponement, two double-headers face the Buccos in the local series, one tomorrow and the other Saturday, with a single game in between. The pitchers have had a good rest, however, and Bushmen are well prepared for the siege.

Every man on the Pirate team feels that he has a bone to pick with the Braves. The three straight defeats handed the Freebooters by the tribe in Pittsburgh a few weeks ago has left a sore spot that will not be soothed until the Pirates land a few positive socks in the ribs of the Braves, so to speak.

Manager Bush announced that Lee Meadows and Remy Kremer would receive the slab assignments for tomorrow. With these two aces ready, the Pirates naturally felt in a hopeful frame of mind regarding the double-header. Moreover, Bush will have several other star shatpshooters in readiness for the three remaining contests.

NO LINEUP CHANGES.

Donie does not contemplate any big change in his battle array. That means that Joe Harris will remain on first with George Grantham at second. Clyde Barnhart says his injured leg feels O. K. again and he will prevail in left field.

Only two and one-half games separates the Pirates from the Cubs as this is written. McCarthy's club was somewhat crestfallen last night as it headed for Philadelphia. Joe's warriors were not going around with their heads down, but they realized they were dealt a heavy blow as they lingered in Boston.

ROBINS RELEASE JESS BARNES

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Jess Barnes, veteran right-handed pitcher, was released today by the Brooklyn Nationals. As a 10-year man he received his unconditional release. He has signed with the Toledo club of the American Association for the rest of the season.

Barnes was purchased from Boston in 1925 in a deal which also sent Andy High, infielder, to the Braves. Barnes was a star with the New York Giants before going to Boston.

Barnes' release follows reports of disagreements between him and the Brooklyn manager, Wilbert Robinson. Latest pitching records show the veteran around the bottom of the National League list. He has won two and lost 10 games.

DENIAL MADE MORGAN WILL ATTEND FIGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The office of J. P. Morgan & Co. today denied a report from Chicago that Mr. Morgan had ordered tickets or would attend the Dempsey-Tunney fight there, saying he never attended boxing bouts. He is at present abroad and will not return before the fight.

The Inside Story of DEMPSEY'S COMEBACK

By Leo P. Flynn, Manager and Trainer of the former heavyweight Champion

(COPYRIGHT, 1927, BY UNIVERSAL SERVICE)

CHAPTER V.

NOW we have arrived at that period in the training of Jack Dempsey which I can best explain by answering some of the complaints made against me by the newspaper men. Some of them think I gave them a few bum steers at Saratoga.

They were the ones that fibbed, not me. They made a number of assertions about Dempsey that reacted to our advantage and I did not feel it was up to me to enlighten them. They had not bothered to ask for my side of their stories first, so I did not imagine they would be interested in what I had to say afterward.

Some of them said that Dempsey was all in. That was their opinion, and they were privileged to express it. Why should I take issue with them? Besides, I knew Sharkey would eat it up.

Others declared the workouts had proved Dempsey's speed was gone. They overlooked the fact that he was boxing on a four-inch felt pad, and none of them happened to notice that he was wearing unusually heavy shoes. I figured the transition to a fast ring and light shoes on the night of the fight would make Jack feel like a race horse, and it did.

I knew Sharkey was gulping down every rap he read. Why should I have gone out of my way to expound my theories?

THOSE "SECRET WORKOUTS."

A few of the boys insisted we were holding secret workouts, especially during the last few days. The only workouts we were holding were around a card table, but I know that the secret workout business helped to make Sharkey overconfident. He thought we were worried.

The night before the fight, one of the volunteer investigators discovered that Dempsey had injured his left arm. He didn't bother to question me, and I knew the story would please Sharkey. I let it go at that.

I did not spread any misinforma-

MRS. LANGFITT COPS TOURNEY

By VERNON A. SWARTSPAGER.

Mrs. Langfitt captured the 18-hole medal play one-day women's tournament at the Highland Country Club, under the auspices of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania yesterday. She had a net score of 83. Her gross count also was low for the day, 95. Mrs. H. M. Corbett was second with a net 85.

Mrs. Edna McKee Houston had the longest single drive to win one of the long driving prizes, while Mrs. Langfitt scored the best three average drives.

Mrs. B. W. Boss, chairman of the women's golf committee at Highland, hostess to the large crowd of linkswomen, captured the honors in the putting contest. The leaders' scores:

Mrs. Langfitt, 98-12-83; Mrs. H. M. Corbett, 98-12-85; Mrs. T. C. Allison, 108-14-94; Mrs. Burgoyne, 122-21-80; Mrs. H. L. Hibbard, 118-18-100; Mrs. W. C. Risher, 116-19-97.

HOTELMEN HOLD TOURNEY.

The Hotel, Club and Restaurant Golf Association held one of its bi-monthly tournaments at the New Castle Field Club yesterday. A large crowd turned out. Following the golf play, the members gathered about the festive board for a delicious repast and entertainment.

FOWNES LEADS LOCALS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 24.—Not a Pittsburgher qualified in the national amateur championship being played at the Minikahda Country Club here in the 36-hole grind. William C. Fownes, Jr., president of the U. S. G. A. and national champion in 1910, led the Steel City squad's invasion by scoring an 81 yesterday for a total of 160. Samuel M. Parks, Jr., of Highland, 18-year-old former West Penn junior champion, ranked second with his 162; Allison R. Maxwell, of Oakmont, was third with 163; Carl F. Kauffmann, of Schenley Park, national public links champion, was fourth with 164; Knox M. Young, Jr., of Highland, 17-year-old star, was next with 167; Fred Brand, Jr., of Hannastown, West Penn amateur and junior champion, had 171, and Larry Semans, of Nemacolin, 173.

Fownes' record is little hurt by the fact that he failed to qualify this year. It was his twenty-third national amateur title attempt, and in all of those competitions, he has not played in the elimination rounds only three times. He failed in 1902 and 1924 as well as this year.

Fownes led the Pittsburgh players from the beginning, his first 79 being the best of the sextet.

Fownes' card yesterday:

In ..... 4 5 5 5 6 4 5 5—41—81—79—160

A. R. Maxwell's card:

MINIKAHDA CLUB, Minneapolic, Aug. 24.—(UP.)—George Von Elm, titleholder was the first of the favorites to come safely through the first round of match play in the national amateur championship. He defeated John McKinley, Jr., of the Beverly Country Club, Chicago, today, 3 up and 2 to play.

The champion finally got his tee shots under control after two difficult days and had little difficulty in getting an early lead over the Chicagoan and maintaining it.

Two up at the turn which he reached in 37, Von Elm ended the match on the sixteenth green.

Roland Mackenzie, Washington, defeated George Thomas, Chicago, in 1 holes.

Jimmy Johnston gained a handy lead of 3 up on Dick Jones, by the time they got half way home, scoring a fair 39 to the New Yorker's 42. Neither got a birdie and both putted poorly. Famous as a long driver, Johnston was frequently outdistanced by the easterner.

Ouimet, scoring a sub-par 34 on the out nine, got a lead of 3 up over Billy Sitz, who took 38.

Don Carrick, Canadian champion, won the second hole with a birdie, and the third in par to be two up over Art Sweet, of Chicago.

BOBBY JONES HELD EVEN.

Bobby Jones met a tartar in McCarthy, the young New Yorker, who after being two down in three holes took advantage of the Atlantan's mistakes on the next two holes, halving the fourth in six and winning the fifth with a birdie and taking the short sixth with a deuce to square the match.

Rudy Knepper, who claims both Sioux City, Ia., and Chicago as his home, was two up on Harry Legg, Minikhada, at the turn. He had a par 35 for the outward round.

Chick Evans, Chicago, stymied, Ellsworth Augustus, Cleveland, on the ninth green to square the count for the outward nine.

Eddie Held was three up on Dexter Cummings by the time they reached the Sixth, although the leader was two above par.

Finlay led Willing 3 up at the turn, approaching a 37 to the Oregonian's 40. Humans playing exact par on each of the first six holes had the other Portland player, Dolph, 4 down.

Dave Martin was 3 up on Howard Walton at the turn, going out in a good 37 to the Chicagoan's 40. Paul Haviland of New York was even with Arthur Yates of Rochester at the sixth.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

No Raise in C. R. I. Dividend.

There was some disappointment over the fact that Rock Island directors declared only the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 at their meeting today. The steady advance in the stock over that past few months convinced many traders that higher dividends were in store for stockholders and the general opinion was that the rate would be advanced at this meeting. Johns Manville Scarce.

Sees Fair Copper Market.

D. C. Jackling, president of Utah Copper Company, expressed satisfaction with condition of the copper market. "While price of copper is not as high as we naturally would like it to be, quotations are higher than they were this spring and are following a generally upward trend," he said. Mr. Jackling expressed the opinion that American copper producers had little to fear from African copper mines, at least for some time to come. Africa, however, he says, is potentially the greatest copper producing country in the world.

'SWEET ADELINE' --BY SCHWAB

EBENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 24.—Charles M. Schwab appeared in the role of a vocalist last night at a testimonial dinner given in his honor by Cambria county citizens at the Ebensburg fair grounds.

The steel king sang "close harmony" in a sextet composed of Justice John W. Kephart, of the State Supreme Court; Judge John E. Evans, of the Cambria County Court, and well-known local singers. Mr. Schwab sang two numbers and enjoyed the singing as much as the audience of more than 1,000 persons enjoyed the entertainment. He was the principal speaker of the evening.

SOMERSET, Pa., Aug. 24.—Arrested by county officers for the alleged theft of tools from a mine at Markleton, Ira Noon, 18, and Roy Knopsnyder, 21, both of Markleton, confessed to having committed a series of robberies on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Some of the loot was found hidden in the Laurel Mountains near here. The boys were brought to the county jail.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Better weather conditions in Canada and an easier tone at Winnipeg were reflected in the wheat market here today during early dealings. Support was only fair and the market eased off after the opening. Starting unchanged to ½c down, wheat later declined a little more. Corn was slightly easier at the start on failure of predicted frost to materialize. Opening unchanged to ⅝c down, corn subsequently suffered a further drop. Oats showed independent strength and provisions were firm.

More favorable weather conditions in the Canadian northwest has acted as an impetus to harvesting, which had become general in many sections. With about 10 days of good weather crop will be larger than last year, regardless of frost, rust and other drawbacks, according to one authority. This is especially true in the Saskatchewan district, where it is said that wheat has an extra heavy stand, although some fields in the northern section have suffered from frost.

Advices regarding the three prairie provinces were also more encouraging. After deducting present indications of frost damage, it was said the yield will be 372,000,000. From Alberta came word that wheat is in perfect condition, the crop in southern Alberta being the best in years.

Prospects for corn, especially east of the Mississippi river, appear to be growing worse rather than better, according to word from an expert in that territory. He said that with continued cool weather, it is becoming apparent that frosts on average dates will do an immense amount of damage.

At noon wheat was 1⅛c to 1⅜c down, corn ⅝c to 1c off, oats ⅛c to ⅝c lower and provisions firm.

MANY ISSUES SCORE NEW HIGHS

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The stock market displayed a firm undertone today in the face of unfavorable trade news and renewed weakness of the oil shares. Pools succeeded in lifting about a score of specialties to new high prices, but hesitancy developed in United States Steel common, General Motors and some of the other recent leaders. Trading was moderately heavy in volume, although little public interest was apparent at the leading commission houses.

The weekly steel trade reviews report little change in production and demand, with prices holding fairly steady. United States Steel common ran into considerable profit-taking around 140, but offerings generally were well absorbed. Bethlehem, which is expected to resume dividends within the next few months, attained another new high record.

Establishment of a new high record by Baldwin was accompanied by unconfirmed reports that Arthur E. Cutten, of Chicago, and two representatives of the Fisher brothers of Detroit would be elected to the board of directors at tomorrow's meeting.

In the motor group, Packard and Nash were lifted to new tops on what appeared to be pool buying. Coppers continued to reflect the improvement in that industry, with Utah, Magma and Nevada in new high ground. Public utilities also responded to reports of steadily expanding earnings, with Electric Power and Light and Commonwealth Power, both at new peaks, in the forefront of the advance.

Rails held up well in the face of disappointing July earnings statements and August traffic reports. Strength of some of the seasoned dividend payers such as Atchison, "Nickel Plate" and Delaware and Hudson was believed to be due, in part, to accumulation by investment trusts.

Oils and a handful of specialties were the only shares of consequence that failed to make headway during the morning. Pan-American common went down to 47¼ and the "B" shares to 48, the lowest since 1924. Extensive accumulation of Nash motors lifted it 3 points to 81½, the highest since the declaration last year of the 300 per cent stock dividend. Railroads disregarded the current unfavorable character of the July returns and moved up briskly, especially Atchison and the Southwesterns. The rate for call loans continued to prevail at 3½ per cent.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The cotton market opened firm today at an advance of 14 to 17 points, all positions making new high records on a continuation of yesterday's buying movement. This seemed to find additional inspiration in the relatively firm ruling of the late Liverpool cables as well as in an unfavorable view of the weather outlook and expectations of a bullish weekly report from the Weather Bureau.

December sold up to $21.65 and March to $21.80 and while the market met a good deal of realizing at these figures, it was absorbed on reactions of 10 or 15 points on what was described as a broadening commission house demand and some trade buying. Prices at the end of the first hour were within 2 or 3 points of the best.

Trading was extremely active later. After selling up to 21.74c for December, or 29 points net higher, prices eased off under heavy realizing, but offerings were absorbed on reactions of some 15 or 20 points. The market firmed up again after the publication of the weekly weather report. There was renewed realizing on the bulges, and later fluctuations were irregular. December sold off to 21.60c, or within a point of yesterday's closing quotation, but at midday was selling at 21.69c, the general list showing net advances of about 20 to 24 points.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—After yesterday's uncertain tone the curb market again broadened, business being more active than at any time during the past few weeks and price movements again included the establishing of high records in many stocks. There were unusually wide advances in a number of issues, including Ford Motor of Canada, which first rose 6 points to 555 and then dropped to 542. Realty Associates of Brooklyn had an advance of 6 points to 255 and Pillsbury issues, which are now awaiting listing on the New York Stock Exchange, moved up to new high records, the common stock advancing over 2 points.

Most importance was attached to the continued heavy buying of Johns Manville, which rose about 5 points to 110⅝, the trading in that stock being in large volume and seemed to foreshadow some special developments in connection with its relations to other companies. Wesson Oil and Snowdrift, which has been strong for some days, ranged from 63 to 64½.

International Mercantile Marine new preferred, which was admitted to trading some days ago, had its initial transaction, selling at 80. Sugar stocks were influenced by the advance in the price of refined sugar and by improvement in the trade generally, Fajardo and Central Aguirre moving up about a point.

Oil stocks showed a heavy tone, partly due to Pan-American dividend uncertainty and also because of the reductions in crude oil in several fields. Imperial Oil of Canada, International Petroleum and Prairie Oil yielded about a point and Gulf Oil declined nearly 2 points. Public utilities maintained the strongest position as a group, a number of those issues making new high records, including Empire Gas preferred, Electric Bond and Share, Electric Investors and United Gas Improvement were features in the trading all through the day.

Bonds were active and strong, although dealings in the St. Paul issues were not on the same large scale as yesterday.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Following is the official list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (000 omitted in sales column in bond lists).

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The final merger plan for the Missouri-Kansas-Texas, the Kansas City Southern and the St. Louis Southwestern, will be ready, it is now hoped, to submit to stockholders about October 1. A survey of the roads being prepared by the engineering firm of Coverdale and Colpitts as an aid in drafting the new plan is expected to be finished by September 1.

Sheet and Tube Earnings.

Youngstown dispatches to Wall Street say third quarter earnings of Youngstown Sheet and Tube are expected to be less than the second quarter. Directors will meet shortly and regular quarterly dividends of $1.25 on the common and $1.75 on the preferred, are looked for. Difficulty in obtaining a quorum has delayed formal declarations.

Fisher Brothers to Build.

Resources of Fisher & Co., representing interests of the Fisher Brothers, Corporation, Detroit, and General Motors, now amount to $125,000,000, said Fred J. Fisher. A new Fisher building, costing $35,000,000, soon will be built. Fisher & Co., organized in January, 1924, had original capital of $25,000,000 consisting of stock of Fisher Body, General Motors and cash.

Dixie Gas Gets Franchises.

The Dixie Gas and Utilities Co. has obtained franchises to supply natural gas for domestic and industrial uses in Orange, Rusk, Jacksonville, Nacogdoches, Timpson, Crockett and Livingston, Texas. Laying of mains will be started soon.

Watch New "Street Brokers."

Establishment of a new firm of "street brokers" to act as an intermediary between brokers and dealers in arranging purchases and sales of bonds and preserving secrecy regarding the identity of the principals, is being watched with interest in Wall Street. "Street brokers" were once an important cog in Wall Street's machinery, but with the rapid growth of the bond market since the war, these brokers virtually disappeared, most firms gradually assuming a position in the market and joining the increasing number of dealers. The new firm does not plan to deal in bonds for its own account.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—New issues totaling $80,000,000 captured the interest of bond men today while quiet reigned over the listed market. Announcement was made of public offering tomorrow of $40,000,000 Rock Island 4½s at a price not yet determined. Prompt oversubscription was reported of the $40,000,000 Australian government issue, offered this morning.

Prices continued steady in the general market, convertible issues again leading. Delaware and Hudson 5s spurted ahead 1⅛ points in the early trading, while Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s sold up fractionally. Baltimore and Ohio 5s were firm, and Julius Kayser 5½s continued their recent advance.

French issues were soft, particularly the governmental 7½s, which declined nearly a point. Japanese bonds displayed further firm tendencies, notably Tokyo Electric Power 6s, which advanced 1⅜ points.

United States government bonds were irregular and attracted meager attention.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, (000 omitted in sales column). (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

BUCHAREST, Aug. 24.—King Michael, infant ruler of Rumania, was guarded closely in the royal Sinaia palace today to prevent his exposure to the dangers of infantile paralysis, an epidemic of which is ravaging the Rumanian capital. Twenty children were known to be dead, 130 others in Bucharest were stricken with the disease, it was said.

Local Market Quiet Prices Steady

Stocks marked time on the Pittsburgh exchange today and volume of dealings showed a further decline. Since the active markets last week when Lone Star Gas and Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt were the center of trading interest, the sales have been dwindling steadily, apparently awaiting some additional stimulus. While there are several rumors abroad concerning probable action of directors of three of the strictly local companies, Lone Star, Screw and Bolt and Arkansas Gas, the movements in these stocks over the past few weeks have about played out the trading possibilities in the absence of any definite information or at least reliable intimations regarding the capital changes and dividend actions the Street has been talking about.

The early session today was a dreary exhibition. One or two small lots of stock were evened up on the floor men's books, but there were no changes in quotations. Lone Star and Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt both came into the market in odd lots at the prices prevailing on the close yesterday. Bids for Standard Sanitary were raised slightly, but there was little stock available.

A fractional decline in American Window Glass Machine preferred took the price of that issue to 69¾, a new low record for the year, while the common appeared on the board unchanged at 35. Only small lots were handled. On the other hand, a new high mark was established on Commonwealth Trust Company shares, which changed hands at 300 as compared with the last previous sale at 285. Dixie Gas and Utilities common and preferred sold unchanged from their previous quotations.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—A further advance of 4c was recorded in the local raw sugar market today with a continued good inquiry, and spot prices now quoted at 4.58c for Cuban duty-paid. Sales reported included 50,000 bags of Philippine nearby at 4.52c, 21,000 bags of Porto Rican middle September shipment at 4.55c and 31,000 bags of Cuban prompt at 4.58c, all to local refiners.

Reflecting the continued strength in the spot market and reports of an improving demand for refined sugar, as well as unconfirmed reports that the next Cuban crop would again be restricted, there was a renewal of general covering and buying in raw sugar futures. The market opened at 1 point advance to 1 point decline, with considerable realizing or liquidation, but offerings were readily absorbed and the market showed upward throughout the remainder of the forenoon, midday showing net gains of 5 to 6 points.

There were no changes in list prices of refined sugar, which ranged from 5.70 to 5.90c for fine granulated, but the advance in raws stimulated a more active demand.

Coupon Bonds in denomination of $1,000.

Principal and interest payable in New York City, either at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., or at The National City Bank of New York, in gold coin of the United States of America of the present standard of weight and fineness, without deduction for any Australian taxes, present or future.

The following statement has been made on behalf of the Commonwealth of Australia by its Commissioner in the United States of America, Sir Hugh R. Denison, K. B. E.:

GENERAL The Commonwealth of Australia is an integral part of the British Empire and comparable in importance with the Dominion of Canada. Loans of the Commonwealth issued in London enjoy the highest credit and constitute a legal investment for Trustees in Great Britain.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE This Loan is issued by the Commonwealth of Australia as a central borrower on behalf of itself and the States of Australia. The proceeds of the Loan will be used for developmental and productive public works and for the payment of maturing debt.

SINKING FUND The Commonwealth has established a Sinking Fund for its public debt under the National Debt Sinking Fund Acts, which provide that, during a fifty-year period beginning in 1923, payments from revenue to the Sinking Fund must be made at the rate of not less than ½% per annum of the amount of the Commonwealth loans outstanding in 1923 and loans subsequently issued, except those raised for the purpose of making local advances which are to be repaid to the Commonwealth and credited to the Sinking Fund. All German reparations received by the Commonwealth and one-half of the net profits of The Commonwealth Bank of Australia must also be paid into the Sinking Fund. Bonds acquired for the Sinking Fund must be cancelled and sums equal to interest at 5% per annum on such bonds must be paid from revenue into the Sinking Fund (except as to bonds repurchased or redeemed out of repaid advances, out of German reparations and out of surplus revenue paid into the Sinking Fund). The Sinking Fund is under the administration of a National Debt Commission, which applies the Sinking Fund moneys to the retirement of Commonwealth debt by the repurchase of loans in the open markets, by the redemption of loans prior to maturity, or by the payment thereof at maturity.

In addition to the mandatory payments into the Sinking Fund, the Treasurer of the Commonwealth has authority to apply surplus revenue to redemption of debt, and in the four years ended June 30, 1927, $36,088,772 of surplus revenue has been so applied. The total amount applied from all sources to debt redemption in the same period of four years was $126,808,454, equivalent to an average annual rate of redemption of about 1½%.

GOVERNMENT DEBT The total gross debt of the Commonwealth as of June 30, 1927, amounted to $2,243,786,167, consisting of $402,196,472 external debt in the hands of the public; $416,440,265 debt to the British Government (to be amortized by 1956 under a funding agreement of 1921); and $1,425,149,430 internal debt.

At a recent conference of Premiers, an Agreement was entered into for adjusting the financial relationships between the Commonwealth and the States of Australia. This Agreement will operate for two years, before the end of which period the people will be asked by referendum to embody the terms of the Agreement permanently in the Federal Constitution. The Agreement contemplates that the Commonwealth shall take over the debts of the States, the Commonwealth to apply for a period of fifty-eight years from July 1, 1927, towards the interest on those debts, a sum equal to the total of the per capita payments made by the Commonwealth to the States in the year ended June 30, 1927, and the States to provide the balance of the interest. There is a further provision that the Commonwealth and the States, out of their respective revenues, shall make annual contributions to a Sinking Fund, designed to extinguish the present debts of the States in a period of between fifty and sixty years from the present time and all future loans within a similar period from the time of their issuance. All future borrowing for the purposes of the Commonwealth and the States is to be arranged by the Commonwealth, in accordance with decisions of the Loan Council, which is representative of the Commonwealth and of the States. In respect of such borrowing, Commonwealth securities are to be issued, except where the Loan Council unanimously decides that the securities of a State may be issued, in which case the State securities so issued are to be guaranteed by the Commonwealth.

REVENUES AND EXPENDITURES The ordinary revenues of the Commonwealth in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1927, amounted to $380,405,716, and its ordinary expenditures to $367,392,466, resulting in a surplus of $13,013,250. The expenditures include $16,110,188 applied from revenue to the redemption of debt.

MONETARY SYSTEM The monetary unit of Australia is the pound sterling, the gold standard having been restored on April 28, 1925, coincidently with similar action in Great Britain. The Commonwealth Bank of Australia has the sole power of note-issue and holds a gold reserve of over 45% against its outstanding notes.

All figures stated in dollars in the above statement have been converted from pounds sterling at par of exchange.

THE ABOVE BONDS ARE OFFERED FOR SUBSCRIPTION, SUBJECT TO ISSUE AND DELIVERY TO US AS PLANNED, AT 98% AND ACCRUED INTEREST, TO YIELD OVER 5⅛% TO MATURITY.

The right is reserved to reject any and all applications, and also, in any case, to award a smaller amount than applied for. The amounts due on allotments will be payable at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co., in New York funds, the date of payment (on or about September 7, 1927) to be stated in the notices of allotment. THE PRODUCE MARKET

Demand was fairly active for most lines of fruits and vegetables at the local wholesale produce district today, with a generally steady market. Marsetta tomatoes in 20-pound baskets were lower. Potatoes were in liberal supply, but sold at about unchanged prices.

Trading in poultry was moderately active. The market was weak on spring chickens, but firm on heavy fowl. Supplies were liberal.

The butter, cheese and egg markets held firm at unchanged quotations.

Cabbage supplies continued heavy, a total of 141 cars being track. Arrivals included 11 cars of onions, 5 cabbage, 27 cantaloupes, 1 honeydews, 3 grapes, 1 lettuce, 12 onions, 8 oranges, 23 peaches, 6 pears, 1 peppers, 3 plums, 4 berries, 56 potatoes, 1 sweet potatoes, 2 tomatoes, 10 watermelons and 4 cucumbers.

Although bay receipts were fairly liberal, 14 cars having arrived in the yards, the market held steady. The bulk of sale arrivals during the last week have been new crop contraband and the quotations listed below are for the 1927 stock. Old crop oats continue to command a premium.

Pennsylvania Railroad—Seven cars of hay, 6 shelled corn and 5 oats. Baltimore and Ohio Railroad—308 cars of hay and 1 feed. Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad—One car of hay.

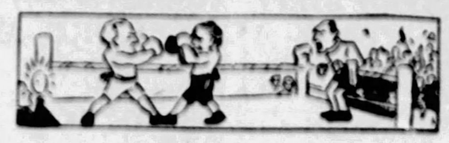
FIGHT TICKET SALE REACHES HALF-WAY MARK

Waner Brothers Now Are More Famous Than Ham and—

★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★



Sesqui Gate Almost 'In'

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—(AP.)—The ticket sale for the Soldier Field battle of Tunney and Dempsey, September 22, is now around $1,500,000, Tex Rickard said today. This is approximately half the anticipated gate.

Only two fights in history have drawn in excess of a million and a half dollars—the Dempsey-Carpentier and Dempsey-Tunney battles. Within a fortnight, Rickard believes, the return match of Dempsey and Tunney will have passed both these in advance sale, three weeks before the night of the fight. The Dempsey-Tunney battle of the Sesqui drew more than $1,700,000, and the Carpentier fight about $1,000,000 less.

One hundred and eight distinguished individuals will form the select inner square about the ringside at the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

There are just 108 seats in the first spectators' row and those who get them will be distinguished for that, if no other reason.

The mysterious committee of five, which has the task of determining who gets those choice seats is to meet Friday and undertake its job, George P. Getz, nominal promoter of the classic for Tex Rickard, made known today.

Getz gave his "personal assurance" that there would be "no funny business in the distribution of the choicest seats.

Getz intimated that the blueprints of the stadium probably will remain another secret right up to the moment of the fight. Ticket buyers will not know until they go to the stadium just where their seats will be. Press arrangements provide for the telegraph instruments and approximately 350 writers in the four rows against the ring.

Rain or shine, Dempsey planned a hard workout at Lincoln Fields today. A dreary drizzle yesterday restricted his activities to three miles of jogging on the "treadmill," a mechanical walker. Today, however, road work, shadow boxing and several rounds with the punching bags are on his program to loosen him up after a 10-day layoff en route to the camp from Los Angeles.

Some day next week the public will be permitted to view Dempsey in action against his sparring partners, Manager Leo P. Flynn announced, but the public sessions will be restricted to one or two a week, probably without any admission charge.

FIGHT UNIMPORTANT—GENE

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 24.—(AP.)—Gene Tunney expects to leave his training camp here for Chicago near the end of the month, and he will travel either by automobile or train. The exact date of the champion's departure is uncertain, but he doesn't intend to desert the mountain country until the latest possible date.

Asked if he had considered the trip to Chicago by airplane, the means by which he reached Philadelphia last year, Tunney said there was no need for that.

"This fight isn't important enough," he added.

Billy Gibson, the champion's manager, tried to get Gene to leave here in a few days, but that request was tuffed down flatly. Tunney likes the mountain air with its pine tang from the thousands of trees that dot the surrounding countryside. The champion never has liked to work before crowds and that has influenced his decision to stay in seclusion as long as possible.

Gene put on nine rounds of boxing yesterday, five with the light bags and four with his partners. Although he withheld severe punishment to Paul Cavalier and Billy Vidabeck, both were victims of a rapid fire of punches that sent them reeling around the ring. The champion was like a flash in his hitting, accurate and strong. Cavalier stung Gene at the start of their mixup but the title-holder went right on after his man, hooking and crossing and landing series after series of blows before his sparring partner could even set himself for the attack. Although Cavalier was careful, he was speared at will, and in the half-clinches Tunney drove forcefully to the body with both fists. His speed was so bewildering that it was almost impossible to keep track of the blows.

NOTES of the BOXERS

SID TERRIS figures to be an easy winner in his 10-round bout with Phil McGraw of Detroit at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, tonight. McGraw recently fizzled in a 10-rounder with Champion Sammy Mandell at Detroit. Jimmy Goodrich and Eddie (Kid) Wagner box the semi-final.

The Mickey Walker-Wilson Yarbo 12-round bout, postponed last night because of rain, will be fought in Cleveland tonight.

Poor Jack Britton. At 40, he's barred from fighting in New York because he's to old. The age limit there is 38 years. Other states are likely to follow the lead and put the bars up on the former welterweight champion, who, with his skill, still can beat most of the men in his class. Britton lost most of his savings in Florida real estate and intended to try to recoup his fortunes in the ring.

Jack Sharkey, victim of a knockout at the fists of Jack Dempsey, is in training to act as an alternate if needed for the Dempsey-Tunney battle at Chicago next month. Wonder if the fans wouldn't squawk about a substitution at ten prices?

Tug Phillips, Fayette City welterweight, meets Tod Smith of Canton in the main bout of 10 rounds at Conneaut Lake Park tonight. Whitey Stephenson of Erie and Ray Collins of Warren box the eight-round semi-final and Stanley Doer of Erie and Jimmy Hahn of Oil City are paired for the six-round preliminary.

Cuddy DeMarco is hard at work for his 10-round windup battle with Johnny Mellow at the Duquesne Steel Park next Monday night. Mellow dropped him in their last battle, at McKeesport, and the bout was called a draw by the referee only after the judges had disagreed, and Cuddy will be taking no chances of being surprised this time.

the spell of the importance being earnest. For if one has great talent then immediately the thing which was once viewed as a game, a sport, a pastime, becomes an occupation and an occupation which takes a great deal out of the man. Consider, for instance, the men and boys at Minneapolis. Contemplate the heartache, the physical and mental strain they suffer. Inquire into how much time they devote to the game. You will be convinced that while they are amateurs a great many of them spend as much time on the links as the hardest-boiled professional. They have, a lot of them, made what was once their sport a work of the most trying kind.

PIRATES DENY REPORT OF BUYING FUSSELL

Reports that the Pittsburgh Pirates had purchased Fred Fussell, pitcher of the Wichita Falls club of the Texas League, were denied this morning by Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer of the local club. Dreyfuss returned this morning from New Haven after accompanying the Pirates to Brooklyn and New York on their last swing around the East.

FLYNN

tion. I was glad to have it sent out, but I had nothing to do with it. Some of the boys tried to outsmart me, and I let them do it. That's all there was to that.

Dempsey was ready to fight 10 days before the bout took place. I realized on the afternoon of July 11 that Jack was as strong and as fast as he ever would be. That complicated my job to beat the band.

I knew if I worked him every day he would go stale. If I didn't work him enough his stamina would suffer.

My problem was to keep all the energy in the bottle until I was ready to pull the cork. I couldn't let any of it bubble out, because there wasn't enough time left to charge up again.

I cut the boxing in half. I worked him every two days instead of every day. I gave him light exercise and golf to keep his mind occupied on the off days.

BROTHER'S DEATH A BLOW.

There was a yelp from every boxing expert in the land. First, they thought I was plain daffy; then they decided I was trying to trick them. I was never more on the up-and-up in my life. There were no workouts except those that took place in the little ring across from Tom Luther's hotel. I couldn't let Dempsey get too hot and I couldn't let him get too cold. My idea was to keep him simmering.

I firmly believe that Jim Jeffries would have made a much different showing against Jack Johnson had he used the system of training that I employed on Dempsey. As it was, Jeffries lost his fight in his training camp.

And Tex Rickard, who promoted the Jeffries-Johnson fight, agrees with me.

The tragic death of Johnny Dempsey was a terrible blow. It took the heart out of Jack, and I know we were a pretty sick crew for several days. I don't mind saying now that I thought we were licked. Jack took it awful hard. But Mrs. Dempsey saved the day. She took command of everything and called Jack as often as three times a day during the period he was so blue. She made him feel there was some one sharing the burden and that always helps.

It was an anxious 10 days for me, the time between the day I realized that Jack was ready and the day we broke camp for New York. But my system worked beautifully and I was a mighty confident man when we entered a compartment on a train bound for the big town.

But I reckoned without a ham sandwich. It almost undid in an hour what I had worked a month to accomplish.

(In his next article, Flynn will tell how a sandwich almost forced him to postpone the fight.)

LEE—Suddenly, on Monday,

STATE POLICE HEAD DIRECTS MAN HUNT

The slayer of Private John Downey, of Troop A, Greensburg, killed Monday while dispersing Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers at Acmetonia, near Cheswick, is still at large. Search was continued today by state police, county detectives and deputy sheriffs in the woods and swamps and coal mining settlements of Cheswick, Harwick, Culmerville and Springdale.

Twenty-seven men have been arrested in connection with the rioting but, according to State Police Lieut. Thomas F. Martin, none of these is likely the slayer. Maj. Lynn G. Adams, head of the state police, has assumed charge of the man hunt.

Any suspicion that Antonio Deremo, one of the prisoners, was connected with the killing was dispelled when a supposed bullet wound in his arm was proved to be several days old. Joseph Komatz, arrested while cowering in the swamp, was freed after a hearing in which he proved that he was hiding because of fear and not because of the slaying.

A trampled and torn American flag, said to have been rescued from the rioters, will be produced as evidence against the suspects at a hearing today.

The body of Trooper Downey, which had been taken to the home of his fiancee, Miss Esther E. Beatty, 1405 Creedmore street, Brookline, was removed to the Downey home at Bridgeport, Pa., last night by a brother.

His sudden death, reported at the morgue, was attributed to peritonitis and pneumonia, effects, probably, of the operations.

Byrd, head of the expedition, waited at Mitchel Field today to fly Maurice Bokanowski, French minister of commerce, to Toronto, Canada.

M. Bokanowski was to arrive in New York today on the French line steamer France, and it is imperative that he reach Toronto today for the opening of the Canadian Bar Association's annual meeting.

SUES COUNTY IN MINE ATTACK

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Aug. 24.—Belmont county was sued for $1,000 by Emory E. Brewer, of Colerain, who alleges he was hit by rocks and rotten eggs hurled by a mob on a public road near Florence on August 2, suffering bodily injuries and damage to his clothes. In the petition he avers that the mob attacked him when trying to prevent him from working in local coal mines.

NAB JOHNSTOWN MEN AND MOUNTAIN STILL

SOMERSET, Pa., Aug. 24.—A wildcat distillery in the mountains in Jenner township was raided last night by county officers. Hugh Walker, 27, and William Lavely, 24, both of Johnstown, were arrested. The officers seized a large still and 40 gallons of moonshine.

Public Works Official Denies Paint Was Skimped on New Liberty Bridge

"Absolutely False," Says Norman F. Brown

County of Allegheny
Pittsburgh, Pa.
DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS
NORMAN F. BROWN
W.H.R.Kreiling
August 22, 1927

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Judging from recent newspaper accounts, I have been quoted as having charged the paint contractor on the new Liberty Bridge with skimping on the quality or amount of paint specified.

This is absolutely false and without foundation and I hereby publicly deny the statements attributed to me and which tend to reflect upon the character and reputation of the W. W. Lawrence & Company, who were the paint contractors for this bridge.

The contract awarded to the W. W. Lawrence & Company specifies in exact detail the kind and quality of paint to be supplied and as far as I have determined each detail has been fulfilled to the letter.

Every barrel of paint supplied for this bridge was first inspected and tested by the City Chemist assigned to this work and was approved and passed by the bridge paint inspector.

The paint for the Sixth, Seventh and Ninth Street bridges was not furnished by the W. W. Lawrence & Company.

I trust that this statement will correct any misunderstanding that may exist regarding the paint situation for the new Liberty Bridge.

Very truly yours,
N. F. Brown
Director

Here are the Facts:

On August 11th, 1927, a newspaper article appeared quoting Norman F. Brown, Director of the Department of Public Works, as charging the W. W. Lawrence & Company with not living up to the contract for supplying paint for the new Liberty Bridge.

That this article is absolutely false and unwarranted is demonstrated by the letter reproduced above wherein Mr. Brown denies the statements attributed to him and which tend to reflect upon this Company as the paint contractors.

The paint furnished for the new Liberty Bridge is a special formula made in accordance with exact specifications as laid out by the Allegheny County Department of Public Works, Bureau of Bridges Paint Specifications. We simply compound the ingredients under inspection of the Allegheny County Engineering Department, a county chemist and inspector.

In meeting public works requirements this Company has always fulfilled every detail in the specifications. We resent, therefore, the imputation that we have ever skimped on fulfilling paint requirements as called for by specifications.

Dear Sir or Madam—

The most embarrassing moment in my career as a prize-fighter was when I was engaging in a bout with Jack Dempsey. It was getting late in the evening and I was getting ready to retire for the evening, and as I turned my head away for a moment to tell the referee a bedtime story, Jack clouted me on the chin when I wasn't looking. Imagine my embarrassment when I woke up in my corner several minutes hence.

BOOK REVIEW

"Maurine," a Bitter Sweet Romance, 1901.

Now we come to Part Five.
A basket picnic, music and croquet
Was next in order. So, one sunny day
Four prancing steeds conveyed a laughing load
Of merry pleasure-seekers o'er the road.

In brief, Muarine LaPelle saw a garter snake and swooned.
She was no coward. Country-bred and born,
She had no feeling but the keenest scorn
For those fine lady "ah's" and "oh's," of fear
So much assumed (when any man is near).

Be that as it may, let Maurine tell in her own words how—
I awoke from my unconsciousness, to know
I leaned upon a broad and manly breast
And Vivian Dangerfield was speaking, soft and low,
Sweet whispered words of passion, o'er and o'er,
I dared not breathe. Had I found Eden's shore?
Was this a forecast of eternal bliss?

What was Vivian Dangerfield whispering? Order your tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph now—you must not miss the hero's words.

LITTLE JIMMY — She Seems Interested

BUGS BAER Says.

WHEN Byrd tags the South Pole it will not prove anything except that American pathfinders pick the toughest detour.

Byrd has already played ring-around-a-rosy at the North Hub.

Lindbergh picked out a pin spot in Europe and landed right on the point. He followed the usual American tourist custom of reaching Paris by getting there without his baggage.

Arthur "Bugs" Baer

He disappointed the French officials, who love to examine trunks with an ax.

Lindbergh's non-stop excursion brought aviation laurels back where they belonged, in America, which is exactly where the Wright brothers flew the first machine at Kitty Hawk.

Then Chamberlain indorsed Lindbergh's trip by landing in Germany and Byrd swelled the overhead immigration quota by landing on the English channel on the first try.

Byrd proved one thing. And that thing is you cannot bounce across the ocean.

You must stay up in the air.

While America has been doing that, how about foreign competition?

It's all ground aviation. An English aviator has been stalling around Croyden for six months.

He's waiting for favorable weather. London has been waiting for that kind of stuff for 500 years.

However, England now claims the longest postponed flight.

The German aviators actually got off the ground in Berlin. But they didn't get high enough to keep their feet from dragging.

Persia isn't doing anything at all. If a Persian falls anywhere it's going to be off a camel.

France has been tuning up for a long time. But France is something like Fred Perry's uncle. He kept polishing his trombone for years. And couldn't play a toot.

They claim that our flights are 99 per cent mechanics and only 1 per cent man. Well, a bow and arrow is 100 per cent Indian. And the same is true of American airplanes.

Once they get up in the air, airplanes are 100 per cent aviator.

And to prove it Lindbergh is going to put a tail light on a broom and make that trip all over again.

Salient Points of the Bidding

Following South's bid of one No Trump, Fourth Hand bids two Spades. Having two stoppers in that suit and a powerful hand otherwise, South bids two No Trumps.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 2. South counts his winning tricks as nine, allowing for the loss of a trick through an unsuccessful Club finesse. While these tricks appear on the surface they cannot be made without careful play, particularly in view of East's menacing Spade holding.

To shut out Spades must therefore first engage the Declarer's attention. If South adopts familiar tactics, playing for his strongest suit (Clubs) first, by means of the Queen of Diamonds in Dummy and a Club finesse, a second Spade lead setting up the suit may follow upon West's winning the Club trick. After Declarer makes his Clubs and Diamonds, East will enter with the Ace of Hearts if he holds it, which he probably does, and make his remaining Spades, leaving Declarer with eight tricks, one short of game. For the dual purpose, therefore, of killing the Spade suit and making the necessary Heart trick for game, South must immediately lead Hearts to drive out the adverse Ace. This can be done without ultimate loss, regardless of the division of Hearts held adversely.

It's an Old Danger

And a SLOW Government.

"HELP! HELP!"—NAST'S MISSISSIPPI FLOOD CARTOON PUBLISHED FORTY-THREE YEARS AGO.

In 1884 this picture by Nast, the great cartoonist, was published in old Harper's Weekly. It shows a mother with her children floating on the Mississippi flood, calling for help.

At intervals ever since the same cry for help has gone out over the country.

Thousands have been drowned, hundreds of thousands of homes, farms, with their crops, wiped out, hundreds of thousands made homeless.

STILL THE GOVERNMENT DOES NOTHING EFFICIENT.

Dykes and levees were made a little higher and a little stronger, but not strong or high ENOUGH. Precious waters that the rest of the country needed have been wasted destructively. Millions upon millions of tons of fertile soil have been washed out into the Gulf of Mexico.

And the Government has looked on, patching and pottering, never undertaking the task of REAL PREVENTION.

This is the richest country in the world and has engineers as good as any in the world. Money and the engineering science combined, the ability of army engineers, for instance, that built the Panama Canal, would solve the Mississippi danger once and for all.

Great reservoirs could be constructed, nature has provided them, to divert the head waters of the Mississippi at flood times. Plans could be arranged to use the surplus waters instead of allowing those waters, as they have just done, to destroy a thousand million dollars' worth of property.

This recent and greatest Mississippi flood has caused enough financial damage, to say nothing of human suffering.

That gigantic sum, literally WASHED AWAY, would be enough to solve the Mississippi flood problem, if our government would wake up and consider it a public national duty to prevent such floods in future.

We woke up easily enough in the war, which was not OUR war.

We lent to European nations, that they might go on fighting, ten times as much as it would cost to make the Mississippi safe and protect millions of Americans along its banks.

Since the war ended, and Uncle Sam stopped sending his thousands of millions to other nations, private bankers in the United States have sent more than eleven thousand million dollars additional money to Europe.

Too bad that a little of that money which we pour out in Europe so generously and recklessly could not be used here in our own country.

The Mississippi SHOULD be made safe; it could be made safe. And the United States Government ought to do it.

People Need Parks Parks Need People

The county will condemn 61 acres of farmland to extend the limits of the new South Park to Library road. That is a good idea.

The commissioners are making plans for the early fencing of deer and buffalo preserves in both North and South Parks, so the animals may be turned out soon. That is another excellent idea.

A park is not a park until it is used as one. Things that people expect to find in parks will cause it to be used. People need parks but the parks must have people, too, else they are not parks.

Some scientists say that if a tree falls in a forest, and nobody is around to hear the crash, there is no sound. If there are no people around in a plot of ground designated as a park, it just isn't a park—that's all.

In addition to providing parks there should be means of getting to them. Those who have automobiles can get to North and South Parks. What about the thousands who do not have them? Bus lines suggest themselves.

Thanks to Mr. Mellon

We Grow Richer and Richer

This country is fortunate in having for Secretary of the Treasury Mr. Mellon, who understands money and has made several hundred million dollars for himself.

When you read that the government, at the end of the fiscal year, finds itself with a surplus of six hundred and thirty million dollars, don't forget that that is IN ADDITION to paying off a thousand million dollars public debt.

The government as a mere cash proposition is richer this year by sixteen hundred and thirty million dollars than it was a year ago.

That doesn't include increased wealth due to the development of resources and new ideas which represents, of course, many billions.

THE REAL SUFFERER

Credulity

By GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"GREAT discoveries create an impression that all things are possible." So says Prof. Meyer, of Stanford University, writing on "Credulity."

Well, perhaps all things ARE possible. The only trouble is that humanity is like the boy in "Pilgrim's Progress," who wanted everything at once, and would not wait. Because a thing is possible it is not necessarily right at hand.

People caught in an earthquake have believed that the end of the world had sounded. The world no doubt will have its end ultimately, but earthquakes are not its announcers. Since the triumph of the airplane, many persons are apparently getting impatient because nobody starts for the moon. They assume that that must be the next and inevitable step, and actually believe it would require only a little more persistence, a stronger engine and a tank or two of oxygen, to carry the next "Lindy" to the lunar world.

Credulity, according to Prof. Meyer, is "not entirely absent from scientific laboratories." He illustrates it thus: "We can grow tissue under the microscope; therefore, we have life in a test tube. Physiologists talk about colloidal systems and some claim to know what life is. If we scientists delude ourselves, why rebuke the masses who are deluded by others most of the time?"

Prof. Meyer, who is himself an anatomist, says further: "Credulity in scientific things has not been limited to those unacquainted with science." And again: "Dame Rumor nowadays moves faster than the wind, and times of great awakening, such as the Renaissance, are said to have been followed by epidemics of credulity."

The fact is, we want to go too fast. Conservative persons who prefer to observe things a little at leisure and to have time for digestive thought are treated as "road hogs" who ought to be run down. Such is the origin of much of the credulity about scientific things on the part of those unacquainted with science to whom Prof. Meyer refers.

A kind of hodge-podge is formed, made up of scientific facts, often but half comprehended, mixed with the products of undisciplined imagination and pure optimism, and this is often swallowed by people who truly have not the means of critical discrimination between what is science and what is fol-de-rol.

If scientists, sometimes delude themselves, as Prof. Meyer suggests, there is all the more need for the lay public to look out, and be wary. There is a high tide of theories now running on all sides and inundating every branch of scientific investigation. Researchers are often too eager to build a theory without a sufficient foundation of carefully tested and widely related facts. A false theory may be as great a breeder of credulity as ignorance. There is scientific dogmatism as well as religious, and sometimes it is no less injurious to the mind. Indeed, Prof. Meyer does not hesitate to say, "Credulity in science is often a twin sister of credulity in theology."

Conformity, or subservience to the mass mind, is, perhaps, the most powerful general influence tending to breed credulity. A free mind is apt to gravitate on the truth.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Teachers

I USED to fancy when I left the schoolhouse long ago (dear little schoolhouse, old and gray, where memory loves to go!) that I had left, along with it, my teachers, one and all, that I was through for all my days with lessons, great or small. But I am finding, year by year, that I have teachers still; they teach me much I need to know, they guide my wayward will. That friend who smiles when things go wrong, who does not fear defeat, he teaches me how I may make life always bright and sweet. Those patient hands that gladly toil, yet ask for no reward, they teach love always will repay, though tasks be long and hard. Kind glance, warm smile and tender phrase, they teach me, day by day. Dear little schoolhouse, life has sent loved teachers all the way!

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY.

"Is It Worth While?"

ARE you contemplating a chance scheme with that money it has taken years of hard work to collect and save?

Some one has presented a rosy and inviting picture of what you might have, if you invested in his proposition.

You want old age comforts, and one lucky investment might provide the wherewithal.

The smooth salesman has convinced you that you are bound to be successful, if you are swift to act on his suggestion, of course.

But what if the plans fall through, and you lose?

The supersalesman quotes—"Nothing venture, nothing have."

That is true, but you might be worse off than nothing.

How is that proposition going to involve your finances?

Are you at the age where you can afford to take chances?

Have you an extra sum of money to invest, or must you risk your old-age funds?

If your best working days are over, go easy, don't risk your all.

Adams Speaking

By S. E. KISER

ADAM ADAMS of Eden Park
Had a longing to make his mark.
He was mighty eager to win renown;
He tried to sing but his voice was flat;
He turned to painting, and failed at that.
But they couldn't keep Adam Adams down.

"AHA," he said, one lovely day,
"I'll write a lively, thrilling play.
And wealth and fame shall come to me!"
He worked by day, he worked at night,
But things went wrong, instead of right,
As happens frequently.

THE play that Adam Adams wrote
Was eaten by a William goat
That browsed where useless things were thrown;
But Adam Adams didn't quit;
He wasn't ready to admit
That he was born to be unknown.

"I'LL write a book," he said; "I'll let
The world know that I'm not through yet,
And I'll be mentioned in 'Who's Who.'"
A dozen publishers returned
His manuscript, and Adam learned
That authorship was hopeless, too.

"OH, well, it's me for Hollywood,"
Said Adam Adams; "I'll make good
With Doug and Charlie and that bunch."
He found in time—too soon, in fact—
That he had not been born to act;
He hadn't the proper hunch.

BUT Adam Adams put aside
His disappointments and still tried
Courageously to win renown;
The jazz band that he organized
Is nightly being advertised;
You cannot keep a good man down.

Tales That Are Told

Poor Pasture

JIMMY'S father, who fought in the Spanish-American war, was relating some of his war experiences.

"And it was at the battle of San Juan that a bullet grazed my head."

Jimmy looked at the bald pate of his father for a moment, then said, "Not much grazing there now, is there, dad?"—Capper's Weekly.

Visible Roses

Albert Spalding, the violinist, said on disembarking from the Aquitania: "English girls have introduced a charming new fashion for evening dances—they wear roses in their garters. With the short skirts of the present season, these roses look delightful against shimmering silk stockings—a red rose against a gold-colored stocking, a pink rose against a white stocking, a white rose against a black stocking, and so on.

"Yes, a charming fashion. The music throbs, the skirts swish out, and as you look at the pretty girl dancers you say:

"'Here, anyhow, are roses that weren't born to blush unseen.'"

Not on Good Terms

Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England, was praising American labor conditions at a dinner in New York.

"Labor and communism over here," he ended, "are on as bad terms, thank goodness, as Mr. and Mrs. Smith.

"'What is your husband's income?' Mrs. Smith was asked in the separation suit.

"'Between 4 and 5 a. m.,' she answered, with a toss of the head.

"Mr. Smith, in his examination, was asked if his wife believed in clubs for women.

"'Rather,' he answered. 'Clubs, sandbags, any old thing.'"

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The police picked up "Dopey Sam" the other day. He is one of the innumerable East Side drug peddlers who confined his nefarious trade to school children. He, as have others, teaches children to use cocaine and heroin as a means of stimulating trade for his wares.

There are, it has been estimated by narcotic experts, some 10,000 children under the age of 16 in greater New York who are chronic drug addicts. Like their elders, they acquire a cunning that hides the addiction from parents until they become human wreckage.

For many years little corner candy stores were the supply stations for the drugs, but vigilance became so strict that in later years distribution has been made through drug runners invariably drug addicts themselves.

Children who become drug users in every case resort to thievery to secure funds to satisfy their appetites. In a soft drink parlor recently a member of the narcotic squad pointed out a half dozen children whom he had reason to believe were chronic addicts.

They seemed stunted, listless and pasty. Some were under constant espionage, but so fox-like had they become that all trails eventually grew cold. The youthful dare devil gangsters usually prime themselves with heroin before they go on forays.

The reckless courage so often displayed is only drug stimulation and when captured and cut off from their supply they become prize weaklings. Heroin, a derivative of morphine, is the cheapest and deadliest of all habit-forming drugs.

This is the drug that is chiefly hawked among school children. It is almost impossible to trace to its source, because of the ingrained contempt of the East Side for "the squealer."

One of New York's biggest executives was having a conference the other day with his business associate. The associate opposed several suggestions of his chief and calmly pointed out his reasons therefor. Finally in sudden exasperation the boss jumped up, turning over a table, kicked over a passing chair and stalked from the room—slamming the door with a bang. In about 10 minutes, he returned in meeker mood and turning to his waiting associate said: "The trouble with you is, you lose your temper."

Jokesmiths have dented the "in conference" gag of high voltage executives. "In conference" offered many deductions. It might mean the boss was sleeping off a bad night, was not in or just didn't care to see the caller. So over the phone the other day one of those silken voiced, highly trained secretaries explained her employer was "in consultation." Another distinction, no doubt, without a difference.

* * *

A hot retort to the "in conference" excuse was in a theatrical producer's office. An actor was tossed this moth eaten excuse by the secretary. Taking a seat, he said: "All right, but tell him the next time he comes out for cracked ice, I only want to see him a minute."

Will Hays often talks to Hollywood from his New York offices a dozen times a day. Incidentally, he writes more letters, sends more telegrams, sees more people and talks over the long distance more than any executive in New York. There are four phones on his desk—one in almost instant touch with Hollywood. Most of Hays' week-ends are spent at his home town, Sullivan, Ind., and two secretaries frequently accompany him back and forth to take dictation.

Flo Ziegfeld is Hays' nearest competitor as a sender of telegrams. Ziegfeld often sends 200-word telegrams that could easily be shortened to 10 words and convey the full meaning.

The Stable Dollar

By DR. FRANK CRANE

It was announced the other day that the representatives of the United States, Great Britain, France and Germany sat around a table at Washington for the first time in history to consider international finance.

There was the President of the Bank of England and of the Reichs Bank of Germany, the Deputy Governor of the Bank of France, the acting Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, the Governor of the Federal Reserve Board and the Governor of the New York Reserve Bank.

Their efforts were supposed to be in the interests of stabilization. They considered proposals for dealing with the inter-allied war debts and other world financial problems.

To a man up a tree the wonder is that they did not address themselves to the most interesting and vital problem today in the world, which is the stabilization of the currency by placing it upon some other basis than that of gold.

There may be technical difficulties in the way of this and doubtless there are. Everybody who attacks the problem seems to be defeated.

Earnest efforts have been made by Irving Fisher, a professor of Yale, in this direction. Others have called attention to the necessity for it.

Gold is at present the only practical basis for the currency. Gold is accepted as such because it is a universally prized article and reasonably stable.

But the gold supply of the world is precarious, to say the least, and it is not a human necessity, particularly.

The human race needs clothing and food. These are the principal necessities of life, and in every country in the world they come from about the same sources.

Why could not there be a balanced dollar resting on a basis of cotton and wool in the way of clothing, and rice, corn and wheat or potatoes in the way of food?

When one of these necessities goes up in price the others come down, so that the teeter board is reasonably stable.

When gold goes up everything comes down and when everything comes up gold goes down.

It looks as if the combined expert intelligence of the leaders of the world, such as were represented at the conference at Washington, should be able to devise some solid basis for money.

A currency could be issued based upon this and be universally acceptable. As it is at present, stability of currency is the great desideratum. Every kind of business needs it. The whole world cries for it. It does not look like an unrealizable dream and the world lays this problem before its gathered representatives.

THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

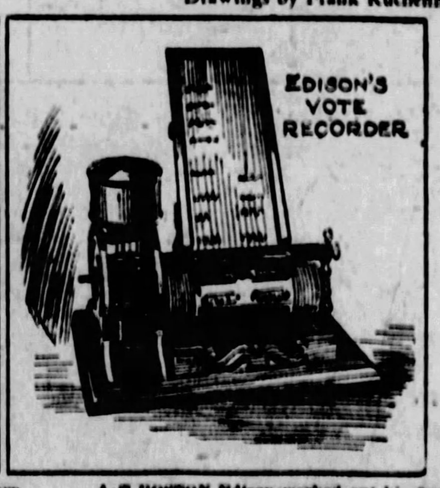
(Authorized and Endorsed by Mr. Edison)

Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister

FOLLOWING another period of wandering, Edison returned to Port Huron to visit his folks. There his old friend, "Mill" Adams, wrote that a job was awaiting him in Boston. Near Toronto the train was snowed in and the weary passengers had to make their way on snowshoes over the heavy drifts to a nearby inn.

FEW, if any, more bitter experiences have come to the great benefactor than the four days and nights it took him to reach Boston. A less courageous soul would hardly have survived the intense hunger and bitter cold. Edison's modest arrival in Boston closely parallels Franklin's landing years before in Philadelphia.

FIVE minutes after entering the Western Union Telegraph office Edison landed the job he was after. Once he was on his feet again, he rigged up a workshop for experimenting. One day he spilled acid on a thirty-dollar suit. He dryly commented, "That's what I get for putting so much money in a new suit."



AT BOSTON Edison worked out his first (and from the practical standpoint, completely unsuccessful) patented invention. This was the vote-recorder, whereby each member of a legislative body could register his name under the "ayes" or "noes" by means of a switch on his desk.

Gambling in Chicago.
The Dog's "Free Bite."
1 Newspaper, $14,000,000.
Lawyers and Editors.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1927.)

IN Chicago, where gambling on the racetracks is legalized because self indulgent rich men and grafting politicians want it, this happened:

The Lincoln Handicap was run. Official reports show that the foolish public bet $655,000. The track got $42,575 of that money and paid $2,500 to the state. It also paid to the state 20 cents each on 15,000 paid admissions.

O' the gambling money, racetrack gentlemen got $42,575, plus the proceeds of 15,000 paid admissions, minus 20 cents a head. The state got $6,100, the foolish public left its money at the track.

Gambling is illegal, for the small man. But when a few prosperous men and grafting politicians get together, an arrangement can conveniently be made to legalize gambling, build it up as a settled vice, and take about $500,000,000 a year from the public throughout the country.

A GENTLEMAN of Yonkers was accused of being drunk and causing his large police dog to "attack a child." The child, 8 years old, was severely bitten while the dog's owner looked on. Dog and owner appeared to enjoy it, the owner, according to charges made, releasing the dog from the leash, that it might attack the child.

THIS is unusual, but whoever parades the streets with a police dog or any other dangerous descendant of wolves, and a possible carrier of rabies, risks children's safety and should be held responsible for whatever the dog may

GIRL STUDENT IS KIDNAPED

Search for Edna Jirinec, pretty 13-year-old Bedford (O.) high school girl, and two young men who yesterday forced her into an automobile and drove away, centered in Pittsburgh today. Mrs. Harriet Jirinec, the girl's mother, and a brother, John, 15, arrived in Pittsburgh this morning and enlisted police aid.

The girl, who has been attending the summer session at the Bedford High School, was en route home yesterday with another girl when a touring car stopped in the street. While one man sat at the wheel, another jumped out, put a hand over the girl's mouth, pushed her into the machine, and it sped away.

Mrs. Jirinec told William J. Kane, head of the Missing Persons Bureau, that the girl's abductors are known

Seven Held In Riot Here

Seven were held for court, one charged with inciting to riot, in connection with the Sacco-Vanzetti protest meeting Monday at Cheswick at which State Trooper John J. Downey was killed.

Fourteen defendants appeared before Justice of the Peace W. E. Blair last night. Attorney Allan Davis, representing 11 of them, fought to disprove the legality of Sheriff Robert H. Braun's proclamation against mass gatherings in districts where strikes prevail, but failed. The attorney was balked also by a ruling of Justice of the Peace Blair from putting into the records allegations against the state police and the manner in which they dispersed the Cheswick crowd.

Of the seven held for court, John Bernebei, a building contractor and notary public of Harwick, who, according to testimony of troopers, defied the order to disperse and urged

POLICE, DRYS CLASH

A revolver pressed against his side, Patrolman E. V. Donahue, police say, was driven in an automobile from his North Side beat to Federal prohibition headquarters in the House Building, early today and reprimanded for interfering with Agents R. J. Lawler and C. Fredley. The agents, with another man, were in the car, according to police.

The policeman was released after Lieut. Samuel Graham went to the prohibition office and demanded an explanation.

Donahue got into the car at Irwin and Western avenues, ordering the men to drive to the Allegheny Police Station. He had first called Lieut. Graham.

The patrolman came upon the men in an automobile in Chapel way, near Galveston avenue. When he questioned them, two said they were prohibition agents and showed their cards and badges, but they had no owners' cards for the machine, a prohibition department car.

Donahue called the lieutenant from a police box and was ordered to take the men to the station. He then got into the car. Prohibition agents, in giving their account of the affair, denied that a revolver was pointed at the patrolman, and said that there was no other man with them.

READS PRAYER BOOK; LEAPS UNDER TRAIN

JOHNSTOW, Pa., Aug. 25.—John A. Miller, 45, of 1917 Fifth avenue, Altoona, leaped in front of a Pennsylvania passenger train at the local station yesterday and was killed. Miller had been sitting in the waiting room reading a prayerbook. Hearing the approach of a train he rushed to the platform and flung himself in front of the locomotive.

BRAVES PERILS ALONE

By International News Service.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 25.—Paul Redfern, 25-year-old Georgia pilot, hopped off at 12:46 p. m., Eastern standard time, today on a lone non-stop flight to Brazil.

The big monoplane, "Port of Brunswick," groaning under a tremendous load of gas, roared along the beach at Glynn Isle and then skimmed gracefully into the air, putting out to sea at low altitude. It disappeared into the vast stretches of seas and mountains and jungles that bar the way to South America.

BRAZIL IS GOAL

Redfern expects to fly more than 50 hours for a new non stop distance record, about 4,000 miles. He hopes to land either at Rio de Janeiro or Pernambuco. His objective simply is "Brazil."

The first attempt to start in the heavy Stinson monoplane failed. The 200-horsepower Wright engine failed to develop sufficient lift to get the plane off the ground and it came to a stop on the beach half a mile from the starting point.

The second attempt was successful.

BERTAUD READY

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Lloyd Bertaud announced this afternoon that barring unforeseen occurrences he and James D. Hill would take off for Rome in the Fokker monoplane Old Glory at 8 o'clock.

"We're going to take her up for a little spin right now," he said just before 2 o'clock, "and if everything's all right we leave at 6." Only one storm area stood in the way of a take-off of the Old Glory and that one storm was moving out of the path.

$10 SANDWICH IS THEFT CLUE

A crisp $10 note was the lettuce leaf in a ham sandwich handed to Mrs. Anton Haller, 1743 Broadway, Beechview, today. Detective Harry McKelvey, who was present when the lunch was delivered, has failed to fathom a mystery which surrounds it and a robbery at the Haller home on August 20.

On that day, when Mrs. Haller was absent for a few minutes, someone entered and stole $35. Three days later she received a letter inclosing $20. Then she notified the detectives.

Today Detective McKelvey stopped at the house for a clue. A messenger appeared with the sandwich. Questioning brought a statement form the boy that a stranger had hired him to deliver the package—the $10 sandwich.

MODEL PLANES OF BOY -:- BUILDERS LOSE IN FIRST BIG -:- BATTLE WITH WINDS

TAKE CHARGE
W. C. Batchelor, superintendent of the Bureau of Recreation, and Miss Florence Crusan, Crafton, were among those in charge of the plane contest.

BROKEN WING!
Charles Mayer, at Crafton, saw the wind beat down his model plane. Others sympathized, but he'll fix it up for August 30, when the finals of the national aircraft model contest are held in Schenley Park. Master Mayer's father and uncle are aviators; he has won other contests, and he smiles with hope.

AT BEECHVIEW

LONG JOURNEY
Lex Gordon came from Mt. Lebanon to exhibit his model in Beechview. He did a good job, and hopes to cop a medal or two at the finals in Schenley Oval next Tuesday.

the crowd to go on with the meeting, was charged with inciting to riot and unlawful assembly. It was testified that Bernebei, speaking in a foreign tongue, had addressed the crowd from the platform and had demanded to know why "taxpayers and citizens did not have the right to go on with the meeting." Bail for Bernebei was set at $5,000.

Steve Kurepa and Ercole Moretti, both Harwick miners, were arrested during a meeting in Harwick Monday night. Both were seen at the sympathy demonstration earlier in the day, it was testified. Moretti, according to witnesses, protested that he was a wounded World War veteran, when ordered to leave the scene of the trouble. Both men were charged with unlawful assembly. Kurepa was held on $3,000 bail and Moretti on $2,000.

Dominick Paloni, a Harwick miner; George Belkovitch, Harmarville; Fred Nozaranti of Rural Ridge, and Joe Ptasienski of Harwick, also were held on charges of unlawful assembly. Bail was set at $500 each. James Marcodi, his brother, Elerio Marcodi, and G. R. Libertor, all of Curtisville, and Joe Iacomi of Harwick, were held over for further hearing on charges of unlawful assembly. Their bail was set at $500 each.

COUNSEL WRANGLE.

[illegible]ings, which began shortly [illegible] m. lasted until after 11:30. [illegible] Davis repeatedly questioning State Police Sergeant A. A. Downing, who testified against all of the defendants. State Police Lieutenant William Martin refused to allow his men to answer questions relating to the methods of handling the crowd, the number of unruly persons who booed, cursed and voiced threats of death to the troopers or the legality of the sheriff's proclamation.

It was brought out that the request for state police aid had been made by the sheriff's office orally and that no orders were received by Lieut. Martin in writing. The lieutenant declared that such oral requests were not unusual.

Attorney Davis represented all the defendants except Bernabei, Kurepa and Ptasienski, the latter two being represented by Attorney C. M. Strobel. Attorney Paul A. Stuart represented Bernabei.

Several hours were taken up by wrangling of attorneys upon the strength of the evidence. Justice Bair finally decided to seek counsel from Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Parks by telephone and his adverse decisions followed.

ADAMS HEADS SEARCH.

The search for the slayer of Trooper Downey continued today with state police under the personal direction of Maj. Lynn G. Adams, commander; Capt. John Mauk and Lieut. Martin. Sergt. Downing and Sergt. Frank Gleason were busy running down "tips" voluntarily given by persons from all over the tri-state district.

It is almost certain, according to the troopers, that the fugitive is wounded, a number of shots having been fired at him at close range as he fled in the general direction of Russellton.

Three eye-witnesses to the shooting are known and it is believed that there will be no trouble in identifying the suspect if he should be apprehended.

CARSON STREET CAR AND TRUCK CRASH

Passengers on an inbound Carson street car were endangered by flying glass when the front window was smashed in a collision with an automobile truck at Penn avenue and Twenty-sixth street, at 8:15 o'clock this morning. Law Holds Jay Walker Has No Right-of-Way

Under the new state vehicle code, recently approved by Gov. Fisher, pedestrians who dart across streets against traffic signals are responsible for whatever happens to them.

The new law provides that at intersections where there are traffic officers or signals, drivers do not have to yield the right-of-way to pedestrians crossing against the signals. According to Burton W. Marsh, city traffic engineer, the new law, if properly enforced, will be the means of eliminating accidents resulting from "jay walking."

The law now holds the dog's owner blameless unless it can be proved that his dog had bitten somebody previously.

THERE is some mild government supervision of the radio. Do the supervisors consider it necessary or desirable that the details, bloody, or otherwise, of prize fights should be sent into homes and listened to by twenty millions of Americans, including children? Would you describe that as making an intellectual, "Christian" and elevated use of a great scientific discovery?

WE must have the prize ring, the bloody fights, of course, for those that can afford to pay $125 a ringside seat, just as we must have "speak-easies" for those that can pay $25 a bottle for champagne. But why carry the prize fighting into so many homes?

DON'T prize fight promoters realize that radio broadcasting will stop their prize fighting eventually? Clergymen here and there will be aroused as they listen to the interesting fight news coming in over the radio, and then there will be trouble. Many clergymen, fortunately, are interested in things more important to human salvation than Darwin's monkey theory—which, by the way, was never taught by Darwin.

LORD READING, recently viceroy of India, once a brilliant lawyer in the United States, has bought the London Chronicle for $14,000,000 and will enjoy dictating its policies.

Men as they grow old like to control a newspaper. Sometimes that isn't good for the newspaper's health, but it improves the health of the owner—keeps him thinking, excited, brain active, prolongs life.

The price paid for the Chronicle, one of the oldest newspapers in London, shows that a well-established newspaper property is the best possible investment.

TEXAS editors and Texas lawyers enjoyed an interesting fight. E. G. Senter, who founded the Fort Worth Gazette, and is a lawyer, says most lawyers and the system of justice in Texas need reforming and adds "the editors will whip the lawyers to a frazzle." In a speech before a convention of editors Mr. Senter said: "In Dallas, 50 lawyers ought to be in the penitentiary right now."

PERHAPS after the editors have reformed the lawyers, the latter will combine and reform the editors. Some of them need it. If Dallas has 50 lawyers that "ought to be in the penitentiary right now," we wonder how many there are in Chicago, New York, Pittsburgh, etc.

"I hope that my daughter is safe and the men responsible for her disappearance are apprehended," Mrs. Jirinec said. "I know one thing, if my husband ever sees the two men, it will not be well for them."

Mrs. Jirinec told members of the Missing Persons Bureau today that her daughter often told her that a man had been annoying her. This man is known to my husband and I, and we intended to make a complaint to the police to have him stop annoying Elva, Mrs. Jirinec said. According to the mother, her daughter had made arrangements to enroll at a business college near Bedford next month.

EASTERN ARKANSAS SWEPT BY NEW FLOOD

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 25.—Flood-stricken Eastern Arkansas, just recovering from floods that prostrated it in the winter and spring, was being inundated again today as the waters of the White River poured into the basin farmlands through the levee crevasses and gaps left by the earlier overflows.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Rattling milk wagons that disturb the early morning slumber of Chicagoans would be silenced under a resolution placed before the city council yesterday by Alderman John Toman.

15 KILLED IN WRECK NEAR LONDON

LONDON, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Three of those injured when a Southern Railway train left the track and dashed into a wayside bank last evening died during the night, bringing the death total to 15. Eleven persons were killed outright, about 20 were injured seriously, and many received minor injuries.

The wreck occurred about 20 miles southeast of London, between Dunton Green and Venoaks, Kent. The train, a holiday special bound for Deal, was traveling at high speed, when it left the rails. Three coaches were demolished.

Recent heavy rains are believed to have softened the railbed, causing the rails to spread.

80 Inmates Flee Fire In Home

Eighty inmates of the United Presbyterian Home for the Aged, Penn and Trenton avenues, Wilkinsburg, were hurried from the dining room at noon today when smoke filled the place from a fire that broke out in the west wing of the building.

The blaze was in the room of Mrs. Anna Conway, an inmate, starting from an overheated electric stove. Miss Louisa Henry, acting superintendent, discovered it and called Wilkinsburg firemen. The flames were confined to the one room, damage being estimated at $500.

NOMINATE FIRST LEWIS URGES DEMOCRATS

By Universal Service.

SPRINGFELD, Ill., Aug. 25.—Warning his auditors of "dangers from Republican administration policies," former United States Senator J. Hamilton Lewis of Chicago urged "the Democracy to sieze its chances of success and gain on the Republicans by calling its national convention ahead of the latter."

Advocating a short platform that would include assurances of "relief to the farmers and the city toilers," the former Senator, as chief orator of Democratic Day at the State Fair here, said:

"Let us act first and throw the Republican administration masters on the defensive. The times call for an advanced democracy on the principles of Jefferson and Jackson."

The stranger stepped over to where diamonds are displayed and, reaching over the case unobserved, took the nearest tray and walked out.

Stop Goat Meat Sales Victimizing Many

CHARLEROI, Pa., Aug. 25.—Mutton chops and leg o' lamb served in many Washington county households this week were goat meat.

Field Agent John N. Jenkins, of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Foods and Chemistry, traced a source of the goat supply to a Bentleyville abbatoir where, it is alleged, aged Billys and Nannies from the hills of the surrounding mining hamlets were slaughtered and sold to local meat dealers for "spring lamb." Jacob Litshitz, a Bentleyville butcher, charged with violating the state food laws in selling improperly labeled meat, was ordered to pay a fine and costs by Justice of the Peace T. M. Reese, of Canonsburg.

PITTSBURGH MANSAVED IN LAKE

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—One man was drowned and another rescued after battling a heavy sea on Lake Erie for several hours last night, when the engine of a small boat in which they left Barcelona Harbor, N. Y., went dead, leaving them at the mercy of the waves.

The steamer Clement, carrying pulpwood into Erie, about 3 o'clock this morning saw the flash from a small light about 10 miles off the Dunkirk Lighthouse, and investigating discovered Frank Burke, 24, of 1721 Leolyn street, Carrick, fighting to keep above the water and signaling for help with a small flashlight.

His companion, James Knight, 24, of Winston-Salem, N. C., after swimming for hours, became exhausted and sank before help could reach them. Burke, brought into Erie by the Clement, told of their valiant fight against the storm.

Burke, suffering from the effects of his experience, said this morning that he and his companion were tossed into the water when the boat foundered, and that by means of life preservers they kept afloat, using the flashlight and yelling at the top of their voices in the hope that they might attract help. Knight, according to Burke, finally collapsed, and sank. His body has not been recovered.

"Dreams which my husband and I had last night convinced me something was the matter," Mrs. Agnes Balinski, mother of Burke, said today, in her home, 1721 Leolyn street, Carrick, where she is in a state bordering on nervous collapse as the result of the lake accident.

The dreams were so terrible, she said, that she was unwilling to credit the news that her son was saved until he so informed her himself. Several neighbors, who were caring for the sorrowing woman, were trying to convince her of her son's safety.

PLEA TO AMEND IS REFUSED ARMSTRONG

A motion on behalf of William E. Armstrong, candidate for County Commissioner, to amend nominating petitions in an attempt to validate sufficient names to prevent his name from being stricken from the ballot, was refused in Common Pleas Court today at the conclusion of the hearing on proceedings brought by the Republican organization.

"These nominating petitions are almost hopelessly involved," declared Judge Ambrose B. Reid. "They represent a patchwork. We cannot permit sweeping and radical changes made now that would constitute the substitution of an entire new set of papers."

When the hearing was concluded Attorney Charles B. Prichard, representing the Republican organization, declared that the endeavor of the candidate to establish 100 valid signers out of the 515 names signed to six petitions was unsuccessful. Mr. Prichard declared to the court that 475 names had been shown to have been improperly or illegally attached to the petitions or were invalidated by defects of the petitions, and that at best the defense could muster but 37 valid names.

John B. Ingram, of 2994 Roland avenue, Baldwin township, the elusive witness of the inquiry, finally appeared before the court in response to an attachment and was forced to explain the reason for his failure to appear in answer to a summons. His excuse was that he was short of help in a mill where he is a roller and could not leave. He circulated a petition for Armstrong and handed it over to Richard Burgundy, a previous witness, to further circulate, he testified. Ingram admitted he had placed a few dates on the petition.

"Did Burgundy know whose petition it was?" Ingram was asked. He replied: "He ought to." Attorney J. A. Denslow, representing the candidate, in asking the amendment, proposed to substitute affidavits by those circulating the petitions, including Burgundy, for affiants who had filled out the circulation affidavit. Burgundy was recalled and testified that he thought the petition was for County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and Judge Reid, then pointed out the impossibility of having him make such an affidavit.

Judge Reid, at the conclusion of Ingram's testimony, said:

"Here are pages of names on which the dates clearly are written by one man at the same time. Here is a witness who testifies that he did not fill them in, nor did the signer. These names are invalid."

Attorney Alex Lindsay joined with Attorney Denslow in submitting authorities and asking leave to file a brief, which Judge Reid said he would receive as a matter of courtesy, but that the question was clear to him and that he would deny the motion to amend.

Summerless Year East of Rockies, Crops Hit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Though this may not be the "year without a summer," the past week in a major portion of the country had all the earmarks of something of the kind.

The week, as a whole, was abnormally cool in practically all sections east of the Rocky mountains, according to the Weather Bureau's official tabulation.

The continued cool weather materially retarded progress of crops in most sections east of the Rockies.

HUNT FOR LOST FLIERS TO GO WEEK MORE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25. — Naval warships will scour the sea between the Hawaiian Islands and the North American mainland at least another week in an effort to find the five missing Dole derby flyers and two other airmen who are believed to have been forced down while hunting them.

More than 25 ships will participate in the continued search.

The Navy had announced that the search would be given up tonight if clues to the missing aviators failed to materialize. Then Admiral Eberle, chief of naval operations, in Washington, authorized Admiral R. H. Jackson, in charge of the hunt, to use his own judgment as to how long the search should be continued.

The result was a radio order to the Omaha and her fleet to continue on to Honolulu, sweeping probable drift areas between their present positions and the Hawaiian Islands. Naval communications officers were scrutinizing charts closely in the hope of finding an unexplored area into which the planes or life rafts launched by the stranded fliers might have drifted.

THEATER MAN MAY WIN PAROLE

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—For meritorious conduct during his confinement in the Federal penitentiary here, Earl Carroll, New York theatrical producer, has been rewarded with a transfer to the prison's honor farm to serve the remainder of his year and a day sentence for perjury.

"Promoted" from a clerical post in the prison, the man who once was one of Broadway's gayest figures has attained a goal jealously sought by inmates—a goal which, besides furnishing the freedom of a good-sized model farming community, provides opportunity for shortening one's sentence.

TO CUT SENTENCE

Only those prisoners whose records of behavior are above suspicion are sent to the honor farm, penitentiary officials say, and they are eligible for a reduction of five days in their terms for each month on the reservation, at the option of the federal parole board, as an extra good conduct allowance.

If he is allowed to profit by this, Carroll would be eligible for parole on October 1, under the additional prison regulation, which provides that inmates can be paroled at the discretion of the board after one-third of their sentence has been served.

Carroll's exact duties at the farm have not been disclosed, but it is considered likely that he has been fitted into the regular routine of agricultural and animal husbandry operations, which comprise the daily schedule of work.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 25.—Breaking away from a squad of prisoners in the Washington county courthouse at noon today, Thomas Carbarbakos, 33, of 153 South Sixtieth street, Philadelphia, dashed to the street, and leaping into an automobile, escaped the pursuit of Sheriff Ody C. Abbott, several deputies and the police.

Carbarbakos had just pleaded to the charge of transporting liquor and was sentenced by Judge Erwin Cummins to pay a fine of $1,000 and serve 11 months and 25 days in the Allegheny county workhouse.

With a dozen other prisoners, Carbarbakos was being escorted to the jail and in the rotunda of the courthouse he eased out of the line and fled out of the front entrance. He had driven from Martins Ferry, O., to enter his plea and had parked his car, with the motor running, near the county buildings. His car bore Pennsylvania license No. A 359-584.

2 SHOT DOWN IN GANG WAR

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Police were probing "Little Italy" here today in search of the slayers of Aloys F. Beelman, an attorney, and Benny Giamanco, well-known gangster, who were shot by gunmen in a renewal of gang warfare shortly before midnight.

Speeding past the Lyric Coffee Shop, a gangster rendezvous in the heart of the business district, the killers fired four shots into the restaurant, ostensibly to kill Giamanco and two companions. Giamanco lay dead on the sidewalk when the death car had passed, while Beelman, slumped over a cup of coffee in the restaurant, fatally wounded.

Beelman, a graduate of the Washington University Law School and veteran of the Mexican War, was the victim of a stray bullet, the police said.

PRISON GUARDS EXONERATED IN PROBE

Blame for the escape of Paul Jaworski and Jack Vashonder, convicted slayers, from the county jail a week ago, rested today on the antiquated locks and barriers in the prison, following the announcement yesterday of the findings made by a special committee of the Allegheny County Prison Board in a probe of the escape.

Acting Warden David Harris, who was in charge of the jail, and all guards on duty were exonerated of blame.

MORE SUBPENAS ISSUED BY M'GOVERN

County Controller Charles C. McGovern issued a second set of subpenas today on the County Commissioners, employes in their office and employes of the Department of Public Works, to appear at the Controller's office today at 2 p. m., "with all records, documents and equipment" not already part of the exhibits in the investigation of the county's fiscal condition. Today's meeting will be in addition to the public hearing scheduled for tomorrow at 10 a. m.

McGovern said he was prompted to make the new move from developments at the two previous hearings. He declared his interest was aroused when figures submitted at the second hearing differed materially from those presented at the first hearing for the same items. He said also that he was balked in attempting to get complete information because witnesses, replying to questions, said that part of the records "were in a little book" not submitted as evidence, but referred to as "being in my office." He now wants "all little books and all other records that so far have not been available."

Those receiving the second subpena are County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong, Edward V. Babcock and James Houlahen, Gilbert Cloonan, statistician, and Nick Stabile, bookkeeper for the Department of Public Works.

STATE AIR BOARD ORGANIZES

GINTER MADE SECRETARY; PLANS LAID

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(A.P.)—The State Aeronautics Commission at its first meeting yesterday appointed Robert M. Ginter, of Pittsburgh, as its secretary at a salary of $3,000 a year. Mr. Ginter is a former Washington correspondent and managing editor of the Pittsburgh Gazette Times.

James P. Woodward, secretary of Internal Affairs and an ex-officio member of the commission, acted as chairman of the meeting. A permanent chairman will be selected at the next meeting of the commission which is scheduled for the first week in September.

The commission authorized Mr. Ginter to confer with Washington authorities on the subject of air regulations and to obtain such data and plans as should be considered at the next session.

A committee consisting of Hollinshead N. Taylor, Philadelphia; Edgar N. Gott, of the Keystone Aircraft Company, Bristol, and Howard Rigby, Pittsburgh, were named a committee to draft plans and regulations for action at the next meeting.

Gov. Fisher evinced his interest in aeronautics by sitting in at the meeting which was held in the executive chambers.

NEW DEVICE GIVES AERO FIELD LIGHTS

TEST CONTROL

Airmen and engineers testing new aero field flood light control at Bettis Field, near McKeesport. The control is regulated by means of meters recording the magnitude and dominant frequency of sounds from an airplane in flight. It was developed by T. Spooner (left), Westinghouse engineer. Others are (left to right): J. P. Foltz, aid to Mr. Spooner; Pilot Merle Moltrup and Clifford Ball.

SOUND REGULATED

Mr. Spooner with his sound selective apparatus that "hears" the approaching airplane and responds instantly by turning on a bank of floodlights to guide the landing pilot. At the extreme left is the switch which closes automatically and applies current to the lights.

DIVORCE COURT ENDS NORTH WOODS ROMANCE

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—A millionaire's vacation romance started in the north woods struck the rocks of the divorce court yesterday when Mrs. Petrollinia Jose Deutsch sued her husband, Jay Brunswick Deutsch, on charges of "habitual intoxication and cruelty." Mrs. Deutsch is the granddaughter of J. M. Brunswick, one of the founders of the world-known Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company. The suit revealed that while summering in the upper Michigan Peninsula, Mrs. Deutsch was "swept off her feet" by the ardent courtship of her husband.

OFF-COLOR TEETH

Lighten quickly—Gums firm

Get Pepsodent—Works wonders by clearing film coat from teeth

TEETH seldom are naturally "off color." Most often they're merely coated with a film that forms on teeth and absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. By clearing it off, one's whole appearance may be changed.

Old-type dentifrices failed to remove that film successfully. That's why brushing has failed you. Now leading dentists urge the special film-removing dentifrice, called Pepsodent, for this purpose.

Results are quick and surprising. Film coats go. Teeth whiten; sparkle like jewels. Bacteria that thrive in film are combated; tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea thus scientifically fought.

To prove those results, accept 10-day tube free. Or get full-size tube for few cents at your druggist. Do this in fairness to yourself.

O'MALLEY RAPS KENNA IN PLEA TO VOTERS

Declaring that E. M. Kenna is attempting to rule the Second Ward from "his palatial home in the East End," P. J. O'Malley, leading the city administration forces in the ward, has issued a statement in which he said the people of his section are fighting for "home rule."

"We men and women who live in the Second Ward long ago became disgusted with the Kenna brand of politics," said O'Malley. "While we resented his arrogant pose of ward leadership, we were helpless at the time to challenge his power even though it was self-delegated. Now we feel that this contest will result in the elimination of Kenna, and we residents of the Second Ward wish to assure the people of Pittsburgh that once he is out we will have no more ballot scandals."

The contest in the ward is for the Republican nomination for constable, the contestants being Constable Bernard J. Kenna, brother of E. M. Kenna, who is seeking another term, and James J. McManus, who has the support of the city administration.

SAYS RUM LURES ROOMERS

Moonshine whisky is playing an important part in the success or failure of cheap rooming houses in the city, Attorney C. B. Pritchard told Magistrate E. M. Hough in Morals Court this morning. Mr. Pritchard represented John Kish, 40, and his wife, Mary Kish, 39, proprietors of a rooming house at 510 Smithfield street. The house was raided last night. Two gallons of "moon" and three men were found in the place.

"The competition among proprietors of rooming houses is so keen that a man must sell a little moonshine to compete," the attorney said. Kish was fined $50 or 30 days in jail and his wife was discharged. The visitors also were discharged.

CHARGES ROUGH HOSPITAL RIDE

Declaring that injuries received in an accident while en route to Mercy Hospital aggravated his wife's illness, James Fagan, of Dormont, has started suit in Common Pleas Court against the Pittsburgh Transportation Company for $15,000 damages.

The petitioner declares that his wife, Mrs. Clara A. Fagan, now deceased, was being taken to the hospital for observation last April 16 when a taxicab in which she was a passenger stopped suddenly in West Liberty and Pioneer avenues, Dormont, hurling Mrs. Fagan from her seat.

KLINE CONFERS WITH COYNE

Mayor Charles H. Kline returning to the city today, at once conferred with Senator James J. Coyne, County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and other Republican leaders to reach an agreement on the registrars to be named in the Second Ward.

The factional battle in that ward, where the city administration is supporting James J. McManus for constable against Bernard J. Kenna, has held up the appointments. Registrars have been named in all of the other wards.

WOODS RUN BRIDGE DEDICATION SEPT. 9

The formal dedication of the new Robert McAfee bridge over Woods Run, which was opened to traffic Saturday, will take place September 9, Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang announced today. City and Council officials will participate.

HORSE SHIES AT AUTO; DRIVER UNDER IT DEAD

WOODSFIELD, O., Aug. 25.—When a horse became frightened at an automobile at the side of a road near here, it was discovered that Emmett Cline, 18, had been crushed to death under his auto when the machine skidded and plunged over an embankment.

For the College Wardrobe

Jersey is Still A Favorite

It wins the college girl anew, by the following means: Little, two piece frocks whose straight, boyish blouses have stitched yokes and patch pockets, by new versions of the cardigan jacket, and by one-piece dresses with unusual types of tucking and seaming, and the tricky use of two colors in one frock.

Prices on such frocks in the Misses' Shop will suit any budget—$16.75 to $29.50.

There Are Other Materials, Too—

in frocks for campus and class room. New checked tweeds of light weight, like the one pictured here. And wool georgette, fantomeen, friska and cordovan crepe, which are but little, if any, heavier than tailleur silks.

Priced from $16.75 to $39.50.

New Leather Coats From Denmark

We buy this particular line of coats because they are as pliable as capeskin gloves, they are swanky in style and so well tailored, and are made by a firm that has been turning out satisfactory leather coats for college girls for over a hundred years.

Priced according to length, $45.10 to $95.00.

All College Coats Can Be Chosen Now

'Owning Own Auto,' New Thrill for Mary

A "Miss Pittsburgh" title may mean busy days of shopping tours, luncheon engagements and many other details, but all are certainly worth while when the many gifts are considered. Yesterday was a big surprise day for me. I really had thought the receiving of countless gifts was a pleasure about over. But I found out different.

My newest gift is an automobile. It is all for me and certainly will be handy. You know a titleholder must cover a great amount of territory during a day, and, while the committee has been providing me a car, there will be more pleasure in riding now. I'll know the car is mine.

The car is a beautiful sport model coupe. It is the gift of the Buick Motor Company on Baum boulevard. There is surely a wonderful thrill in getting a gift like an automobile. Just think, two weeks ago I never dreamed I'd be riding about in my own car. As I pause in the rush of events it doesn't seem to me like it all can be true. What a wonderful joy the title has brought to me.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—William Serhant, 60, tried to commit suicide Tuesday by inhaling gas through a tube. He was found unconscious by his wife and revived by a lung motor squad.

Last night while he was sitting in the living room of his home he suddenly toppled over dead from heart disease.

LEMONS WHITEN THE SKIN

Better than "Bleaches" for Freckles, Tan, etc.

The juice of two lemons squeezed into a bottle with Orchard White will soothe sunburn, and clear up freckles, tan, discolored skin quicker than anything you can buy already prepared, and it doesn't cost you near as much.

Any druggist can sell you Orchard White, and it only takes a minute to mix it with the juice of two lemons. Then you have enough to last you all season.

It makes a delightful lotion which you can put on your face, neck, arms or hands at any time, and it will keep them nice and white. Mix a bottle now, so you will have it handy to use should your skin begin to turn dark or rough.

Madame—and Mademoiselle—A Gift Awaits You

So that one's face may ever look its loveliest, Raquel has created a new beauty powder.

So luxurious it is, so delightfully light and zephyry, so caressingly soothing and beneficent to the skin, so bewitchingly scented, that it is like a fairy's blessing on the cheeks.

And so persistently does it cling that even on sweltering days a single application keeps the face looking its freshest and prettiest for hours at a time—without the bother of re-powdering. Yet it contains not a particle of cold cream or grease or other stickiness.

Fragrant With the Magic of Hypnotic Tropic Nights

In a remote tropic vale hidden in the hills of Mexico, there grows a strange wild flower with a wildly fascinating scent.

Indian legend has it that this strange flower responds only to the kisses and caresses of the moon and stars, while scorning the smiles of the sun; for it sends forth its alluring scent only in the night—never in the day.

One mystic night in the long ago, a lovely Senorita from Spain named this flower Olor de la Noche—or in English, Fragrance of the Night.

Now that flower has inspired Raquel to create a strangely fascinating parfum—one all unlike any other ever known to womankind. Like the flower whose name it bears, it is laden with the mystery and magic of hypnotic tropic nights.

Each box of Raquel Face Powder here offered as a gift is alluringly scented with this mystic, magic perfume.

Full Size Dollar Box Presented Free

Without a penny of cost to you, Madame and Mademoiselle, you may easily verify for yourself the superb quality of this new powder.

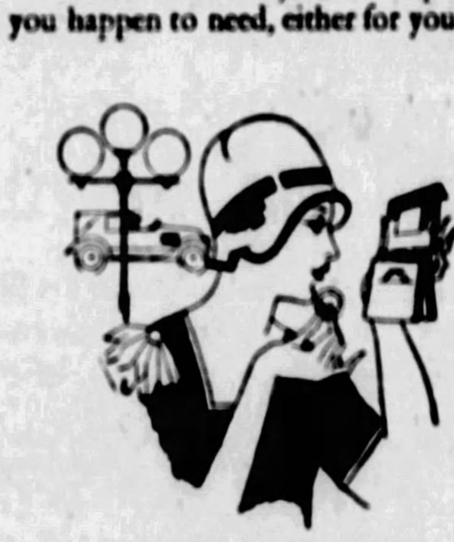
We invite you to accept free a full-size package — the package regularly selling for a dollar; but now, for a few days only, offered as a gift, with our compliments.

This gift awaits you at the toilet-goods counter of any department store—both in Pittsburgh and surrounding towns; or at any drug store which displays this advertisement in the window or at the toilet-goods counter. But please don't delay, as the supply of gift boxes allotted to each store is limited.

Merely Do This

Simply go to the toilet-goods counter and select any toilet requisites you happen to need, either for yourself or family—face cream, rouge, lip stick, talc, tooth paste, tooth brush, shaving cream, perfume, whatever you wish, and of any brand you wish; if your purchases altogether amount to $1 or more, just hand in the coupon at the bottom of this advertisement and a full-size dollar box of Raquel Face Powder will be presented to you absolutely free—with our compliments and the compliments of the store.

We are confident that every girl or woman who tries Raquel Face Powder will find it so supremely good that she will use it the rest of her life. That is why we invite you to accept a full-size package free.



Is Powdering in Public Becoming Taboo?

In New York, in Pittsburgh, everywhere, fashionable femininity is growing more and more rebellious against the bother of so frequently dabbing on powder. And more and more reluctant to re-powder in public. The newest dictate is that one should make her toilette in privacy—not exposed to the eyes of the crowd.

Everywhere girls and women have been wishing for a powder that would stay on longer—and one that is light and soft.

Raquel Face Powder is the answer to that wish.

Even in the hottest weather, a single application keeps the face looking its loveliest for hours at a time—often all day long. Yet it contains not a particle of cold cream or grease or other stickiness.

It is exceedingly light and fine. Spreads so evenly and blends so perfectly with the natural coloring that to the casual glance its presence is quite unapparent—though its lovelifying effect is instantly and always apparent.

It does not roll, streak, run or scale—not even when one perspires.

It is absolutely pure.

It agrees with all skins.

Please Don't Wait Till Too Late

Each of the stores displaying this unusual offer has been allotted only a limited quantity of Raquel Face Powder to present as gifts to its patrons—perhaps enough boxes for two days, perhaps one day, perhaps only half a day.

Only those who act promptly can be sure of finding a gift package still waiting for them.

If your supply of face cream, tooth paste or any other toilet accessory is likely to need replenishing at all soon, we suggest that you buy immediately instead of waiting till completely out. Simply buy at any store displaying this offer—and receive as a gift (in exchange for the coupon) a dollar box of Raquel Face Powder.

Greys are in demand—especially oxford grey. The vogue originated in the striped Prince Albert trousers, worn for formal day dress. SACCO AND VANZETTI LIE IN STATE

Friends Hold Bodies Until Sunday

BOSTON, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Until Sunday the bodies of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti will be in state in a small funeral parlor in the Italian section of Boston. The undertaker agreed to remove religious emblems. The bodies were to be taken to the parlor this afternoon.

Efforts to obtain a hall where the bodies of the radicals who were executed for murder might lie in state failed. The owners of the building housing the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee had joist nailed upright in doorway to prevent a casket entering the building.

Better success attended the efforts of the defense committee to extend the burial time limit to Sunday from Friday, the limit provided by city ordinance. The bodies will be borne at the head of a funeral procession Sunday past the state house to Boston Common, thence to Forest Hills for cremation.

The place of burial of the ashes of Sacco was still unannounced today. Those of Vanzetti will be returned to Italy by his sister.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Madison Square Garden in New York will not be available for a Sacco-Vanzetti memorial next Sunday, Tex Rickard announced here last night. An application for the use of the Garden had been sent Rickard from New York.

POSTAL ENTERS RADIO FIELD

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The Postal Telegraph-Commercial Cables Company will enter the radio business. It has acquired for that purpose the radio system of the Federal Telegraph Company which operates on the Pacific coast.

The announcement of the Mackay companies, made by George V. McLaughlin, vice president, indicates that the intention is to expand the radio service of the Federal Telegraph which now operates a point-to-point and ship-to-shore service on the Pacific.

"The contract," said McLaughlin, "will enable the Mackay system to offer to the public a complete land telegraph, ocean cable, and land and ocean radio service, and this places the Mackay system in the position of being the only communicative system offering a comprehensive service."

FRESH MILK is wise old Mother Nature's own preparation, made for the express purpose of helping fast-growing little bodies to thrive and develop as they should. Human skill cannot create a substitute for it.

But human genius, at last, has found in Electricity, Nature's own mighty servant, the right means of protecting the values that Nature lavished in her supreme food. At last it is possible for every city home to have fresh milk—its safety assured, its delicious natural flavor retained, its original structure intact and its marvelous food value unimpaired.

If you have a baby in your home you should certainly learn the tremendous significance to child life of

as it nourishes your body

If your appetite is not keen you owe it to yourself to take S.S.S. regularly before each meal. It will give you a good appetite.

In these days of fast competition, only full-blooded, robust, healthy people can keep to the front, and success comes to those who have the snap, vigor and magnetism that go with a wholesome, healthy life.

Don't despair because others forge ahead of you. Start right now to regain the health which will help you progress. A hearty appetite will restore your energy, build you up and give you "pep."

Thousands have benefited themselves and kept their bodies in good repair by occasionally taking a course of S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles and it improves the processes by which the body is nourished.

S.S.S. is time tried and reliable. It is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

The "Flash and Fire Test," to which motor oils are subjected by large buyers, measures the temperatures at which an oil vaporizes sufficiently to flash or to burn. This indicates the degree of heat which the oil will stand in your motor.

Remember, oil is a lubricant—not a fuel! It is vitally important that it should not evaporate excessively, or break-down, at the bearing temperatures of your motor.

High Flash and Fire Test

Another Reason Why Tiolene Motor Oil Lasts Longer!

MOTORISTS who use Tiolene Motor Oil regularly, know that it lasts longer—goes farther, safely! But why does it outlast other oils?

One reason why Tiolene lubricates longer is that it will withstand greater heat without excessive evaporation, or burning. An oil's ability to resist heat can be measured before it is used by the "flash and fire" test. This test reveals in Tiolene, the wonderful stamina which so distinguishes it in actual use.

Oils with lower flash and fire test, evaporate quickly—even in your motor's crankcase—and are lost through the breather pipe. When subjected to the heat about the pistons, they partly burn, and either leave carbon on the piston head or pass out through the exhaust. Such oils cannot withstand the terrific heat of your motor and "use up" quickly. You have to keep adding oil and the resulting mixture soon becomes heat-worn, lifeless, and has to be drained often. You use more oil—you spend more money.

A high "flash and fire" test is one of the outstanding qualities of pure Pennsylvania motor oil. Tiolene is "pure Pennsylvania" and more. It is 100% Super-Pennsylvania Motor Oil, for it is skillfully refined from Cabin Creek Crude—a super-Pennsylvania grade.

The super-quality in Tiolene assures you of supreme performance—more miles per fill!

NO ALARM HERE IN PARALYSIS SPREAD

No alarm need be feared in Pittsburgh because of the prevalence of a mild infantile paralysis throughout the United States, according to Dr. R. G. Burns, director of the Department of Public Health.

"We have had only 10 cases so far this year, as against two last year and 40 in 1925, so you see there is nothing to worry about," said Dr. Burns. "However, I would make this suggestion: Where parents are aware there is a case of infantile paralysis in the neighborhood, they should keep their children from the district where it exists. July, August and September are the months to watch. It is a disease physicians do not know definitely the causes of. As far as this district is concerned, there are no more cases than ordinarily exist over an average period."

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.
(Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.)

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—Ruth Taylor, blonde actress, formerly a Mack Sennett bathing beauty, will be told in a few days that she is to play Lorelei Lee in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," Anita Loos' world famous story. So carefully has the secret been locked up, that few people outside of those who chose Miss Taylor know that the decision has been made. B. P. Schulberg who, I am told, had a part in the selection, has been as elusive as a flea on a running dog's back these last few days. Can it be he knew I wanted a verification of this rumor?

Anyway, just as I am about to take the train for Chicago, New York and other points East—I say Ruth Taylor plays the blonde gold digger. Now, a little word about her. She played opposite Harry Langdon in one of his early Sennett comedies and while she is not well-known as a screen actress she is said to have registered in the few pictures in which she appeared.

Probably no search in the movie world for an actress has ever been more discussed. Now we can all go back to our work and talk of something else.

Eric von Stroheim has bowed out of "The Wedding March" and has handed his latest screen child over to Josef von Sternberg to cut and edit. Or, perhaps I had better say, by mutual consent, Paramount Famous Lasky has given the task of cutting the 200 odd reels of film of the latest von Stroheim opera to von Sternberg. At the minute, it is reported doing nicely at 17 reels, so everyone at Famous is cheerful. I wonder why the producers continue to permit Mr. von Stroheim to film thousands of feet of excess footage, spending about ten times as much money as is normally considered proper? True, he makes good pictures, but every time he turns out a picture there is the anguish of mind until his picture is cut—to say nothing of temperament and uncertainty of ever making the picture pay as an investment.

I thought it was about time that Harry Cohn signed someone. He has been home from New York three days now and nary a contract. Yesterday the ice was broken and he announced that Pauline Garon would be starred in "The College Hero," a comedy to be directed by Walter Lang. Pauline, who recently announced her separation from her husband, Lowell Sherman, is an everyday visitor at the Montemarte.

I suspect Harry Cohn, who does much of his business at this cafe, conducted the transaction over the luncheon table.

Research Work Delays Cruze in Producing Pioneer Film

Due to the tremendous amount of research work necessary before he can start filming "The Pioneer Woman," James Cruze has deferred production on this big special, and announces that "On to Reno" will be his first personally directed feature under his new status as an associate producer with Cecil B. DeMille.

"On to Reno" is a sophisticated comedy-drama—a type of picture Cruze is particularly well qualified to direct, it is pointed out. During his affiliation with Paramount-Famous-Lasky, which he recently terminated, Cruze directed a number of feature comedies and the comedy touches in his epic productions "The Covered Wagon," "The Pony Express" and "Old Ironsides," contributed largely to their success.

Preparations for the filming of "The Pioneer Woman" will not be hindered through Cruze's decision to direct "On to Reno" first. All of the Cruze productions are to be released through Pathe-DeMille.

MOSJUKINE WILL MAKE LONDON APPEARANCES

Ivan Mosjukine is on his way from Universal City to London to make personal appearances with three picture, all of which are playing at the same time there. These pictures are "Surrender" in which he is co-starred with Mary Philbin; "Michael Strogoff" and "The Prince of Adventurers." He sailed recently on the Albert Ballin.

No Opposition -:- Must They? -:- Rehearsing -:- Recognize Him?

WE'RE SURE there is no opposition to Molly O'Day playing opposite Richard Barthelmess in "The Patent Leather Kid." Above is one reason. Another is that it is too late.

VIRGINIA VALLI has a part in "Ladies Must Dress." Comment: Some of them don't know that they must.

MARY EATON is rehearsing in the East for her part in a new musical comedy to make its appearance soon.

THURSTON HALL is the name of this gentleman, if you have to be told. Mr. Hall is well remembered for stock and "road" appearances here. He returned to join the Pitt players.

ACTOR SPECIALIST IN ANIMAL ROLES

Animal roles are not new to Fred Carroll, who portrays the beast from which The Gorilla," this week's attraction in the Pitt, gets its name. He has made a specialty of animal acting and traveled with Ringling Brothers' circus for many seasons.

A new-looking Gayety meets those at today's boxoffice opening for next Monday afternoon's start of the season, with "Bozo" Snyder introducing his most recent conception of revue, enlarged to a company of 60. The talkless joker comes as pacemaker for a Columbia season of bigger shows.

"Old Ironsides'" seat sale opens today for its third and last week. This engagement has been most successful in every way, pleasing the management of the Nixon as well as the patrons.

Vaudeville and photoplays in the Harris next week will include the Romaine Twins, Betty Duval and Estelle Cawthorne in "What Eighteen Minutes Can Do." The screen feature will be Tom Mix and Marjorie Daw in "Outlaws of Red River," with Mix as a Texas Ranger.

The Marconi LaTosta Revue will top the vaudeville in the Sheridan Square the first half of next week in song, dance and comedy. On the screen feature will be "Vanity," with Leatrice Joy and Charles Ray in a comedy drama of the newer generation.

Several players now prominent on Broadway were last seen here with "Band Box Revue," next week's burlesque in the Academy. Joe Penner and Mitty Devere left burlesque last season. Penner joined Greenwich Follies. September 1, when Arthur Hopkins, New York producer, opens his new show, "Burlesque," Penner and Devere will be in the cast.

"Pennsylvania Valor," heralded as a screen production that exposes the war fables and myths which have grown up around the World War, will open a limited engagement in the Cameo Saturday. The picture was taken on the actual battlefields and was woven into a story by Lieut. Col. Thomas J. Dickson, senior officer of the combat chaplains of the United States Army. Col. Dickson will make personal appearances with the film presentation and will endeavor to correct some of the misconceptions that the public has been led to believe about the war.

The picture took four years in the making. It records actual deeds of four of the greatest divisions of the American Expeditionary Forces—the Blue Ridge, the Lorraine, the Rainbow and the Keystone, all of which contained Pennsylvania men.

One of the best waltzes we've had in months is No. 20716, called C'est Vous. Played beautifully by Jacques Renard and his orchestra, with a vocal interlude by the inimitable Gene Austin.

"SAM 'N HENRY" (Correll and Godsen) with a new Victor Record. Two funny dialogues, "Sam's Big Night" and "The Morning After." Funnier, we think, than they ever were on air. All these are Victor Recordings. 75c.

Sally Gets Sister Millie A Job with John Nye; It Makes Sally Tremble

What Has Gone Before

SALLY JEROME, 20, and clever, and pretty, is the prop and mainstay of her family, which consists of Mrs. Jerome, the twins, Beau, the apple of his mother's eye, and Millie, a young siren, and Sally herself. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health so Sally does the housework mornings and office work for Mr. Peevey downtown afternoons.

In the flat below the Jeromes lives young Ted Sloan, an auto salesman who wants Sally to marry him and keep on working. But the only man in whom Sally is interested is John Nye, whose office is just across the hall from Mr. Peevey's.

One Saturday night Beau, who has been practically penniless for a week, blossoms out with some new clothes and ties, to say nothing of a guitar. In addition he lends Millie some money to buy herself a dress that she has been wanting. Sally wonders where he got the money, and begins to worry about him. For Beau works at a bank. The next day Sally leaves the Sunday dinner to cook while she does some extra work for Mr. Peevey. When she returns early in the afternoon she finds a note from Millie saying that the family have all gone for a drive with a friend of hers named Davidson and will bring him back with them to supper.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"THE FOLKS are downstairs. They're coming right up," he said to Sally. "They're having a time getting mother out of the car. Her foot's gone to sleep and I'll go back and give them a hand. But I thought I'd better bring up that cream before it melted. It's for supper."

He vanished, and Ted went down the back porch steps to his home, refusing Sally's invitation to stay to supper.

There was a shuffling on the landing outside the door a minute afterwards, and Beau and Millie appeared leading Mrs. Jerome, who groaned as she moved. Behind her came Mabel Wilmot, carrying her hand bag, her coat and a large pair of sun glasses.

"Get me into my own bed," Mrs. Jerome was wailing. "And I'll never leave it again until I'm carried out feet first. Oh, I'm paralyzed from the knees down. I know it!"

"Don't be such a fool, mother!" snapped Millie. "You know your feet are asleep and that's all that's wrong with them! You make me sick, acting like a baby! A woman old enough to be a grandmother!"

She appealed to Sally, her blue eyes tragic, her voice full of fury and disgust. "Let me tell you what she did!" she wailed. "Sat up in the front seat beside Davy all day long, and just talked an ear off him! She just ruined the whole day—the whole da-a-ay!" She lapsed into her lazy drawl, but her eyes still snapped like blue steel.

"Will you be still!" Sally shook her head at her. "Aren't you ashamed of yourself, Millie Jerome? Talking about your mother like that! You just leave her alone. I'll take care of her."

She brushed the scatter-brained trio away from her as if they had been so many Louse flies, and led her mother into her own room, where her bed, her novels, and her electric fan were waiting for her.

The strain of the long ride had completely exhausted her. But after a glass of hot milk she could be back on her pillows and talk.

"Did Mr. Davidson stay for supper?" she asked, and shook her head regretfully when Sally said that he had not stayed.

"I'm afraid he doesn't care two pins about little Millie," she said. She always instantly forgave Millie for her rudeness and went on calling her "little Millie" and petting her. "It was you he talked about all day. He told me you seemed like such a wholesome, sensible girl, and he was so disappointed this morning when he found you couldn't go with us. I'm afraid he planned this little outing just for you." She smiled romantically.

Out in the dining room Millie was crying softly to herself as she ate cold lamb and mint jelly. And when Sally tried to comfort her, she pushed her away and flounced off to bed, refusing to speak a single word.

It was not a happy Sunday evening in the Jeromes' little flat.

The first person Sally Jerome saw when she walked into the lobby of the Nye-Naylor building on Monday noon was John Nye himself.

COURT MARTIAL KISS LEADS TO ALTAR

By Universal Service.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 25.—A kiss and a court martial were two events which finally led to a warm friendship between Private William Bullard of Fort Crook and Miss Gladys and Miss Mildred Scott of Bellevue near here.

Bullard and two fellow privates were returning from a party when they spied the Scott sisters and another girl in a street car waiting station. Having a few drinks too many, the soldiers commenced a flirtation which was not returned. The soldiers then forcibly kissed the girls.

Passersby reported the incident to the army officials and a court martial resulted in Bullard and his two companions getting fifteen years in Leavenworth. A kind hearted general later reduced the sentences to two months in the brig. The girls did not report the incident but testified against the soldiers in the court martial. Later upon realizing what the sentence meant to them, the girls interceded for the boys.

The Scott girls became especially friendly with Bullard when he was released from confinement. Mildred Scott commenced sending large baskets of food to Bullard, and they were frequently seen out riding together.

Now Bullard is telling his friends that a year hence when he gets out of the army, he is taking Mildred back to his home in Springfield, Mass., where the two plan to live happily forever after.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Arrived in Washington today to examine the new White House roof.

Will Rogers.

If it don't fall on me why Mr. Coolidge can quit teasing those little perch and come on home and get to voting. Fixing up and spending four hundred thousand bucks on that house is just another one of the dozen things that makes me know he is going to run again. Can you see him spending that much dough out of his administration to fix up a house for somebody else to live in? Don't be silly. It's fixed great. He will be crazy about the old homestead when he sees it. He won't want to move out in 1932.

Paris Stunned as Tray Depicts U. S. Soldier With Nude Dancer

PARIS, Aug. 25.—An ash tray, depicting a drunken American soldier, with a champagne glass lifted high, dancing with a nude French woman, is being sold in a number of French bars and has stunned Paris.

On the ash tray are the words: "Allez up" and on the bottom of the tray is:

"American Legion. Paris, 1927."

The tray is being offered to Legionnaires by peddlers.

Prefect of Police Chiappe, on having the tray brought to his attention, told Universal Service that he has given orders for the suppression of the sale.

TEACHER SHOT BY BANDITS ON TRAIN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Vigorous representations to the Governor and military authorities of the State of Nayarit were made yesterday by J. Wilson Ives, American vice-consul at Mazatlan, for the capture and punishment of Mexican bandits who seriously wounded Miss Florence M. Anderson, of Los Angeles, in an attack on a train south of Acaponeta on the west coast.

Miss Anderson, a Pomona (Cal.) High School teacher of Spanish, and a University of Colorado graduate, was wounded in the left side, a bullet piercing her intestines, and was taken to a hospital at Mazatlan. Ives reported that an operation was deemed necessary. She was returning to California after attending a summer lecture course at the National University at Mexico City.

The attack on the train, which occurred Tuesday, was participated in by several hundred men. More than 40 shots were reported to have been fired. Miss Anderson was the only American injured out of the party of 11.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

BLOOD STREAM GIVES MARVELOUS SERVICE.

HAVE you ever thought about the important part the blood plays in the operation of the living body?

We take a lot for granted, do we not? We live and have our being, accept the facts of existence, and rarely stop to consider the means which determine our welfare.

DR. COPELAND

This attitude runs through all experiences. The child lives in blissful unconsciousness of the sacrifices being made for him by his unselfish parents. We listen to the radio without thought of how it operates. We may enjoy the music at a concert, utterly oblivious to the rules of harmony and the technique of operatic production.

Without life we could not enjoy these great gifts. But to the fundamental thing in life we give no thought.

Yet we could not live without the blood and its free circulation. Why?

The cell is the smallest division of matter possessing all the elements of life. The body and all its tissues are made up of a vast multitude of cells. They are stationary things, never leaving their places of fixed abode.

On a tiny scale a cell is like a man or an elephant. It must have care or it can't live. It must have food and be protected from external harm or it will die or be killed.

Since the cell cannot jump into an automobile or an airplane, to be carried to the place where food is to be had, some way must be provided to carry food to the cell. This is the blood's job. The blood must convey the food and carry away the waste materials.

Nature has arranged a network of blood-vessels, reaching every last cell in the body. Not a single one is beyond the watchful and complete service of the blood. A house may be so far from the post-office that no mail is delivered to it. But no cell of the human body is so far away that it does not have the full service of the blood stream.

Then kindly nature has given every cell the power to reach out into the blood stream and to take from it the food it requires for its welfare. If the blood stream contains the necessary food no cell need go hungry. The well-fed person in perfect health supplies every cell of the body with the food it needs.

But the blood has the other function I have mentioned. It carries away from the fixed cells the poisons and waste materials which may be called the garbage of life.

Of course, the carrying of food and the removal of waste are not the only functions of the blood. We have a number of glands called the "ductless glands." They generate certain fluids containing vital agents, each important to certain tissues of the body. These elements are carried by the circulating blood from their places of manufacture to places where they are to be used. In a sense, then, the blood acts as a messenger boy.

We must have blood, plenty of it, and blood of good quality. We must eat and live so that we can have an unfailing supply of pure blood. When we do this the cells of the body are nourished, renewed and stimulated to make our lives happy and successful.

A. B. B. Q.—I am 35 years of age and my hair is turning gray—is there anything that will stop this condition or would it be best to leave it alone?

A.—Some persons turn gray very early in life—if you keep your hair and scalp immaculately clean and use a good hair tonic occasionally it should keep healthy and be well-groomed looking. There is nothing that will restore the color excepting hair dyes. Leave it alone. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

G. T. Q.—Is it possible to take a person's eye out, lay it on the cheek, scrape the back and replace it? I am a graduate nurse working in eye wards, and, although I have never seen this operation performed, have a patient at least once a week tell me they have had such operation.

ALIMONY CLUB EFFORTS FAIL

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Ignoring Mrs. Marie Stiglich's complaint that the Alimony Club had influenced her husband not to pay alimony, Judge Charles A. Williams has ordered Stiglich to pay the entire amount in arrears, $200, or go to jail for contempt.

The charge that the club's counsel was advising Stiglich has nothing to do with the case, the judge ruled.

The Alimony Club's purpose is to prevent "gold-digging wives from mulcting husbands."

Last June Stiglich was ordered to pay his wife $25 a week for the support of their five children.

Stiglich's reason for failing to pay alimony was that his wife is profitably running a beauty parlor in the same house in which both continue to live, although they are estranged.

BLIMP GIVES BOY WILD RIDE

FRANKFORT, Ind., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Dangling by his feet in the ropes of a balloon in midair, Hugh Durbin, 13, miraculously escaped death late yesterday when the pilot, Charles Huggins, of Indianapolis, cut loose with his parachute at 300 feet and the empty balloon, with the boy clinging tenaciously to the ropes, dropped into a tree. The boy received only a few cuts and bruises.

The boy, standing close to the inflated bag, was caught in the ropes as it arose. Huggins cut loose when he thought the cries of the spectators indicated the balloon was on fire. The bag arose about 200 more feet before it turned over and began its descent.

"Yes, I was scared," young Durbin said as he was taken from the tree. He suffered slightly from shock.

SAYS AUTO IN CRASH STOLEN

Two hours after an automobile collision in West Carson street had sent three persons to the South Side Hospital to have their injuries dressed, Harry Herd, 27, of 1713 Stratmore avenue, reported at West End Police Station that his automobile had been stolen. Patrolman Louis Cardell arrested Herd as a driver of one of the cars in the smashup.

Sally Gets Sister Millie A Job with John Nye; It Makes Sally Tremble

of him. . . . She had forgotten just how good looking he was, with his arrow straightness, his sunburned skin and the flash of his white teeth when he grinned.

"Well, here you are!" he said, and held out his hand. "Still working for my neighbor across the hall?"

Sally shyly answered that she was. It wasn't like her to be shy, but somehow or other it was hard for her to find her voice, and to meet the dark, brilliant eyes that smiled down into her blue ones.

"Still bringing him milk, too, I see," he went on, with a glance at the bottle she carried.

Then his face grew serious.

"You remember that day in the hall when I asked you if you knew of anyone who wanted a job as secretary?" he asked.

Sally nodded dumbly.

"Well, it was you I wanted," he said deliberately. "You know that, don't you?"

She didn't, and at his words the flush that rose so easily to her face overspread it like a flood of rosy light.

"I couldn't work for you, Mr. Nye," she managed to say to him, "even if I didn't have a job. Because I work only half a day—and, anyway, my sister's out of work and she expects to come to you. She's been waiting for you to get back home—"

"Oh, I know that! And I want her to work for me," he hurried to say in his honest, hearty way. "Only I want you to know that I'd rather have you than anyone else I ever saw."

"Take the third car to the left," said the elevator starter, coming up to them, and they got in and soared up to the top of the building together.

It was the last real talk they had for a long time.

CHAPTER XIV.

LATE that afternoon John Nye came into Mr. Peevey's office to ask Sally how her sister could be reached on the telephone. And by the time Sally got home at half past six, Millie was busy making her preparations for work the next day.

She was in the bedroom throwing pair after pair of soiled silk stockings out of the clothes-closet. On her bed was a little heap of rumpled ribbons, collars and cuffs, and tinted silk underthings.

"I'm just collecting all my dirty clothes," she explained, looking up brightly as Sally came into the room. "Nye's back in town and wants me to be on the job tomorrow morning. So I wondered if you'd rinse out these few things for me after supper."

"All right, I have some stockings of my own to do, anyway," promptly replied the ever-willing Sally. "A few more things won't make much difference."

"I'd do them, myself," drawled Millie, "only I promised Jim Davidson I'd go for a drive with him. He just called me up."

Sometimes Millie spoke of her Mr. Davidson as "Jim," and just as often she called him "John." She had great numbers of men friends whom the family never had seen; and it was no wonder that she couldn't keep their names straight in her mind.

She was always talking about this one and that one. "I'm going out tonight with Jerry Hull," she would say; or, "Don't expect me home early tonight because Tom Miles wants me to take in a show with him."

"I think it's terrible for a girl to know so many men," Mrs. Jerome would complain every now and then. "And especially men that you never bring home for me to meet—When I was a girl I had one young man and I entertained him in my father's parlor!"

"Yes, and look where it's landed you! On the dump-heap!" Millie's soft little voice would answer her brutally, and that always ended the argument.

That night Millie came home from her automobile ride before 10 o'clock, which was an unheard-of hour for Millie to come home from anything. She often said that she didn't begin to really live until after dark. She was a born night-owl.

"But I wanted to get some beauty sleep tonight," she told Sally in her delicious drawl when they were in their room undressing. "I hate to look like a complete wash-out the first day I start working for a man."

"Especially," she added, "when the man happens to be a regular swivel-sheik like John Nye!" And before she got into bed she put an extra layer of cold cream on her face, and a pinker polish than usual on her sharp little fingernails.

The next day was Tuesday.

On Wednesday Millie went out to lunch with John Nye. She was what Beau called "a fast worker."

She came fluttering into Mr. Peevey's office at half-past 12 with her hat pulled down over the gold scallops of her hair, and her blue eyes dancing between their painted lashes. Her clothes filled the room with perfume the minute she entered it.

"Honey lamb," she said to Sally, all outward sweetness, "my Beautiful Boss has asked me to go to lunch with him—and I wonder if you'll answer our 'phone while we're gone?"

Mr. Peevey was scowling at her horribly, and looking more like the Yellow Dwarf than usual. But she pretended not to see him and went on: "I'll leave both doors open so you can hear it if it does ring. We'll be back in an hour."

She danced out, leaving Sally to fight the jealousy that had swept over her in a sudden strong wave.

SHE'S had her own way ever since she was a tiny, adorable bit of pink and white loveliness. Everyone fell beneath the glance of her laughing eyes and her path is strewn with the victims of her innocent wiles. Like Caesar, she is ever seeking new worlds to conquer, but he fell under Cleopatra's spell and the victor was vanquished. And little Miss Loveliness will some day meet the same fate.

So long has she danced her way down Life's rosy path, conquering the hearts of all, that she feels confident that defeat and vanquishment will never be her lot. But she must beware, for there will come a day when One who falls beneath the spell of her charming little self will masterfully proceed to adopt the role of King of her heart, and the victor will be vanquished!

And Love, the true conqueror, will steal the sceptre from them both and sway their lives with the bright happiness of his despotic reign, and the Victor and the Vanquished will bow in grateful obeisance to his stern demands.

Ritzy Rosey

Ritzy Rosey's dress is made of a material which creates the illusion that she is clothed only in candy stick stripes! The background of the knitted material is nude. The manufacturer of the material was so shocked with the uncanny results of his efforts that he immediately changed the effect, but not before Ritzy Rosey bought a frock of it.

WHAT'S the ANSWER?

1. Who said "Why don't you speak for yourself, John?" What was the occasion?
2. What was the Battle of the Kegs?
3. The wife of what famous Grecian leader was famous for her constancy?
4. What are the Romance languages?
5. What was the first steamship to cross the Atlantic?
6. Why does an iron ship float?
7. What people are called "cockneys"?
8. How many muscles are there in the human body?
9. What is the significance of the phrase "Dieu et mon Droit"?
10. Where is the key of the Bastille?

The answers to these questions may be found in tomorrow's paper.

Here are the answers to yesterday's questions.

1. On the summit of the Downs, in the Down country of Southern England, are many artificial shallow ponds, which contain water even in dry weather. These are called "Dew Ponds," but the water is not so much dew as water condensed from fogs. There is also greater rainfall on the tops of the Downs than there is in the valleys.
2. The "Anzacs" were the troops from Australia and New Zealand in the great war. The name is a composite word made by the initial letters of the words "Australian New Zealand Army Corps."
3. The oldest extant city in the world is Damascus, in Syria.
4. A gila monster is a large lizard of Arizona, New Mexico, etc. It and one other are the only poisonous lizards known.
5. A printer's devil is a printer's apprentice, first so called in the days of the hand press, when he managed an ink-roller and frequently became blackened with the ink.
6. Cathay is the ancient name of China.
7. The Lion of Lucerne is a monument in Lucerne which commemorates the members of the Swiss Guard who fell in defense of the Tuileries at Paris on August 10, 1792. It was designed by Thorwaldsen.
8. In ancient times the delivery of a shoe was used as a testimony in transferring a possession. Throwing an old shoe after a daughter on her departure for a new home symbolized that the parents gave up all right or dominion over her.
9. According to a clerk in the Coast and Geodetic Survey office, Nome received its present name by mistake. Finding on the map a headland for which he had no name, he wrote in the word "Name?" This was misread as Nome, and the cape and town on it are still known by that name.
10. The Phoenix was a fabulous sacred bird of the Egyptians. The bird was supposed to live for 500 or 600 years. As death approached it built for itself a funeral pyre, which it set on fire by the fanning of its wings. It is supposed to have risen from the ashes again in youth and vigor.

Sweet Pickled Peaches.

Put five pounds of sugar and three pints of vinegar into the preserve kettle. Add a large spice bag filled with broken cinnamon, cloves and a little piece of green ginger. Slice a fresh lemon very thinly, remove the seeds and add. Cook gently for six minutes, skimming well, then slip in seven pounds of peeled peaches. Cook until peaches are tender, then lift them with a skimmer to a yellow bowl. Cook the syrup down until rich and a little reduced, return the peaches and cook long enough to heat through, then pour into a hot dry crock. When cool, cover and store. The peaches may be canned in sealed jars if more convenient.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

FRIDAY, AUG. 26, 1927.

Astrologers find this an uncertain day in planetary direction and they counsel caution in all important matters while this configuration prevails.

There is a rather threatening sign affecting farmers and all who till the lands. Dissatisfaction with government restrictions as well as with unfavorable weather is indicated.

Under this direction of the stars there may be strikes and labor troubles of various sorts, although there is an aspect read as of special advantage to workers of every vocation.

The old continue under rather a sinister sway, making for the end of many noteworthy careers in art as well as in public life.

Although it may seem that few supermen and superwomen are developing to take the place of those who are passing out of life, the seers declare that many brilliant minds are prepared for big service.

Great events are to demonstrate that the United States has citizens equal to supreme emergencies, astrologers announce.

This is a fairly favorable sway for workers, if they permit the mind to rule the heart.

Weddings today should be fortunate, especially in a worldly way, for the stars presage prosperity, even though it is Friday.

Contracts signed today should be lucky and actors may be assured that agreements made today will bring success.

This is an auspicious planetary government for all sorts of publicity and advertising. Newspapers and magazines will benefit.

Neptune is in a place which is believed to foreshadow many dubious scheme for obtaining money. Speculation should be avoided.

Much agitation regarding public enterprises for the building of bridges, hospitals and even fortifications may be expected.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of gain through friends who will open doors to wonderful opportunity.

Children born on this day are likely to be endowed with great charm of personality, strong character and power to attain sensational success.

Derivation of Bridge's Name.

KNIGHTSBRIDGE, England, is believed to have derived its name from the fact that two knights on their way to the Bishop of Fulham quarreled and fought to the death on the bridge.

Magazine Page

Paints Regardless of "Dead" Hands.

ALTHOUGH his hands are both "dead," as the result of war wounds, an artist has recently shown some of his pictures in London. His work has also appeared in the Royal Academy.

Dorothy Dix Says:

MARRIAGE IS MADE OR MARRED FOR A WOMAN BY HER HUSBAND'S DISPOSITOIN.

A CORRESPONDENT asks: "What qualities should a girl look for in the man she marries?"

Of course, the conventional reply to this question is that she should find out if her prospective husband is honest and honorable, thrifty and industrious, and that he doesn't drink or gamble or chase petticoats.

But, as a cold matter of fact, a man's manners have more to do with making his wife happy than his morals. The amenities score higher than the virtues in domestic life.

Some of the best men in the world, judged by ethical standards, are the worst husbands. There are plenty of men who are pillars of the church and leading citizens and who are held up as examples to the youth in the communities in which they live who break their wives' hearts by their coldness and neglect, and make their homes places of terror by their tempers. It is no comfort to a woman to know that her husband does not lie nor steal nor philander if he is hard and unsympathetic and stern and penurious and faultfinding and grouchy.

This explains what is popularly considered to be the crowning feminine inconsistency, and that is the attitude that widows so often take toward their dead husbands. We see a wife "bear up" with amazing fortitude—even cheerfulness—under the loss of a husband who has been a perfect paragon of all the virtues, while another woman never ceases to mourn the death of a man who was a hopeless derelict.

And the answer is, that only the woman who lived with the man knew what sort of a husband he was.

Therefore, if I were a young woman contemplating matrimony, the thing upon which I would lay most stress would be the man's disposition, for that is the thing with which the wife is going to have to contend every day of her life and that is what is going to make her marriage a success or failure.

If a man is cheerful and good-natured, if he meets the ups and downs of life with philosophy, he will make a happy home. But if he is pessimistic and gloomy and grumpy, if he flares into tempers over trifles and lapses into sullen silences over anything that goes wrong, then he will make the sort of a husband who causes his wife to wish that some kindly assassin had killed her on her wedding day.

Pick out for a husband a man who is good-natured and easy to get along with. If during his courting days you have to keep a boy placated, if you have to jolly him along and stroke his fur the right way to keep him in an amiable humor, and if you have to think twice before you speak for fear of saying something that will rile him and start a row, for heaven's sake be warned in time. That sort of chap will make a husband who will keep his wife walking on eggs the rest of her days. And that's a form of exercise which will make any woman mighty tired in a short time.

Then observe the man's attitude toward yourself. Is he critical? Is he always finding fault with your little mannerisms? Does he dictate to you about what you shall wear and where you shall go and with whom you shall be friends and generally undertake to regulate your life?

Beware of him. The naggers don't all belong to the female persuasion, and a man nagger has nagging developed to a degree that no mere woman can ever hope to attain. That sort of husband bosses the life out of his wife and she has less freedom than any slave that ever lived.

Nothing that she can possibly do pleases him, and when he is at home he spends his time snooping in the icebox and peering in the garbage can and raising ructions over everything she does and leaves undone. Any wife will make plenty of mistakes, so she had best pick out for a husband a man who will turn a blind eye on her shortcomings instead of one who is a hammer-wielder by nature and who will find his chief diversion in knocking her.

Never marry a jealous man. There are girls idiotic enough to be flattered by a man's jealousy and to think it a proof of love. In reality jealousy is always and insult, because it betrays lack of trust. The man who is jealous of his wife has no faith in her. He believes that she is capable of doing the things of which he suspects her.

There is no living in peace with a jealous man, because no matter how straight and honest you are, he believes the worst of you. No matter how discreet you are in your conduct, he imputes to you every vice his dirty imagination can conjure up.

Observe whether the man you are thinking of marrying is tender and sympathetic or not. If he kicks every dog out of his way, if he calls all children brats, if he is rude to old women, if he sneers at sentiment, don't marry him, though you are positive he is your last call to the dining car.

There are times when you will be sick, when you will be down on your luck, when you have done silly things that you are sorry for, when the only refuge life will offer you will be to sob it all out on the second button of your husband's waistcoat. And if he fails you then and tells you not to make a fool of yourself, marriage will be dust in your teeth.

Watch how a man spends money. Marry neither the spendthrift nor the tightwad. Pass up the bluffer who makes a show of doing things he can't afford and who throws dollar bills around as if they grew on trees; but doubly pass up the man who never can find his pocketbook until after somebody else has paid the check and who only parts with a nickel after a major surgical operation. A man's tips give you a very good line on how he will hand out money to his wife.

In a word, daughter, when you do a little Sherlock Holmes-ing on a husband, observe whether he is amiable, whether he is cheerful, whether he is good-natured and easy to get along with, whether he is uncritical and anxious to be pleased, whether he is just and generous about money.

And if he has these qualities, say "YES." He will make the kind of husband that will keep a woman thanking God for her luck until her Golden Wedding Day.

Hashed Browned Potatoes

Peel and wash white potatoes, cut them into inch-square dice. Boil in salted water until tender, then drain off water. Pour into buttered pudding dish and pour over them a rich, well-seasoned sauce. Cover and bake in good oven 20 minutes, then uncover and brown richly and serve.

Apple Pie With Cheese

Line deep pie plate with paste and fill with pared and sliced apples, mounding them in center. Mix ½ cup sugar, with ½ teaspoon salt and 1-2 each of nutmeg and cinnamon, place over apples, then cover with layer thinly sliced cheese. Moisten edges of paste with water, cover with paste having several gashes cut into it, press edges firmly together, brush with milk and bake about 40 minutes. Serve hot.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer — By John Held, Jr.

"My dear, you should honestly SEE the odd HORSE that ARab has acquired to play POlo on at this point. ACtually, you have never GAZED upon such a positively perVERted SPEcimen because I mean it HONestly looks like NOTHing HUman, do you know what I mean? Well, ANYways, my dear, I NEARLY had hysTERics when he introDUCED me to this peculiar-looking EQUinox because it was practicable on the VERGE of collAPSE, no less, but I mean the FUNniest part ABOUT it all is the REASon he says he acQUIRED this odd NAG, because I means he says the OTHer polo ponies he has been riding have cramped his STYLE because every time he takes a WALlop at the BALL they give him the HORSE LAUGH—can you BEAR it, my dear? I mean it is honestly paTHETic to see anybody as SENsitive as ARab, because I mean he sort of FEELS things like that TERribly—don't you REALly think he DOES, my dear? Well, ANYways, it is actually too exCRUciating because this NEW nag that he is about to play POlo on will prob'ly go PEACEfully to SLEEP in the middle of a game, or something, but when I told ARab that, my dear, he was sub-LIMEly unconCERNED because he said he was sure of ONE thing, ANYways, which was that at LEAST he was sure that this odd 'ANimal didn't know enough about the GAME to LAUGH at him when he made misTAKES—can you BEAR it, my dear?"

Quicksands of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

A New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

AT MY refusal to go for a longer drive, with dinner as an accompaniment, Philip Veritzen, for the fractional part of a second, turned a rapier-like glance upon me, one with which I guessed he was testing the sincerity of my words. When he glanced away again I felt as if my thought had been stripped of all concealing draperies for his viewing.

That he knew the turmoil in my mind which Dick's look and contemptuous non-recognition had caused, I was miserably certain. The only comfort I had was his prompt acquiescence in my decision. I had been afraid that he would demur with a courteous insistence which I would have found it hard to resist. Instead he assumed a fatherly kindliness which is of all his poses the most irresistible. I am afraid that I never can believe that any of his varying moods are not mental posturings before the mirror of his own vanity.

"I will not urge you, my dear child," he said with a respectful tenderness my own father could not have bettered. "You, of course, know your own affairs best. Otto shall take you directly home. But, please, may I not hope that our little jaunt is only postponed?"

Assent was the quickest and easiest rejoinder, and I felt as if I could not bear the slightest touch of controversy. The thing I wanted was to get to my home in the most rapid time possible, although I had no conscious reason for the desire.

"Oh, I'd love to go some other time,' I said, reflecting that I had spoken only the truth, and that I also had made no promise.

He smiled benignly and laid his hand upon the door.

"Will you forgive me if I get out here and walk while Otto takes you back?" he asked. "This stretch along the drive is one of my favorite jaunts, and I shall have time for just about as long a one as I wish while Otto is making the trip down to your apartment and back again. No," as I looked up at him with troubled, contrite eyes, "you have not upset my plans at all. Of course, I shall not enjoy my solitary walk as much as I should a drive and dinner with you, but perhaps it will be better for me."

The smile on his lips had a tinge of irony in it, and I was glad indeed to have him turn his attention from me to the waiting chauffeur.

"Otto" he said crisply. "Drive Mrs. Graham to her apartment, then come directly back for me. If I am not walking along this side of the street toward the south, you will find me down the embankment at the usual place."

He had alighted from the car before he gave the direction, and when he had finished he turned to me with a low, ceremonious bow.

"To the next time," he said, and as the big car sped homeward, I pondered not only that significant farewell but the more puzzling fact of his sending me home alone. Was it possible that from my manner he had deduced an expectation of Dicky's returning home in a furious mood, and that he hastily had arranged matters so that there would be no possibility of his meeting my irate husband? Of one thing I was sure, however. If he had contemplated such a contretemps, his only thought in avoiding it was to save me unpleasantness. Whatever faults Philip Veritzen might have, cowardice was not one of them.

But as dinner time came with Dicky's chair empty, and the evening wore on with no sign of him, I began to wonder if I were as brave in the face of threatened storm as I had counted myself. And when, at almost midnight, I was preparing in the kitchenette Dicky's iced fruit drink which I had neglected in the earlier part of the evening, I dropped my knife and cried out in absurd terror as I turned to reach the sugar canister and saw my husband glowering at me from the doorway.

Peach Cobbler.

Line a shallow square baking pan with good short pie crust finishing the edge by marking with the tines of a floured fork. Pare, halve and stone enough ripe peaches to cover the bottom, sprinkle with sugar, strew with chopped blanched sweet almonds, cover with another layer of peaches, sprinkle thickly with sugar, scatter a few nuts and dust with a teaspoonful of mixed spice. Mix two tablespoonfuls of honey with the juice of half a lemon, a teaspoonful of vanilla and a tablespoonful of melted butter. Sprinkle this mixture over the fruit and bake until the crust is done and the fruit soft. Serve hot or cold with cream.

"I enjoy reading all those letters from Rinso users because their experiences are so much like my own. Why, I depend entirely on Rinso for the weekly wash—and for my housecleaning, too. The safe Rinso suds certainly get clothes white—whiter even than harsh bar soaps and powders, and you hardly have to rub them at all. It saves me money, too, because with Rinso, you don't need to waste gas boiling clothes, or even use a water softener. And you ought to see how bright and clean Rinso washes dishes, sinks, floors, and bathroom tiles."

MRS. PAUL P. REICH,

South Side, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Millions use Rinso. Thousands write us letters like this.

Week's wash easy now, So. 9th St. woman says:

Whiter—without scrubbing

that's why millions of women choose this safe laundry soap—for washer or tub

WHAT clever woman wouldn't choose a soap that ends scrubbing and boiling—that does away forever with the old-fashioned washboard?

No ordinary soaps can do what Rinso does! You'll see for yourself when you use it. In machine or tub, clothes get whiter and brighter than ever—without one bit of hard rubbing!

Softens hardest water

With Rinso you don't even need to boil the clothes, for it whitens without boiling. Sterilizes, too—that's how clean it gets the wash!

Rinso gives such thick, creamy suds—even in the hardest water. These cleansing suds loosen dirt and stains—so they float off by themselves. And it's so economical! All you need on washday—no bar soaps, chips, powders or water softeners.

So safe; contains nothing to harm your finest cottons or linens.

Millions of women have changed to Rinso—because they know that Rinso actually soaks clothes whiter than hard rubbing could get them. No wonder the makers of 31 leading washing machines highly endorse it!

Try it—next washday!

Be sure to get Rinso from your grocer in time for next washday. For economy and best results, follow the easy directions on the package.

Guaranteed by the makers of Lux—Lever Bros. Co.

Great for tub washing

If you do your wash by hand, you'll find that Rinso saves all hard work. Even the most soiled cuffs and edges come snowy with little or no rubbing. Saves hands—saves clothes.

JONES AND OUIMET LEAD

MACKENZIE AND EVANS ALSO IN FRONT

BULLETIN.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 25.—Bobby Jones "went crazy" after making the turn for home and by shooting the next three holes in 4—3—3 became 6 up on Jimmy Johnston.

Jones won the thirteenth and fourteenth and was 8 up on Johnston.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 25.—Bobby Jones, Francis Ouimet, Chick Evans and Roland MacKenzie were leaders at the finish of the first nine holes of the 36-hole semi-finals in the national amateur golf tournament here today.

Jones gained a lead of 3 up on Harrison Johnston, Evans held an advantage of 1 up over Eddie Held, Ouimet set the pate for Findlay by 1 up and Harry Legg, conqueror of George Von Elm, trailed MacKenzie, 2 down.

Bobby Jones had a poor drive from the first tee, and the hooked ball hit a man on the head. The man dropped, but revived, while the ball bounced off his sconce to the fairway, allowing the Atlanton to pitch on and halve the hole with Johnston in par 4.

BOBBY'S DRIVE HITS FAN

Jones' drive hit the spectator in the face, and he was taken to an emergency Red Cross station nearby for examination. Bobby hurried to the scene of the accident and got the assurance of the injured man, who said he was a doctor, that the injury was not serious. The doctor urged Jones not to worry about the incident and assured him he would be all right, the main damage being his inability to follow the rest of the play.

The man hit by Jones' first drive was D. F. Gosin, Minneapolis. The blow did not cut the temple, but the impact was such that he was stunned. He was carried to the hospital, although he protested he could walk. He sat up in the Red Cross station, seeming somewhat dazed.

The misadventure did not bother Jones' game on the next two holes, as he scored par and was one up, because Johnston, approaching, took exactly five on the 441-yard second. Bobby holed a 10-foot putt for a four on the second.

Jones' pitch on the short third was seven feet from the cup, while Johnston was 35 feet short, but ran up to within two feet and laid Jones a partial stymie, halving in 3.

Jones took a six on the 524-yard fourth and Johnston won with a birdie 4 to square the match, but the local star lost the sixth to a par 3 and was one down again.

Grid Season Inaugurated As Dukes Hold Practice

BIG SQUAD IS DRILLED BY COACH LAYDEN

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

FOOTBALL, the most dashing, thrilling, spilling sport of sports, is here again! Fifty eager, enthusiastic candidates for the varsity squad of Duquesne University faced their new mentor, Coach Elmer Layden, renowned as a Notre Dame star, this morning to inaugurate the season. And the weather kept up with the times; a bit of crispness was in the air, the skies a bit overshadowed with gray clouds as of fall.

The Dukes started preparation for their strenuous season in earnest, although the workout in all was very light in comparison to what is to come. Limbering up of the muscles and skull work took up the better portion of the initial practice.

The squad is the largest to turn out for the Bluff team in years; with 50 candidates on the scene, another 15 are due to arrive tonight. And from all appearances there is some mighty good material in hand for Layden to build his machine.

Layden looked over his squad carefully this morning. He has not, as yet, laid any definite plans, except that the boys are to be kept in strict training from now until the end of the season, with sleeping quarters in the gymnasium. Once the boys are limbered and their muscles a bit more springy, work will be pressed upon them until they are moulded into a fit machine for the regular schedule.

Manager of Athletics John Holahan has provided everything in the way of equipment for the squad, and their sleeping quarters, while in training, have been made as comfortable as possible to withstand the aches and sores that are to come in the near future.

Coach Layden is very pleased with the size of his squad, and, while he is somewhat pessimistic at this time as to the results he will obtain, is eager to get down to the real work with all of the preliminaries out of the road.

CHAPTER VI.

A HAM SANDWICH, under the proper circumstances and with plenty of mustard, is to me a work of art. I am a great admirer of the ham sandwich.

But I'm willing to admit it is no dish to set before a 32-year-old battler on the day before he is supposed to fight Jack Sharkey. The sandwich that Dempsey ate on the afternoon of July 20 almost forced me to call off the big fight.

It made Dempsey sick, and it was no trifling sickness, either. He became bilious and beads of perspiration broke out on his forehead. I felt his head and it was cold and clammy.

Looking back now, I realize I never should have allowed him to eat it. On the exterior, Dempsey appears to be a man without nerves. Actually, he is quite the opposite. He burns up inside. The stomach of a man like him should be given only the plainest of food on the eve of an important event.

Years ago, Dr. J. Bentley Squire gave me a prescription for a nervous stomach. It comes in the form of a powder and I always carry some of it with me.

When I realized the condition Dempsey was in, I pulled out my powder and mixed it up in a glass.

"Here you are, Jack, down this, and you'll feel better," I said.

Dempsey paid me a compliment

BUCS CALL OFF EXHIBITION

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

BOSTON, Aug. 25.—Owing to the pileup of doubleheaders involving the Pirates, Manager Dixie Bush and Secretary Sam Watters of the Pittsburgh Club, this morning called off the exhibition game scheduled at Baltimore for Sunday.

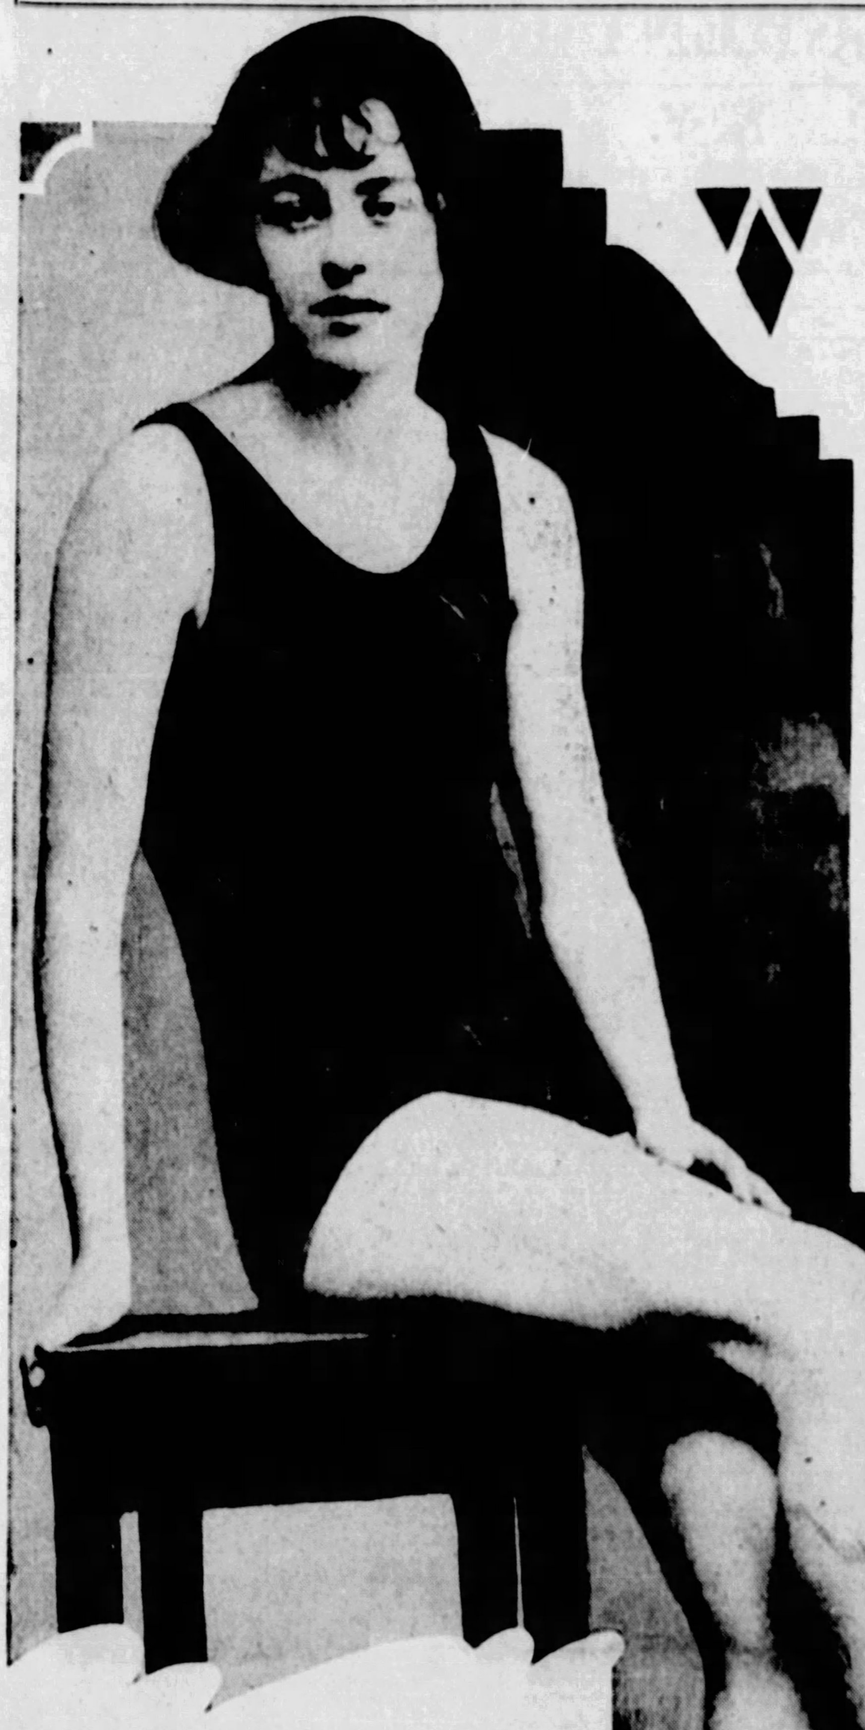
The postponement of yesterday means that the Pirates must play three bargain bills in the next five days, and with so much at stake, Manager Bush did not wish to overwork his players by engaging in side attractions. It had been arranged to take the main body of Pirates to Baltimore from Boston with the first-string pitchers going to Philadelphia on another train, but now that the exhibition contest has been cancelled the whole team will go direct to Philadelphia.

TUG PHILLIPS BEATS TOD SMITH HANDILY

MEADVILLE, Pa., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Losing but one round, Tug Phillips, Pittsburgh welterweight, easily won a 10-round decision over Tod Smith, of Canton, at the Conneaut Lake Temple of Music last night. Phillips weighed 143 pounds and Smith 146.

Whitey Stevenson, Erie, 139, defeated Ray Collins, Warren, Pa., 133, in a fast eight-round semi-final. In a six-round bout Jack Drake, Farrell, 146, defeated Stanley Deer, Erie, 144, while a four-round preliminary ended in the third round with Mickey Solomon, New Castle, 126, winning on a technical knockout over Dick Anthony, Meadville, 124.

ANOTHER DISTRICT STAR



THROUGH the SPORT LENS by HAVEY BOYLE

REPORTS from the Pirates in Boston say the boys are full of fight for the Boston series. This is distinctly a news item, as the Pirates seem to make a specialty of donning their fighting togs only for the good clubs while taking games with weaker clubs as something in the nature of a picnic.

Havey J. Boyle.

However, since the Braves took three straight from the Corsairs in Pittsburgh, thereby almost shoving them out of the pennant race, and since Bancroft moved legally against Earl Smith, Pirate catcher, a move which prevents Smith's participation in the Boston series, perhaps the Pirates have come to realize that the poison of a Brave is just as deadly as the poison contained in the Cubs, Giants and Cardinals.

OF course, Chicago fans make the same complaint against the Cubs. The Cubs, too, lost a great advantage through poor work against the lowly Bostonians. What hurt the Cubs was that their infield, which works like a clock in Pittsburgh, sort of blew up in Boston, with the result that fairly good pitching by Cub hurlers went for naught.

IT seems to be a general failing of the first division clubs to lapse a little when they come upon soft prey. They just can't get worked up to a frenzy if the opposition is inconsequential. This may be explained by the theory that it takes two to make a fight and if the weaker club shows no grude then the superior club acts in friendly

DAYTON, Aug. 25.—Guy V. Dering, of Columbia, Wis., was elected to succeed himself as president of the Amateur Trapshooting Association at a meeting of the state delegates held late last evening. Every state in the union was represented at the meeting as well as the Panama Canal Zone and the Canadian provinces. O. N. Ford, Del Monte, Cal., was elected as president of the Pacific, and John W. Eshelman, Lancaster, was re-elected as vice president of the Eastern Coast. Ike Andrews, of North Carolina, was elected to succeed Ulcy B. Brooks, of Columbia S. C., as the Southern vice president. While state delegates of the association prevailed upon Brooks again to assume command, he refused to again be a candidate. W. W. Sunderland, of Dayton, was selected to serve as treasurer of the organization and Horace Bonser will serve as manager of the permanent home of the association at Vandalia.

KLINGENSMITH TO RACE AT BRIDGEVILLE TRACK

Carl Klingensmith, of Akron, O., daring racing pilot, who is admittedly the comedian of the speed sport, will be numbered among the entrants in the two thrilling holiday spectacles that have been arranged for the Pittsburgh-Bridgeville Board Speedway Labor Day afternoon.

Klingensmith is a happy-go-lucky, carefree type of a driver who takes victory or defeat or honors or obstacles as they are dished out to him without question. He is a hard-driving, reckless sort of a duelist on the track, but is noted for his clean and fair style of driving.

It is almost a cinch bet that Klingensmith will be found tooling a racing creation at the finish of any race in which he is an entrant, even if his own car is forced out of the race, as he has a big reputation with all the knights of the wheel as a splendid relief driver. When a pilot who is finding the going tough sees that Klingensmith has been forced to retire he usually loses no time in surrendering his seat to the Akron driver.

MICKEY WALKER EASY WINNER OVER YARBO

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Wilson Yarbo, Cleveland Negro, took a severe beating from Mickey Walker here last night in a bout that went the scheduled 12 rounds to a decision in favor of the world's middleweight champion.

Walker found the big Negro with a tough stomach that was made the target for dozens of the champion's blows, but failed to topple him from his feet. Mickey took every round by a wide margin and in the last round Yarbo was hanging on to avoid a knockout.

Ticket Scalping Note—Tunney is Training at Speculator, N. Y.

★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★

DAMON RUNYON SAYS

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—In his training camp at Saratoga Springs Mr. Dempsey remarked to me: "I'll knock this fellow Sharkey out, and then I'll knock Tunney out. If Tunney couldn't put me off my feet when I was in the condition I was at Philadelphia, how is he going to beat me when I'm in good condition?" I had no answer to this interrogation. In the first place, I did not know what condition Mr. Dempsey was in at Philadelphia. I heard rumors of corns, bunions, eczema, tuberculosis and Mickey Finn, but none of my personal medical staff made any examination of Mr. Dempsey.

DAMON RUNYON.

I ADMIT he looked somewhat peakish when he came into the ring, but I attributed this to the fact that Mr. Jack Kearns was seated at the ringside, and was putting the voodoo glare on Mr. Dempsey, which was enough to make any man look peakish. But I knew none of the terrible details that were subsequently unloaded on the public, giving the general impression that Mr. Tunney licked a man who had one foot in the grave and the other on a banana peel. As I saw the fight, regardless of Mr. Dempsey's condition, he got a jolly good shellacking. I have known fighters to go into the ring running temperatures up around 104 and do better. I have known fighters to go into the ring with a broken hand, and sometimes two of 'em, and show up more gallantly. It struck me that Mr. Dempsey simply could not get untracked, wherefore he stuck in the rut of defeat.

I HAVE seen him in a number of other battles when he could not get untracked for some time. I mean he could not get going, as a man on any job may not be able to get going on his work, however familiar he may be with it. Mr. Dempsey floundered for seven or eight rounds against Mr. Bill Brennan. He was behind for eight rounds against Mr. Tom Gibbons. Then he finally commenced to get up steam, and to put something on his punches. He is just naturally that type of fighter. There are hundreds of others like him. They often cannot get going for several rounds—sometimes not until the referee raises the other guy's hand, which is a very late start, indeed.

AGAINST the terrible Sharkey man, as I saw the fight, Mr. Dempsey did not get going until the seventh round. Then he came out of his corner with his old-time sprint, animated perhaps by a discovery that he confided to Mr. Bill Duffy in his corner: "I've got this fellow dogging it now." I have no doubt whatever that after he got home from Philadelphia and got to thinking the thing all over again, Mr. Dempsey made up his mind, honestly and sincerely, that he could do far better against Mr. Tunney if he got another chance. I believe his acceptance of the match with the terrible Sharkey man is proof of this. He could have found many far "softer touches," as we say at the club, than the terrible Sharkey man.

UNLESS, of course, Mr. Dempsey felt that the terrible Sharkey man was a "soft touch," a reflect on the Sharkey man's ability that is quite uncalled for. He could have grabbed as much money as he got for fighting Sharkey in two or three mere gallops against the round heels brigade of Fistiana.

BUT I have further proof of Mr. Dempsey's sincerity in his comeback enterprise. I thought his alleged training in the California hills for some weeks before he came East was strictly the bunkerino until I learned recently that Mr. Dempsey had with him his old sparring mate, George Godfrey, the Black Shadow of Leiperville. It was a secret tryst, that never became public. Mr. Dempsey and the manager of the Black Shadow do not speak as they pass by, but the Shadow himself thinks well of Mr. Dempsey, with a couple of thoughts for the salary that Mr. Dempsey pays a sparring partner of his ability.

WITHOUT mentioning the matter to his manager, the Black Shadow faded into the hills with Mr. Dempsey and they would box together several times a week, always under cover. In public Mr. Dempsey had sparring mates of lighter caliber. Godfrey was with him two months. The Shadow told me this himself the other day. He said that Mr. Dempsey always seemed to have his old punch, but that his legs were gone.

THEY seemed somewhat gone at Saratoga and in the ring at the Yankee Stadium. There may not be much left of them at Chicago. It is most difficult for a fighter to regain his legs after they once commence to sag under him, as legs will do when a man is crowding into the thirties, and beyond, especially a man who has used his legs as Mr. Dempsey has used his in the ring.

BUT, of course, Mr. Dempsey now knows that his legs are the matter with him. I mean to say he realizes that their weakness is his weakness, and he undoubtedly will do all he can to repair the old props in the next few weeks. But, after the legs go, not much remains in a fighter.

IN MR. TUNNEY I fear Mr. Dempsey will find no such stupidity as rejoiced him in the terrible Sharkey man. Mr. Tunney probably will take any mean advantage he can of those pining pins of Mr. Dempsey's by moving around now and then. Had the terrible Sharkey man just

Pitcairn May Quit

By TOM BIRKS.

UNABLE to make baseball a paying venture, Stowe has decided to withdraw as a member of the Allegheny County League with a week of the league schedule still remaining. As a result of this decision Stowe loses its forfeit of $100, but with three home games booked requiring guarantees of $75 to its opponents, the Stowe management believes it has saved itself considerable expense by withdrawing at this stage rather than finishing the season with a greater dificit.

Rumors in local independent circles have it that Pitcairn will follow Stowe in quiting league baseball. Pitcairn, like Stowe, has been unable to get into its winning stride and as a result patronage at the home games was not up to expectations. Nothing definite has been announced by the Pitcairn backers as to what they intend to do.

SOCCER

by TOM BIRKS

THE re-election of Tom Clark to the presidency, Walter Hogg of Clan Cameron as vice president, Leo Thornburg of Ambridge as secretary and James Thompson of Clan Cameron as treasurer marked the regular scheduled meeting of the Scottish Clan Soccer League at the Hotel Henry last evening.

Just how the Saturday loop will close its chart and proceed with the schedule making could not be settled at last evening's session. It is assured, however, that Cameron, McPherson, Donora and Ambridge will go along in the circuit. Two others may be induced to join, and the next meeting, September 7, will decide that question.

The West Penn monthly session was also marked with quite a little action. The principal item of business was the lifting of the ban on the players of the Washington County League. The removal of this allows nearly 100 players to sign elsewhere this season.

However, the suspension on the officers of that circuit still stands, and from the outlook there is very little chance of that going into force unless something that happened at the final game last season is remedied. But the players are the most important and now can sign wherever they please.

Fans will be pleased to know Allan Clark, son of Tom Clark, is rapidly convalescing at the Homeopathic Hospital from a serious operation, and expects to be around when the opening game is played.

The Keystone club of the Valley League, combining players and officials, has been suspended by the governing body. Something happened in the championship of that league and the West Penn took action. Other clubs should be guided accordingly.

Managers are warned in filling out forms for players it must be distinctly stated whom the last club the player was with. All forms not having this information will be returned by Secretary Sam Park.

The governing body also has lifted the ban on the Curry grounds. Whether a team will operate in Broughton this season has not yet been stated.

Rumors have it that Pittsburgh has signed Gerald Mangus, star goalkeeper of the Chartiers Valley League last season, who also played for John Dreamich at Cuddy, and that Howard Mangus, center half of the West Penn Champions, also will be with Jack Lowther's outfit.

George Hill of the McKeesport United outfit was restored to the good graces of organized soccer. This should be welcome news to soccer fans of the Tube City.

Our old friend Pete Kilday is reported to be getting in trim for the season. The former Duquesne University star is one of the most valuable halfbacks in the district.

PAGLIA, ELLWOOD CITY GRIDDER, TO JOIN DUKES

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 25.—Joe Paglia, former Ellwood City high school football star, left here today for Pittsburgh where he will begin grid training at Duquesne University. Paglia was one of the best players on the local high school squad.

GRAYS OUT TO PASS MARK

Having passed the century mark in victories the Homestead Grays are now set on equalling or surpassing the figure they established last season when they turned in 141 triumphs and to this end the Grays are going to try for a clean sweep in their three-game series with the Cleveland Hornets, which will be played at Forbes Field.

Fair or Foul?

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

FAIR or foul?

This anguished cry will go up in Pittsburgh next week, when the official moving pictures of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight will be shown at three local theaters by the Davis-Stanley interests. The newspapers have been so full of varied opinions on the finish of the important battle, with one side contending Dempsey scored a clean-cut knockout and the other that he won on a foul, that the pictures have taken on value such as is attached to few other sets of fight films. They show the fight by rounds, with slow motion running of the alleged foul blows. They do not give a clear view of the disputed punches because they were taken from the wrong side of the ring. They show Dempsey's left arm, but not his right, at the important moment, which is unfortunate, for, if the order had been reversed, the question of whether or not a foul had been committed could be definitely settled. However, the films are interesting throughout, and so is the fact that they are to be shown here when there is a federal law against the interstate transportation of fight films.

The actual exhibiting of the pictures does not constitute a felony; the law provides a penalty only for bringing the pictures into a state other than the one in which they were taken. The punishment is a fine of $1,000 or a jail sentence or both. Somebody takes the "rap," as it is called, and the showing of the films goes merrily on. It was so with the Dempsey-Carpentier and other pictures, and 'tis thus and so that Pittsburghers will be privileged to glance at the Dempsey-Sharkey galloping gelatines next week.

At that, the law which prohibits the interstate shipment of fight films is a silly one. It was put on the books after the Jeffries-Johnson fuss at Reno in 1910, and should have been laughed off a long time ago.

PENN STATE COLLEGE is to be congratulated for taking the initiative in abandoning football and other sports scouting and abolishing athletic scholarships in its own select circle, as announced yesterday. Major colleges in the East started the ball rolling and the idea has caught on like wildfire. It's a step in the right direction, leading to more athletics for the many and less specialization for the few. This was the basic idea of college athletics, as we understand it, but the big money era led to more or less commercializing of the industry and much viewing with alarm of the situation by faculty and alumni bodies, and very little being done about it. Penn State is on the right path and is merely one of the trail-blazers. The others will come in gradually.

HOT news from Speculator, N. Y., Gene Tunney's training camp, is that Jimmy Bronson again will be Gene Tunney's chief second in his return bout with Jack Dempsey next month. That's not news. It was printed in the Sun-Telegraph last

'One Eye' Slipping

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(UP.)—"One-Eye" Connelly, the gate-crasher de luxe, is slipping.

He received the well-known bounce at Lincoln Fields yesterday when he sought to give Jack Dempsey the "once-over."

NOTES of the BOXERS

SIX bouts make up an amateur boxing card under the auspices of Post No. 234, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Wilkinsburg Playgrounds Association at the Hunter street grounds, Wilkinsburg, this evening. The program: 112-pound class, Nat Little, Willow Club, vs. Mike Tyburski, Swissvale A. C.; 135-pound class, Dick Graham, Willow Club vs. Geza Kish, Homestead Library; 155-pound class, Young Malstran, Pittsburgh Lyceum, vs. Harold Peterson, Homestead Library; 160-pound class, Denny Paul, Pittsburgh Lyceum, vs. John Poth, Hazelwood A. C.; 120-pound class, Kid Angelo, Swissvale A. C., vs. Young Lance, Willow Club; 150-pound class, Young Milko, Pittsburgh Lyceum, vs. Max Ziff, Willow Club.

Two Pittsburgh light-heavyweights appear on the card in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight which will be headed by a 10-rounder between Jack Renault and Arthur De Kuh. They are Johnny Urban, of Lawrenceville, who meets Benny Touchstone, of Florida, in a 10-round scrap, and Marco Polo, of McKees Rocks, who hooks up with Vinko Jasaka in a four-rounder. Monte Munn and Chief Metoquah are booked for a 10-round engagement. The winner of the main event is to box Tom Heeney later.

Johnny Mellow, the Detroit junior-welterweight, who meets Cuddy DeMarco in the main bout of Jules Beck's show at the Duquesne Steel baseball park next Monday night, has boxed some of the stars in the lightweight and welterweight divisions and hopes to become a titular contender with his heavy punch, which floored DeMarco in their previous meeting and has had many other opponents on the floor. Among others, Mellow has boxed Ray Mitchell, Phil McGraw twice, Eddie Dyer, Freddie Boylstein, Sid Barbarian and Eddie (Kid) Wagner.

The Forest Hunting and Fishing Club will hold an amateur boxing show at the Carnegie Steel playground, Etna, on the night of September 13.

The Emmett Rocco-Romero-Rojas heavyweight bout at Youngstown, originally booked for tonight, has been set back to next Tuesday night.

Bouts scheduled around the country tonight include: Chuck Wiggins vs. Young Stribling (what, again?) at Indianapolis; Henry Lenard vs. Babe Ruth, Chicago; Tiger Flowers vs. Maxie Rosenbloom at Detroit, and Tony Canzoneri vs. Joe Rivers at Kansas City.

The Mickey Walker-Wilson Yarbo fight at Cleveland last night attracted a crowd of 12,000, with gate receipts of $60,000, according to reports from the Ohio city.

Johnny McGarvey's Motor Square fight special to the Dempsey-Tunney fight at Chicago, Thursday, September 22, will leave Union Station at 11:15 (daylight saving time), the night before and begin the return trip after the fight at 12:20 a. m. Friday, Chicago (daylight saving time). The cars will be parked a mile and a half from Soldier Field during the stay in Chicago.

TAD'S TIDBITS

THE writer has received some letters recently from radio fans who listen in on fight broadcasts. True, there hasn't been MUCH to listen to, but the writers think that what they DO GET is rotten. One says:

Do you think the time will ever come when we will get a good running story of a fight over the radio WITHOUT the cheap and pesty advertiser announcing his wares every THREE MINUTES?

Here's the way I hear a fight: "Both boys in the center. Jack tosses three lefts to Tom's ribs." Bell. (Another voice): "Like many of this year's champions, Punko, the mild as May cigaret, etc. Round Two—"Jack misses a wild right. Tom jabs left to the body, etc." (That voice again): "Wrapped in heavy tinfoil, the Punko cigaret is always fresh. It makes new friends, etc."

Round Three—Description again. Bell. (That voice): "The facilities of this station have been engaged by the Mike Swift Co., makers of Punko cigarets. Like man of this year's champions, they . . *. . ." (Bang) Ax hits radio.

Bye-Bye—I'd walk a mile for silence.

MILD AS FEBRUARY MIKE.

P. S.—After each fight, to hear the ciggie man would be bad enough, but after each round, it slays me.

I'll never smoke a Punko. I'm sore. MIKE.

SOME writers, who really love the boxing game, are afraid that the good old pastime is on its way to the bow wows.

Not a chance! The sucker crop in New York is too big.

Crops may come and crops may go, but the saps are here forever.

The winning fighter NEVER FOULS.

The more oldtimers see of Jack Delaney the more certain they are that McCoy, Choynski, Langford and Ketchel were better men.

The more they see of Jack Dempsey the more certain they are that he has no more defense than a charging buffalo. To compare him with Fitzsimmons, Johnson, Jeffries, Corbett, Jackson and Langford is a scream. Can you imagine Fitz, Langford or Jeff swatting him full on the chin? Can you picture him after Johnson landed just ONE uppercut? Can you picture him TRYING to land on Corbett?

Throw out Willard and Firpo (two big hippos who couldn't duck a freight train) and what did Jack ever do?

Hot and Cold.

When the weather's cold and chilly,
Then the pitchers' arms are kinked;

A Word About Spoiling Fight Broadcasts

The fielders' hands are numb and stiff,
And all their muscles blinked.

When the sun beats down intensely,
Then the players lose their pep;
They sulk around with no "ambish,"
And lazy, laggard step.

There seems to be no compromise,
Betwixt the cold and hot;
Some think the heat is always best,
And others think it's not.

that I never will forget. He didn't ask me what it was and he didn't hesitate. He lifted the glass and drank it off without a question.

Dempsey knew, and he knew that I knew, that I could have made a fortune by turning traitor in those closing minutes. He did not know what was in those powders, but he trusted me. I don't believe the man lives who could cross a fellow like him.

That is the outstanding trait of Jack Dempsey's character. When he gives his confidence, he gives it whole-heartedly.

My prescription worked, to my great relief. He felt better before we reached New York. The biliousness disappeared and he was almost normal by the time we reached my apartment. I took no chances, though. I gave him a light meal.

We sat and talked for two hours before he went to bed. We talked about everything under the sun but the fight.

The general belief is that fighters can think and talk of nothing else on the eve of battle. As a matter of fact, we spent the entire evening discussing Col. Lindbergh, of whom Dempsey is very fond. Lindbergh sent him a telegram of congratulation after the fight, and Jack took that home with him. That is one message he intends to keep.

Everyone expected a lively scene when the two Jacks met to weigh in the next day. Dempsey was all set for it. I think Sharkey would have come off second best, just as he did every other time he tried to work his peculiar and profane brand of psychology on Dempsey.

But it probably was just as well that the Boxing Commission decided to have them examined at different hours. Sharkey might have been knocked out twice that day, although I will say that he would have had to take the first punch. Dempsey has always made that fellow look ridiculous.

Now we arrive at the moment in the dressing room at the Yankee Stadium, when I sat with Dempsey and gave him his final instructions. I only made two requests.

(In his next article, Flynn will tell his own story of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight.)

Pitcher Scores "Birdie"

RICHMOND, VA., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—A sizzling speedball from Lefty Skillings, Petersburg pitcher, killed a bird on the wing in yesterday's game with Richmond.

Catcher Dayton caught the deflected ball wide of the plate. The batter stood unmoved. The umpire ruled the ball dead.

Gene Retains Sesqui Pilot

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Jimmy Bronson, one of Gene Tunney's handlers while he was fighting with the Marine Corps in France, will be in the champion's corner when he meets Jack Dempsey at Chicago. Bronson was one of Tunney's seconds in the title fight last year at Philadelphia.

Bronson's selection, the departure of Paul Cavalier, a sparring partner, the return to camp of Eddie Eagan, former amateur heavyweight champion, and a visit of another group of the champion's friends marked a round of leisure in camp yesterday. Gene took his guests on a picnic to Whitaker Lake, near an old Indian hunting camp. Aside from seven miles on the road, the champion took things easy, abstaining entirely from any boxing.

Present plans call for Tunney's departure for Chicago next Wednesday. The final workout in the mountain camp has been scheduled tentatively for next Tuesday. All the champion's baggage and training paraphernalia will be packed Tuesday after the workout.

Tunney has been boxing without a headguard, although his sparring partners wore them. When a newspaper man called Gene's attention to this and asked the reason, he was told that the protection was not needed.

DEMPSEY BEGINS GRIND.

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—There is a cloak of secrecy around Jack Dempsey these days as he pursues his way toward the comeback bout with Gene Tunney and the title.

Stripped to the glistening blue of his training trunks, the erstwhile Manassa Mauler has definitely swung into action with only newspapermen and his retinue of followers witnessing his early preparations yesterday.

The arrival of Dave Shade, California middleweight and Dempsey sparring partner, was the signal for the opening of activities at the Lincoln Field camp.

The program the remainder of the week calls for road work, shadow-boxing, hitting the bag and the dumbbell and similar exercises, inasmuch as Manager Leo P. Flynn has ruled against any sparring until next week.

Dempsey's extra poundage was visible yesterday, but he perspired freely and appeared well pleased after the day's work. A Wisconsin lumberjack, Leo Poppie, of Stevens Point, gave Jack a workout on the mat, the heavyweight wrestling a few rounds with the former titleholder.

Just when Dempsey and Flynn will admit the public to the training quarters has not been determined, but it will not be before next week. Then, it is said, only one or two days will be set aside for the crowds.

The ticket sale for the Soldier Field fight, September 22, moved forward briskly. A big rush was on for the 25 cents which led Tex Rickard and his nominal ally, George F. Getz, to scout a possible scheme wherein the 15 boys would rush the higher seats and culminated in Chief of Police Michael Hughes announcing that 2,500 blue-coats with night sticks would be on duty to maintain order.

RUNYON

done a little skiting and bicycling and ghost dancing about the premises for a few rounds Mr. Dempsey's mumblety-pegs might have developed several bad buckles. Perhaps he will have them reinforced with splints at Chicago.

THE ubiquitous Mr. Leo Pizen Flynn tried the expedient of having Mr. Dempsey box from a flat-footed stance, a style that is elemental when a man's legs are gone, though Mr. Flynn presented the thought in the light of a great discovery. It may have helped some. It at least gave Mr. Dempsey some foundation for his punches.

BUT Mr. Dempsey did not stick entirely to his flat feet. He bobbed a bit now and then, bobbing being his inclination. If Mr. Dempsey attempts to stand up flat-footed against Mr. Tunney I can assure him of one thing, which is that he will get more left jabs on his synthetic snozzle than he suspects there are in the book. His best chance is to start bobbing about two days before the fight and keep bobbing until they turn out the lights.

Alex and Haines Lead National Hurlers In Innings Pitched

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Grover Cleveland Alexander and Jess Haines, pitching aces for the world's champion Cardinals, pace all rivals in the National League in the number of innings pitched, according to the pitching records.

The twirling duo also leads all other pitchers in the league in the number of complete games pitched. They are tied with the pacemaking Yankee pair Waite Hoyt and Dutch Ruether of the American League in the number of runs permitted in each nine innings.

While the Yankee flingers show the way in winning percentage they have twirled in but 333 innings while the Cardinal pair have pitched in 438. Haines and "Old Pete" between them have won 37 victories, a winning percentage of 7.25, while the Yankee pitchers have won 29 games, a percentage of 7.63.

MISSOURI GETS HORSE RACING AFTER 20 YEARS

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Horse racing returned to Missouri today after an absence of 29 years. More than 400 horses were in the stables at the Smithville track, near here, where seven or more races will be run daily. The races will be operated under the contribution system of betting, held valid recently by the State Supreme Court.

second division clubs seriously. This they should be able to do racing down the stretch where they can see so plainly how important each victory counts, no matter against whom it is scored.

THE rock over which the Cubs may stumble is to be found in the nine games against St. Louis and the seven against New York. Here are two clubs equal to the task of staging an uprising against the Cubs. The Pirates, in contrast need play the dangerous Cardinals only two more games and the dangerous Giants four more.

THEREFORE, while the three other contenders, St. Louis, New York and Chicago are in a death grapple in which two are bound almost to be eliminated, Pittsburgh will be engaged in meeting Cincinnati, Boston, Brooklyn and Philadelphia in 29 games.

OF course, the shrewd observer will not count the Pirate games against the weak clubs "in" until they are won, but there is no doubting the advantage held by the Pirates in the matter of the remaining schedule.

For a pretty good stretch the Pirates have muffed splendid chances afforded them by weak opposition, but now when it must be plain to Bush and his men that the same hustle shown against Giants and Cubs if shown against the weak sisters will bring great dividends, there is reasonable hope that the Bushmen will make the most of their opportunities.

IF FROM now until the end of the season Donie Bush could impress his men that upon every ball and every strike, upon every putout and every assist, a ball game and the pennant hinged, the Pirates, with their great resources, and the favorable schedule, would stage a great dash down the stretch. This may be impossible to do, yet it is a task which should tempt the little leader of the Corsairs. If the Pirates were as intense in every first inning as they are in the ninth when a run or so behind there is hardly a club that could beat them, but the Pirates assume a desperate air only when danger strikes them full in the face. What they need now is great stirring by their pilot. The present time finds Bush confronted with his hardest task.

A PIRATE pennant would be more pleasant than usual this year, discounting the silly rumors about Chicago's stands; showing, too, what a good club the Pirates are, handicapped as they have been by injuries, and offering solace for the big blow-up of last year.

ITS going to be just too bad for the wise boys who point significantly to enlargement of the Cub grandstands if the Cubs don't win the pennant. Some new theory then to cast reflection on the national game will have to be evolved. And evolved it will be, because the smart boys are never at a loss for a theory to support their sophisticated thoughts.

CHICAGO has no easy path ahead, even with their present lead. Within a week they sunk from almost certain winners to a point where they look like a doubtful case, and the worst is yet to come. The schedule in the offing is not designed to make the Cub road an easy one.

The Cubs have 37 games to play. Six with the Phils, two with the Reds, five with Boston, three with Brooklyn, five with Pittsburgh, nine with St. Louis and seven with New York. Of their 37 games, more than half, or, to be exact, 19 must be played with the first-division clubs, all capable of giving them a hard battle.

CONTRAST this schedule with the Pirates. The Pirates have seven with Philadelphia, five with Brooklyn, nine with Boston, eight with Cincinnati, four with New York, two with St. Louis and five with Chicago. Thus, where the Cubs must play the first division clubs 19 games the Pirates play their first division rivals only 11 games. Of the 40 Pittsburgh games remaining 29 are to be played with Boston, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, and Brooklyn. The Giants must play 18 of their remaining games with the first division club and the Cards must also play 18 games with the first division clubs.

ALL this indicates that the Pirates are over the worst part of their journey if only they can muster sufficient spirit to take the fashion also. This is one advantage the Pirates have now in the Brave series. They have something to be angry about. A man fights better when he is angry and so do baseball clubs.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

GMO Holds Leadership.

General Motors held the leadership of the market again today, having forged into first position yesterday when Steel common settled back to consolidate itself around the 140 level and sop up such offerings as were tossed out by the establishment of the new record-figure high. This has been the procedure in these two great market leaders on all the main upswings over the past two years. The forward swings have all been carried on with either Steel or General Motors as the spearhead of each movement and on practically every occasion the one appeared to be held back until the other had either exhausted its possibilities for the moment or had shown signs of meeting strong selling. The principal factor in the railroad division today was Atchison, which pushed up to 200-mark. It was thought the declaration of the extra on Frisco common was partly responsible for the Atchison strength, but some observers contended that Atchison is entitled to sell on a 5 per cent basis, if any stock in the market is, and with current dividends of $10 a year the investment yields a little better than 5 per cent under 200.

Seminole Again Lower.

A good fall trade is expected by the majority of hardware jobbers. Collections average fair and prices generally are firm.

The immediate move in the stock is based on reports that the Japanese government has awarded the company a large contract for the famous whirlwind motor. COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—The cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 22 to 26 points under realizing and local selling inspired by relatively easy Liverpool cables and more favorable early weather reports.

December sold off to 21.47c and March to 21.69c under initial offerings, but private reports of rain in parts of Oklahoma and Arkansas seemed to bring in more buying at the decline and there were rallies of several points from the lowest, the market showing net losses of about 12 to 14 points at the end of the first hour.

Private cables attributed the decline in Liverpool to continental selling, local liquidation and hedging which had supplied covering and trade calling. The selling here was considered chiefly the result of realizing and selling for a reaction after the advances of the past few days.

The buying prompted by private reports of rains in Oklahoma was supplied on a rally of 10 or 12 points with the market easing later on a favorable view of the official weather forecasts and continued realizing or liquidation. A somewhat reactionary sentiment seemed to be encouraged by the more favorable average of the weather news, and some southern as well as local selling was reported on the decline. December sold off to 21.33c with the general market showing net losses of 37 to 42 points during the middle of the morning, but there was some trade buying and covering on the decline with midday prices 8 or 10 points up from the lowest.

SOFT COAL PRODUCTION HIGH DESPITE STRIKE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Bituminous coal production, despite the strike of union operatives, continues at a high rate, the National Coal Association reports. For the week ended last Saturday, 9,000,000 tons were produced compared with 9,090,-000 tons for the week of August 13, and 8,495,000 tons for the week of August 6.

GEN. MOTORS OVERSHADOWS TRADING

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Heavy buying of General Motors common stock, which soared 7 points to a new high record at 246, a gain of 18 points within the last week, overshadowed all other developments in today's stock market. Pools lifted about a score other issues to new peak prices, but considerable irregularity developed in the general list, due to the extensive shifting of speculative accounts.

Despite reports of another sharp advance in brokerage loans this week, call money was in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 3½ per cent. Hope is held out in some speculative quarters for a further reduction in rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, directors of which meet after the close of the market.

The rise in General Motors presumably was in further reflection of the optimistic forecasts of that corporation's business by William C. Durant, prominent stock market operator, and Louis G. Kaufman, a director. Under the cover of this strength, however, heavy selling took place in other industrials, particularly in the steel, copper, oil, mercantile and public utility groups. Famous Players broke 4 points.

Commercial Solvents B (old stock) soared 13 points to a record high at 363½ and the new stock, which was admitted to trading today, ran up from 176½ to 184. Bon Ami jumped 6 points and Dupont, Wright Aeronautical, Reynolds Tobacco B and National Tea sold 4 to 6 points higher.

High grade rails moved upward under the leadership of Atchison on predictions of a sharp upturn in freight traffic in the next six weeks. The July report of the Southern Pacific showed a decrease of $1,248,284 in net operating income as compared with the same month last year.

VETS RE-ELECT MAXWELL

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 25.—Col. N. J. Maxwell, of Grove City, today was re-elected president of the One Hundredth Pennsylvania (Roundhead) Volunteer Infantry Regimental Association at the sixty-second annual reunion of the survivors held here in the Central Presbyterian Church. Although 92, he presided at the session at which he was elected.

Other officers chosen are: Philip Wagner, New Castle, vice president; Miss Laura Stevenson, New Castle, honorary secretary and treasurer; Miss Anna Gilliland, secretary and treasurer; the Rev. J. R. Rankin, of California, chaplain. Twenty-seven deaths of members were reported during the last year.

U. S. CHEMIST ABSENT, ACCUSED TESTS DRUGS

In the absence of a government chemist, Gerald James Bell, 26, a Negro, proprietor of the Harrison Drug Company, 2137 Center avenue, in the office of the United States commissioner yesterday made a chemical test of morphine in a case in which he was the defendant. He was held for court in $2,000 bail on charges of violating the Harrison narcotic act. It was testified that nine grains of morphine had been bought from Bell by government agents.

FOUR CHICAGO GANGSTERS SLATED FOR SANITY TEST

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—Four of Chicago's spectacular gangsters are scheduled for the sanity tests which authorities are conducting here in an effort to land gunmen in padded cells. The four were arrested following a raid on a room in a fashionable South Side hotel. They are Frank M. Cerlane, his brother Vincent, Eddie Kauffman and Ed Nealan.

CHURCH APPEALS FROM CITY'S DAMAGE AWARD

Tabernacle Presbyterian Church has filed a petition in Common Pleas Court appealing from a decision by viewers appointed to award damages arising from the widening of Baum boulevard. The congregation asks $18,849 damages, although the viewers awarded only $2,825. To make the improvement, the city condemned 1,091 square feet of the church property of 26,900 square feet.

NARROW TRADING RANGE IN LOCAL MARKET

Arkansas Gas Dull Despite Rumors

Rumors of a nearby closing of a deal between Arkansas Natural Gas and Cities Service failed to stimulate activity in the Arkansas shares on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. The Street has been discussing a reported transaction wherein the gas business of the Arkansas company will be taken over by a concern identified with the Cities Service organization and there have been rumors this week that officials negotiating the deal in New York will be in a position to make a statement shortly. It is believed something definite may be announced before the week is ended. From unofficial sources it is the Street's impression that the gas business of the local company will be taken over on a basis of a $10 per share value, the stockholders to receive that amount in bonds of the company which will be formed to act as a holding concern. The oil business of Arkansas Gas, it is said, will be retained by the present ownership. Some traders place a value of about $5 a share on this remaining equity in the oil properties. However, the trading fraternity does not seem in any hurry to close up the gap between the present market price of Arkansas Gas and the theoretical value of the shares based on the rumors. Arkansas sold today at $5 a share and, while there was very little offered at that figure, the demand was equally tepid with buyers showing no inclination to lift their bids for the stock.

Dealings in the miscellaneous securities were on a small scale. There was little interest in Lone Star Gas, but the price held fairly steady at levels slightly under yesterday's close. Dixie Gas showed a small fractional gain at 7¾, the firmer tone being attributed to announcement of extensions to the company's distributing plant in the Southwest.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

Trading at the local wholesale produce district was fairly active today, with a generally steady market. Mushrooms, New York crate lettuce, apples, peaches and oranges were lower.

The poultry market was moderately active. The market was weak on spring chickens. Supplies were liberal.

The butter and egg market held firm, with the cheese market steady.

Supplies by carlot continued heavy, with a total of [illegible] cars on track. Arrivals included 12 cars of peaches, 16 cantaloupes, 7 apples, 9 grapes, 3 lettuce, 7 onions, 6 oranges, 1 pears, 1 pepper, 1 prunes, 2 potatoes, 3 sweet potatoes, 3 tomatoes, 7 watermelons, 2 cucumbers, 1 berries and 2 plums.

Hay receipts were light with grain steady. Pennsylvania Railroad—15 cars of hay, 5 straw, 2 corn and 8 oats. Baltimore and Ohio Railroad—Two cars of hay.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—The raw sugar market was firm again early today, and prices advanced 1-16 to the basis of 4.65c for Cuban duty paid. Sales included 28,000 bags of Cuban prompt and 12,000 bags for early September shipment to local refiners at 4.65c and 22,000 bags of Cuban for early September shipment at 4.65c.

Reports of continued unfavorable weather in Europe, which was said to be causing crop deterioration and a late start to harvesting, and the further advance in the spot market were responsible for renewed covering and outside buying in raw sugar futures. Prices advanced 7 to 10 points on active positions, but met considerable realizing and hedge selling, and partial setbacks followed, with prices at midday a point or two below the best levels of the morning. Today was first September notice day, and 30 notices were issued, but they were promptly stopped and had no effect.

Refined sugar prices were unchanged at 5.70 to 5.80c for fine granulated. The undertone was firm, and a good inquiry was reported, owing to the advance in the raw market.

"PULL, BROTHERS, PULL" -:- CHANT TRAFFIC OFFICERS

On the shoulders of these huskies rests the Traffic Division's chances of winning the tug-of-war at the annual police field meet Saturday at Pitt Stadium. They represent nearly two and a half tons and are training daily for the meet. Left to right: Oliver Graham, T. Morrison, James Pemberthy, John Showalter, David Walsh, Edward Fallon, Robert Thompson, M. J. Conway, John Gillespie, John Neary, (coach) Edward Limegrover, George Brocker, Thomas Leonard, George Barth, M. Waje, Nick Modrak, C. C. Dremer and Joseph oLeffler. The tug-of-war, so far as police are concerned, is the feature of the meet.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—The Curb Market continued its bullish demonstrations that were conducted without regard to any special conditions or developments. Many stocks were bought and bid for at steadily advancing prices, a large part of these issues being securities of properties of which the general public has not even a vague idea either of their character or value.

Johns Manville, which has been advancing steadily in a rapid manner for over two weeks, made a further advance of 6 points, selling as high as 120⅝ before midday, trading being very heavy.

Many industrial specialties moved up from 1 to 5 points on heavy dealings, among them being U. S. Battery and Silver Brothers. Realty Association of Brooklyn, which had an advance of 6 points, yesterday made a further gain of 12 points to the new high record of 275. J. J. Newbury rose 3 points and Grant Company rose over 2 points, but later lost its gain. Royal Baking Powder was also strong, advancing 29 points to 283.

New International Mercantile Marine common was traded in at 27½. New York Central new stock was strong, advancing 1⅛ points to 116. Harmon advanced over a point. Coal stocks were strong, partly because of the coming increase in the price of anthracite on September 1, Lehigh Valley moving up to 40⅝ and Glen Alden made a gain of a point. There was continued bullish interest in the utilities, United Gas Improvement being the feature in that group and advancing to the new high record of 114⅝. Northern Ohio Power was active.

Oils were irregular, some of those issues showing strength while others were heavy. Standard oil of Kentucky was one of the strong, moving up to above 122. Columbia Syndicate was not influenced by the report of the lease of oil lands becoming effective on August 25. Prairie Oil was one of the weak issues in this group.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Following is the official list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (000 omitted in sales column in bond list):

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Listlessness was the keynote of the bond market today and only a moderate volume of business was transacted. Prices held steady, well sustained by current easy money conditions, and the sudden influx of nearly $100,000,000 in new offerings apparently had little effect on the trend.

Rock Island refunding 4s were fairly active around their high price for the year, coincident with the announcement by the offering syndicate that the new $40,000,000 issue of Rock Island 4½s had been promptly oversubscribed. Canadian National Railway 4½s also attracted a few buyers at their previous best figure, and Baltimore and Ohio 5s repeated their peak price of 104⅝.

Julius Kayser 5½s resumed their recent advance on rather brisk demand, moving up fractionally to 103⅛ for the first time. Hudson Coal 5s also drew attention just under 95.

Quiet ruled the foreign group. Japanese issues, which moved forward in recent sessions, turned back on profit-taking.

United States government obligations were firm, but dull.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(Associated Press.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

HIDDEN CURRENT ROCKS LINER

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Up from the sea have come stories of a strange undersea storm. The liner France with 800 passengers on board was in the undersea storm. Off Fire Island, with the sea as smooth as glass, suddenly the great ship was seized as if by the grasp of a hidden hand and rocked. The sudden violence caused some of the ship's officers to think the craft had struck a reef.

Jean Borotra, French tennis player, who was in the room of Capt. Marius Aubert, dashed out on deck. He was wearing rubber heels and slipped and fell, slightly injuring his chest. Capt. Aubert said the phenomenon was the strangest he had ever witnessed. He attributed the sudden rocking of the ship to hidden currents.

NEW YORKERS TO FLY TO CHICAGO FOR BOUT

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(INS.)—More than 100 New York boxing fans, including several women, will fly to Chicago for the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship fight September 22. Thomas Cook & Co. are handling the bookings for a fleet of 27 planes of the cruiser type, seating from four to ten passengers. The air travelers will breakfast in New York, lunch in Cleveland and dine in Chicago the day before the fight. The return trip will be made the next day.

In a way, this expedition is a forerunner of a regular New York-Chicago passenger service which soon will be inaugurated. Including the price of meals, lodging and a ringside seat, the round trip for the flight will cost $575.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Relative strength in Liverpool led to moderate buying of wheat early and a fractionally higher range here today. Less pressure was in evidence and with weather conditions in the spring wheat territory generally favorable the market soon eased off. Opening unchanged to ⅛c higher, wheat later underwent a setback all around. Higher temperatures over the belt gave sadness to corn. Fair buying on the dips brought about a slight recovery, but as offerings were absorbed, the market suffered a further decline. Starting ⅛ to ⅛c off, corn recovered somewhat and then fell lower than before. Oats were affected by the action of corn and provisions ruled firm in line with higher quotations on hogs.

Continued unfavorable weather on the continent with more rain wanted in some sections of Argentina, combined with early advices from this side of the Atlantic gave initial firmness to Liverpool and affected the market here. Later developments, however, resulted in an easier undertone in both markets.

Advices current today from the Canadian northwest and North Dakota were decidedly bearish. A crop expert, traveling in Saskatchewan who had covered practically all the frost sections of the territory which some days ago claimed 60 per cent damage, found the general opinion that the loss will not exceed 20 per cent. Taking Saskatchewan as a whole he said the frost damage will be nearer 10 per cent than 20 per cent, which means that the province because of the extra good stand will yield at least as much as last year. From Alberta came word that with the heavy acreage wheat is nearly a perfect crop and needs but about two weeks to mature. If frost is delayed two weeks, central Alberta will harvest a bumper crop.

In northern part of North Dakota late wheat apparently is developing with only moderate amount of rust damage.

At noon wheat was ⅛ to ½ cent higher, corn unchanged to ¼ cent lower, oats a shade off and provisions about steady.

SLAIN WOMAN'S SON BELIEVED HEADED WEST

CHICAGO, Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Harry D. Hill, charged in a warrant with the slaying of his mother, Mrs. H. C. Hill, of Streator, tried to "beat his way" out of Chicago on a freight train last Tuesday, the day his mother's body was found, a switchman today told detectives.

The switchman, Edward Lyons, identified a picture of Hill as the man he saw hiding among the cars of a Chicago, Burlington and Quincy train. Lyons at that time did not know he was sought in connection with Mrs. Hill's slaying.

Hill told Lyons he wanted to get to the west coast and the switchman advised him to take a train to Aurora, where he could catch a fast Denver train. The youth told Lyons he would do that. Chicago officers, however, still believe Hill is in Chicago.

Acting on the advice of Streator officers detectives went to a rooming house here where Miss Ann Harris, a former sweetheart of Hill, lives. The officers were told that Miss Harris had left for Decatur, Ill., a few days ago.

RECEIVERS' FEE UP TO LITA

By Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—A retake may be necessary on the Chaplin divorce.

Attorneys on both sides agreed the receivers' fee of $45,000 for looking after Charles Chaplin's property during the divorce preliminaries was too high. They do not, however, agree as to which side is to pay the sum in excess of $10,000, which, in the property settlement, was set as the limit of the comedian's liability in this connection.

Chaplin was directed to pay the $45,000 fee in Judge Walter Guerin's order. His attorneys pointed to the property settlement condition. Mrs. Chaplin's attorneys say she will not pay the balance of $35,000.

Judge Guerin gave a fifteen-day stay in the hope of some conclusion being reached. If it is not, he will revoke the interlocutory decree of divorce he gave Lita Gray Chaplin and sign a new one containing a stipulation regarding the payment of the $45,000 fee.

MARINE AIRMEN SAVE CIVILIAN

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—Three United States Marine Corps aviators in Haiti saved a flier for the West India Aerial Express Company from what was believed certain death, according to a dispatch received by the Navy Department from the commandant of the Marines at Port Au Prince.

The express company aviator was forced down at Lake Enriquillo, in Santo Domingo, on August 20. He was found the next morning without food or water in this uninhabited region by Marine fliers under command of Capt. R. A. Pressley.

The Marines took a new motor to the disabled plane by airplane, with a view to replacing the disabled one and enabling the plane to be recovered. It was impossible to transport the motor in any other way, as there are no roads in that section.

HALT MOB OF 1,000 MARCHING ON OHIO MINES

LEADER CHECKS INVASION BY FAST RIDE

ATHENS, O., Aug. 25.—(AP.)—Attempted invasion of the non-union coal mines of Middleport and Pomeroy by several hundred union sympathizers was halted today by quick action of union officials who feared the demonstration might lead to violence.

Starting in the Sunday Creek Valley, near Glouster, with 400 union sympathizers, the caravan picked up several hundred more as it proceeded southward through the county until the throng, carried in automobiles and headed by a drum corps, was estimated to have numbered 1,000 men, women and children when it was stopped.

Learning of the advance on Megis county fields, Orval Daugherty, president of the district miners' union, left Athens hurriedly in an automobile and, traveling a circuitous route, headed off the party before it crossed the Athens-Meigs county border. He induced the crowd to turn back and it was quickly dispersed.

AUTOIST CAUGHT AS GEARS FAIL

The stripping of a set of gears resulted in the arrest this morning of Fred E. Lewis, 22, of 402 Franklin avenue, Wilkinsburg, who, police say, kept on driving after a near-collision in front of the Frankstown Avenue Police Station. To avoid a crash with Lewis' machine Ray E. Kremer, 27, of Tarentum, driver of a National Bread Company truck, steered his vehicle into a pole, damaging the truck $300. Lewis kept on going, police say, but his gears failed him a block away just as Patrolman Walter Charles fired a shot into the air to halt him. Both drivers were held for a Traffic Court hearing.

TO PROBE FIGHT FILMS HERE

Federal authorities today are looking for possible grounds for conspiracy charges in connection with the announced intention of motion picture houses to show films of the Dempsey-Sharkey fight, it was stated at the office of District Attorney John D. Meyer.

The law which previously has prevented the showing of fight pictures prohibits transportation of films from one state to another. If the reels to be shown here are reprints made in Pennsylvania from an original, Federal authorities say, there is no direct law to stop their showing.

Rubber Raft Success Stirs Hope for Fliers

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25.—(INS.)—Satisfactory results obtained in testing a rubber life boat revived a faint flicker of hope today that some or all of the seven missing Dole fliers may still be found alive.

The test was made at the behest of the government to decide whether the search should be abandoned or continued indefinitely.

A rubber bag-boat similar to those carried by all the Hawaiian flight planes was used. Two men, each weighing 180 pounds, put off in the life raft from a coast guard cutter.

At the end of an hour and 50 minutes not a drop of water had been shipped and the men had suffered not the slightest discomfort, they reported.

The test was conducted 12 miles out in Catalina Channel, in a choppy sea, with a heavy ground swell running and an 1-mile westerly wind blowing.

The raft was visible to the naked eye at a distance of eight miles and should be plainly seen with glasses 20 miles away, it was estimated.

The raft, according to observers, could not be swamped and should remain afloat indefinitely.

"Its father ran away," she explained.

ZUKER PETITION OBJECTIONS DISMISSED

Attorney Charles B. Prichard and James E. Routley, clerk in the office of the County Commissioners, invited as "friends of the court" by Judge Ambrose B. Reid and Harry H. Rowand in Common Pleas Court today, to offer advice because of their experience in election matters, were instrumental in the dismissal of objections to the nominating petitions of R. E. Zuker, candidate for alderman in the Seventh Ward. The objections were filed on behalf of Alderman Charles A. Burke, candidate for re-election, and costs of $81 were placed upon the objectors.

Zukeg had circulated his petitions and made the affidavit as to circulation required to be done by an "elector," as well as the affidavit of the candidate on the petitions. The question to be determined was the right of Zuker as an "elector" under the law to make both affidavits. The court dismissed the objections.

ODE TO A DOLLAR BILL.

I would be a buggler,
I would be a thief,
I would be a street-sweeper,
or even police chief,
It all depends on you.

I would commit moider,
I would be a crook,
I would be a hoodlum,
Maybe be a cook,
It all depends on you.

I would be a conductor,
On a street car,
Be munitions maker,
Start a big war;
You're the main reason
For all I do.

I would beg wit' tin-cup,
would sell shoe-string,
I would do almost any old ting—
It all depends on you.

BOOK REVIEW

Another Sticky Episode From the Romance of "Maurine."

YESTERDAY the author had Maurine swoon at the sight of a garter snake, only to regain consciousness on "Eden's shore," meaning that her head rested on Vivian Dangerfield's chest. He was pouring sorghum into her twitching ear, thus—

"My love," he sighed, "My own,
For one sweet stolen moment, lie and rest
Upon this heart that loves and hates you both!
O fair false face! Why were you made so fair?
One ripe kiss. There!—and there!
Nay, you are mine; this moment,
as I dreamed
Blind fool—believing you were what you seemed—
You would be mine in all the years to come,
Fair fiend! I've pilfered one entrancing kiss
*His lips shall never gather.
Woman, how dare you drive me to an act like this,
To steal from your unconscious lips a kiss?
There!—now, I scorn you from this hour,
And hate myself for having talked of love!"

*Meaning Cousin Roy Montaine.

Thus it was that poor, saccharine Maurine discovered just how she stood with the handsome parlor tenor who had such an eerie hell power over women. Tomorrow—

WHEN Chief Leading Eagle takes the Iron Horse for his White Tepee in the village of Wash-Shing-Town he will be welcomed with the quaint tribal cries of his aboriginal braves.

Wash-Shing-Town is now the largest Government Reservation under the control of the Committee on Indian Affairs.

The big trading posts on F Street are showing Full styles in feathers, paint and tom-toms.

Native programmes are being revived. Last night the navy officials sang "The Indian Love Song" to the Government budget.

In spite of the fact that it is prohibited, some of the wilder warriors are indulging in the sacred Corn Dance. This picturesque panic is performed by braves and squaws in the higher class cliff dwellings of Rock Creek Park. The participants imbibe a mysterious juice which causes them to leap over garages and small buildings.

Mr. Dawes, whose Indian name is Chief Big Pipe, has some new war whoops. Chief Big Pipe is his tribe's best whooping orator. He whooped the Prince of Wales off the new Buffalo Bridge last month.

The Pow-Wow Wigwam, formerly the Senate, will be used by the Autumn convention of the Double Tongues. The Double Tongues are outlaw Indians who whoop one way and vote the other.

The Voices-of-the-Little-People, who used to be Congressmen, have joined forces with the tribe of Lame-Ducks. These Indians cause all the trouble, as they shoot first and declare war afterward.

Laughing Waters, the noble Indians who used to be the Rivers and Harbors Committee, have been out of work since the floods have been doing their job without appropriations.

Chief Leading Eagle

A scientific expedition from Harvard University proposes to dig up the Washington Monument in an effort to discover if the Ancient Incas, formerly the powerful Demmie-Ka-Rats, practiced the cruel habit of sacrificing feeble Post-Masters to popular opinion.

The Harvard professors have unearthed some historic parchments which indicate that the tribe of Demmie-Ka-Rats ate their young and had a ferocious system of burying old tribesmen in Custom House jobs while still alive.

The ancient tribes of Wash-Shing-Town on the Ptomaine River were powerful in the councils of the Forty-Eight Fires, but raised no crops and depended on wampum supplied through an obsolete system of taxation, which is still in use.

They were diplomatic and sent out Ambassadors and couriers to all sections of the world. This habit is still in vogue and when Chief Leading Eagle returns he will find many diplomats talking over their left shoulder in the full of the harvest moon.

Some girls are very NOISY
In their LOVE, grief,
PAIN and pleasure.
It seems they make a

And then call themselves
EMOTIONAL. Highly strung
WOMEN who are finely

Harp will VIBRATE
Long after the hand of

The STRINGS.
This is different!

The FIRST, loud and

Gary Scholarships Benefit to Humanity

Gary scholarships at the University of Pittsburgh will open the doors of the Cathedral of Learning to the financially handicapped youth of this city.

The income of the $50,000 trust fund provided by the late Judge Gary's will is to be used to pay the tuition of selected students who are "least able to pay their tuition." The other condition of the scholarships is that the chosen beneficiaries shall be "morally, mentally and physically competent."

Proverbially, "where there is a will there is a way." It is as true of acquiring education as of anything else. But postponed education may mean postponement of accomplishment of which the world is in need.

Judge Gary knew this. He has provided the necessary help for some of those it were wise to educate in their youth that they may the quicker engage in the serious works of life. From among Gary scholars genius will emerge to world benefit sooner than if they were compelled to travel the heartbreaking road of self-education while earning their own and perhaps some others' living.

In providing eight such funds at widely scattered institutions, Judge Gary evinced his love of humanity and his understanding of the needs of those he designed to help.

A New Ocean Speed Boat Needed and Will Come

Young men with a capacity for thinking, keep your minds upon the fact that all boats are too slow.

Somebody is going to invent a boat that will go three or four hundred miles an hour or faster.

An ordinary shark can go one hundred miles an hour, with his imperfect machinery. The brain of man will some time find a boat that will go above the water, through the apparently non-resisting air, driven by unlimited power that will do five hundred miles an hour.

It may come in some form of which we know nothing. All that we have made now in the way of ships is an invention like a fish, with wheels at the side, or a screw at one end driving it.

The great boat may turn out to be the catamaran, built like a sled, with a platform over it; perhaps two or three miles long to laugh at waves. No one knows, but it is worth while thinking about it.

Remember that you don't have to be a great engineer or a shipbuilder in order to invent the new ship.

The man that invented the sewing machine couldn't sew. The mind free from old ideas and fixed opinions is often the one that hits on the new idea.

A French inventor's plan for a fast "ocean glider" which is expected to cross the Atlantic Ocean in eighty-four hours has recently been tested on the River Seine, which flows through Paris. It is a combination of a water surface boat, hydroplane and glider. Three motors drive it, and the test for speed was extremely satisfactory.

It must do better than eighty-four hours in an ocean crossing in order to attract much attention.

The Germans are now building regular ships that will cross in four and one half days. It would not be too optimistic to hope that the SAFE flying machine will cross the ocean in thirty hours, within ten years.

If Henry Ford's $1,000,000 airplane, with ten or twelve engines, carrying 100 passengers, should be successful, it will do the job.

"Wreck of Hesperus" Fable, Says Science

One by one our childish beliefs are taken from us. Our latest disillusionment is that "The Wreck of the Hesperus," narrated in Longfellow's great poem, is classed as a myth by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey.

Longfellow said the Hesperus went down upon the "reef of Norman's Woe," a dangerous obstruction near the entrance to Gloucester Harbor.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey have made an extensive wire-drag survey of the waters surrounding this reef, and definitely proven that no such vessel as the Hesperus lies there.

So if there was a schooner Hesperus that sailed the wintry sea, on which the skipper had taken his little daughter, to bear him compance—it was either wrecked somewhere else than on the reef of Norman's Woe or it existed only in the poet's mind.

What difference does it make? The greatest things in the world are the things that we cannot see nor hear nor prove to be in existence at all. The Hesperus will be alive long after the Leviathan is completely forgotten.

Broken Engagement Rings

A New York magistrate has decided a moot question, it is to be hoped for good and all. A young woman had her ex-fiance arrested for larceny when he took back the diamond engagement ring he had given her.

The court held that, since the engagement is off, the man who bought the solitaire is entitled to keep it.

For generations young women have broken engagements and then wondered whether to return the ring. Now the matter is settled officially and young women will decide the question in future by doing, probably, as they think best.

To avoid disappointments, a young man who confers an expensive ring on the young lady of his choice should kiss it goodby and charge it in advance to profit and loss. If she marries him, perhaps it will be profit. If not, no vain regrets.

Avoid the Fire Risk

People are coming home from the country and a lot of unpacking will be done.

It is wise not to leave paper and rubbish where they will make a fire risk.

Each year half a billion in property in this country goes up in smoke and many precious lives are lost because somebody was careless.

When this immense waste is focused so that everybody can see how staggering it is, the public for a time decides to be more alert. And then it forgets.

Better not wait for Fire Prevention Week to resolve to protect yourself against losses of property and life.

Flying Winds

By GARRETT P. SERVISS.

WITH the introduction of the steamship the empire of the winds was shaken; with that of the airplane it now resumes much of its old authority. In the days of the great sailing vessels the bible of mariners was Maury's "Chart of the Winds." This gave the prevailing direction of the wind at the different seasons in different parts of the oceans, so that a ship captain could lay out his course with a foreknowledge of favoring and opposing winds.

Maury's charts, together with his "Sailing Directions" created a virtual revolution in ocean navigation. Routes that had been followed for many years were found to be very faulty because they took no account of the seasonal variation of the winds in given localities. It was discovered that in many cases a great increase of distance sailed resulted in a far greater saving of time consumed, because the new route was favored by the wind. When Maury applied his system to the route from the United States to and across the equator, on the way either to Cape Horn or to the Cape of Good Hope, he was able to reduce the average time from 41 to 24 days. The voyage to California, which before had demanded 180 days, was immediately reduced to 135 days.

A remarkable example quoted by Routh, French meteorologist, is that of the voyage from England to Australia. The old custom was to go around Cape Horn on both the outward and homeward courses, consuming about 250 days. Maury's study of the winds showed that the time could be reduced to 130 days by going via the Cape of Good Hope and returning via Cape Horn, thus, by circumnavigating the globe, keeping the winds always favorable.

But with the coming of the steamships the importance of the wind rapidly faded. The steamer can drive in the face of a strong wind and though somewhat delayed by unfavorable weather, is not compelled to go far around to avoid it, like a sailer. So, for a long time, the old route books have not been republished and kept up to date, as formerly.

But a counter revolution seems at hand since the recent exploits of Lindbergh, Byrd, Chamberlin and others. Lindbergh's wonderful pioneer voyage was greatly aided by favorable winds. The winds are a general clue to the weather, and, as every recent example shows, the aerial pilot must know, above everything else, what kind of weather is ahead of him. The swiftness of his passage, in many ways a source of safety for him, may also be a source of danger if he inadvertently follows a wind swaying him away from the direction of his haven.

Evidently one of the most important requisites for the safe development of trans-oceanic aerial traffic and travel is a new study of the distribution of the winds in the different seasons.

Once Overs

Change Quickly!

WHEN you compare yourself with your former school and college mates you count yourself a failure—you have often said that.

In a general comparison, this may be true.

But if you have made the most of what you have had to work with, you are not a failure.

To comparatively few comes unusual success.

Perhaps you have started and pursued a line of work for which you are not fitted and in which you cannot make much headway.

That is unfortunate.

It is still more unfortunate if you have come to realize it and you know that you might have changed your course, but you didn't.

Isn't it wiser to change with as little delay as possible, when you find that you are entirely unsuited to the task you have chosen?

Swing Song

UNDER the trees where the shadows dance lights on the bluebird's wings glimmer and glance and the brook gleams brown; this is the spot that the children love, rustle of wings and of leaves above, swing up, swing down! Here waits the swing that the farmer made, lightly it journeys through sun, through shade, now fast, now slow. Thrilling, such travel, beyond compare, breathless the rush of the fragrant air; swing high, swing low! Joy of the woodland's high, twining boughs, joy of the mating birds' tender vows, it all is here; joy that earth hints, yet does not reveal, this is the joy that the children feel; swing far, swing near! Nothing but gladness the whole day through, rapture of living when all is new, green fields, blue sky; this is the spot where the children's mirth, tinkling like silver bells, brightens the earth; swing low, swing high!

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—A book might be written of curious cafe customs in New York. There is a shadowy dim lit tea room noted for clandestine engagements, yet frowns on women smoking cigarets. Many cheaper cabaret dives do not permit women without escorts.

Others will provide sleek rascals for lone women, but if they come alone, service is refused. It is in ultra smart cafes the lone woman receives the most gracious welcome and there, too, she receives greatest protection from flirtatious advances.

There are three respectable restaurants in town which do not permit lone male diners, but lone members of the opposite sex are admitted. In all the cafes of the better sort patrons bring liquor at their own risk. They must carry it to their tables.

No employe is permitted to handle liquor in any way. Patrons must pour their own. While employes often break this rule, they face the danger of dismissal. The hazard of having property of great value padlocked is too portentous to take a chance.

On the East Side a restaurant displays this sign: "Gents with ladies will remove their hats." And in Forty-sixth street another suggests: "Please use toothpicks outside." A number of restaurants, especially those appealing to a theatrical trade, permit dogs in continental fashion. The smartest hotels do, too.

There is—or at least was several years ago—a restaurant near Church street that had a stack of Bibles on a table near the door for those who might want scriptural stimulation while waiting for their order. In recent years every cafe, save those attached to hotels, discourages charge accounts.

Experienced restaurateurs say that once a restaurant loses its popularity, it is through. In the trade it is known as "jinxed." The popularity is never regained. The wise heed this, put up the shutters and seek a new location.

Incidentally, I often wonder why a man will fuss with a waiter in a public restaurant. Nothing is achieved and the patron has not only lost his temper, but his appetite. One cannot win an argument with a trained waiter for the simple reason he refuses to argue. "Never talk back" is a good waiter's inflexible first law.

* * *

Custom inspection in New York is courteous but grows increasingly rigid. Too many enjoy bragging about bringing in "the real stuff." This casts a reflection on inspectors, which they have decided not to bear. They are using fine combs in their search. Not even just a few nips for grandpa's rheumatism are being considered. Inspectors can take no chances these days in hasty inspections. For every 80 inspectors there are 20 spotters. The spotters are not in uniform. They may be old men, old women, young girls or collegiate looking youths.

One transatlantic voyager came out of the final gate the other day remarking he had been thoroughly "dry cleaned."

And I heard of one liner passenger who, in distributing his tips, handed a uniformed gentleman £2. The gentleman thanked him and a few seconds later began blowing the dinner horn. He was the ship's bugler.

A Total Loss

By DR. FRANK CRANE

As far as we can see there are many people who regard this man Lindbergh as a total loss.

He can't dance and what good is a fellow that never dances! What fun is there in going to a party with a boy who only sits around the wall and don't know how to shuffle his feet?

Then it is doubtful if he knows one card from another, and when we are all sitting in a friendly game the man who doesn't play any game of cards is nothing more than a spoil sport.

He is no "petter" and not much of a hand with the girls. So what use would a girl have for him?

Neither does he swing a nasty flask of gin from his hip pocket. He only touched the wine of France with his lips and said he preferred lemonade or milk, and how are you going to have any fun with a man who will not drink with you! Drink has always been the sign of good fellowship and a man who will not take a drink is a piker.

All this man knows apparently is flying and fooling around with machinery.

Take it from the girl's standpoint, for instance, what fun would there be in marrying a man who could do nothing but fly across the Atlantic Ocean and wouldn't let you go along, or spent all of his time in fussing with machines?

There are all sorts of advertisements that we could recommend to Mr. Lindbergh's perusal.

He might get an encyclopedia and learn how to converse.

He might take a course in Jones' School of Manners and learn how to dance, or he might join the noble army of bootleggers and learn how to tell one kind of gin from another, if there is any other kind.

If he will brush up a little we might make something of him!

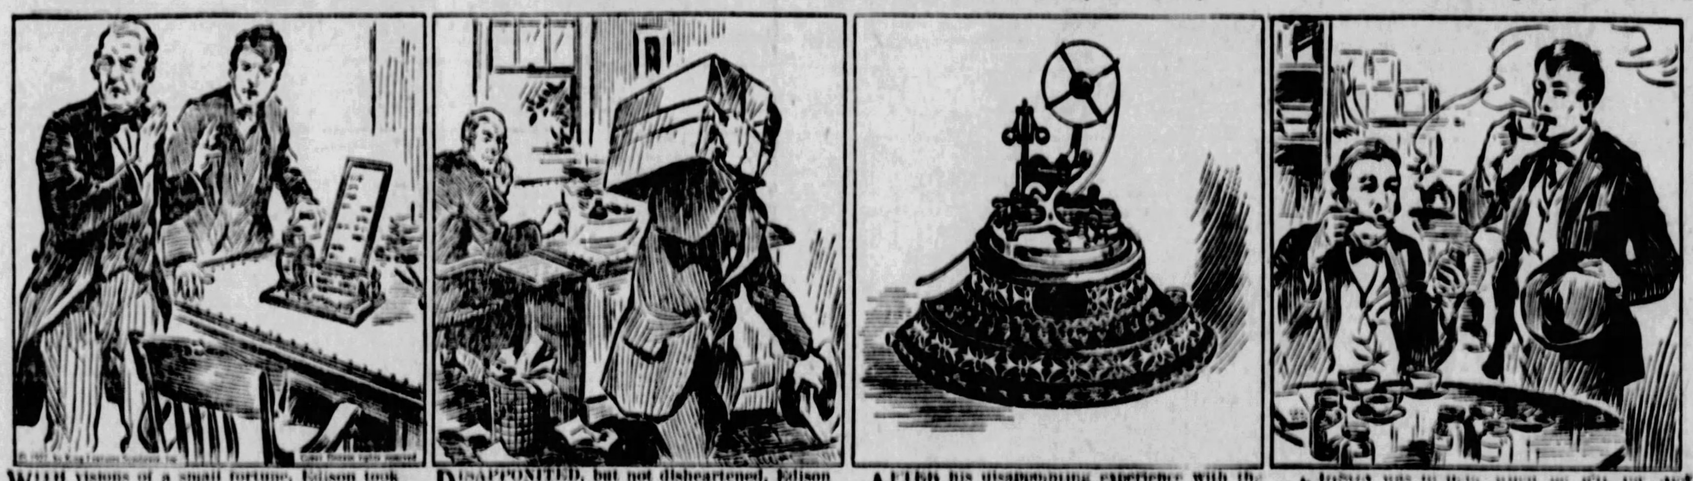
THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized and Endorsed by Mr. Edison)

Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister



WITH visions of a small fortune, Edison took his vote-recorder model to Washington and demonstrated it before the Chairman of Committees. That gentleman told him it was exactly what they didn't want, because it eliminated delay and filibustering, the very means government representatives used to defeat bad legislation.

DISAPPOINTED, but not disheartened, Edison shouldered his vote-recorder and silently left the room, with the resolution never to invent a thing that was not a necessity to the community at large. Thus the failure of his first invention had a decided influence on the trend of his talent in devising future successes.

AFTER his disappointing experience with the vote-recorder, Edison invented a stock-ticker and started a ticker service in Boston. He had between 30 and 40 subscribers and operated from a room over the Gold Exchange. An illustration of a later ticker he invented, "Edison's Universal Printer," appears above.

EDISON was in debt when he left for New York, where he landed penniless and friendless. Passing a warehouse, he saw a tea-taster inspecting tea. He asked whether he might have a cup, which the kindly man gave him. It was not much of a breakfast, but good fortune was waiting just around the corner.

One Dead In Gang War

Gang guns spat death in Pittsburgh again today.

Feuds and bootleg wars were recalled in Hazelwood as Rocco Femia, 32, lay lifeless in the kitchen of his home at 5113 Lytle street.

Femia—his wife and three children in their beds—was sitting down to his breakfast this morning when a cool, deliberate gunman walked to within a few feet of a window and fired three shots through it. One nipped Femia's wrist, another entered the side of his head, and a third, near the heart, sent him writhing to the floor in agony.

He was dead before his wife and children reached him.

The gunman escaped to a nearby automobile, in which two confederates awaited him. Their departure was practically unnoticed.

Femia was a crane man for Jones & Laughlin Steel Company. His children are aged 2, 5 and 8.

Police picked up three suspects a few hours after the shooting in a rooming house at 93 Courtland street.

They are Tony Condrote, 45; a son, Sam Condrote, 17, and D. J. Rondinelli. Police testified they found a revolver and bullets in the men's rooms.

Wentzel Re-Arrests His Wife

Freed under bond late yesterday after a month in jail, Mrs. Helen Wentzel, 42, wife of Police Lieut. Elias Wentzel, of 111 North Aiken avenue, was in Morals Court again today.

At 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon she left the jail. At 5:30 she was on her way to the Frankstown Avenue Police Station in a patrol. Her husband had arrested her, the second time in a month.

Her first act at home was to order her father-in-law, John Wentzel, from the place, it was testified today. And when Lieut. Wentzel started to take his father to a railroad station in his automobile, she clung to the running board and refused to budge, her husband testified. So he called the patrol and sent her to the station.

Magistrate A. D. Brandon, after hearing both sides, reserved decision. And Mrs. Wentzel was free again pending the magistrate's ruling.

Mrs. Wentzel was arrested a month ago by her husband, when, he declares, he found her with another man. She was held for court. The police officer has started divorce proceedings.

Bitten, Tot Dies of Rabies

Hydrophobia caused the death of Abigail Van Emden, 5, of 692 Sumner avenue, Forest Hills, in the Braddock General Hospital at 12:35 o'clock this afternoon.

The child is thought to have contracted the disease when bitten by a neighbor's dog. The dog died of rabies two weeks ago.

Cripple's Cries Warn Of Death

For three hours today Edward Wagner, a cripple, was in his small room at 508 East Ohio street with the dead body of Charles Stark, 47, of Sunbury, O., trying to get some one to notify police.

A pedestrian finally was attracted by his calls from a window, and the body was removed to the county morgue.

Stark and Wagner formerly roomed together. Last night Stark visited the cripple and stayed with him all night. At 8 o'clock this morning Wagner found the man dead on the floor. Unable to walk unaided, Wagner could not get attention from persons passing the house until 11 o'clock. Wagner told police Stark had been drinking.

BANK ALARM CLANGS; POLICE RUSH TO SCENE—

With visions of bandits, Penn avenue police rushed to the Franklin Savings and Trust Company, 2815 Penn avenue, last night, after an emergency alarm was sounded. They found only a new janitor, who had accidentally touched the emergency alarm button while cleaning.

FOSTER UNDER FIRE

The personal element entered into County Controller Charles C. McGovern's public audit of the county commissioners' affaire today when John L. Schmidt, discharged controllers' bookkeeper interrupted the examination of Treasurer Samuel D. Foster and was banished for uncalled-for and surly remarks.

Schmidt, now an employe of the commissioners' bureau of statistics, was subpenaed as a witness from that office.

Foster was being quizzed concerning a transfer made shortly after McGovern assumed office. McGovern asked Foster a question about the method. Before Foster could reply, Schmidt jumped to his feet, saying he could answer the question.

"You'll get your chance," McGovern said.

"I'll take it, too," Schmidt said testily.

"If you don't behave yourself you'll get out of here," McGovern warned.

OUSTED

"I can get out," Schmidt persisted.

"Well, then, get out!" McGovern ordered.

The county commissioners may be required to pay out of their own pockets the cost of operation, including salaries, of their two special bookkeeping departments which are under fire in the audit.

This and other drastic steps were hinted by McGovern at the quiz today.

With County Treasurer Foster on the stand, Col. McGovern interrupted to have read a letter of opinion by Attorney Frank C. McGirr on the operation of county finances.

That the commissioners' and the public works department's special bookkeeping departments are illegal and the commissioners can be surcharged for the salaries in both departments; that transfer of funds from one to another of the department accounts from other municipalities is illegal, and that credits cannot be considered assets until liquidated was the legal opinion contained in the letter.

The question of transfer of funds came up in the examination of Fos-

Flier Nears Brazil

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—A radio message from Station 4-AQF, Nassau, picked up here by the Financial Journal's station today said the Port of Brunswick was seen 300 miles east of the British Bahamas by a steamer.

The steamer arrived at Nassau last night and reported that the plane on its non-stop flight to Brazil was flying at an altitude of about 2,000 feet, headed in a southerly direction.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The wireless report that Paul Redfern's plane, the Port of Brunswick, was seen 300 miles east of the Bahamas yesterday indicated that the Georgia aviator was holding to the course which he expected to follow when he hopped off from here yesterday at 12:46, Eastern Standard time.

Taking off from Glynn Isle Beach, Redfern's course lay straight over the sea to the southward, 45 degrees east. This course swung him east of the Bahamas and then over land for the first time in passing the southwestern corner of Porto Rico.

From there Redfern planned to jump across the Caribbean Sea, passing near Grenada Island, Tobago, Trinidad, and thence over continental land for the first time in South America, over Dutch Guiana. This would have been his path this morning if all had gone well with him and he had maintained his schedule.

After traversing Dutch Guiana, Redfern expected to steer for Macapa, on the north bank of the Amazon River. It was there he said he would decide whether to turn to Pernambuco or continue to Rio de Janeiro.

UNSEEN IN PORTO RICO

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—If Paul Redfern passed over Porto Rico in his huge Stinson-Detroiter monoplane during the night, his passage was unobserved so far as any reports received here this morning.

Aviators said today that the lighthouses along the coast of Porto Rico as well as the reflected lights of towns and cities on the island would be sufficiently strong to aid him greatly in keeping his course if he came within 25 to 75 miles of the island.

Locally the weather was reported excellent throughout the night. (Redfern was to have passed Porto

HOOSIER TO FACE BRAVES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—Vic Aldridge was Manager Donie Bush's selection for mound duty for the third game of the Pirates' series with the Braves here today. Hugh McQuillan was slated to oppose him.

As a result of getting only an even break in the doubleheader with the Braves yesterday while the Cubs were whitewashing the Phillies, the Corsairs now are three full games behind the leaders, and they hope to make every battle count toward closing the gap. They will make a spirited bid to win not only today's battle, but also both ends of the twin bill which will mark their season's farewell to the Hub tomorrow.

First Ward Demurrer Upheld

A demurrer filed by the Republican organization against an action to bring the First Ward assessors' list into Common Pleas Court for examination was upheld by Judges Ambrose B. Reid and Harry H. Rowand in an opinion handed down this afternoon.

In the petition it was charged that the list had been padded with names of 2,000 fictitious persons and non-taxpayers.

The judges held that the court was without jurisdiction in the case, stating that it first must be taken before the state board of assessment and revision of taxes.

Given Children by Court

MRS. E. R. A. SCHAEFFER AND CHILDREN

Mrs. Ellen R. Arnold Schaeffer, Muncie, Ind., was formally granted custody of her two children, Jack, 5, and Frances, 3, by Judge George V. Moore, Common Pleas Court, when Harry H. Schaeffer, 1237 Monterey street, the father in whose care the children had been, agreed through counsel to turn the children over to their mother. Mrs. Schaeffer was seeking a writ of habeas corpus to get custody of the children, alleging that the father was an improper person to care for them. Although still married, the Schaeffers live apart.

Picture Finds Girl

A picture in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday of Elva Jirinec, 13-year-old Bedford, O., girl, who was taken from home in an automobile Wednesday by two young men, was the means of finding her in Rochester, Pa., early today. Edward Fanchelly, 26, of Bedford, one of the alleged abductors, was arrested.

Three men, formerly of Bedford and now in Rochester, saw the picture. They also saw Fanchelly, whom they knew, and he told them he had a girl with him. They notified police, who found Fanchelly and the girl in a Rochester apartment house.

Fanchelly was arrested, and, police say, charges of kidnaping and violating the Mann act will be made against him. The girl is being provided for, pending the arrival of relatives.

Mrs. Harriet Jirinec, the girl's mother, and a brother came to Pittsburgh yesterday and enlisted the aid of police, believing that the girl had been brought here. They said that she had been seized by a young man while en route home from high school, dragged into an automobile, and driven away.

She gave a description of her daugh-

LOSES IN BALLOT FRAUD

The name of William E. Armstrong, of Baldwin township, as a candidate for county commissioner was ordered stricken from the ballot in an order handed down in Common Pleas Court today by Judges Ambrose B. Reid and Harry H. Rowand.

In an accompanying opinion it was determined that the candidate had not established 100 valid signatures out of the 515 signers to six nominating petitions filed in his behalf, and the charge of the Republican organization that the petition contained irregularities and defects was sustained. Evidence that signatures had been forged and that the petitions were signed by many under the belief that the petitions were for County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong was presented at the hearing.

RACE DEATH IN CAVE-IN RESCUE

AUBURN, Mass., Aug. 26.—Waging a grim battle with death, volunteer workers today decided to sink a shaft and tunnel to the side of Fred Leneau, 37, who was buried alive in the cave-in of a new well, at his place on Alpine way.

Under an arch of broken timbers that held back a mass of earth and stones, Leneau spoke faintly through a fire hose that had been put down to give him air. A physician among the rescuers ordered him to keep silent in order to conserve his strength.

Torn and broken, the body of the victim was held fast in the crush of the heavy, soggy mass of earth. The head was in an air space under the arch of timbers.

This forenoon there was a slight movement of earth and rocks above the arch. The diggers stopped in their work directly above fearing that

COMMISSIONERS DEFEND ACTS

Confidence that their opposition to the impounding of county records by Controller Charles C. McGovern was for the best interests of taxpayers, was expressed by the county commissioners in the following statement today:

The entire hearing this morning was relative to the transfers of monies temporarily from one fund to another. The commissioners agree that this was done and that it conforms to the very best business practice. It not only saved the taxpayers' money but it expedited the commissioners' prosecution of public works and saved interest and discounts. It is a practice which the commissioners will continue unless the court should advise them in any particular interest that it is wrong.

The commissioners are confident that anything they did was for the best interests of the public and of Allegheny county in prosecuting the public work and pushing the improvements authorized by the people's bond issue. In all our acts we were sustained and advised by competent legal advice. If the controller was advised by his solicitor

REDFERN WINGS INTO CARIBBEAN STORM AREA

STAIN ON PARENTAGE -:- BOY, 4, TETHERED WITH DOG -:- IN BACKYARD CRATE

REFUSED
Rachel Steinman, arrested with husband, Jacob, for the cruelty. They kept the child outside because of stain on its parentage.

Mrs. Tillie Lovell, 20, mother of Charles, and his brother Willard, 2. The father left the family when Willard was aged 2 months.

Pair Held for Imprisoning Boy in Kennel With Dog

HARNESS 4-YR. OLD TO POST

By DAVID T. JONES,
Staff Correspondent.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 26.—The finding of a 4-year-old boy tied to a stake in front of a dog house, which he shared with the dog, on a Hempfield township farm Tuesday, has resulted in the arrest of Jacob Steinman, owner of the property, and his wife, Rachael. The two are being held on charges of cruelty pending a hearing today before Justice of the Peace W. Irwin Hunter.

Agents of the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society went to the Steinman farm Tuesday, after receiving the reports of cruelty. They found Charles Garland, 4, tethered to a stake in the back yard and curled up in a kennel with a large dog. The child, its mother, Tillie Lovell, 20, and another child, Willard Lovell, aged 2 months, are now being cared for in the county poor house.

Another boy, Russell Bales, 5, who was found living with the Steinmans, was taken from their custody on a court order and is in the custody of Juvenile court authorities. He will be held until it is determined whether the Steinmans have a claim on him.

According to Ray Hallam, humane society agent, the Steinmans refused to allow the Garland boy in their house because of his parentage. He is a son of the Lovell woman, born before she married Willard Lovell, who was raised by Mrs. Steinman. Lovell left his wife when their son, Willard, was 2 weeks old, and the mother took her two children to the Steinman home.

Hallam, investigating neighbors' reports of cruelty, found the boy fastened to the stake. The child was wearing a home-made harness attached to a long rope, which was tied to the post. The ground around him was hard-baked clay, and the only shelter from the sun was the dog kennel. Hallam stated that the child was kept tied in the yard for 12 to 15 hours daily and was permitted in the house only at night.

PREACHER CLAIMS PAY FOR STRAIN IN SERMON

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—A claim for compensation for injuries suffered during an oratorical flight has been made to the Industrial Accident Commission by the Rev. J. Matthews, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian Church. He said he strained himself so seriously in the preparation of a sermon that he had to undergo an operation and was incapacitated for two weeks. The claim is against the church and an insurance company.

M'GOVERN TURNS PROBE

ter. Replying to a leading question as to what he would do if the county commissioners overdrew an account, he declared that in such a case the commissioners would have to authorize a transfer of funds.

"Do you know that to transfer is illegal?" was Col. McGovern's next question.

"I have no legal advice in my office," Foster parried.

"Do you know any bond accounts that are overdrawn?" McGovern asked.

"No," Foster replied; "my books are not here."

"Even without the books here—suppose the deputy says the commissioners are overdrawn, there is no way you could replenish the accounts?" McGovern asked.

McGovern resumed his questioning. "Have you any idea what the transfers would amount to in millions?" he asked.

"I couldn't say without my books," Foster replied.

"Who could?"

"My bookkeeper."

"Do you know a certain account is overdrawn $53,285?" McGovern asked.

"I wouldn't know offhand," Foster said.

"Do you know whether at the close of books yesterday in your office accounts were overdrawn $290,000?" McGovern asked.

"Not from memory," Foster replied.

"No," Foster replied, "the commissioners would have to transfer funds."

McGovern delved into Foster's experience as an engineer for the county and state and then asked if he was not familiar with road bond accounts. Foster replied in the affirmative.

"Well, then," McGovern asked, "if a road bond account was overdrawn you would know it?"

"Not without consulting books," Foster said.

McGovern brought out that the treasurer's office sends the commissioners a copy of the monthly statement and that Foster had received a request for these copies from the commissioners.

"If the commissioners gradually exhaust a bond account, when would you know about it?" McGovern asked.

Foster replied with an explanation of how warrants were issued, countersigned and their general progress to his office.

"Do you know that transfers made by the commissioners from one account to another appeared in two columns, making an inaccurate report?" McGovern questioned, referring to the report submitted by the treasurer for the controller's 1926 annual report.

Foster replied that was a matter of bookkeeping.

Foster declared he was familiar with the bridge accounts in a general way, but would not know if they were overdrawn.

McGovern asked if Foster knew of any accounts that were being withheld for payment that customarily went through. He cited payments to employes of the road maintenance department of public works. Foster said there were none in his office.

QUESTION PAYROLL

It was brought out that employes of the public works department are paid by checks, sent through the mails.

McGovern asked if it was a fact that some employes do not have addresses and that some of the checks are returned to the treasurer. Foster replied he had no knowledge of it. McGovern then endeavored to arrive at an approximate total of the maintenance department's payroll yearly, placing it at $1,000,000 "perhaps," but Foster refused to guess.

In reply to a question, Foster said the treasurer had a right to object to transfers when money is drawn after any fund is exhausted.

McGovern asked if Foster knew of any payroll accounts in the county being paid by warrant in lump sum. Foster replied in the affirmative, naming the Mothers' Pension Fund and the Juvenile Assistance Fund.

"Is it good policy to pay payrolls in lump sum?" McGovern asked.

"No," Foster admitted. "All payrolls and other checks should be submitted to the treasurer."

$30,000 IN LUMP

McGovern brought out that one payroll for approximately $30,000 was paid to an individual, then banked in this individual's private account, leaving no check for the county on the salary payments.

"Would you know if the checks of public works employes were given to the foremen for disbursement?" McGovern asked.

"Not directly; the paymaster would know," Foster replied.

"Do you recall the action of the Commissioners in 1924 transferring $600,000 from the people's bond issue to the Commissioners' bond issue?"

"I don't recall the transaction of such a large sum," Foster answered.

McGovern referred him to the controller's annual report for that year, which set out the amount.

"Do you know this amount was put back three days after I was appointed controller?" he then asked.

"I beg to differ with you," Foster said.

"Well, would you say the warrant was issued three days after I assumed office?" McGovern asked.

"Yes," Foster replied.

DEPUTY QUESTIONED

Deputy County Treasurer James L. Costella was called. He admitted that if warrants were issued on exhausted funds he would know. He further admitted that the treasurer kept a set of books corresponding with those kept by the County Commissioners, and that the treasurer's office furnished the commissioners with a monthly statement of the county's financial affairs.

McGovern asked Costella if he knew that within a week the commissioners had issued a warrant for $59,000 on an exhausted fund. Costella said he was not there. In answer to further questions concerning the policy in the treasurer's office Costella declared that he would rather have the treasurer answer for himself.

At the close of the morning session McGovern called Nicholas Stabile the public works bookkeeper, and told him he could take his books, with the understanding that they would be kept under his surveillance. It had been expected that McGovern would keep these books in his own office.

Shaves His Own Head For Executioner But Gets New Lease

By Universal Service.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 26.—When Governor Martineau stayed for 30 days the execution of Sandy Robinson, Negro, sentenced to die today in the electric chair, he interrupted an unusual tonsorial job. When Warden Tol Hunter went to the death cell to inform Robinson of the delay, the Negro was shaving his head. He laughed heartily and said:

"Here, I was trying to save you the trouble of shaving my head for the chair. That sure is a good joke on me."

Robinson has never admitted the crime.

Weather Conditions.

The eastern high developed slowly northeastward, increasing in pressure, until this morning it is centered over Eastern Ontario and Quebec, with the barometer 30.40 to 30.42, and the high pressure belt covers the country from the Central Plains states eastward to the coast, and from Tennessee northward. The skies are clear throughout its area, except over the Middle Atlantic coast, and the temperature changes were slight, but in most places slightly higher.

There is a low off the Florida coast, causing cloudiness as far north as New York, and showers to Atlantic City. The Northwest low is centered over North Dakota and Saskatchewan, and is causing thunderstorms over that section, and general cloudiness over the western plains and the Rocky Mountain states.

The temperatures for the country as a whole continue below normal.

ENCOUNTERS STORMS

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 26.—Richard W. Gray, United States meteorologist, said a number of thunderstorms probably were encountered by Paul Redfern, east of the Bahamas. One thunderstorm with a wind velocity of approximately 27 miles an hour moved eastward over Miami late yesterday.

The naval radio station at Key West was endeavoring this morning to communicate with ships in the waters of the Lesser Antilles, but has picked up no traffic from that quarter since yesterday. At that time weather conditions were reported favorable.

The government station has broadcast a request to all shipping in the vicinity of Redfern's course to report immediately any information available.

EXPERTS DOUBT SUCCESS

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 26.—Roaring away from Brunswick at noon yesterday in the face of unusually favorable weather conditions, Paul Redfern sought to establish new endurance and distance marks.

FLIES IN DARKNESS

Naval navigators and hydrographers at Washington pointed out that Redfern in addition to bucking head winds over practically his whole course, would be flying without a moon.

The naval men said that if Redfern reached his objective it would be nothing short of a miracle. They estimated he would miss his objective at Rio de Janeiro by about 450 miles, as they did not believe his gasoline supply would last more than 57 hours, while with favorable conditions it would take 62 hours to reach his goal. They believe when he reaches the northeastern coast of Brazil he will turn east to Pernambuco.

Redfern, in referring to his flight, called it the Brunswick to Brazil hop, and said that when he reached the Amazon River he would check his gasoline supply to determine whether he would change his course to Pernambuco or keep on to Rio.

FLIERS OFF ON GLOBE HOP

EASTPORT, Me., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The monoplane Pride of Detroit, en route to an attempt to break the record for circling the globe, passed out of United States territory at 7:55 a. m., eastern daylight time, when it was sighted at West Quoddy Head coast guard station.

Edward F. Schlee, Detroit oil magnate, and William S. Brock, his pilot, hopped off from Old Orchard, Me., at 4:20 a. m., eastern standard time, for Harbor Grace, N. F. As soon as they are favored by good weather they will start from Harbor Grace in an attempt to encircle the globe in record time.

Edward S. Evans and Linton Wells, using airplane, steamer and train, encircled the globe last year in 28 days 14 minutes and 20 seconds. Schlee and Brock, using only their plane, hope to beat this record.

Brock drove the monoplane down the beach sands uncovered by the tide and took off easily. Five minutes later he was over Cape Elizabeth at the entrance to Portland harbor. At 6:10 he flew just inside Monhegan Island. Fair weather conditions obtained, with a light northeast wind and some clouds.

The route of the plane on the more than 1,000 miles hop was expected to take them over Nova Scotia.

that anything the commissioners did was contrary to the law, he always had his remedy in court.

All the questions which the controller has asked and all the information he has brought out at these hearings shows plainly that the information he alleges he is seeking is right at his hand and in his office.

It is apparent that the purpose of this investigation is not to enlighten the public, but merely to allow the controller to place before the voters political propaganda which are not the facts.

Fourteen months have elapsed since the controller took office, but he waited until the eve of an election before attempting to perform any duties which he says are incumbent upon him and waited for 14 months to obtain an opinion from his solicitor as to the legality of the acts which he was daily performing.

The proceedings are entirely under the direction of the controller, and no other party is allowed to do anything but to answer questions which the controller asks. He is perverting the authority given him by the legislature to further his personal ends. The commissioners are powerless to examine witnesses or put their side of the question before the public at these hearings.

Make Own Typhoon To Test Resistance

(International News Service Wire.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Government experts have created an artificial 180-mile-an-hour typhoon at the Bureau of Standards in order to conduct wind resistance experiments, it was announced today.

The improvised typhoon is directed through a "cave of the winds," it was said, so the experts can determine the wind resistance of airplanes, airships, automobiles, skyscrapers, typical factories, smokestacks and air bombs. In experiments conducted today, two interesting phenomena were recorded: (1) That large buildings explode under terrific wind pressure instead of collapsing, and (2) that some automobiles use 20 per cent of their power to "push the wind aside."

CHARLEROI, Pa., Aug. 26.—One hundred and thirty-four snakes were captured by members of Boy Scout Troop 17 during a 10-day camping trip on Ten Mile Creek. Fourteen copperheads and 12 rattlers were captured in one day. The reptiles were skinned and their pelts tanned for trophies.

RUNS INTO ARMS OF POLICEMAN

A bullet which passed through the hat of John Pringle, 35, a Negro, whom Patrolman Frank Froelick was pursuing in Diamond street this morning, failed to stop his flight as into the arms of Traffic Officer Frank Watt he sped. Froelick had found Pringle carrying a package which contained two dozen pairs of silk hosiery. Pringle fled when questioned.

THREE WOUNDED AT PARTY

Nine Negroes are being held in the Hazelwood Police Station in connection with a shooting last night at a party in the home of Matthew Lewis, Negro, 5453½ Dyke street, during which one man and two women were wounded. The wounded are, Amy Hill, 22; Mrs. Martha Lewis, 30, and John Moore, 23, all of the Dyke street address. Police say William Gimble began firing when he found a girl friend talking to another man. Liquor and two loaded revolvers were found.

FALL FROM BEAM KILLS STEEL PLANT WORKMAN

Benjamin F. Wilkinson, 41, of 237 Forty-fifth street, died today in St. Margaret's Hospital a few hours after he had suffered a fractured skull in a fall from a beam in the steel casting plant of McConway & Torley.

DOUBT ATTACK IN DEATH

Theories that Charles P. Quinn, 35, of McKeesport, killed when he was run over by a shifting engine in McKeesport yesterday, was the victim of an attack and robbery at the hands of drinking companions, were discredited today by morgue officers and McKeesport detectives.

Quinn was one of the first Americans to enter the war, enlisting in the King's Own Scottish at Ottawa a few hours after Great Britain's declaration of war. He was gassed and suffered a shattered arm for which he received a pension of about $20 a month.

His brother, Edward F. Quinn, and an uncle, John A. Summers, of McKeesport, told detectives Quinn had been beaten and robbed of this pension several times. They believe the same men attacked him again and, after beating him, left him on the railroad tracks. The county morgue reported that there were no marks on the body to support the theory.

TAXICAB HITS WOMAN; SKULL IS FRACTURED

Mrs. Margaret Schaffer, 50, of 1926 Forbes street, is in Mercy Hospital suffering from a fractured skull suffered when run down by a taxicab at Fifth avenue and Miltenberger street last night. Raymond Hudson, 23, driver, furnished bail. The condition of Rudolph Lucas, 9, of 2304 Allison avenue, McKeesport, injured when he was hit by a truck in O'Neil boulevard, was reported as fair.

Auto Held Equally Liable, So Flivver Is Defendant

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Decision on a case in Federal Court here titled "The United States of America vs. One Ford," has endowed the automobile with a personality and established a new legal precedent in the court warfare against liquor law violations.

Federal Judge Woodrough, in his ruling in the case, decided that an automobile used for unlawful concealment or conveyance of intoxicating liquor is equally guilty with an individual if used to violate the internal revenue laws, and is punishable by confiscation.

The court ruled also that a person or corporation having a lien on such a car must suffer the loss incurred by confiscation.

HILL'S CAPTURE IN MOTHER'S DEATH NEAR

By FRED J. WALKER.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

STREATOR, Ill., Aug. 26.—Harry D. Hill, 22, wayward son of a wealthy physician, accused of having murdered his mother and buried her body in a shallow grave, was expected to be in custody before nightfall.

Dr. H. C. Hill, accompanied by Chief of Police William Robb and a third man, believed to be an attorney retained to protect the boy's interests, left Streator shortly after midnight on a mystery trip generally expected to result in young Hill's arrest.

Dr. Hill, it was understood, had communicated with Chief Robb shortly after returning from Springfield, where he had buried his divorced wife, Mrs. Eliza Hill, 54, whose murdered body, dug from a shallow grave in her Streator home, launched the search for their son.

Harry stood accused today of having repeatedly forged checks on his mother's account and authorities say Dr. Hill had invariably stepped in to save the boy from prosecution.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—A man believed to have been Harry D. Hill wanted at Streator, Ill., in connection with the killing of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, was seen asleep in his motorcar on the outskirts of St. Louis early yesterday morning, Roscoe H. Dearmond, supervisor of weights and samples at the Merchants' Grain Exchange here, reported to police today.

GO LIMIT TO GET JAWORSKI, IS ORDER

County Controller C. C. McGovern authorized county detectives to incur all necessary expense in the search for Paul Jaworski and John Vasbinder, slayers, who broke jail last week. Throughout the nation, 50,000 circulars, on which will be printed the $15,000 dead-or-alive reward offer of the county, will be distributed.

Although a four-day hunt for the slayer of State Trooper John Downey, Troop A, Greensburg, who was shot to death while dispersing a Sacco-Vanzetti demonstration at Acmetonia, near Cheswick, has proved fruitless, a wide search still is being conducted.

DAMAGE SUITS ASK $34,000

Six suits asking damages aggregating $34,000 were filed yesterday in Common Pleas Court against the Pittsburgh Railways Company. For injuries alleged to have been received April 28 last, when struck by a street car at Forbes and Lawn streets, Richard Freeman is asking $25,000 of the defendant. The other five actions, totaling $9,000, are by Mr. and Mrs. Adam Jeckevics and their children, Joseph, 4; Victoria, 2; Andrew, 7, and Mary, 9, and are for hurts alleged to have been received March 7 last, at Forbes street and Bellefield avenue, when an automobile in which they were passengers collided with a street car.

WINDS PREVENT HOP TO ROME

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The monoplane "Old Glory," loaded and fueled, was perched at the runway top today, earthbound by a fresh east wind that definitely precluded a take-off on the non-stop flight for Rome.

Neither Lloyd Bertaud nor J. D. Hill, the pilots, had appeared at the field by mid-morning.

James McPhail, Fokker mechanic and a member of the recent Guggenheim flight to Newfoundland in search of Nungesser and Coli, was positive there would be no flight today. "We've got to have a west wind to lift her into the air," he said, "and this breeze shows no signs of turning its back on itself. There'll be nothing doing today, or I miss my guess."

Pennsylvania Letter Rings Fire Alarm When Mailed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Mistaking a fire alarm box for a mail box, a Pennsylvania visitor here caused a mad dash of fire apparatus down Pennsylvania avenue to the vicinity of the Capitol. The tourist, E. L. McAninith, who said he was from rural Pennsylvania, apologized profusely to the firemen and was not charged with turning in a false alarm.

ACTOR HURT IN FALL MAY LIVE

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Following a blood transfusion at Bellevue Hospital, Clark Twelvetrees, 23, an actor, son of C. Twelvetrees, noted illustrator, was expected to recover from injuries received when he fell or leaped from a fifth floor window at a local hotel.

His wife, Helen, 19, a dancer, offered her blood when physicians found Twelvetrees had suffered an internal hemorrhage, but it was not suitable and that of a professional donor was taken.

Twelvetrees struck the hotel canopy and then the front mudguard and running board of an automobile which was parked at the curb, breaking his fall.

SUSPECTS QUESTIONED IN 3-YEAR-OLD MURDER

County detectives this morning were questioning two Italians arrested yesterday in connection with the murder, three years ago, of Dominic Brankati, alias Gershima Mucdicor, who was slain in the Partridge mine at Santiago. The suspects, Moltari, of Santiago, and Patsy Caruso, of Imperial, were arrested on the tip of an aged relative of the slain man.

BOOTLEG LIQUOR PRICES IN MONONGAHELA RISE

MONONGAHELA, Pa., Aug. 26.—Moonshine whisky, in the retail "speakeasies," has climbed from the customary $1.25 per pint to $1.50, with the "better" brands bringing as high as $2. Homebrew beer and the "white lightning" variety of moonshine hold stationary: Quart of homebrew, at 75 cents, and moonshine at 75 cents per pint.

Gypsies Claim Baby; Blood Test to Tell

OAKLAND, Neb., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The future of a golden haired baby girl today hinged on the outcome of a blood test chosen to determine whether the three-year-old child really is a gypsy princess or perhaps the kidnaped daughter of other parents who somewhere are seeking her.

The blood test to decide the child's gypsy parentage was decided upon by the authorities yesterday after they had taken the girl from a swarthy band whose king and queen claimed her as their own.

The insistent pleading of the gypsy mother, known as Annie John, led the authorities to adopt the blood test as their method when the gypsies agreed to abide by the result of the test. Blood of the gypsy parents and that of the baby girl will be analyzed and if found related the child will be returned to them as their gypsy princess. Otherwise she will be kept in custody here until the rightful parents seek and claim her.

Already inquiries regarding the child have been received from many parts of the country and several parents are en route here in hopes of identifying the girl, the authorities said.

TYPHOONED SHIP IN; 14 HURT

By Universal Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The first vessel to reach New York from the hurricane area moving northeast over the Atlantic, the Furness-Bermuda liner Fort Victoria, arrived yesterday from Bermuda with 14 injured, after one of the roughest passages in the memory of the vessel's commander, Capt. A. B. Francis. Practically all the liner's 527 passengers—mostly returning tourists—were sea-sick. The 14 were injured when the ship rolled helplessly in the grip of the gale, and one, Mrs. Frank McDonald, of Stoneboro', Pa., was thrown from her deck-chair and suffered a deep gash in the scalp.

The Fort Victoria left Bermuda Tuesday and ran into the center of the storm Wednesday. She was compelled to heave to for four hours in the mountainous seas. Dr. Arthur Warren, the ship's surgeon, was kept continually busy working on victims of the hurricane.

REFUSED WIFE BREAD, HER BROTHER SHOT HIM

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—For refusing bread to his wife and son, Louis Sprenzi was shot twice, probably fatally, yesterday by his brother-in-law Julius Bock. Sprenzi is said to have purchased rolls for his breakfast, to have eaten them on the way home, and to have refused to provide food for Mrs. Sprenzi and their 11-year-old son, Louis, Jr.

GARTER'S FLASH THEFT CLUE

By Universal Service.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Aug. 26.—The flash of a daintily ribboned garter led to the recovery of $3,000 in jewels, furs and clothing. A maid employed in the country home here of Mrs. Patrick J. Carr of Chicago, observed the garter, formerly worn by her mistress, on Mrs. William E. Green, whom she was visiting.

The authorities, acting upon the maid's report, searched the Green home and discovered the loot, taken in a robbery here a month ago. Mrs. Green, her husband and Vinas Wimbler, were taken into custody.

Radio, Movies Newest Throbs for Mary

Two new experiences will mark today for me. For the greater part of the morning and afternoon I am to go before the motion picture camera, while tonight will probably find me shivering with fright as I speak into a radio microphone. Winning the title of "Miss Pittsburgh" has certainly brought me many new experiences. And it seems that there is no end to them.

Starting the day writing my article, the next thing will be to speed to a studio where the pictures are to be made. It looks like hard work, since I'll have to be posing in my new wardrobe. That means continual changing of clothes. Just as a stenographer, it was trouble enough getting dressed and ready to enjoy an evening. But now I'll have to be getting dressed again and again and won't be going anywhere.

I am to open a radio program tonight at Station WJAS. The hour is to be 10 o'clock and I just cannot help thinking how nervous a girl it will be who will stand alone before a little instrument that will carry my voice to many and many listeners. I expect I'll be nervous before the movie camera, too. So all in all, it surely looks like it's to be a nervous day.

The August Sales

Make the Most of Tomorrow's 4 Shopping Hours

THIS IS the final Saturday of the August Sales of Furs, Furniture and Bedding, the events coming to a close Wednesday, August 31. And this is the first Saturday of the Overcoat Sale. This short shopping day is charged with opportunities.

The Overcoat Sale

Offers Extraordinary Values

$26.50 $36.50 $48.50

"Why, surely this isn't just $48.50!" "Is this coat only $36.50?" "Is this price—$26.50—right?" "I think I'll buy two coats—one for business, another for dress—the prices are so reasonable!"

—that's the sort of thing we hear about our August Overcoats. The coats are selling themselves—as we predicted. Men come in just to see the new models—they try them on—and they buy. Who wouldn't buy when he can make such a substantial saving?

—Horne's, Men's Store—

The Furniture Sale

Has Benefited Hundreds

It may be only a chair, a table, a desk or a bookcase, or it may be furniture for a room or an entire house. Many will take advantage of August Sale prices again tomorrow just as dozens did the preceding Saturdays.

It is a sale of far-reaching benefits. The values represented are unusual. The Sale is also an Exposition of new styles in good taste. There are the low, deep chairs such as the Eugene Field style, graceful low coffee tables, luxuriously comfortable davenports built on lines proportionate to the small home or apartment, charming breakfast room furniture or maple and walnut pieces for a small dining room. It is furniture adapted to modern requirements, of good design and sound construction—and most of it moderately priced!

2 AMERICAN WOMEN HURT IN PLUNGE

CHAMONIX, France, Aug. 26.—(A.P.)—A mountain tourist party, after gazing upon the vast sea of ice filling the highest basins of the Mont Blanc chain, suddenly was changed into a party of death and suffering when the cog railway train in which the descent was being made was wrecked near Montenvers last night. Ten women and five men, were known today to have been killed outright, and three died later of injuries.

Seemingly none of the 60 occupants of the wrecked coach escaped unscathed. Twenty-five injured were taken to the Chamonix Hospital and others to clinics at Montenvers, Annery and other places in the region.

Among the injured were Mrs. Newton Perry, of Chicago, and her daughter, who suffered broken legs. Their maid was among those killed.

FRAUD IN SECOND WARD CHARGED

DISCRIMINATION SHOWN, SAYS ANDERSON

Charging that some applications for appointments as registrars in the Second Ward are fradulent and that he is being discriminated against, Alderman George Anderson, ward chairman, today urged the registration commissioners to delay the appointments until Tuesday.

The board took the request under advisement and will meet this afternoon to frame a reply.

Alderman Anderson, who, accompanied by Samuel Reichman, his attorney, made a surprise appearance before the board this morning, charged that at least three petitions for appointments are fraudulent. He declared that petitions asking the appointment of D. H. Sweeney and Charles C. Moore in the First District should be thrown out as the address given, 414 Duquesne way, is a foundry, not a dwelling place. He also stated that the petition of John Driscoll, 14 Montour way, for appointment in the Second district, should be dropped because, he said, three of the four signers do not live at the addresses given by them.

The board is discriminating against him, Anderson said, because he is the only ward chairman in the city whose recommendations have not been accepted.

SACCO-VANZETTI 'GRIEF MARCH' PLANNED

By International News Service

BOSTON, Aug. 26. — With a large crowd on hand, an increased police guard today was posted at the little north end funeral chapel where the bodies of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti lie in state.

The increase in the police guard followed disturbances which ended in the arrest, after a near riot, of Miss Mary Donovan, member of the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee. Miss Donovan was charged with obstructing traffic.

At the same time members of the defense committee were planning a drive on the street commissioner's office to hold a monster Sunday "march of sorrow," as under the city ordinance only 200 can march and thousands have asked for a place in the line.

AUTO AND MILK WAGON CRASH; HORSE IS SHOT

$30,000 HOME BURNS AS WATER FAILS

FIREMEN FROM 4 BOROUGHS HELPLESS

Forced from their home in their night clothing early today, members of the family of Russell Henderson watched their home on the Three Degree road, overlooking the North County Park, burn to the ground because of lack of water to fight the flames.

Henderson discovered the fire before it had gained much headway and roused the other members of the family. They escaped from the house, taking a few of their more valued possessions with them. A telephone call from the house of a neighbor summoned fire departments from West View, Perrysville, Ingomar and Wexford, but when the firemen arrived the 16-room frame house was fire-swept. The damage was estimated at about $30,000.

ALASKAN SETTLERS FACE LOSS OF ISLAND HOMES

SEWARD, Alaska, Aug. 26.—A 35-year-old proclamation issued by President Harrison in 1892 may be the means by which more than 200 white settlers will lose their homes on Afognak. The settlers, many of whom have spent large sums to establish fox farms and fish canneries, were ordered from the island by Henry O'Malley, of the government fisheries bureau. Under the proclamation discovered by O'Malley, the island was to be used as a reservation for Eskimos and whites are forbidden to trespass upon the island or the water surrounding.

RUSSIA FINANCES SACCO RIOTING, BAKER SAYS

The Sacco-Vanzetti disturbances in France are undoubtedly the work of a group of agitators supplied with money from Russia, in the opinion of Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, who returned this morning from France and Germany where he was making arrangements for the second international coal conference to be held here in November, 1928.

Communists are scattered throughout France and other countries of Europe, but despite this fact, France and Germany are fast recovering their equilibrium, Dr. Baker said.

Germany and France enthusiastically received the plans for the second coal conference, Dr. Baker said, and he expects that the conference will be even more of an international affair than the first one, which 16 nations attended here last November.

WRECKS MACHINE, BUT BOY IS HURT

The Plays and Players
Stage and Screen
THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH
FRIDAY, AUGUST 26, 1927

With Gloria -:- Stage Pet -:- Free Lance -:- Furs Speaking

LIONEL BARRYMORE is in the cast which will support Gloria Swanson in "Sadie Thompson," film version of "Miss Thompson," which also served as the basis of the stage play, "Rain."

MRS. THOMAS WHIFFEN, "grand old lady of the stage," is to have her first musical comedy part in "Just Fancy," which will be given public view next month.

ANNA Q. NILSSON has completed a two-year contract and will make her appearance as an independent player in "Sorrell and Son."

CLAIRE WINDSOR will be seen in "Say It With Sables" as the first picture to be made under a new contract. Judging from the title, we guess that furs will speak louder than words.

Chaliapin, Opera Stage Star, Negotiating With D. W. Griffith For Part In Spanish Film Play

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.

CHALIAPIN in the movies! That's a good headline, Chaliapin, one of the greatest opera singers in the world, is now negotiating with David Wark Griffith for a part in the next Griffith picture, "A Romance of Old Spain," which, by the way, is founded on a very old Spanish story.

David Wark Griffith is never without ideas, and when the thought came to him that Chaliapin was just the person for the part, he cabled to Biarritz, where the singer is vacationing. Chaliapin is now trying to arrange his engagements so he can return to America and come to Hollywood.

Fortunately, the picture is being filmed before the operatic season begins, so there is every reason to believe that Hollywood will see the Metropolitan Opera star.

It takes more than a sick director to worry Mack Sennett. He has had too many years handling the old megaphone himself, so, when he heard that Alf Goulding was sick, instead of postponing the picture, he said, "Bring on the actors." It is eight long years since Mr. Sennett directed a comedy. His last was "Mickey," with Mabel Normand. But "The Romance of a Bathing Beauty" is his story, his idea and really based on his experiences with the girls who were the original Sennett bathing girls.

American Jazz Music Above Competition, Ted Lewis Says

American jazz, the only native product which has no international competition, states Ted Lewis, known as "the high-hatted tragedian of song," who begins a week's engagement in Loew's and United Artists' New Penn Theater, Monday, September 5.

"Europe already prefers our jazz to its own popular dance music," Lewis says. "The enormous prices paid for American orchestras, the sale of American sheet music and talking machine records attest to this fact.

"Before the birth of jazz American music was the subject of ridicule in Europe and other parts of the world. Seldom it was that any music written in America found favor with foreign critics. But with the end of the war, when the world looked for happiness and liberty, American jazz supplied this panacea for the world's weary soul.

"Now the world wants more jazz and looks to America for its supply. Here we are able to pay orchestras enormous incomes reaching as high as $10,000 weekly. This same capital which provides our domestic supply of jazz has now reached every corner of the world, and American musicians are touring the globe spreading the gospel of the new American music."

CHORUS IS DOUBLED IN "BOZO" REVIEW

Besides its entire new dress in decorations of gold and green tint from foyer to footlights, the Gayety next Monday matinee will present choral improvement, with about double the number of girls in "Bozo" Snyder's review than hitherto appeared in Columbia attractions.

Thurston Hall, John W. Moore and Geoffrey Bryant have been cast for the three bachelors who adopt a friendless little actress, played by Anne Forrest, in "Laff That Off," next week's offering of the George Sharp Production Stock Company in the Pitt.

Judging from the line at the box office at the Nixon, when seat sale opened for the third and last week of "Old Ironsides" yesterday, it looks as if it will prove to be a record-breaking week.

"Looking For Information" is one of the comedy sketches in "Kandy Kids," this week in the Academy. It is a combination of patter and topical songs.

MY KITCHEN NOTEBOOK

There's a Real Art in Making Griddle Cakes

Wheat cakes and maple syrup—cornmeal cakes and thin crisps of bacon—buckwheat cakes and sausage—is there anything more appetizing?

Yet even the best of us sometimes stir up a bowlful of batter in our usual confident, carefree fashion only to have it materialize into strangely boardlike, leathery discs, instead of the melting, fluffy, tender bits of brownness to which we are accustomed. I've found that the method of combining the ingredients and the baking are fully as important as the recipe itself.

Here Are the Important Rules

Sift flour, measure; resift with baking powder, sugar and salt. Mix lightly beaten eggs, melted butter and milk; stir the liquid into the dry ingredients as quickly as possible, just long enough to stir in every trace of flour. Lift batter carefully from the bowl to griddle without stirring. Bake the cakes on one side until brown beneath and full of unbroken bubbles on top. Turn once.

Why I Always Use Carnation Milk for Griddle Cakes

You will notice in my recipe that I use Carnation Milk. It plays an important part in standardizing the quality of pancakes, I've found. If you want uniformly successful results, you must have uniform ingredients—and Carnation Milk offers a uniformity of quality which ordinary milk can never give. Carnation Milk, as you know, is simply the purest and freshest of whole milk, evaporated to double richness, and sterilized for safekeeping.

Not only in the making of cakes, but in all other cookery Carnation Milk achieves results that even the finest of bottled milk cannot equal. It makes smoother, creamier sauces and soups—and with the use of less butter. It gives a finer texture to cakes, a better-keeping quality. It makes ice cream richer. It gives delicacy to puddings and custards.

"Homogenization" is responsible for these definitely finer results which Carnation Milk secures. "Homogenization" is the breaking up of the cream globules in the milk and their distribution in minute particles through every drop, so that even the last drop has its share of rich butter fat to give richness and flavor to cookery.

You'll be surprised to know how many recipes it improves. The Carnation Cook Book—"My Hundred Favorite Recipes" will be a revelation to you. Won't you send for this free book? Address Carnation Milk Products Co., 100 Carnation Bldg., Oconomowoc, Wis.

Carnation Griddle Cakes

2½ cups flour, 4 tbsp. cornmeal, ½ cup Carnation Milk diluted with 1½ cups water, 4 tbsp. sugar, 4 tbsp. butter, 1 egg, 1 tsp. salt, 4 or 5 tsp. baking powder. Sift flour and meal, measure, resift with baking powder, sugar and salt into bowl. Beat egg until foamy; add diluted Carnation and melted butter. Stir into dry ingredients.

PRICE PUT ON HIT AND RUN DRIVERS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 26.—A price has been placed on the heads of hit-and-run motorists.

Richard C. Haldeman, president of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, has announced that a reward of $100 will be paid by the federation for the apprehension and conviction of each hit-and-run driver.

The present situation, Haldeman said, is so serious that everything possible must be done to curb the activity of the hit-and-run drivers.

CLAIMS POLITICS HURTS CITY

Factional squabbles have hindered the progress of Pittsburgh during the past 40 years, permitting Detroit, "a mere sideshow," and Cleveland, "a stop-over town," to forge ahead, declared John Francies, organization candidate for county treasurer, at a meeting of borough and township officials in Hotel Henry last night.

The constant bickering and the unprogressive policies of petty politicians made it necessary for W. L. Mellon, "a business man with foresight," to call a halt, Mr. Francies declared. He said the organization ticket being supported by Mr. Mellon and his associates gives the people of the county "an opportunity to support progress, harmony and efficiency, and give to Pittsburgh its proper place among the cities of the nation." Other speakers were Judges Nelson McVicar and Thomas J. Ford, Robert G. Woodside, Samuel D. Foster, Albert T. Lorch, Joseph N. Mackrell and John Vogt. Councilman James F. Malone presided.

FLIER'S MOTHER GOES WEST

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 26.—Reconciled to the fate that befell her son, John Auggie Pedlar, one of the missing fliers in the Honolulu flight, Mrs. Frank M. Pedlar-Joy, who has been here visiting relatives, left with her husband this morning for Long Beach, Cal., to locate there permanently. They are making the trip by automobile and took with them Auggie's pet dog, "Bonza," mascot of the lost aviator.

Mrs. Joy and her husband were en route to the West from Miami, Fla., when Auggie Pedlar, with Miss Mildred Doran and Vilas Knope, hopped off from Oakland, Cal., for Honolulu, in the "Miss Doran." The mother was in Johnstown when the sad news of her son's fate reached here.

APPROVE PLANS FOR BANK

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 26.—The first steps in the reorganization of the Citizens National Bank of Waynesburg, which was closed August 16 by the board of directors, for the purpose of reorganizing, were taken today, when A. J. White, receiver, announced that the plans had met his approval. He will submit the matter to the comptroller of currency for final decision.

The institution will be known as the First National Bank and Trust Company and will have a capital stock of $250,000 and a surplus fund of the same amount.

LYNCH NEGRO AS ATTACKER

WILMOT, Ark., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Less than eight hours after an attack on a young married woman here early yesterday, Winston Pounds, 20-year-old Negro, was taken from a posse of deputy sheriffs and hanged to a tree, one and a half miles from Wilmot.

The Negro was alleged to have attacked the woman at her home. Her husband was in Little Rock, and a sister, spending the night with her, aroused neighbors.

Millie and Rich John Nye Get Very Friendly, Sally Hears From Her Sister

What Has Gone Before

SALLY JEROME, pretty and clever, is the prop and mainstay of her family which consists of MRS. JEROME, the twins, BEAU, the apple of his mother's eye, and MILLIE, a young siren, and Sally herself. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health, so Sally does the housework mornings and office work for Mr. Peevey downtown afternoons. In the flat below lives young TED SLOAN, an auto salesman, who wants Sally to marry him and keep on working. But the only man in whom she is interested is JOHN NYE, whose offices are across the hall from Mr. Peevey's. Nye hires the flirtatious Millie, but leaves town unexpectedly. Millie takes no salary from Nye during his absence but borrows from Sally. So does Beau, who works in a bank for a small salary. Finally, Sally, "flat broke," goes to her AUNT EMILY JEROME for some money, but Aunt Emily plans to go into the tea house business and needs all she has. Then Beau suddenly blossoms out with so many new things that Sally begins to suspicion him, especially as he has never been too honest. Nye returns and Millie starts work for him. When she learns that his father owns the Nye-Naylor building she begins to play up to him, and he seems to fall in love with her. On a Saturday afternoon Millie leaves her mother, desperately sick in the flat, and goes out to meet him. Sally comes home and calls a doctor.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"DON'T do a thing like that again, Miss Jerome!" snapped Mr. Peevey. "You've plenty of work right here in this office without promising to answer other people's telephones—You're not working for John Nye even if that human perfume-bottle is!" He invariably spoke of Millie as a "human perfume bottle" or a "walking powder puff."

"If that phone rings, you're to let it ring! D'you hear me?" he roared, and Sally jumped.

She had not heard what he said. But she answered "Yes, Mr. Peevey" now, and knew that she was safe. Because that was the answer he expected nine times out of ten.

She felt a great inclination to put her head down on the smooth old desk before her—a weakness that was seldom hers. Sally usually met her troubles with her chin up and her shoulders squared. But this was different somehow.

It seemed to her that she had known for a long time that it would happen just this way, though—that, just as soon as Millie would start working for John Nye they would fall in love with each other.

And so it had happened! It was happening now—Millie going to lunch with John Nye, sitting across the table from him. Looking at him with those "love-oh) me" eyes of hers.

That night she was at home when Sally got there. She was lying in the hammock couch on the front porch, all smiles and peach-blow color and enchanting curves.

"Oh, but I had a gorgeous time this noon," she sighed happily. "Nye took me to his club for lunch—You should see it!—All flowered chintzes and pale-green walls, and carpets so thick that your feet just sink into it like mud! And he ordered the most wonderful food!"

At the table, three-quarters of an hour later, she turned up her soft little nose at the boiled ham, the rye bread and the green onions.

"If I'd known you were going to have this sort of junk for supper I'd have gone out to eat with the man I'm working for. He asked me to," she remarked dryly, pushing a tiny piece of ham around her plate with her fork. "But I thought I wouldn't seem too eager right in the beginning—"

"I hope he's not a married man, Daughter," said Mrs. Jerome anxiously, "I hope he's single. I wouldn't want you going out to meals with a man who has a wife."

"I'll tell the waiting world he's single," Millie answered in her slow way, "And not only that, but he's simply filthy with money—"

"Please don't say things like that—'filthy' with money," begged her mother, but Millie paid no attention to her.

"His father built the Nye-Naylor building," she said, speaking to Beau and Sally. "You've heard of him—old Vanderpool Nye—haven't you?"

They nodded. Everyone in town had heard of Vanderpool Nye, who was a great man in his way.

"And so this Mr. Nye is Vanderpool Nye's son," mused Mrs. Jerome. "Well, that's interesting, isn't it?"

"I don't believe he is," growled Beau, who knew that Millie did not always stick to the simple truth. "What's he doing with a little one-horse office up on top of the building if he's old man Nye's son?—The Nye Company's offices are on the second floor."

"He was with his father for a long time! He just started up in business for himself because the other thing was too easy!" declared Millie and her face flushed, making her eyes more blue than ever. "He told me all about it today. He told me ALL about himself, Smart Aleck."

She repeated that sentence to her mother and Sally later when they sat on the porch in the warm darkness of the September night.

"He told me all kinds of things about himself today," she said with great satisfaction. "And if I know anything about men, he certainly is losing his mind over Little Millie!" She giggled blissfully.

"I do wish you wouldn't say things like that—'losing his mind over little Millie!'" Mrs. Jerome spoke peevishly. "It sounds so common. I wish you'd use more refined language."

"Never you mind what kind of language I use, Mother!" Millie came back at her good-naturedly, "Men always know what I'm talking about, and I tell them plenty."

Sally went to sleep that night with a dull steady ache in her heart.

"How can I miss what I never had?" she asked herself sensibly. For she never had had John Nye's friendship. But she missed it, nevertheless.

On Saturday afternoon there were not so many letters as usual, and Sally left the office early and went home.

As she started up the dark staircase that led to the flat a door opened above her and Millie came down—Millie, fresh and rosy, and all in white from head to toes.

"Did you see John Nye's car down in the street?" she asked sweetly. "He's coming for me—Oh, there he is now!"

There came the sound of an automobile horn from the street below, and she flashed on down the stairs, silvery white against the dingy wall-paper.

Sally went on up to the flat. As she opened the door of the living room a deep long-drawn groan greeted her.

Sally knew that groan well. It came from her mother, and it was always a sign that she was having one of her worst "attacks."

She was doubled up in the pillowed arm-chair in her room, and a dew of perspiration had broken out on her face and neck.

"Soda, Sally, and hot water!" she moaned.

But Sally needed no directions. She knew just what to do and she did it post-haste. She brought hot water and baking soda for her mother to drink, and a hot water bottle. Then she called Dr. Ambleside, who had taken care of her mother for years.

"Oh, what are you getting him for?" moaned her mother. "He'll just tell me I've been eating too much. He's no good!"

Sally's quick eyes went to the window sill beside her where an empty coffee cup and small cream pitcher stood. The carpet around the sufferer's chair was littered with cake crumbs.

"Well, Mother, perhaps you have been eating between meals again," she began, but Mrs. Jerome pretended not to hear her and went firmly on:

"I'm sure I have muscular rheumatism, or something like that. Maybe one of those new electric belts would help me. I've seen them advertised lately, and they're only a few dollars—Think of Millie Jerome walking out of this flat and leaving me here alone! Think of it! Why, I might

SWING WIDER IN SEARCH FOR FLIERS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—A spot in the Pacific more than 600 miles northwest of Honolulu today was set by Admiral Richard H. Jackson, commander in chief of the battle fleet, as the farthest objective point of the Navy's sea hunt for Mildred Doran, of Flint, Mich., and the six other lost transpacific flyers.

Admiral Jackson, from his flagship, the California, at anchor in San Francisco bay, transmitted by radio the orders that will prolong the epochal search "four or five days," and extended it 500 miles farther.

The outpost of the searching vessels will be Two Brothers reef, approximately 500 miles northwest of Hawaii, most northwestwardly of the eight inhabited islands of the Hawaiian archipelago.

Only the first 100 miles of this stretch of waters have been scrutinized, mine sweepers and submarines having gone as far as the Isle of Nihoa.

Meanwhile, the light cruiser Omaha, with Rear Admiral Lake McNamee in command, accompanied by six destroyers, was steaming today over a course 100 miles south of the great circle toward Honolulu.

PLANE IN TEST HITS 240 CLIP

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Lieut. "Al" Williams, speed demon of the Navy, staked his life that his new racing seaplane—scarcely more than a gigantic power plant inside a shell—might take the air and fly successfully, and won.

Roaring down Long Island Sound at the head of Manhasset Bay in his blue and gold Navy racer, Williams opened the throttle of the 1,250-horse power engine, and the little craft lifted from the water at the terrific speed of 90 miles an hour, the lowest speed at which the plane can rise.

After testing the plane Williams swept down the course with open throttle, traveling at 240 miles an hour.

Williams hopes to beat the record of 258 miles an hour established by Maj. De Bernhardi of Italy.

ANGLO-JAPANESE PACT DENIED BY U. S.

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—While the State Department has issued a formal denial of a published report that the Anglo-Japanese alliance had been revived, other officials declared that it would prove of very little concern if true.

The denial was made by Acting Secretary of State Castle. The department has received no intimation that the old agreement has been rewritten and does not believe that either Japan or Great Britain has any intention of violating the treaty with the United States under which it was scrapped, he declared.

While refusing to be quoted for publication, other officials pointed out that Japan and Great Britain would be the nations to fear the revival of this agreement rather than the United States. They declared that the failure of the recent Geneva armaments conference had already made it necessary for this government to build a Navy to equal that of Great Britain. If that power should combine with Japan, the United States Navy would be brought up to equal the combined strength of Japan and Great Britain.

This government is thoroughly convinced that Great Britain and Japan would be most reluctant to force a competitive armaments race with the United States and revival of the old alliance is not even remotely considered, according to the State Department view.

BORDER-HOPPING ALIENS SENT BACK HOME

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Secretary of Labor Davis' drive against undesirable aliens, featured recently by the shooting and killing of two members of the Mexican border patrol by alien bootleggers, had another high spot today in the arrival here of 169 deporters en route to Ellis Island to await shipment to their respective homelands.

Most of the group were border jumpers, or aliens who entered this country illegally.

Among the number were eight women, some with children in their arms. More than a dozen of the deporters were hopelessly insane and others were obviously mentally unfit.

MAY ATTEMPT TO RECOVER FUNDS

HARRISBURG, Aug. 26.—After having exhausted the original $75,000 appropriation for the payment of teachers who left state service prior to July 1, 1919, and were eligible for pensions, the commonwealth today discovered that the act was unconstitutional. It has not been decided whether any effort will be made to recover the money which has been erroneously paid.

Discovery of the error resulted from an opinion written by Special Deputy Attorney General William A. Schnader to Robert M. Woodside, deputy auditor general. The Schnader opinion held that payments already made were contrary to the state constitution and that therefore no further payments could be made to the class of teachers affected.

An act of March, 1925, amended the original teachers' retirement act so as to include those who had left the state service prior to July 1, 1919, if 62 years old, and with a 25-year service record, as well as those who had taught for 15 years but retired because of disabilities.)

The act was intended to include those teachers who had spent the majority of their lives in the state service but who had resigned prior to the effective date of the teachers' retirement act. To carry the amendment into effect, $75,000 was appropriated. The last Legislature also passed a deficiency appropriation bill for the past biennium and included the expected requirements of the present two-year period in the general appropriation bill.

ENGROSSING DIFFERENT LIVELY DRAMATIC

have died here all alone if you hadn't happened to come home when you did!"

[illegible] thinking of it [illegible] rst time in her [illegible] ning to dawn on [illegible] ght be something downright cruel in Millie—something that her soft little ways belied just as a tiger's soft golden fur belies its savage nature.

"Maybe Beau'll buy me one of those bells," her mother was saying. "He seems to be making plenty of money lately—"

"Oh, no! Please don't ask him for a cent!" cried Sally. "Wait until we find out where he's getting all his money!—Mother, I'm worried sick about him. Just plain sick!"

She was

CHAPTER XV.

AUNT EMILY came popping into the flat that night between 8 and 9.

"I just had a feeling that something was wrong here," she said to Sally when she heard about Mrs. Jerome's attack.

Aunt Emily had a most uncanny way of suspecting when things were not going smoothly with the Jeromes. She had a nose for misfortune, and she could scent bad luck from afar—the way some people can tell when a storm is coming.

"You wouldn't be sick like this if you weren't so lazy, and didn't make such a pig of yourself at meals," she snapped at her sister-in-law when she went in to see her.

Mrs. Jerome only groaned and turned her face to the wall. She was no match for Aunt Emily, and she had sense enough to know it.

"Yes, and you can groan and moan and all but ask me to get out!" went on Aunt Emily, with a nod of her head. "But I'm not going until I've said my say—and I tell you that you're going to die in one of these attacks some day unless you stop over-eating the way you do!"

Mrs. Jerome rolled over in bed and turned up beseeching eyes to Sally. "Must I listen to all this?" she asked, helplessly. "Can't you get her out and make her stay out? I'm too sick to listen to her."

"You hate to hear the truth—that's all that ails you!" was Aunt Emily's parting shot.

But later, when smart young Dr. Ambleside came, he said much the same thing that Aunt Emily had said.

"She has another of her attacks of acute indigestion—at least, that's how it looks to me," he told the anxious Sally. "I've been telling her for years that she eats too much and doesn't move around enough."

Mrs. Jerome gazed at him silently. There was intense fury in her face and she did not say "Good-night" to him when he left. She hated to be told that she ate too much.

"You don't look so well yourself," the doctor told Sally on his way out, bag and hat in hand. "Overworking, aren't you?"

Sally shook her head as she looked at him. Her blue eyes were clouded with the heat, her face was white under the soft damp rings of her hair.

"Indeed I'm not," she said. "You see, I only work a half-day down town. I'm just around home the rest of the time."

He said nothing. But he went away with a vision of her tired face with lines of strain around the lovely mouth, and of the small work-roughened hands that had held out his $5 fee to him.

He guessed more about her than she knew.

Once in his life, at least, every man makes a fool of himself over a woman.

And that was exactly what John Nye was doing over little Millie Jerome.

Sally knew it the minute she saw them enter the flat together that Saturday night.

She had been nodding over her mending basket and had not heard them come up the stairs and unlock the door. But suddenly they were in the room with her—Millie radiant in the lamp-light and John Nye, darkly handsome, looking at her as if she were the only thing in the world for him.

Her heart seemed to give a great throb in her breast and then stand still, as she caught that glance. But she gave no outward sign of what she felt.

"Well, if I'd known you were bringing Mr. Nye up I'd have changed my dress, Millie," she said, looking at them both with her natural sweetness of expression. "Won't you—would you like some lemonade? I'll make some."

She started up from her chair. Her whole impulse was to escape—to get away, in her old cap and apron, to the kitchen where, she told herself fiercely, she belonged . . . Millie, in airy white, with her soft little snowflake of a hand on John Nye's coatsleeve, made her feel like Cinderella, all at once.

The familiar kitchen seemed to welcome her—to twinkle at her comfortingly—when she went out to crack ice and squeeze lemons into the old glass pitcher.

"You look a perfect sight," she told her reflection in the mirror over the sink. "But what's the difference, John Ney doesn't know you're on earth tonight."

Millie was perched on the arm of John Nye's chair when she returned to the lamp-lit living room. She was trying to make his cigaret lighter work, and he was watching her with that same intense look in his eyes.

"Let me show you how to do it," he was saying, and he covered her little fingers with his hand, as he showed her how to strike a light to his cigaret.

"Have a smoke?" he asked, offering her his case.

Millie smoked constantly, but now she shook her gleaming head. "Little Millie never smokes," she said in her best baby-talk, and even that didn't seem to disgust John Nye.

On the other hand, it seemed to charm and amuse him. "He's pretty far gone," said Sally to herself, as she watched him, and the thought was dull agony to her.

She picked up Millie's coat and hat and started out of the room once more. This time she was not going to come back, she firmly made up her mind.

"Where's Momsie?" asked Millie, who never spoke lovingly of her mother unless there was a man around to listen to her.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.

"My dear, I'm all hot and BOTHered—I mean I ACtually AM, because WHAT do you s'pose I discovered these odd souls ARab and NOisy are PERpetating at this point? BOTH of them are playing POlo on the same HORSE — can you BEAR it, my dear? I mean have you ever in your LIFE heard of ANYthing so POSitively BILious? ACtually, it LAID me an EGG, no less, because I honestly think those odd souls are HOPEless, my dear—I mean I ACtually DO! Well, ANYways, of COURSE I thought the REAson they were BOTH of them sitting HEAVily on this strange BEAST was because they could not afFORD to EACH have a POlo pony to PLAY on, but not at ALL, my dear, because I mean ARab confided to me that the reason BOTH of them were sort of CAStrally nag was because NOisy could not HIT the BALL effect and ARab could not RIDE but could hit the BALL, so they had deCIded to double UP, he said—can you BEAR it? I mean it has sort of got ROUND to the CLUB about this odd arRANGEment they have made and simply EVerybody is conVULSED, my dear—can you BLAME them? I mean I REALly think it's the FUNniest thing I've ever HEARD of—I ACtually DO!"

For the Lovelorn

By ELEANOR GALE

Jane

DEAR MISS GALE:

There always has been petting and there always will be petting. It is a part of courtship and marriage. It can, of course, be carried to extremes and usually is by girls and boys who are too young to know any better. Boys and girls can, or could, have lots of fun together without getting silly, but do they? Very seldom. And in a hundred-to-one chance, it's the boys who start it. One who knows is quite right—boys do talk over their affairs with girls. They like to brag about what shakes they are, and younger boys, hearing the older ones talk, think that's the proper way to behave. As a result, they try it out on their girls. And then, they all unite in yelling, "The girls like it—and expect it!" Don't the boys like it, and don't they expect it?

JANE.

I think the blame is about even, don't you, Jane?

Worried and Wondering

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been a reader of your wonderful column for months and I think your advice is always right and good. So I am coming for some of it myself. I have been going with a boy for five weeks and every time I go out with him he tells me he loves me. He has given me his ring and asked me to wear it. Is this a sign of his love and is it proper for me to wear it? The first date I had with him I permitted him to kiss me and now when we go out if I do not pet with him he gets peeved. Miss Gale, this is my real problem. After every date we have he promises to call me up the next day, but he never does and he waits a week before calling me up. If he really loved me surely he would call me up when he promised. Don't you think so? I do not know whether to act jolly, peeved, or indifferent when he does call me. Miss Gale, do you believe in love at first sight, and is there really such a thing as love. I will close now hoping this letter is not too long and to see it in print soon. I hope, Miss Gale, that misfortune follows you always but never catches up with you.

WORRIED AND WONDERING.

If this boy really loved you, my dear, he would want to get in touch with you more frequently. It is not a good thing to wear his ring, since you are not engaged. Of course there is such a thing as love, my dear, and sometimes an instant attraction deepens into love.

Waiting

DEAR MISS GALE:

This is the first time I have ever written to you for advice. I am 16 years old. I went with a boy 16 for a little while, then he said if I didn't stop going with a certain girl he would stop going with me. Now he is mad. I love him very much. How can I win him back? My parents do not care.

WAITING.

Why did he want you to give up this girl? If she is not the right sort of friend for you, why not take the boy's advice and give her up? Of course, if she is a nice girl, the boy was simply being stubborn. If he gave you up for that reason, he is not worth while. However, you are too young to be going out with boys so much.

Broken-Hearted

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a young girl 18 years old, and am considered good looking. My problem is this: Many men have paid me considerable attention, but only older men. I seem to look much older than I really am and therefore don't bother with them. But I seem to have lost my heart to a young fellow who is good looking, clever, well educated, but is very short. Do you think this should be a barrier between love? My dream prince was always tall. I wish you would answer this as soon as possible for I'll be waiting. Wishing you good luck in your work, I am

BROKEN HEARTED.

Don't let size bother you if he is all you think he is, my dear.

Listening In on Eve

IN THE great motion picture theater all was haste. It was nearly time for the first show. The tall, handsome men who acted as outdoor ushers were donning their long coats of tan faced with blue; the last cleaning and polishing was being done. A slight, rosy girl, with jet black hair, entered.

"You here a'ready?" she asked her partner in the work of selling tickets to the fans. "I'll say you're prompt. Just 12:25 by my new gold and black watch ribbon."

"Yeah, I'm here," said Miss Gwendolyne Smithers, who was also a slight, rosy girl, but who was as fair as the other, Susy, was dark.

The yellow-haired cashier was arranging her northern facade. She was smoothing down her slick, shining hair, rearranging her soft yellow tie, scrutinizing the polish of her finger nails. She was simply going through her daily setting-up exercises before she began to serve out the tickets of admission.

"What's eazing you today?" wondered the fair Gwendolyne some time later, when the first crowd was in and the next not yet on hand.

"Your eyes have the go-wither look."

"Old girl," replied the dark Susy, "there's nothing gets by you, does they? Do I, sure enough, look haggard? Well, I expect to until I can save up the piece of change I gotta have for a new bean covering. Goodness knows it takes Mrs. Astor's pocketbook, or this here fortune's purse to buy a real hat this year."

"I'll say it does," agreed Gwendolyne.

"Twice," pursued the aggrieved Susy, "I've almost give in to one of these $2.39 felts the kids are wearing and getting away with. But when one gets over 25 in the shade—or at least, I mean, when a person's past 20—why, they look like an excuse instead of a prize package."

"I bet it's nothing to do with chapeaus." Miss Smithers was nothing if not astute. "You're thinking serious, and you're ashamed to tell what it's about."

"Oh, shuh!" said Susy. "But I've been thinking—my mother's sister is visiting in our midst. Come from one of these jerkwater towns, but a kinda railroad center. Gee, you should hear how she envied me my job, selling tickets—"

"Better sell a few, too, I'm thinking. Will you look at that line forming up out there! I bet it reaches right around the corner."

It did, and the talk ceased for more than an hour.

"Go on about this aunt of yours," urged Gwendolyne.

"Oh, yes. Well, so she thinks it must be grand to be here all the time and do we get to see all the picksures free? All she thinks about is going to the picksures free?

"Back in her town they've got an op're house that packs 500. Charges 15 cents and you'd just ought to hear of the stuff they unload on 'em! Bet you there isn't a reel less than five years young. Even the news reel's a month to the bad. Las week they saw Lindy landin' in Paris.

"On Friday nights they hand 'em a program that lasts four hours, 7 to 11. And folks wedged in to the asbestos shingles. The patrons come with their offsprings. As many as 20 baby carriages parked out in front, my aunt says, and go-carts."

"Huh!"

"There's a news reel, a comedy, a woolly serial in two reels—that's the hot stuff! That's the kind that leaves the sweet girl about to be burned up in a house surrounded by bloodthirsty villains. One of them's got a map to the lost mine dear Marian's father located, and he wants her out of the way, because his lady friend won't go in the discard and leave him marry Marian and get the property legitimate. And then a feature picksure, five or six reels long, and a scenic and a illustrated song like 'My Wandering Boy' and all. They co' it up. And the babies cry when they feel like it."

"I don't see—"

"Oh, yes. And they get all 'het up,' as she says. Yes, the picksures are really real to them. Like when the night the hero's all set to pick up a loaded cigar and the woman screams out: 'Don't do that, you fool, you!' And up she got and the man in behind her says: 'Sit down, can't you, or get out!'"

"Hot stuff, I'll say!"

"Yeah, and once when a baby in the picksure cries, 'why, a baby out front tunes in, jest boohoos and brings down the house. And they have a player piaron—"

"Music, too, huh?"

"And in between reels a big man in a red sweater changes the music rolls and all the kids flock up around him and ask for their favorites. And out in the foyer, only they don't call it that, they got a popcorn machine and most everyone buys heir bag of hot buttered popcorn and he crunching's fierce, my aunt says."

"But, woman, what's all this got to do with you looking down in the mouth the way you do?"

"Oh, I don't know. Only—don't you wonder don't country folks have better times than us?"

"Nix," said Gwendolyne Smithers briskly. "Nix!"

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, AUG. 27, 1927.

During the active hours of this day benefic aspects rule according to astrology, and there is supposed to be stimulation and even inspiration in the planetary government.

This is a day for settling bills and putting all one's financial affairs in order, so that autumn business may start with a clean slate.

Mercury is in a place supposed to be most fortunate for bankers and brokers, who are to have a period of extraordinary activity.

New kings of finance are to rise in the coming year and again new millionaires will be added to the long list in America.

All the signs indicate for the press immense profits, due to a renewed interest in reading on the part of the public.

World affairs will stimulate interest in newspapers, magazines, the radio and movies, it is prognosticated, for there is to be the most tremendous momentum in progress.

Rumors of wheat shortage will be disseminated more than once in the next few weeks and there will be much speculation, it is persistently prophesied.

From Europe will come various military suggestions in the fashions, which should be accepted reluctantly, the seers say, as they may forecast serious events.

Scandals may be whispered at the European courts at this time when royal marriages will be widely discussed.

Warning again is given that motor accidents and aviation disasters will show a marked increase.

Changes in the modes will affect the manner of hair-dressing and cause many to return to old-fashions, astrologers foretell.

Manufactureres of cosmetics are warned that there may be a decided falling off in sales, for the vogue for natural beauty is to be followed by social leaders it is foretold.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have certain anxieties about financial affairs in the coming years. Employes should be most faithful and industrious.

Children born on this day may be keen of intellect but to much inclined to form fixed opinions. They should be broadly educated.

Saving the Broom

The life of a broom may be increased quite materially and the task of sweeping made much easier if the sweeper will form the habit of turning the broom after every few strokes, so that the straw on each side of the handle will be toward the sweeper an equal share of the time. As most of the wear is on the side toward the sweeper, the turning operation wears the straw down evenly all the way across, gives more sweeping area and prevents the wearing down of the straw at one side and curling up like the toe of an old shoe at the other. The operation is performed quite unconsciously after the first two or three trials.

WAR TANKS CHECKING COAST FOREST FIRES

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—Tanks resembling those used in the world war have been reported making inroads on the furious forest fire raging along the ridge route, north of here. The tanks, dragging scrapers to level underbrush, are fighting on a 20-mile front, aided by high explosives and a force of 1,200 fire-fighters. The fire, the worst in the history of the Angelus national forest, already has swept across more than 20 square miles.

Known losses include a ranch, two cabins and two automobiles. The tanks, bought for experimental purposes, are said to have shown remarkable results in this, their first forest fire test.

MEDITATIONS OF A MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

MIXED GRILL.

Love is the benzoate of soda in which a woman's beauty and a man's youth are preserved.

A man in love makes the foolish mistake of telling a lot of unnecessary lies, but a woman in love makes the fatal mistake of telling a lot of unnecessary truths.

The great, vital problem of a modern girl's life is how to get a man to stand STILL long enough for her to stage a wedding.

Every man needs a wife, if only as a life-preserver at which he can snatch, when he finds himself getting into deep water or going down for the third time in a summer flirtation.

* * *

The zero hour of a college graduate's life is that in which he hears himself working for a man who uses two negatives, wears a spotlight in his necktie and thinks that a Greek-letter society is a waiters' union.

* * *

If you can't be thankful for that which you have received in the lottery of marriage, you can nearly always look around at other women's husbands and be thankful for what you have escaped.

* * *

Once a man has found the key to a woman's heart, he fancies that he has only to prop it open and go off and leave it that way while he tries a few other locks.

* * *

When a woman begins pinning her faith on the beauty creams and her hope on the plastic surgeons, she is traveling "on the rim" of romance.

It's all right to marry in haste—if you can afford to repent in Paris, these days.

CHIC CHERIE

Something Worth Hurrying For.

LATEST FASHIONS

It's a pity they had to cut their ride short, but Cherie has a most important engagement. She explains this to the young man as she walks up the steps giving you a view of a dress that is made of chiffon, with a cape, and with the wide girdle effect that is being used to bring the waistline into style again.

She explains her hurry to Dina, too, as she changes her clothes. Dina is wearing a dress that shows the same swathing effect about the hips and further emphasizes the importance of its mid-section by a bolero effect. Cherie shows the sort of fitted underwear that should be worn under this sort of dress.

She is much too much in a hurry to dress and eat properly. Just a bite of anything will do Cherie, and she sits down to it alone in a negligee of two shades of crepe with the darker shade used for an unusual scarf collar with a pocket for a handkerchief half way down its length. Five minutes will do for food.

You see the effect of the underwear. It guarantees that Cherie's frock with its snugly fitted hipband will show never a wrinkle. Her hat is slashed and turned up in front and her hurry has completely vanished. She's five minutes early and even her affection for Andy won't let her meet him quite on time.

WHATS the ANSWER?

1. What was the ninth Thermidor? Why is it important?
2. Was Annie Laurie a real person?
3. Why do people stand when they drink a health?
4. How long is an ell?
5. Who were the Green Mountain Boys?
6. What is the meaning of "Antipodes?"
7. What is Xylonite?
8. What London inn is famous because it was much frequented by Samuel Johnson?
9. Who was "The Last of the Tribunes?"
10. Who was Europa?

The answers to these questions may be found in tomorrow's paper.

Here are the answers to yesterday's questions.

1. The phrase "Why don't you speak for yourself, John?" is a quotation from "The Courtship of Miles Standish," by Longfellow. It was Priscilla's reply to John Alden when he proposed to her for Miles Standish.
2. The so-called "Battle of the Kegs" occurred in January, 1778, when some Whigs at Bordentown, New Jersey, sent kegs filled with gunpowder down the river. One exploded, and for 24 hours after not a thing was seen floating on the river without being fired at by the British on the shore.
3. Penelope, wife of Ulysses, was famous for her constancy.
4. The Romance languages are those which are the direct offspring of the Latin, and include Italian, Spanish, Portuguese, French and Wallachian (Rumanian).
5. The first steamship to cross the Atlantic was the "Savannah," owned by William Scarborough, and built by Francis Pickett of New York. It crossed in one month (May 20 to June 20, 1819).
6. An iron ship floats because it is hollow, and the air inside of the iron hull holds up the ship.
7. All those who are born within sound of the bells of St. Mary Le Bow, London, are called "Cockneys."
8. There are about 529 muscles in the human body.
9. "Dieu et mon Droit" means "God and my Right." It has been borne by the kings of England since the fourteenth century, in the reign of Edward III.
10. The key of the Bastille was presented by Lafayette to Washington. It still hangs in the main hall at Mount Vernon.

U.S. Senator from New York

WHITE BLOOD CELLS AND THEIR FUNCTIONS.

YESTERDAY I sat down to write about the white blood cells, but, becoming interested in telling you about the general function of the blood, I ran out of space. Today I shall attempt to finish what I set out to do yesterday.

When a drop of blood is examined through the microscope it is found to contain a great many extremely small bodies. When seen in detail these seem to be yellowish in color. On casual examination in the mass they appear red. On this account they are called red corpuscles, or red cells.

Mixed with the red cells is a lesser number of colorless cells. In contrast to the red cells, these are called white blood corpuscles, white cells, or "leucocytes." This last name comes from the Greek and means "white."

As I have said, the red cells are far more numerous. In a cubic millimeter of blood there will be from four million to five million red corpuscles. In the same quantity of blood there will be from twelve thousand to twenty thousand white cells.

There are several varieties of white cells, differing in appearance and size. But we need not consider these details, except to say that certain ones can destroy unfriendly germs gaining entrance to the body. This type of white cell has been given a special name—"phagocyte"—a word from the Greek, meaning, "to eat."

The white cells are the scavengers of the body. Their watchful care keeps the blood pure and the body clean.

Of course, the little white cells wear out, just as other parts of the body do. To replace them new cells are developed. Just how many and how vigorous these may be depends on the diet of the person and on his state of health.

There are abnormal conditions where the white cells are greatly increased. Such a condition is described as a "leukemia." There may be as many as 250,000 leucocytes to the cubic millimeter, more than a dozen times the normal number.

"Hodgkin's disease" is an ailment in which there is apt to be a "leukocytosis," as the doctors call it, meaning an increase in white blood cells. The ration between red and white cells is materially changed, but this may be due to destruction of the red cells, as well as to an increase in the white.

The glands of the neck enlarge. This may be the first sign of the disease. Then the glands under the arms and in the groins may be involved.

Not alone are the outer glands affected, but the glands inside the chest and neck may become enlarged. This condition may cause pressure on the windpipe and make breathing difficult.

The victim loses weight. His color gets bad. He shows every sign of illness. Towards the end of the disease the white blood cells are greatly increased.

The skin may become bronzed in appearance. There is great itching and, in some instances, bad eruption of the skin, with boils and blisters.

Operation may be helpful. Radium and the X-rays have improved cases of Hodgkin's disease. Careful medication by the physician is likely to be beneficial.

Answers to Health Queries.

M. M. Q.—What causes swollen veins in the legs of a young girl of 17?

A.—Probably varicose veins due to overexertion such as long standing for instance. Bandaging or wearing an elastic stocking during the daytime should give relief. Application of warm witch-hazel is also helpful in some instances. Keep off the feet as much as possible.

Quicksands of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

A New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

HOW long Dicky had stood at the kitchenette door where I was preparing the iced fruit drink which he always keeps at his bedside each night, I had no means of knowing. It was so utterly unlike him thus to move stealthily through the rooms as he must have done, for my ears are sharp, that after my involuntary little shriek I stared at him with an impulse to move backward that took all my will-power to curb.

For his face was not a pretty sight, holding all the signs of rage which I knew only too well, and in addition mirroring something which I never had seen in his eyes before—an aversion, a positive loathing which made me feel as if my veins held ice-water.

But with the consciousness that I had done nothing to deserve such a look as that, I braced myself to stand my ground and say the thing which was most natural.

"How you startled me, Dicky! I never heard you come in."

For a tense second I thought he was not going to answer me at all. Then he said in a light, mocking tone that contracted horribly with the dreadful look in his eyes:

"You must have a troublesome conscience, old dear. I should advise you to get rid of it. Really it's terribly hampering."

Before I could answer he had turned on his heel, throwing a curt direction over his shoulder.

"Make up a double portion of that dope. I'm extra thirsty."

There was not even a "please" in the request, and I knew by that omission how great was the displeasure swaying him, for Dicky usually is most punctilious in little social niceties. But I was too glad of a respite from one of his rages to spend any time in resenting his lack of courtesy.

I prepared the double portion of the drink for which he had asked and set it in the refrigerator. Then I went into my own room with the determination that if possible I would avoid any encounter with him until he had had a chance to sleep upon the wrath which was so patently consuming him.

It was an anger which I could not understand. I knew that Dicky was not so archaic as to feel that he must run amuck because I had gone motoring with Philip Veritzen. He had too many similar excursions of his own to remember. Yet I could think of no other possible grievance which would make his eyes look at me with the absolute loathing I had seen in them. Unless—what mischief might not Edith Fairfax have been plotting against me?

I pushed the idea away from me, for it implied the hateful corollary of Dicky's listening to malicious insinuations concerning me—and believing them. I was not yet ready to credit that of him for I knew him to be chivalrously high-minded. But the effort of repulsing it, together with my worry over my husband's strange behavior interfered most deplorably with my work, and at last in despair of accomplishing anything, I undressed and went to bed, switching on my reading lamp and taking a magazine in the hope of reading myself to sleep.

But the lines blurred, and the type danced before my eyes, and I realized that the hands which held the magazine were trembling violently. I laid the book down and forced my muscles to quietude, but I could not induce the forgetful sleep I craved. I could hear Dicky in the living-room pacing up and down restlessly, but as that is a common custom of his when he is thinking out anything which is puzzling him, no matter how trifling, I was not sure that he was concerning himself with thoughts of me.

After a while he went into his own room, and for a long time there was silence, and I guessed that he had gone to sleep.

Behind Budweiser Real Hop Malt Syrup is the finest plant of its kind in the world, a $40,000,000 structure comprising more than 110 separate buildings and covering more than 70 city blocks. A million-dollar unit is devoted just to sorting, grading, cleaning and malting the natural barley grains.

This entire plant is designed, built and equipped for malting. Facilities for the proper storage of barleys and hops are provided. Every operation is done by automatic machines built to standards set by Anheuser-Busch. And every step of manufacture is under the watchful guidance of the world's foremost maltsters.

It takes a plant like this—an organization like that of Anheuser-Busch—and the experience of Anheuser-Busch—to produce a malt as good as Budweiser Real Hop Malt Syrup. Do you know of any other place on earth where such a combination can be found?

MILADY BEAUTIFUL

By LOIS LEEDS

BEAUTY QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Using Egg for Eye Wrinkles.

DEAR MISS LEEDS—I am a young woman 29 years old and I am coming to you for advice about the small lines that are in my face, especially around the eyes. I have heard about the egg pack and would like you to describe it for me in detail, with any other suggestions you think would help me.

MISS D. E. W.

Answer—Prepare for the egg facial pack just as you do for any facial treatment, that is, steam the skin with hot towels for several minutes, pat in a little cold cream, wipe it off and then apply the pack. Beat the white and yolk on first, let it dry and apply a second coating. When this has dried apply the beaten white. When the last coat has dried wash off the egg with tepid water. If you are underweight for age and height you should build yourself up, since thin faces wrinkle sooner than plump ones do. Have your eyes examined by a specialist, since eye wrinkles often come from unsuspected strain. You are at the critical age when lack of physical fitness produces rapid aging. Make it your hobby to be healthy and physically perfect, so that you may stay young during your 30s. Please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet on "Milady's Beauty Program," that gives the correct daily care of the skin and special beauty packs and "The Right Facial at the Right Time," that shows how to modify facial treatments to suit individual needs.

COMPLEXION CARE IN TEENS.

Dear Miss Leeds—Will you please tell me what a girl of 17 should use for her complexion?

ELOISE.

Answer—The best beauty aids for the girl in her teens are fresh air, exercise, sufficient sleep and nourishing food, especially milk. Later in life, when the skin has faded beyond help, cosmetics are needed to give an imitation of youthfulness, but at your age a girl may have a genuine "schoolgirl complexion;" her lips and cheeks should be rosy with health, not rouge. If you are a blonde with very fair skin you may use cold cream to cleanse your face at bedtime before you wash it with pure castile soap and warm water. Rinse well in clean warm water, then in cold water. Dry thoroughly. In the morning wash your face with cold water and dry it well. If your nose is inclined to be shiny put a little powder on it, but do not whiten it with powder so that it looks like a marshmallow. If the powder does not adhere well you may use a powder base made of equal parts of rose water and glycerin. If your skin needs bleaching in summer you may wash it with buttermilk once a week, letting the liquid remain on the skin for about an hour.

Lorry—My leaflet on "Complexion Ills" tells how to treat white heads and also gives recipes for skin bleaches. Please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Both brands of cream you mention are good.

THROUGH the SPORT LENS by HAVEY BOYLE

TWO very strong letters come in from protestants over the recent tennis article here. Among many things we are accused of being bigoted against the game; of suffering an inferiority complex, and of showing a base ignorance over the game we discussed at some length. It is true that we cannot be termed a "veteran racket wielder," nor yet, "a net star," nor yet a "court notable," but this hardly disqualifies us as an expert on what we like to read or don't like to read.

HAVEY BOYLE.

The main point in our recent discussion was that we thought the game was over-played by the press of the nation. That one must be an expert tennis player or observer to be able to say he gets no thrill out of reading of the game is quite beyond us. We don't have to be an expert playwright to enjoy a play nor an author to enjoy a book. Consequently, even if we had never seen a boy with a kerchief around his forehead on a tennis court we still would be qualified to say we don't enjoy reading tennis.

Certainly we don't blame tennis men for arguing in favor of their sport and for attacking those who disagree, yet we believe tennis men are in the minority. There is nothing particularly daring in what may have seemed an unconventional discussion of tennis since we firmly believe that a majority of sport page readers are made up of baseball, boxing and football fans who have the same notions regarding tennis that we own.

However, the discussion will close now, for which, we suspect, a great many, pro, con and indifferent will heave a sigh of relief.

LOS ANGELES newspapers quote Mr. Dreyfuss, Pirate owner, as saying he would not sell Paul and Lloyd Waner for a half-million dollars. This is not difficult to believe, although it is doubtful if Mr. Dreyfuss ever made such a remark. But his record in this regard is possibly the best of any man in baseball. At the present moment it is difficult to recall any man that he ever sold—outside of the waiver route where the cash involved is no great consideration. Many a man he has purchased, but he never believed in making money by selling stars.

PENN STATE has given up football scouting. The practice of observing the games of an enemy team to get a line on its play was a natural development of the intense football era which is now upon us. It came from the notion that victory is the most important thing in football. Assistant coaches visited enemy clubs, watched their games, and made diagrams, with which to illustrate their report to the head coach. The information thus supplied has been estimated variously by noted coaches. Some said the reports were not informative nor helpful, while others found them useful. The information was not gained in a secretive way. The scout usually reported his presence to the club he wished to spy upon, but even so some of the fathers saw a too professional tinge to the practice and started agitation for its abandonment. Penn State has listened to these voices. Now if only someone will do something about the cheer leaders the game may enjoy another upward step.

THE curiosity which piqued Sam Dreyfuss and Donie Bush over the progress being made by the young shortstop, Dick Bartel, with New Haven, and still Pirate property may be significant. In the breasts of the Pirate officials perhaps is a hope that Dick will be ready for the big time next season. In such an event, Wright might be shifted to first base where his ailing leg would less discommode him than at his present position. This event would also allow Grantham to play second steadily. Such an arrangement would give the Pirates the loudest infield in the business, not because Grantham, Traynor and Wright would yell any more, but because Dick Bartel is positively the greatest little chatter-box the game has seen in many a day. He coaxes and cajoles on the field and on the bench. He has a peculiar monologue, a quaint tone. His pep is limitless. Watch out for any news about Bartel.

OF COURSE, it took golf tournaments to produce beyond all question of a doubt that Bobby Jones is the greatest golfer of all times. Yet the situation which now confronts the golf observer is a little puzzling. Even with Jones a loser at Minneapolis, who will believe himself in saying that the winner really is the best amateur in the country? Jones can lose for a couple of years and still be acclaimed the best, and in a battle with any passing conqueror, most of the money will be found opposite Bobby's name. There may be a golf champion crowned, but in the acclaiming there will be a whispering voice to say that Jones still leads the field.

INASMUCH as the Yankees are "in" the world series this year is bound to be the usual success. The customers in any National League city would turn out heavily to see Ruth and Gehrig in just an exhibition. The thrill of seeing them perform in important world series games will thrust the fans into a frenzy.

Owing to the race between Ruth and Gehrig, and their undoubted ability at making the agate sing through the air, the ballyhoo for the coming big series will be bigger and louder than ever.

Universal Wins Protest; Travelers Out of Series

BOARD RULES ROSEMYER AND COOK INELIGIBLE

By TOM BIRKS.

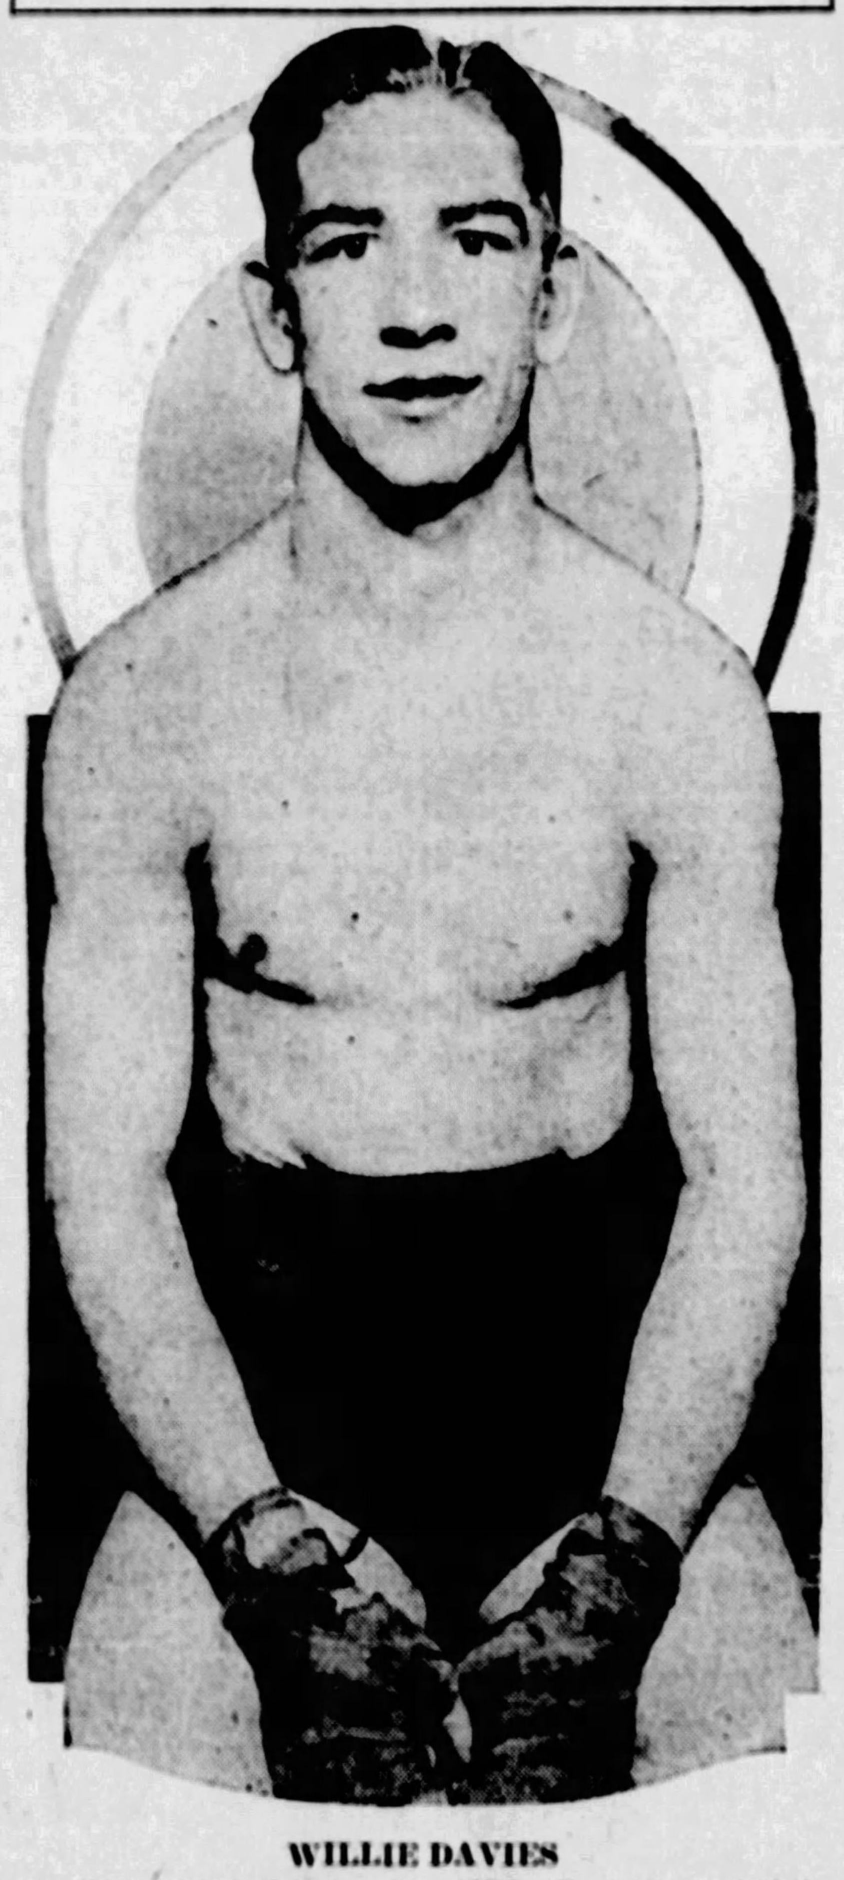
THE protest of the Universal team against its 4-1 defeat by the Tri-Boro Travelers in the semi-final round of the Class A elimination baseball series at Braddock last Tuesday evening, was allowed today at a meeting of the Greater Pittsburgh Baseball Commission, and, as a result, the Travelers are out of the series and Universal will oppose the New Eagle Indians in the final round.

The full board of the commission sat in on the hearing, which began shortly after noon.

Universal protested the playing of Pitcher Rosemyer and Shortstop Cook, making known its intention as soon as Rosemyer delivered his first pitch in the game. In support of its contention, it introduced evidence from Manager Skinner of the Duquesne Steel team of the Mon-Yough League to the effect that both Rosemyer and Skinner were on the payroll of that club and therefore ineligible to compete in an amateur series. It was said, though, that the two players had not yet received their money from Duquesne, requesting that it be withheld until after the elimination series.

The Travelers and New Eagle were scheduled to play at Edgar Thomson field, Braddock, tomorrow evening. A new date will be set for the Universal-New Eagle game, the winner of which will represent Pittsburgh in the national elimination series.

FIGHTS ON COAST



WILLIE DAVIES

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The California Athletic Commission was on record today as a competitor of the New York Boxing Commission in the business of making pugilistic champions.

A campaign to determine the logical successor to Fidel La Barba, 112-pound king, who has announced his determination to retire from the ring and enter Stanford University, will be held in California, starting tonight with a bout between Corporal Izzy Schwartz of New York and Willie Davies of Charleroi, Pa.

Some 10 fighters of the requisite poundage are entered in the tournament.

CHILLY SAUCE By CHILLY DOYLE

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—Dr. Edward Farrell, late of the University of Pennsylvania, who is known quite affectionately in Boston as Eddie Farrell of the Braves, is quite a boy, and quite a ball player. With Dave Bancroft ailing, the little doctor is making a very good job of stabilizing the Boston infield.

EDDIE started in as the Braves' third-sacker after the big deal with the Giants. Then Bancroft had a glimpse of the collegian around second base and he switched him over to the other side of the bag. In less than a week, Farrell stood out as one of the most efficient keystone tenders in the game. Now he is playing short like a star and batting something like .325.

THE ease with which Farrell grabs up bad hoppers is not missed by his brethren of the diamond and others. When I first saw Eddie with the Giants I did not think he had marked ability, but since he came over here he has blossomed into a star.

IN Pittsburgh shortly after the Giants traded him to Boston, Farrell told this writer he was keenly disappointed, through being sent to a club that was out of the running. "I thought I was getting along satisfactorily with New York," said Eddie. "It was a big disappointment to be sent away, but you can let it be broadcast that I am going to do my level best every minute I am on the field." And Farrell has lived up to this ideal.

WHEN Boston's "Singer Midget" infield lines up for battle, the opposition could hardly be blamed for developing feelings tending to under-estimate the Braves. Andy High, Doc Gautreau and Eddie Farrell are so small they stand in marked contrast to big men like Traynor, Wright and Grantham.

NOTES of the BOXERS

PETE ZIVIC'S scheduled bout with Carl Tremaine at Mingo Junction, O., Labor Day is off. The dog race track there has been closed and this was to be the scene of the engagement.

Jimmy Finley, Louisville welterweight, boxes Harry Mason of England in the main bout at the Coney Island Stadium tonight. Johnny Filucci meets Frankie Fink and Vic Burrone boxes Lew Perfetti on the same card.

Young Nanci of Swissvale boxes Tommy Paul of Buffalo in one of the six-round bouts at Erie tonight.

Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, engages Eddie Mack in a 10-round bout at Denver tonight.

JOHNNY URBAN STOPPED; MARCO POLO WINNER

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—Two young Pittsburgh heavyweights broke even in battles on the Madison Square Garden card last night. Johnny Urban, brother of Jack Burke of Pittsburgh, was stopped in the fourth round of one of the scheduled 10-round battles by Benny Touchstone of Florida. Marco Polo of McKees Rocks scored a knockout in the second round of one of the scheduled four-round preliminaries over Zinco Jakasa.

In the main bout of 10 rounds, Jack Renault, essaying a "comeback," scored a close 10-round decision over Arthur DeKuh. Renault speeded up in the last three rounds after being held even up to this time. Monte Munn scored a technical knockout victory over Chief Metoquah, the Indian, in the first round of the semi-final. The bout was stopped when Metoquah went on the defensive after sampling one of Munn's punches.

FAIR WEATHER FOR FIGHT FIGURED 3-TO-1 BET

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Fair weather for the night of the Dempsey-Tunney championship fight, September 22, is a 3 to 1 bet, records of the Chicago weather bureau indicate.

In the 55 years for which records have been kept, it has rained on September 22 only 14 times, with clear skies, or so little moisture it didn't register, 41 times.

GRAYS MEET HORNETS

Red Ryan or Oscar Owens will be on the mound for the Homestead Grays when they open their three-game series with the Cleveland Hornets at Forbes Field at 6:15 o'clock this evening. The Hornets are members of the Negro National League.

Foul Line Moved South by Comish; Bans Lifted

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(INS.)—The epidemic of fouls which has marred the Dempsey-Sharkey bout and other fights in New York recently probably will be curtailed as the result of a revolutionary change made by the New York Athletic Commission in its rule governing foul blows. In future bouts, referees will recognize a new fair area, which will include considerable territory formerly considered as below the belt.

Boxers in bouts here will be required to wear trunks marked in different colors to designate the lower abdomen. The border line between the two colors will be the new belt line. The area of the new fair territory will vary according to the size of the boxer.

The age limit for boxers was raised from 38 years to 40. Under this rule, Jack Britton, former welterweight champion, was reinstated and given permission to fight Georgie Levine here next Monday.

Pete Reilly and his boxers, including Jack Delaney, were reinstated.

The Inside Story of DEMPSEY'S 'COMEBACK'

By Leo P. Flynn, Manager-Trainer of the former heavyweight Champion

(COPYRIGHT, 1927, BY UNIVERSAL SERVICE.)

CHAPTER VII.

I GAVE Jack Dempsey only two orders before he entered the ring against Jack Sharkey. He obeyed them to the letter.

First, I warned him to ignore anything that Sharkey might say. I knew Sharkey had been saving up a lot of venom and I knew he would get at least a minute to spill it as they were posing for the pictures.

"Laugh at him," I advised, "Appear to be amused. Treat him as if he were a funny little boy."

My second order was more important. I asked him not to hit Sharkey above the chest until I gave the word. Also, I impressed on him that he was not to let a punch go unless he was sure it would land.

As Gus Wilson pointed out afterward, the difference between the Dempsey of Philadelphia and the Dempsey of July 21 was his accuracy. He missed only two punches against Sharkey. He landed only two against Tunney.

START FULL OF ACTION.

The bell sounded, and they were off. It was a hurricane of action. Dempsey, close up, was obeying instructions to the letter. He was belting away for Sharkey's body, paying no attention to his head.

Then Sharkey hit him! Man, what sock! It was a corker, and I don't mind saying that it gave Leo Peter Flynn all the thrill that he will need for quite a few years to come. I heard lots of the boys say afterward that Dempsey's legs looked bad after that punch. Well, why wouldn't they? That right hand on the whiskers would have made his legs wabble the best day he ever saw.

When Dempsey came back to his corner at the end of the first round, we were a mighty anxious crew.

"Did he hurt you with that punch?" I demanded as he sat down.

"You bet your life he hurt me," he replied.

Then I knew what to do. We gave him everything we knew to send him out for the next round with a clear head. Just before the bell sounded, I shouted in his ear:

"Don't forget—keep your chin on your chest and plug for his body."

"I'm all right now, Leo," he answered. "I heard what you said."

SHARKEY MISSES CHANCES.

Jack Sharkey had the chance of his life in the first round and he muffed it. He had another golden opportunity in the second and he blew that. He should have left every ounce of his strength in the center of the ring during those two rounds. Evidently, he figured the longer it went the weaker Dempsey would get. He didn't realize what those murderous body blows were doing to him. He never had been up against a real hitter before.

Dempsey knew in the fourth round that he would win. He told me so as he sat in the corner between the fourth and fifth rounds.

"I can get him any time now, Leo," he said. "He knows that he's going to lose. I can sense it."

"Never you mind, old boy," I retorted. "Just keep plugging away down below until I give the word."

He did exactly as he was told in the fifth, although I'll bet it must have hurt him to let some of those opportunities go by. He urged me again at the end of the fifth to let him punch for the head, and I finally told him to go ahead. "But don't let it go until you are sure you can land," I warned him.

In his next article, tomorrow, Flynn will describe the realization of his dream.

Anyone can learn to dive. It merely requires a little nerve. Try it yourself.

COUNTY LEAGUE ACE

WITH DORMONT CLUB

Lauth is a Bellevue product, but he plays in the outfield for Dormont in the Allegheny County League. He's one of the stars of Manager Falconer's club.

Jules Beck, Promoter

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

LEND an ear and an eye while we prate of the pugilistic prowess of one Jules Beck, promoter.

Jules is the young man of Duquesne who is staging the Cuddy DeMarco-Johnny Mellow boxing show at the Duquesne Steel baseball park Monday night. It will be his second show of the outdoor season, AND THE TWO ARE THE ONLY PROFESSIONAL SHOWS TO BE HELD IN THIS SECTION DURING THE OUTDOOR SEASON NOW DRAWING TO A CLOSE.

Other promoters are afraid to take a chance, either for lack of suitable sites or because the outdoor boxing bugaboo has them buffaloed. The fact that Jules is coming up with his second show is quite a compliment to his gameness and sagacity.

JULES' first offering of the season was staged last month. It featured Tug Phillips and Dick Conlon in the windup, with a bangup preliminary card supporting it. He had a gate of something like $1,200, although he put on his bouts in Duquesne and drew only a handful of Pittsburgh fans. He did a little better than break even and had the satisfaction of sending his customers home well satisfied and vowing to tell their friends and return if he put on any future shows.

His second card shapes up as better than his first. The Mellow-DeMarco battle is a return engagement and one that promoters have been trying to make ever since their first meeting, at McKeesport, almost two years ago, when there was a great hullabloo over the referee's decision of a draw after the judges had split. Mellow floored the cagy DeMarco and made matters interesting all the way and the majority of fans thought he merited the award. This will be the Detroiter's fourth appearance in this section. He defeated K. O. Ferry and Freddie Boylstein and drew with Dick Conlon in other bouts at McKeesport.

In the semi-final, Monday night, Beck has Teddy Welch of McKeesport and Young Rudy of Charleroi; in the second bout, his protege, Bobby Young of Duquesne, whom he is bringing back from Detroit for the occasion, and Ralph Martzo of Bloomfield, and, in the opening six-rounder, Jimmy Belmont of Braddock and Tommy Ward of the South Side.

If that card doesn't take the fans by the ears and drag in Beck's anticipated gate of at least $3,000, then there ain't no Santy Claus.

JULES BECK'S promotorial activities have been closely observed by higher-ups in the fistic racket hereabouts and it is no secret that he may step into the vacated brogans of Johnny McGarvey as matchmaker at Motor Square Garden when the sport is resumed there shortly for the indoor season. McGarvey himself, impressed by the caliber of matches Beck has put on at Duquesne during this and past seasons, has placed Jules' name on the list of candidates, which also includes Jim McGirr, the McKeesport impresario, and Johnny Ray, former local lightweight boxer and for several seasons McGarvey's assistant at Motor Square. Backed up by some real cash and a club with the seating capacity of the East End arena, Beck should be able to give his talents full play. And here's a prediction that he would make good.

MACKENZIE HOLDS EVANS EVEN

BULLETIN.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 26.—Bobby Jones was seven up on Francis Ouimet at the end of 15 holes of play in their 36-hole semi-final round match in the national amateur golf tournament here today. Chick Evans and Roland MacKenzie were all even after playing 16 holes.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Bobby Jones was five up on Francis Ouimet at the end of the first nine holes of their semi-final match in the national amateur golf tournament today. Jones went out in 33, two under par, while his opponent needed 39. Jones had two birdies—the first and the fifth holes, and was par on the others.

Chick Evans, Chicago, was all square with Roland MacKenzie, Washington, D. C., as they went to the tenth hole. Evans squared the match on the ninth when MacKenzie needed an extra stroke on the par five hole and conceded the hole.

Jones placed his tee shot on the first hole in a sand trap guarding the 326-yard first green. Ouimet was on in two. Jones pitched on with his second. Ouimet got his par four and Jones dropped a six-footer for a birdie three.

On the second Jones drove into the adjoining fourteenth fairway but sent a long iron to the green, while Ouimet was short. Ouimet then had a long putt and took five to Jones' par 4.

At the third Jones was on the edge of the 141-yard hole, with Ouimet well on. They approached to four feet and halved in par three, leaving Jones two up.

At the fourth hole, 524 yards, each needed three to get on, but Jones put a seven-foot putt down for a birdie four while Ouimet's putt from six feet stopped on the edge of the cup, and he took five, going three down.

Jones was on the edge of the rough near the 309-yard fifth while Ouimet pitched on from the fairway. Bobby's pitch was inside that of Francis and two putts each left a half at par four.

The short sixth, 195 yards over water, found the tee shots only a few feet apart and the hole was halved in three.

BOBBY ADDS TO LEAD.

With the wind behind him on the seventh, Bobby took a spoon from the tee to avoid possible trouble. Ouimet drove into the woods and struck a tree coming out to go out of bounds. He then went into a trap. Jones was just off the green with his second. Ouimet, after taking 5, conceded the hole. Jones was 4 up.

At the par three eighth, 232 yards, Jones reached the green with his iron while Ouimet found a trap. Jones got his par while Ouimet needed four and went 5 down.

Ouimet was 50 yards behind Jones from the tee at the ninth, a 512-yard hole. Jones took an iron and pushed his second to the rough, near Ouimet's on the edge. Both were on in three and the hole was halved in par five. Ouimet laid his approach putt dead, drawing out appreciative "pretty putt, Frank," from Bobby.

FREDERICK CATCHER SOLD TO PIRATES

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 26.—Ralston Hemsley, young catcher of the Frederick Club of the Blue Ridge League, has been sold to the Pittsburgh Club of the National League. Officials of the Frederick Club announced today, for $1,000. He is to report at the close of the Blue Ridge season and it is understood the Pirates intend to send him to their farm at Wichita. Hemsley is serving a second year in organized ball. This season he had batted .321 in 81 games.

Successor To Be Named

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

NELSON ZIMMERMAN, popular professional at the Westmoreland Country Club, in Verona, has resigned his position and will leave at the end of this season to go on with his work at a large club in the East, it was learned yesterday.

His successor likely will be determined within the next few weeks. It had been rumored about town that Archie Compston, noted British professional, had been signed for the local club, but Chester H. Lehman, president of Westmoreland, denied last night that such was the case.

"We have several men in mind for the position," said Lehman, "and we have no idea right now just who it will be. Some time ago it was called to our attention that Compston had expressed a desire to come to the United States permanently, and the nearest we have been to talking business with him was to ask him his terms in a letter, as yet unanswered. Westmoreland is not particularly anxious to get him, however, and under no circumstances would we take him unless he meets with our requirements."

KNOCKOUT FEATURES AMATEUR PROGRAM

One knockout featured the amateur boxing show held at the Hunter street playground, Wilkinsburg, last evening under the auspices of the David I. Rankin Post 234, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Harold Peterson of Homestead Library stopping Benny Pull of the Pittsburgh Lyceum in 1 minute 16 seconds. Ernie Sesto, Willow A. C., won from Billy Titus, Uniontown Y. M. C. A., in the best fight of the card. Leo Kyburski, Swissvale A. C., won a hard-fought battle from Freddie Malstrom, Pittsburgh Lyceum. Dick Graham of the Willow A. C., and Gass Kish, Homestead Library, staged a fast bout, Graham winning.

SOCCER
by TOM BIRKS

THE Chartiers Valley League will hold its second get-together of the season at Burdine this evening. Ten well balanced teams likely will complete the roster.

Tomorrow evening the West Penn Referees' Association will get together for its regular monthly meeting at the Hotel Henry.

Quite a number of good games will be played tomorrow and Sunday in this district. Managers should note that it is not necessary to sign up players for these games.

SLATTERY-ROSENBLOOM IN "TITLE" FIGHT

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo and Maxie Rosenbloom of New York meet in a 15-round fight at the Velodrome in East Hartford Monday night in a bout which is sanctioned as a world's light-heavyweight championship contest by Thomas E. Donohue, president of the National Boxing Association.

The winner will be recognized as world's light-heavyweight champion in 24 states which are under the jurisdiction of the National Boxing Association, Donohue says.

Donohue recently suspended Mike McTigue, recognized by the New York Boxing Commission as light-heavyweight champion, for failure to go through with a scheduled fight in Canada.

HERE'S USUAL FAKE TICKET SCARE YARN

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(INS.)—United States secret service agents were in Chicago today investigating reports that a band of notorious counterfeiters were preparing an issue of spurious tickets to the Tunney-Dempsey championship fight scheduled for Soldier Field September 22.

Capt. Thomas Callaghan, chief of the secret service forces in the Chicago district, laughed at the suggestion that the genuine tickets are "counterfeit-proof." He declared that he knew of at least five men, now at large, who are capable of reproducing the choice ducats.

Capt. Callaghan, who is a world-famous Nemesis of counterfeiters, said he was informed by government sleuths in his service that a plan is under way whereby 25,000 bogus tickets will be turned loose on an unsuspected public as soon as the demand justifies.

DEMPSEY STARTS BOXING

Leo P. Flynn, director-general of Dempsey's "comeback" campaign, today expressed himself as "very well pleased" with the result of the former champ's first workout against sparring mates.

Dempsey, training at Lincoln Fields for his September session with Champion Gene Tunney, is rounding into shape so rapidly that it was decided yesterday to change the program and give him a workout with sparring partners.

But the trio is smart in its actions. The three little fellows play the opposing batters smartly, emulating Bancroft in this connection. At the same time the Tribe does not appear as formidable with Bancroft operating only on the coaching lines.

ONE report states that Bancroft still suffers as a result of the blow struck by Earl Smith, but a Boston newspaperman declares that Banny has a bad attack of boils which is keeping him out of action.

LEADING the league in five departments, Paul Waner also is likely to be the first major leaguer to make 200 hits. He is out in front of all competitors in total number of safeties.

"THAT boy pitched one of the best games I have umpired this year," said Bill Klem last night, in commenting on Kent Greenfield's performance against the Pirates. Elaborating on the masterpiece of the youngster, Klem informed me that Greenfield had a fine "jump" on his fast ball. "Greenfield has a great fast ball," said Bill, "but he used a lot of curves. He depended on his speed to keep him out of trouble. His curve was served more as a sop to the batters."

KLEM then divulged that in his opinion, Charley Root of the Cubs is the best pitcher in the league. Root also is a fast-ball star, but he also has a nice hook.

"I LIKE the pitcher who grabs that ball and lets go of it without fooling around for a big part of the afternoon," mused Bill. "Root is that style of pitcher. Look at Alexander and Johnson. They pitch that ball without a lot of fiddling around. Matty was the same way. I like to see a pitcher take a lot of time when he is in trouble, but some pitchers think they should stall all through the game. If they only knew that speed increases their efficiency they would work faster."

FORT PITT IS HOST

Tex's Men Admit Scalpers Can Buy All They Want

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Tickets for the Dempsey-Tunney fight are moving out of the box office at the rate of $100,000 a day and undoubtedly Tex Rickard's clerical staff said today, large blocks of them are going into the hands of speculators.

With 161,000 tickets to hand out before September 22, Rickard feels that he has no time to inquire into the occupation of the thousands lined up before the Palmer House wickets, laying down their dollars for groups of 10, 20 or more seats.

The advance sale probably is well past the $1,500,000 mark now, the box office men said, and as soon as the lines of purchases begin to thin out a check will be made to see just how near the sale is to the $3,000,000 gate Rickard expects.

POLICE MEET CARDED AT STADIUM TOMORROW

All is in readiness for the ninth annual police meet to be held tomorrow afternoon at the Pitt stadium, and it promises to be one of the biggest and most successful sets of athletic games held here this summer, if the weather man smiles on the proceedings.

A few changes have been necessary in the lineup of amateur boxing bouts. In the 112-pound class A. Iovino, Swissvale A. C., will box Billie Magarrell, Willow Club. In the 147-pound division, Russell Verge, Willow Club, will oppose J. McTiernon, Swissvale A. C., and in the 135-pound class Tom Harris, St. John's Lyceum, will meet A. Andrucci, Willow Club. The other bouts will be as originally announced.

Henry Loud, acting for the members of the Elks' Lodge No. 11, has reserved an entire car on the special. New England Villages Sold by Auctioneer

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Two New England mill villages have passed under the auctioneer's hammer from the B. B. and R. Knight, Inc., textile concern which built and owned them, to families which had occupied them for years or outsiders who bought for investment.

The post-war depression caused the corporation to abandon its mills in Manchaug, Mass., and White Rock, R. I. Most of the populations drifted away, but those who remained lived rent free. Finally the corporation decided to liquidate some of its holdings.

The first to be sold was the Manchaug property of 74 houses, a farm and three mills, which were founded in 1826. After the mill closing in 1921, much village property was destroyed by a fire.

The company gave two of its buildings as churches. The remainder fetched $91,000, although the replacement cost was said to be nearer $1,000,000.

The scene was repeated at White Rock, a village with its own water supply, electric light service and fire protection. In a day-long auction the 64-year-old village was knocked down for $80,795.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Fireworks in Vulcan Detinning.

Vulcan Detinning was whizzed up again to a level [illegible] above yesterday's low and [illegible] above its selling price two weeks or so ago. "Hot tips" were in circulation as to the objective on the advance and fancy prices were talked of for this move. Conservative traders figured the rise yesterday and today as a fancy enough performance and were inclined to doubt the wisdom of such demonstrations. There are less than [illegible] shares of the stock outstanding and as buyers were obliged to jump 20 points for stock since yesterday morning, the general aspect of the situation indicated that the "free and open market" demanded as a requisite of inclusion in the stock exchange list does not exist at the moment. Latest earnings statement does not contain anything upon which the sensational advance could be based. Company's biggest customers, the can makers, will probably increase their orders this year but not to an extent warranting such fireworks as have taken place in the stock this week.

U. S. Steel Orders.

Unless there is a perceptible increase in steel consumption in the last week of August unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation for the month are said to be likely to show a decrease of more than 100,000 tons. Incoming business now is somewhat below the volume of shipments. An increase of [illegible] tons was reported at the end of July when unfilled orders were [illegible] tons. Operations this week are around [illegible] per cent of capacity, against [illegible] per cent last week.

Bethlehem at 74 Per Cent.

A new all-time high record for crude oil production was established in the United States during 1926, the Bureau of Mines announced. The total for the 12-month period was [illegible] barrels, an increase of [illegible] barrels over the 1925 output. The major portion of the increase was in Texas. Production in California, the leading oil state, decreased approximately [illegible] barrels. Oklahoma registered a gain of [illegible] barrels. Imports decreased slightly for the year, the bureau reported.

Ontario Gold Output.

Gold output from Ontario mines reached new high level in July at [illegible] against [illegible] in June. July tonnage was [illegible] against [illegible] in June.

Surplus Cars Decrease.

Class 1 railroads on August 15 had [illegible] surplus freight cars in good repair and immediately available for service, the American Railway Association announced. This was a decrease of [illegible] cars, compared with August 8. Surplus coal cars on August 15 totaled [illegible], a decrease of [illegible] within a week, while surplus box cars totaled [illegible], decrease of [illegible]. Reports also showed [illegible] surplus stock cars, a decrease of [illegible] cars below the number reported August 8, while surplus refrigerator cars totaled [illegible], a decrease of [illegible] for the same period.

P. R. R. Car Loadings.

Total loaded cars handled by the Pennsylvania Railroad system for the week ended August [illegible] were [illegible], compared with [illegible] in preceding week and [illegible] in corresponding week of 1926. For the period from January 1 to August [illegible] total is [illegible], compared with [illegible] in corresponding period of 1926, a decrease of [illegible] per cent.

Glass Outlook Brighter.

The American Glass Review tomorrow will say: "Existing trade conditions show little change but there is an increasing air of expectancy. Producers report more inquiries and say the number has been increasing. Increased inquiries are coming in from jobbers to window and plate glass manufacturers. There is little doubt but that stocks are low and that any demand upon distributors will be reflected immediately in inquiries or orders to producers. Stocks of hand glass in this country are at a lower level than in the majority of trade executives."

Seminole at 437,048.

Seminole oil output totaled 437,048 barrels for 24 hours ended at 7 a. m. Thursday, an increase of 1,860 barrels over Wednesday.

Record Month for Nash.

An official announcement from the Nash Motors Company states that July sales were [illegible] per cent ahead of July a year ago and that thus far factory orders for August make it certain that this month will be the greatest single month in the history of the company.

Steel at New High.

Steel common went into new high ground on buying credited to the Du Pont Morgan-Baker group. The steel Corporation is now a complete unit and cannot plow back any longer the large amounts it did under former conditions. The Gary plant has been built out of earnings and is now complete. The Pittsburgh and Youngstown properties are now in perfect physical condition. As a result stockholders should receive more substantial dividends than heretofore.

General Electric Spurts.

The move in General Electric to above 131, equal to better than [illegible] a share for the old stock, was one of the outstanding incidents of the session. The street searched closely for some special reason for the strength but private wires reported back "no news." Buying was probably based on the company's general outlook. Expansion of the power industry over the next several years will bring an enormous volume of business to General Electric and its entrance into the refrigeration field assures a leading position for the company in one of the world's fast-growing industries. At the directors' meeting today only the regular dividends were declared.

Electric Refrigeration.

Directors of the Electric Refrigeration Company are scheduled to meet Monday, at which time they will act on a proposed plan to sell [illegible] shares of additional stock at a price said to be around [illegible] a share. The outstanding stock is now selling at $14.

Mack Earnings Satisfactory.

Despite more or less persistent rumors to the contrary, Mack Truck is obtaining a good volume of business in both its truck and bus departments and operations are running at levels which indicate satisfactory earnings for the third quarter. Conservative estimates place net earnings in the third quarter in excess of [illegible], or [illegible] a share on the common. This will give the company a total for the nine months of close to its full year's dividend requirements of $6 a share and permit all or most of last quarter's income to be added to surplus account.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP.)—The raw sugar market was quieter early today and as no fresh business was reported prices were unchanged at 4.[illegible] for Cuban duty paid.

A reactionary tendency developed in the raw sugar futures market during the early trading, probably inspired by the less active demand in the spot market and a large European beet sugar crop estimate. Prices at one time showed net losses of 4 to 5 points under heavy liquidation or realizing and some selling by houses with Cuban connections. There was a good deal of covering and new buying on the decline, however, and partial rallies followed with prices at midday about 2 to 3 points net lower. A prominent European crop authority estimated the coming European beet sugar crop at [illegible] metric tons, as against the previous outturn of [illegible] tons.

No further changes were reported in refined sugar, with list prices ranging from 5.75 to 5.90c for fine granulated, but the demand was less active.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—The cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 8 to 28 points under realizing and selling for a reaction, promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables and belief that the technical position had been weakened by recent advances. December declined to 21.35 cents and March to 21.50 cents in early trading, but losses of about 20 to 25 points, but reports of rains and low temperatures in Eastern belt sections led to buying on the decline and there were rallies of 9 or 10 points from the lowest by the end of the first hour.

Private cables attributed the easier tone in Liverpool to local, American and continental selling, and houses with continental connections were credited with selling here at the opening.

The early decline appeared to bring in trade buying as well as covering and the market not only recovered its losses, but sold 8 to 10 points net higher late in the morning. Buying appeared to be stimulated by prospects for further showers in the South and reports of a firm basis for spot cotton in the Southwest. At midday December contracts were selling at 21.60c and March at 21.82c.

MOTORS, STEEL ATTAIN NEW PEAKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Establishment of new high records by U. S. Steel common, General motors and General Electric featured the mixed price movement in today's stock market. Spectacular bidding up of the pivotal industrials and a select assortment of "specialties continued to monopolize speculative interest, although renewed weakness developed in the oil shares and some of the public utilities. Trading was again in large volume.

Banks called about $15,000,000 in loans around the middle of the day, but there appeared to be plenty of funds available at the renewal figure of 3½ per cent. Wall Street was agreeably surprised by the drop of more than $20,000,000 in Federal reserve brokers' loans.

Publication of the pamphlet report of the General Motors Corporation, showing a record-breaking earnings for the first six months, and widespread circulation of a private analysis and forecast of that company's earnings and prospects stimulated the demand for the old stock, which advanced close to the 250 level. The new stock crossed 125. Despite predictions of a drop in August unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation, steel common advanced to a new peak at 141 on buying influenced by predictions of a quickening demand from the automotive industry when the uncertainty regarding the new Ford car is cleared up. The buying of General Electric was based, in part, on the expected retirement of the company's special stock.

Violent advances took place in several specialties. Vulcan Detinning soared 20 points, the A stock 18, Commercial Solvents B, 16⅝ and S. H. Kress 15.

Atchison sold down 3 points on President Storey's statement that the consideration of stock dividends is as far off as ever. Chesapeake and Ohio duplicated its record high of 196 and moderate gains were recorded by some of the other high priced carriers.

Pan-American issues were again heavily sold. Pierce Arrow preferred broke 4 points and Radio Corporation sold down 2 in the early afternoon.

The closing was strong. Fresh buying broke out on a large scale in United States Steel, General Motors and General Electric, all of which eclipsed their previous best figures. Heavy accumulation also was under way in Allis Chalmers, American Smelting, Chrysler, Woolworth and many other well-known industrials and specialties. Vulcan Detinning lost an early gain of 20 points. Total sales approximated 1,200,000 shares.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Aug. 26—(AP.)—Better Liverpool cables than expected and scattered buying by houses with seaboard connections gave a lift to Chicago wheat values during the early trading today. Corn was affected by the action of wheat, but as profit taking and local pressure developed, both grains suffered a setback. Opening [illegible] up, wheat later declined all around. Corn started unchanged to ⅛c higher, and subsequently eased off with wheat. Oats sympathized with other cereals and provisions were firm in line with stronger hog values.

Farmers are expecting between 30 to 40 bushels of wheat per acre if frost is delayed another 10 days, in the territory between Calgary and Red Deer, Alberta, according to advices current today. Rain today, along with cooler weather are unfavorable for the ripening grain, but indications point to more favorable conditions.

The crops in the three prairie provinces are maturing rapidly, with cutting already started and should be general next week, according to a report from the Bank of Montreal. A considerable lodging of grain has occurred, especially in Alberta, the statement said, while frost and rust are reported from sections of Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

About 90 per cent of the crop between Aberdeen, S. D., and Jamestown, N. D., is shown, all matured and nearly all harvested, with little black rust damage, according to an expert at Aberdeen. The average per acre there, he said, will be around 15 bushels.

Cold nights recently have held back the growth of corn, according to Minneapolis advices. There have been good rains which will benefit the crop but several days of warm weather are necessary to mature part of it, the balance being so late that there [illegible] it at all, except to use for [illegible].

At noon wheat was [illegible] to [illegible] higher; corn was up [illegible] to [illegible]; oats advanced [illegible], and provisions ruled firm.

TIDAL OSAGE OIL RECOVERS EARLY DECLINE

Screw & Bolt Firm On Local Board

There was a little more spirit to the dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today although volume of trading in the early stages of the session was not large. Interest centered in Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt at the opening and several hundred shares of the stock changed hands with the price rising by small fractions. This issue has been rather quiet for a week or more and the resumption of activity today revived rumors that the stock is slated for higher dividends. Present payments are at the rate of $2 a year and general assuption is that this will be raised to a $3 basis. Recent earnings statement issued by the company disclosed that full year's dividend requirements were met in the first half and if the ratio of earnings continued through the second half, more than twice the current disbursement rate will be reported for the 12 months.

The fuel group was dull. A few sales of Lone Star Gas were recorded with early prices showing a slight fractional recession from yesterday's close. Declaration of a [illegible]-cent dividend on Tidal Osage common was not reflected in the early bidding for the stock. The first transaction in the issue was at a substantial decline from the last previous close, but subsequent demand closed up the 1½ point gap and by the end of the first hour the stock was up about two points from the opening.

There was not much breadth to the dealings in the miscellaneous issues. Standard Sanitary was the strongest of the higher priced group and worked up to 93 on odd lot sales. This price compares with the last previous close at 92¼. Dixie Gas and Utilities was firm at 7⅛ @ 7⅝, but there was not much activity in the stock. A block of 25 shares Pittsburgh Plate Glass changed hands at 230, off a small fraction from the preceding price.

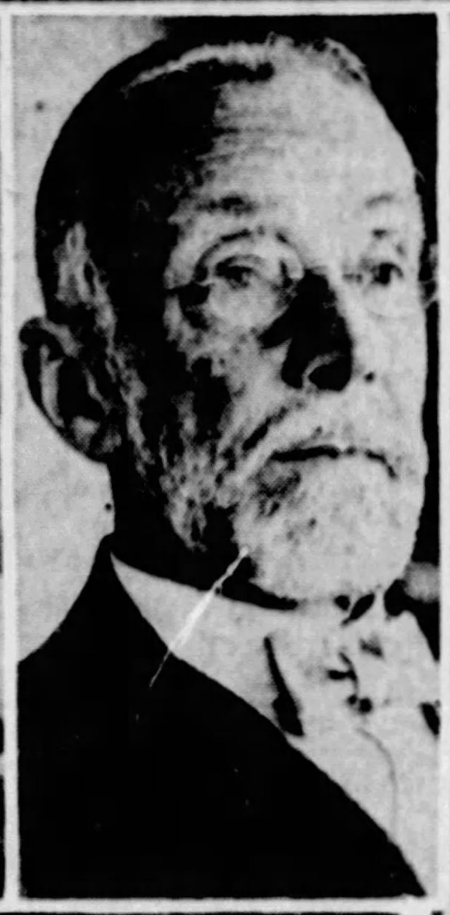
"COWARDLY ATTACK," FRIEDA CHARGES OF AUGUST

FRIEDA HEMPEL

Charges and counter charges enlivened the alleged breach of contract suit entered by Frieda Hempel, opera star, against August Heckscher, wealthy New York realtor and philanthropist.



AUGUST HECKSCHER

Mr. Heckscher's counsel asserts the plaintiff acted in "bad faith and bad taste," and only "attempting to annoy Mr. Heckscher" by moving to bring him into court to tell of alleged contract.

IN PRIVATE LIFE

"A cowardly attack," is the way Miss Hempel's attorney describes the defendant's allegations of bad faith. The court has reserved decision and ordered both sides to submit memoranda.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

Fruit and vegetables were in active demand today at the local wholesale produce district, with a generally steady market. Vegetables sold at about unchanged prices. A slight increase was made in the price of apples in bushel lots, while cantaloupes and honeydew melons were lower.

The poultry market was firm on colored hens in the face of short supplies. All other poultry was in liberal supply and easy.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Although prices, supported by current easy money conditions, held close to the high levels of the past week or more, today's bond market was extremely dull and trading in small volume. High grade issues received little attention, with the exception of two or three railroad bonds, such as Lake Shore 4s, which advanced to par, duplicating their previous best figure.

Most of the convertible liens reflected week-end realizing, Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s and Delaware & Hudson 5s selling down a point or so. International Paper 6s, on the other hand, scored a small fractional gain.

Foreign bonds showed few signs of life, prices remaining close to yesterday's levels. Australian 5s and some of the French issues were easy. United States government securities were irregular.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column. (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars:

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Wall street bankers are reported to be discussing informally a "stagger plan" for new bond offerings which would avoid a glut in the bond market as was experienced in early summer, in view of the immense volume of new financing expected this fall. It is proposed to so arrange the new issues that few large ones would be offered together in one day or week, thus enabling the market to absorb issues about as fast as they are offered to the public.

Cancel Lackawanna Securities Contract.

Contracts for the purchase or sale of Lackawanna Securities Company stock made on the basis of the first bond segregation plan of the D. L. & W. R. R. will be canceled. It is expected the 844,411 shares of stock in the revised company will be listed on the New York Curb Market. Contracts for stock in the previously proposed company were made on a "when issued" basis between 67 and 105¾. The new company will have as its sole asset $35,300,000 par value Glen Alden Coal 4 per cent first mortgage bonds.

Standard Textile Sales Mount.

Profits of Standard Textile Products for the first seven months this year was $448,[illegible] after interest and depreciation. August business exceeded the usual sales for that month and plants are at capacity, President Broadbent reports.

No Erie Coal Segregation.

Wall Street hears there will be no segregation of the coal properties of the Erie railroad this year, and such action is not expected until earnings from the road itself are sufficient to reflect a good showing without the support of dividends from the coal properties. Dividends on Erie preferred stocks are not looked for until the first quarter of 1928.

Construction Work Keeps Pace.

Projected construction of large jobs throughout the country is only slightly below the level of a year ago. While in several states the money value of proposed work has fallen off somewhat, actual gains have occurred in California, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Texas and Virginia, the McGraw-Hill Construction Daily reports. In the last week the money value of proposed large projects only covering the country totaled $71,390,000, against $65,000,000 the week before.

SWIM RECORD BROKEN

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Agnes Geraghty, New York swimmer, today had to her credit a record of negotiating the 220-yard breast stroke in 3 minutes, 27 2-5 seconds, two full seconds faster than the national record for the distance which she holds.

The New York mermaid conceded eight seconds to Eleanor Holm, also a national star, in an exhibition swim here last night and beat her to the finish.

SWEENEY LOSES IN BOYS' GOLF TOURNEY ABROAD

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—American hopes in the British boys' amateur golf championship were blasted this afternoon when young Charles Sweeney, of New Milford, Conn., the last survivor of the three American lads in the tournament, fell before E. NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. — (AP.) — There were many cross movements in the leading stocks on the Curb Exchange following indications of a reactionary tendency after advances late yesterday and some of those that have been most prominent in bullish activities indicated profit taking on a large scale. A long list of stocks, however, was in continued demand, many issues moving up from 3 to 5 points in the first half of the day, but the gains were not maintained, except in a few instances. Johns Manville started with a rally of 2 points at 118¼ but had a quick decline of over 3 points and although brisk buying appeared, sold off again after that movement.

A feature of the trading in the railroad list was the fractional advance that carried New York Central new stock up to a new high record of 156¼. U. S. freight was also in renewed demand, advancing 4 points to 98, and Realty Associates of Brooklyn rallied 3 points moving up to 275. Auburn Auto made a new high record on an advance of 4 points to 118⅞ and U. S. Battery also had a gain of 4 points selling at 48. Curtiss Aero rose over a point making a new high record at 32½. Ford Motor of Canada after yesterday's decline rallied 4 points. Chain Stores continued active and strong, Metropolitan being most active in that group.

Standard Oil of Indiana which is approaching the action on the new stock issue, was one of the strongest in the oil group, ranging above 73. Tidal Osage responded to the dividend declaration yesterday with an advance of 2 points.

There was continued strength in a number of the public utilities, but dealings in those stocks were on a smaller scale. United Gas improvement alternated between strength and weakness, an advance of over a point being followed by a decline of 2 points and then another rally took place.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP.)—Following is the official list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (000 omitted in sales column in bond list):

Steel City Automobile Company's Record Breaking USED CAR SHOW Continues

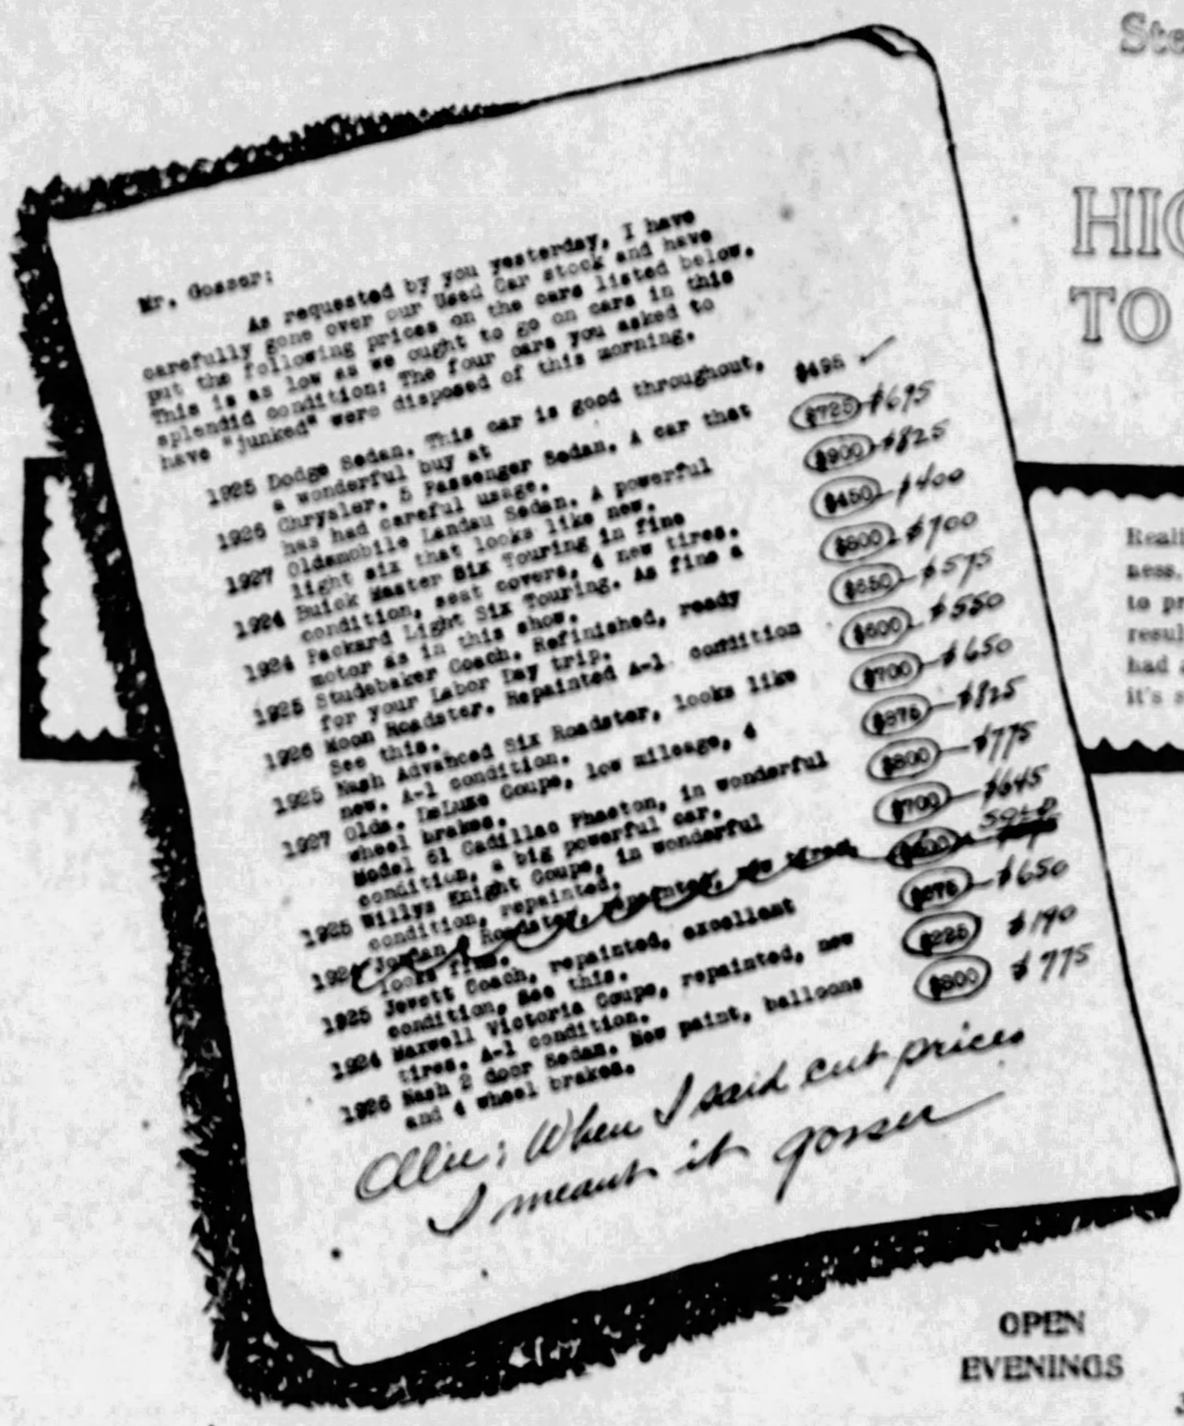
HIGH CLASS TRADE-IN CARS TO BE SOLD REGARDLESS OF COST

MR. GOSSER TELLS USED CAR MANAGER TO "CLEAN HOUSE"



Realizing that TRADE-IN cars must be kept constantly on the move, Mr. Gosser, owner of this business, requested that the MANAGER of USED CAR DEPARTMENT make a list of TRADE-INS and to price them low enough to move them. This list was prepared and laid on Mr. Gosser's desk. The result of Mr. Gosser's study, we decided, was a better "Ad" than we could possibly prepare, so we had a plate made of the first sheet of the list and reproduce it herewith. That's the entire story—it's straight from the shoulder—it's without frills, but it's sincere.

It is probably the finest group of trade-in cars in the city—and REMEMBER that Mr. Gosser himself cut our own Used Car manager's lowest prices to new low levels, which makes this the most sensational BUYING OPPORTUNITY OF THE SEASON.

MAURINE
A Tabloid Review of an Inspiring Form

Yesterday we left Maurine and Roy Montaine in the forest.

That cast its checkered shadows over him;
And, with his head thrown back, his dark eyes raised
And fixed upon Maurine, silently he gazed
Until she, smiling, turned to him and spoke:
"Give words, my cousin, to these thoughts that rise
And, like dumb spirits, look forth from your eyes."

The smooth and even darkness of Roy's cheek
Was stained one moment by a flush of red.
He swayed his lithe form nearer as he stood,
Still clinging to the branch above his head.
His brilliant eyes grew darker; and he said
With sudden passion, "Do you bid me speak?
I cannot, then, keep silent if I would—

Up and to the market place, with dame, to buy victuals, it being our purpose to have a chine of beef, come Sunday, but instead flip a coin, it falling heads to take the money to Mister Kubel, the bookseller, and get a copy of "Trader Horn," for which Heaven be praised.

I wish I was a little fish,
All frozen up in ice,
And when they dumped me in the drinks,
O! Wouldn't that be nice?

DOMESTIC RELATIONS DEPARTMENT

Dear Aunt Bella—
My wife, who began playing bridge five years ago, is not only fast learning the game, but lately has been unreasonably lucky. I am afraid, however, that her demeanor soon will be such that some one will be justified in striking her. Please tell me if my position as husband makes me eligible to strike her when the proper time comes, or if that pleasure should be reserved for a neighbor?

—Jack Terrell.

BULL-ETIN

(From Pataskala, O., Standard.)
Mrs. D. J. Huffman, residing some two and a half miles southeast of Pataskala, is confined to the home with a fractured collar bone. On Monday evening, while in the barnyard performing her choirs, Mrs. Huffman was attacked by a "crazy" cow.

Just Like a Man

Dumb-Bells

SEEMS SILLY!

Gladys—What's that curious thing?
Trapper—That's an old-time powder horn, ma'am.
Gladys—Well, it was nice to have such a supply handy, but just the same I believe a compact holds enough for any girl!

THAT'S NOTHING.

Californian—The great thing about living where I do is the climate. Why, I haven't paid a cent for coal in years.
Easterner—I just got a letter from my coal dealer reminding me that I haven't either.

HAVE YOU SMOKED THAT KIND?

Politician—No, I don't know you.
Stranger—Don't you remember giving me a cigar at election time?
Politician—Oh, did I? Er—are you just getting out?

EMBARRASSING.

Cecil—I'll never play the gallant again, Sylvester—Why not?
Cecil—Donna dropped her handkerchief and when I returned it to her she wanted to know what had become of the street car fare she had tied in one corner!

RESTFUL.

Doctor—You are near a breakdown. What's your business?
Patient—I'm a jazz music instructor.
Doctor—You need a rest and a change of occupation. Get yourself a nice quiet job in a boiler factory.

BUGS BAER Says

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

PRESIDENTIAL Candidates should remember one thing. Although Mr. Coolidge is a trout fisherman he is still President.

Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Mr. Coolidge resigned. But if you read the date you will notice that the resignation takes place after Mr. Coolidge is tired of being President.

The candidates are rather premature in accepting the resignation. Even if you stretch your imagination like a fireman's red suspenders, you cannot accept that resignation before next year.

But Lowden, Hoover, Dawes and the neighbors' political children have seconded the motion and carried it by a unanimous majority.

They are convinced that President Coolidge's resignation makes him a great President, not only because it elevates him alongside of Washington and Jefferson, but it also makes room on the platform for Lowden, Hoover and Dawes.

But, taking off the other mitt, we find there is a cold hand under a hot glove.

Why are the candidates so anxious to be passengers on a boat that has no pilot at the steering wheel? There's a reason for something else besides breakfast food.

Each one of the boys is convinced that he is a fine little rudder.

Don't forget that Mr. Coolidge is President up to November 11, 1928. That's the date that the Electoral College hands out one diploma entitling the holder of the certificate to address himself as "WE."

November 11, 1928, is over a year in the justly famed future—fifteen months to be exact. And after those fifteen months, Mr. Coolidge is still President until March 4, 1929, which is another four months' for the hasty mourners to spark time on a crawling almanac.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE d'ALROY

On "Basking in the Sun."

Men and women, as they WALK through the gray
Humdrum streets of LIFE, seek at times
To BASK in some warm,
Bright, golden SUN.
A few achieve
GLORY and can bask
In their own RAYS.
Others bask in the Reflected LIMELIGHT
Of their FRIENDS, family,
Or FORTUNE.
Many successful MEN
Bask comfortably
In the flattering
BEAMS of their Satellites.
Others PREFER the Warm GLANCES of WOMEN.
But the sun
Most WOMEN love
To BASK in, is LOVE. For, in love, they See themselves
As PERFECT, and
Preen themselves in
All their GLORY.

Regular Flying

Pictures of Life in the Years to Come.

STARTING FOR HAWAII, ERNEST L. SMITH'S PLANE FLYING OVER SAN FRANCISCO.

This shows what traveling life will be a few years hence, when all long traveling will be done through the air.

The great City of Oakland, where enormous fortunes will be made in real estate and other ways in the next few years, has built a Pacific Coast airport of which the country may be proud.

This photograph shows the airplane "City of Oakland" after it had left Oakland, flown across the beautiful San Francisco Bay, as fine a harbor as there is in the world, on its way to the Pacific, passing over San Francisco.

A few moments later it had sailed out above the Golden Gate, over the wide Pacific. News dispatches have told the rest.

Within a few years tens of thousands of airplanes, safer than street cars, infinitely surer and faster than railroad trains, will fly in all directions.

A trip across the ocean will be as simple as a trip from New York to Chicago now, and shorter.

A trip across the country, from New York to California, and from California on across the ocean, will take less time than it takes now to go from New York to California.

It is hard for us to realize these things, but they will come, THEY ARE ON THEIR WAY just as surely as the sun rises every morning far out on the Atlantic and sets out on the Pacific.

This picture is valuable because it reminds Americans in the East that there exists a great Western territory of which they know little, and of magnificent cities, such as Oakland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle and many others where there was empty land and a few Indians only a few years ago.

OVER THE CHANNEL AT DAWN.

This picture shows two flying planes above the white cliffs of Dover, where the English Channel washes the shore of England.

One of the planes in the picture is a British Royal Air Mail boat, the other a French passenger airplane. They pass at dawn far above the earth.

This picture is from an interesting book on flying, called "The Wonder Book on Aircraft," edited by Harry Golding, which gives a full account of flying from the beginning.

In England, France, and especially in Germany, flying is as completely organized as railroad travel, with regular timetables and flying passengers by the tens of thousands.

This country invented the flying machine, but doesn't seem to be able to do much in the way of flying. Perhaps, with the inspiration of Lindbergh and the others it will come in time.

Meanwhile, Europe DOES IT. If war should come, we might realize, to our sorrow, that it doesn't pay for the modern RICHEST nation to lack the modern WEAPON.

Is a Million "Success"?

John E. Andrus, of Yonkers, the "millionaire strap hanger" and one of the wealthiest men in the country, says that the Fords and Rockefellers of the future will come from those who have a little wealth now. He also does not regard a man who has made a million as being successful because any man with the ability to make a million should make a great deal more.

Mr. Andrus's low opinion of a million dollars will not be shared by many persons, even the millionaires.

A Star-Born Mystery

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

SCATTERED invisibly down from the starry sky, unnoticed, though it may be the very breath of life itself, comes continuously a flood of mysterious radiant energy, whose existence has been known for only a few years. This "cosmic radiation" offers one of the most humanly interesting of all the unsolved problems of astronomy.

It is, besides, an entirely new thing. No one had ever dreamed before its discovery two or three years ago of a secret radiation from the stars, consisting of waves of energy of almost inconceivable brevity which, notwithstanding their excessive minuteness, possess a penetrating power so great that they are able to pass through a screen of lead six feet in thickness. The earth's atmosphere is able to shield it off only partially.

This mystic snowstorm of energy, falling day and night alike, must pass through our bodies and brains as easily as dust through a coarse sieve, with effects of which, as yet, we know nothing. Someone has already suggested that here may lie the secret of the origin and maintenance of life on the earth, though it is difficult to imagine just how that can be; is the radiation variable, and, if so, how does the variability affect human life?

This most extraordinary phenomenon seems to accord with the equally extraordinary theory that the stars are scattering their substance through space with their radiations. Thus, as Russell says, a loss of 1 per cent of the sun's mass (turned into energy) would keep the sun shining for a hundred and fifty thousand million years, and a corresponding percentage of loss of mass for a giant star, 10,000 times brighter than the sun and of 35 times its mass, would maintain its radiation for about 500,000,000 years.

All the stars and perhaps also the nebulae, may contribute to the strange radiation showered upon us out of space. As remarked in the new edition of Young's "Astronomy," prepared by Russell and his assistants at Princeton, this radiation furnishes perhaps the only way we have for determining whether the imagined process of transformation of the mass of the stars into energy is physically possible.

"The extraordinary penetrating power of this 'cosmic radiation' shows that it has a very short wavelength. This indicates that it originates in some atomic or sub-atomic transition in which an exceptional amount of energy is liberated (roughly the amount which would be liberated by the formation of an atom of helium out of hydrogen). Unless it originates in the outer regions of the earth's atmosphere, in some way that is utterly unknown, it must come from the region of the stars, possibly from the hotter stars, or perhaps from the neblate of one sort or another. It cannot come directly from the hot interior of the stars—it has not penetrating power enough for that—but its existence appears to support the belief that changes involving the transformation of mass into energy occur somewhere in the universe. When further investigated, this penetrating radiation may yield information of great value in testing and redesigning theories of the liberation of energy within the stars."

Whatever the upshot of the studies of this mysterious phenomenon may be, it will certainly afford no support to astrological superstition. It will only furnish another proof of the physical unity of the great system of the stars of which our sun is a member.

Take Your Time

DON'T be so anxious to get any one job done, that you do not take time to make the necessary plans.

When you have decided upon a certain course it is hard for you to restrain yourself physically.

To contemplate, is to jump, with some folk.

You may have started undertakings, yourself, which you never finished because you met obstacles that discouraged you.

Thinking out your plans before you started would have led you to perceive the difficulties and enabled you to find a way to surmount them.

It does not pay to be too impulsive.

One of the best bits of advice ever given a certain golfer came from a little Italian caddy, who said: "Don't be in such a hurry to hit the ball when you start to swing for it."

This advice has its application in all your undertakings.

Unpreparedly jumping at what you want to do is liable to get you into trouble.

"Well," said Masters, "I know a thing that will cure it in three days."

"I'd be very grateful if you'll tell me what it is," cried his friend.

"Grateful!" snapped Masters, and his eyes narrowed. "I'll tell you if you know what'll drive away these warts on my left hand."—London Answers.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Thoughts while strolling: Workmen who carry matches in hatbands. The Childs restaurants grow in magnificence. And window flapjack jugglers are disappearing. Wonder how many people read the advertising balloons.

Summer nearing the finish—ice boxes are half price. Theological students who wear horn rimmed glasses. There's a grocery combination—Shannon and Rosenbaum. Wish I could find a restaurant where they wouldn't hide the menu after you have ordered. A traffic tower cop chewing gum.

Whatever became of crayon photo canvassers? Romany Marie. Girls with those "wind-blown" hair bobs. M. Cartier, the jeweler. The sudden traffic silence that lifts with a roar. That certain dignified elegance of Japanese show window displays.

Harry Hansen, the literary critic. A flivver with a Utah license plate driven by a woman wearing knickers and a red sweater. Wonder if they still make crumb trays with hand-painted flowers. The airy disdain of those police officials who rush about in red departmental cars.

Withered wreaths on city statues. "Chicago" O'Brien, the race track follower. Hotel lobby browsers. And the hairslick boys who loiter about newsstand girls. Why do hotel dicks always wear derbies? Those East Side wedding parties motoring through town with crowing claxons.

The theater where the dramatic critics' names are engraved on their seats. Two padlocked speak-easies in a block. Junk wagon bells. An old man peers about. And snipes a cigar from the gutter.

Nobody seems able to resist peering down an open manhole. Chorus girls are wearing dog collars around their necks. A man brushed by an auto, refuses to get into an ambulance. Bide Dudley talking to Belasco.

On East Eighty-fourth street, in the Yorkville section, are innumerable cider bars. They have the atmosphere of the old-time saloon. Patrons are largely from the heavy German population in the neighborhood. There are tables where pinochle is played and cider sipped in the fashion of beer before prohibition. Many of the bartenders are those thrown out of jobs they once held in saloons.

* * *

An auto flirt trailed a chic flapper several blocks up Fifth avenue and finally pulled in at the curb, hopped out and opened the door for her with a Chesterfieldian curtsey.

"Going north?" she inquired.

"Indeed, yes, he gushed.

"Well, give my regards to the Eskimos," she said and clicked on.

* * *

New Yorkers are generous patrons of barber shops. For the busy man, they offer a hideaway from telephones and other office annoyances. Frequently they leave desks and recline in a barber chair with instructions to give them everything from a scalp and rub to a hyacinth spray. Under the soothing ministrations many are able to drop off into a gentle doze and return to jobs refreshed. Hundreds of New Yorkers are shaved twice daily—not because they need it but because it offers them relaxation and an escape from the grind.

* * *

A number of barbers are employed on private yachts running between the Battery and Long Island estates. It is their job to shave the master daily—and the rest of the time is their own. In tonsorial circles such a post is considered the ace of soft jobs.

* * *

A barber told the other day of shaving a customer for five years and not yet does he know his name. "He asked me on his first visit never to talk to him," he said, "and I never have." Atta barber!

Race Hatred

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Race hatred is the most pernicious and least intelligent form of mania extant. It causes and promotes wars, is guilty of persecution and wreaks all other kind of injustice upon the human race.

A nation or a race should not be blamed for what separate individuals of that group commit.

This is the most common fault of critics. Because some preachers are vile, some lawyers are crooked, some doctors are venal, that is no sign that all the members of these various professions are wicked.

Because some scientists are atheists, all are not godless, and because some religionists denounce science, all religionists are not unscientific.

The truth is, that all members of any profession, race of nation are human and liable to error.

A great wave of satisfaction must have pervaded the country recently when Henry Ford announced that he was not responsible for the attacks in the Dearborn Independent upon Jews, that he deplored those attacks, and that he apologized for anything he may have said against the Jewish race.

Those who admire the business ability and the general character of Mr. Ford have often wondered why he attacked the Jews. It seems absurd to them that a man of so much common sense and balance could so far allow himself to come under the influence of ignorant propaganda.

Many will be slow to excuse Mr. Ford from all blame and say that he should have known all the time what was being carried on in his name, but the majority of us are glad to accept any excuse that he might give which will exculpate him from the crime of Jew baiting.

The Jews are upon the same standard as other nations. It is as absurd to accuse the entire Jewish race of evil as it is to accuse all Negroes, all Germans or all Japanese of wickedness. They are all human and they all have their peculiarities and we are not entirely free from objectionable qualities ourselves.

The world breathes easier to see that at last Mr. Ford has come out in the open and declared himself free of any desire to attack the Jewish race.

Those Frenchmen who persist in their efforts to make out all Germans to be criminals, those Americans who seem to take an impish delight in twisting the British lion's tail, those Englishmen who despise all things American, and all others subject to race hatred are a menace to the business of the world.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Wealth

EARTH'S wealth is but a transient thing, and flits as soon away upon as blithe and swift a wing as lark or robin gay. Who counts his hoarded coins tonight, tomorrow may know want; in place of gold, so shining bright, find hunger grim and gaunt. No man can ever put his faith in riches he has won, for these may vanish like a wraith before the morning sun. But there is wealth more rare than gold that man may keep always, and I have riches I can hold through all life's changeful maze; such riches as my spirit finds in dawn and sunset seas, in singing voices in the winds; in lofty arch of trees. I cannot be a beggar, quite (however poor I seem), as long as on the field of night I see the stars a-gleam.

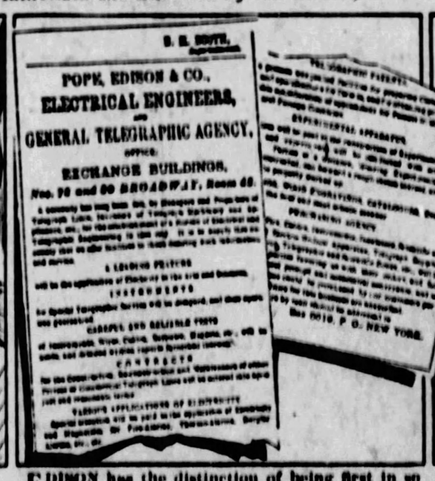
THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized and Endorsed by Mr. Edison)

Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister

ABOUT three days later, Edison was in the Law Gold Indicator Company office when their "gold-reporting telegraph" went awry. All was confusion until Edison quietly volunteered his services and quickly found that a broken spring had fallen between two wheels. As a reward for his timely help he was made manager.

ON September 24th, 1869, the great Wall Street panic (known as "Black Friday") was precipitated by Jay Gould and "Jim" Fisk. Edison was viewing the frenzied throngs in the street when one of his operators walked over, extended his hand and said, 'Shake, Edison, we're O. K. We haven't a cent to lose."



EDISON has the distinction of being first in so many things that it is not strange that he, in partnership with a young telegraph engineer with the Gold Indicator Company, Franklin L. Pope, should have run the first advertisement by a firm of electrical engineers. The advertisement is reproduced above.

MARSHALL Lefferts, president of the Western Union, engaged Edison to improve the stock-ticker. Edison produced his Universal Printer, which he thought was worth $5,000. He would have taken $3,000. When Lefferts asked him if he would take $40,000 he reports that he came near fainting.
